Miss Betty Bowles, maid of honor, wore a petal pink taffeta gown. She carried a colonial bouquet of aqua asters and wore a matching band of flowers in her hair. Mrs. Maecia Kunkler and Miss Anita Columbier, the bridesmaids, wore similar gowns of daffodil yellow taffeta and carried bouquets of pink shasta daisies with matching bands in their hair.

Mr. Chet Grabill served as best man. Mr. Roger Geist and Mr. Russell Finlay seated the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Wolfe received her guests in a street-length dress of white crape with black corded trim. Mrs. McIntosh wore a dress of yellow and black print. Both mothers wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Logan High School, having formerly attended West High School. The bridegroom, a West High graduate, is a corporal in the United States Air Force, stationed at Shepard Field, Wichita Falls, Tex.

from a large living room, hospital room, labor room (where the babies are delivered), convalescent room, nursery, kitchen and dormitory. Outside there are gardens producing vegetables during the summer months, a croquet course, fruit trees, four-car garage and beautiful flora.

Social Hour

In an attempt to combine a social and spiritual cure along with a feeling of belonging, the program calls for the girls to participate in the house chores, attend chapel each morning and Sunday School. On Tuesdays a guest speaker, usually an evangelist minister, reads and lectures to the group. Regular religious programs are held on Thursdays and once a week the home offers English and music classes.

Occasionally the girls participate in wiener roasts and picnics but never leave the grounds unaccompanied by a worker. They do their own laundry, play parlor games and once a week have a purely social evening in the chapel.

If the prospective mother is going to keep her child after birth she is educated in the bathing and feeding processes.

Financial Upkeep

The financial upkeep of such a vast enterprise necessitates outside aid. The home receives aid from the Community Chest, a private subsidy from interested groups and an allocation from the Friends Church.

In 1948 63 per cent of the children born at the home were adopted. "Sometimes," Miss Rogers said, "I think this is the best way to solve the problem."

An attempt is made to distribute the children to desirous families within the shortest possible time after birth. There is little difficulty in this area for there are many families without children who desire them.

The social value of the Friends Rescue Home cannot be underestimated. Its purpose and achievements are historically dated in the record books of our society.

ANGLES

I wasn't very good in math
Or algebra. To me
A square root was a root that grew
Square beneath a tree.
My trigonometry was taught
By old Professor Lester.
The angle there was hope to get me
Through the last semester.
Equilateral was a word
That did not interest me,
And all my friends were so much brighter
Geometrically.
But now that I am grown and wed
And mothering a son
Of just two months, I am familiar
With another one.
An angle that is used and used
A million times a day,
An angle that is haunting me
Much like a rondelet.
For I, who was not voted by my classmates
To go far,
Have now become expert at folding
A triangular.

MAN-MADE MOON WITHIN NEXT DECADE?

Defense Experts Declare Eternally Globe-Circling Rocket Perfectly Feasible

By JOHN PETERSEN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — One of these days man is going to hang up a new moon of his own—an instrument-bearing rocket which will zoom around the earth at 18,000 miles per hour forever!

Fantastic as it may sound, national defense experts have declared that it is perfectly feasible—technically speaking, at least.

Just when such a rocket, which would have to be about 120 feet long and weigh in the neighborhood of 120 tons, actually will be sent hurtling out of the earth's atmosphere remains problematical.

But then so was the development of atomic energy and the resultant atomic bomb. Developed in high secrecy at phenomenal cost, the a-bomb nevertheless was known to be feasible for some time before it became crashing reality.

The same is true of the globe-circling rockets.

No date is set, but authorities concede it is possible that they will put in an appearance within the next 10 years.

This time may be shortened considerably if huge sums of money are spent and the best "brains" available are set to work at giving birth to the rocket age.

Rocket experts have a word of caution, however, to writers who delve into the realm of fantasy and come up with creations of their own minds as to just what, why, where, when and how the globe-circling rockets will look and perform.

FOR ONE THING, they rule out as entirely impractical any notion that the "missiog" can be accomplished with a one-stage rocket.

Such a rocket, to escape the pull of the earth's gravity—the No. 1 problem at this particular stage of the game—would have to streak away from the earth's surface at 25,200 miles per hour. That's about seven miles per second!

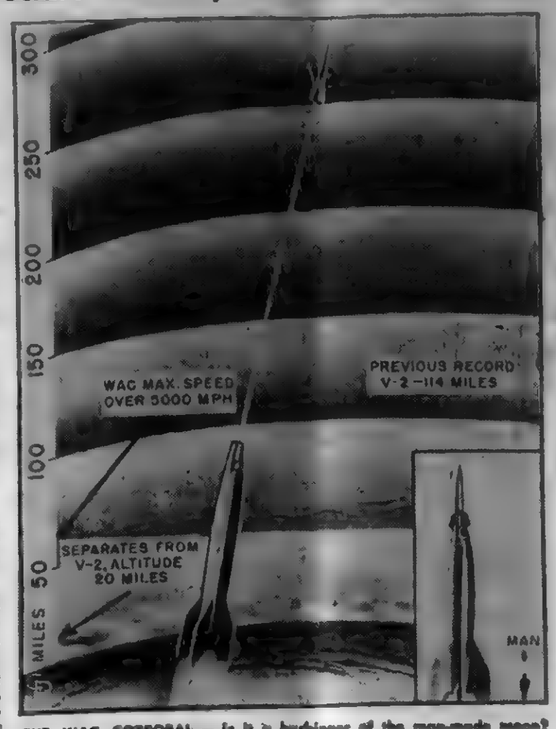
Additionally, such a rocket would have to weigh about 2,000 tons and be as high as a 35-story building.

Dr. R. W. Porter, of the General Electric Aeronautics and Ordnance Systems Division, declares that any ordinary single-stage rocket—such as the V-2 which has attained an altitude of 114 miles—would lack the necessary push to free it from the earth's pull.

A two-stage rocket, however, could break free of gravity.

The two-stage rocket is a unit in which a smaller rocket is carried by a larger one until the larger has used all its fuel. The larger then drops off and the smaller one continues under its own power.

Such a rocket was fired last Feb. 24 at the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds and reached a height of 250 miles.



The Army reported that the peak of its flight, the rocket was "for all practical purposes" outside of the earth's atmosphere. Highest speed of this rocket was over 5,000 miles per hour.

IT SOARED to its record altitude in six and one-half minutes, and landed 12 minutes after it was launched.

The rocket consisted of a V-2, from which the second rocket—called a WAC Corporal—was separated at about 20 miles up. The WAC Corporal then continued under its own power to reach the record-breaking altitude of 250 miles.

Scientists agree that a rocket reaching 470 miles altitude probably would be free of all air resistance.

THE WAC CORPORAL — Is it a harbinger of the man-made moon?

It is a fact that a globe circling rocket could be powered to such an altitude with the fuels which man has on hand today!

However, such a "new moon" would be limited in its benefits to science, even if all engineering problems of hanging it in the skies were overcome.

What the scientists are aiming at is a three-stage rocket which would propel itself 22,300 miles up and make a complete circle around the earth every 24 hours. This means it would have a speed of about five miles per second.

At this speed, it is said, the tendency of the rocket to keep on a straight path, combined with the slight force of gravity at that height, would keep it on a curved path around the globe.

In other words, the natural forces working on the rocket would be the same forces which keep other bodies in the heavens in their unvarying orbits.

SUCH A ROCKET would be highly valuable to scientists specifically and to mankind generally.

It could be used, for instance, as a television relay station; to measure cosmic rays; to determine the complete spectrum of the sun; to aid in a scientific explanation of sunspot activity, and, of course, to determine just how "empty" space itself is.

Naturally, too, the placing of such a rocket into the heavens would be a big step toward another goal—interplanetary travel—although this seems at present to be in the distant future.

However, most of us will live to see man's own moon, zooming around the world—and perhaps sooner than most of us expect.

No one will say that the very existence of the range presages the advent of the super-rocket—but no one has yet been able to say just what such a range would be used for—other than to test this foverunner of the rocket age.

So don't look now—but there may be "new moons" hanging over your head one of these days!

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Sunday, May 15

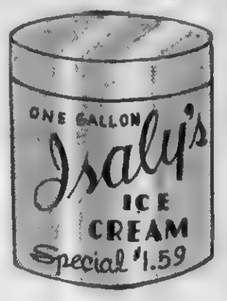
The wind was cool enough to make closed windows a comfort as we rode this bright sunny morning from Billy Roots' Motel for the two mile course into the city of Frederick, Md.

The city is a typical colonial town where the style of the houses, their state of repair and the manner of placing on their sites attracts attention at once. For instance, the houses are all built right out on the sidewalk line with doors opening directly onto the sidewalk or having a series of five or six steps leading down to the walk. For the most part the houses were of this kind but over on another street were located the old mansions. These were the kind with big, pillared porches, some of them two stories high. These mansions had a little more space to spare so usually had fairly large lawns in front. Some of the more modest dwellings were of the double house or semi-detached kind.

In these the front doors were usually side by side, opening onto a single platform porch, with steps leading down in opposite directions. These gave an odd appearance to these houses but also lent a sense of pre-modern days. The color scheme of the town was varied. All houses, whether frame or brick, were painted in fresh colors, from white to reds, grays, yellows and pinks.

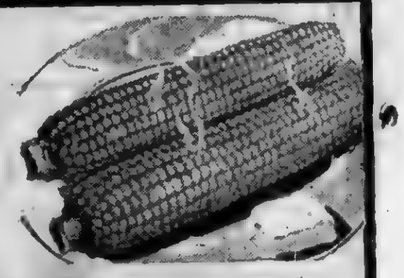
"She leaned far out on the window sill
And shook it forth with a royal will.
"Who touches a hair of your gray head
Dies like a dog—March on he said."

These fragments from the poem of Barbara Fritchie were remembered by Violet as we rode down the main street of Frederick and saw, hanging from the upper window of one of the small houses, a United States flag. This was the home of the famed Barbara Fritchie, who defied the troops of the Scuthland as they marched through the town during the Civil War and dared any of them to tear down the Union Flag which she supported. Locally the story is that this brave woman, instead of being a young lady as described in the poem, was a woman of 96 years and that it was respect for old age which caused the Southern commander to issue his order to the troops not to harm her.



Frederick is also the former home of Francis Scott Key, composer. His name is remembered here in two ways. One is an American flag waving above his grave in the local cemetery. The other is a fine, large and modern hotel called the Francis Scott Key Hotel. We had our breakfast here in the coffee shop while observing the splendor of the room and, later, of the lobby and lounges.

Leaving Frederick to resume our travel we drove along what is now rolling farm country, instead of mountains. It was only about 42 miles and an hour or so later that we arrived in Baltimore. Several inquiries at various points in the town brought us to Pimlico Road and No. 4505, the home of Aunt Lucy Wilson, Cousin Bud Wilson and Cousin Hattie Brooks.



I went to the door first with George as a partner. Hattie answered the ring. I held a little note book in my hand and asked her if she would like to renew her subscription. Very seriously she looked at the two of us an she asked "subscription to what?" I imagined she was wondering what kind of book agent was coming around to call on her on Sunday morning. Her question was quickly answered when I told her that the subscription was for the Thatchers Daily Doings. That was when Hattie leaned way back to take a good long surprised look of recognition before hurrying forward with the customary greetings of those who have not seen one another for a long time. Violet and Kathleen were called in from the car. There was a similar greeting for Violet and introductions for George and Kathleen.

Aunt Lucy, who had been sitting by the window and who had seen two "strange" men approach from the car, was surprised to

Camp Chase-CAC Nines Unbeaten In Knothole Loop

By Dave Miller

Columbus Air Conditioning and the local Camp Chase nine remain the only teams still unbeaten in the West Intermediate Knothole League following games yesterday.

Air Conditioning had to go an extra inning to defeat Broncos, 3 to 0, at Mt. Calvary Field, and Camp Chase downed previously unbeaten Gabriel's Body Shop, 2 to 1, at Westgate.

A late inning spurge was the winning factor in Camp Chase's win. They trailed, 1-0, throughout most of the contest until they rallied for a duo of runs in the bottom of the last inning to win. The Broncos, representing next year's West Junior team, played on even terms with CAC, a much older and more experienced team, for the regular seven innings, the game being a scoreless deadlock until the eighth when the ultimate winners tallied three markers.

At Westgate, the Gabriel Body Shop team scored their lone run of the game in the fourth off starter Jack Wihl when Jim Murray singled, advanced to second on Dave Wahrer's bunt, stole third, and tallied on Wihl's wild pitch.

Camp Chase won the game in the bottom half of the seventh on an error, a triple and two consecutive singles to center.

At Mt. Calvary field, Bill Haire, regularly a catcher, pitched for the Broncos and twirled five scoreless innings, with Bob Thornton coming on in the sixth and staying on to get the loss. Vernie Feen, pitcher for Central last year, went the route, allowing the opposition only five scattered singles.

CAC passed up a golden opportunity in the sixth. Bob Jahn sent a drive to left field for an apparent double, but missed first base, with the Broncos appealing the play, and Jahn being called out. The next two men singled, and of course, had the runner touched second, CAC would have scored easily.

In the eighth, Catcher Bob Powers of the ultimate winners hit an easy fly to left-center. Neither Herb Brown, left-fielder, nor Center-fielder Jimmy Hughes called for the ball as it dropped between them. A wild pitch by Thornton advanced Powers, from where he scored on Paul Orem's timely single. Jahn sacrificed Orem to second, from where he went to third on Haire's passed ball.

Third-baseman Bob Maier walked and the runners held at second and third when Eddie Valentine grounded to John Morison at second. However, Pitcher Vern Feen cinched matters for his own game by singling past Shortstop Fred Elder for two more runs.

The line scores:

Thatchers Doings

see us. It has been at least ten years since Violet and I last saw her. Cousin Bud came in from somewhere when he heard all the excitement. For almost an hour we talked of our family histories of the past few years and the present whereabouts and health of each of them. Aunt Lucy and Hattie wanted us, in true Southern hospitality style, to stay for dinner which was then on the stove but time was running out on us. We still had to drive nearly 200 miles to be in New York City before six o'clock to claim our reservations at the Taft. Wish we could have stayed longer.

Aberdeen, Maryland, was our stopping place for lunch. Crab cake sandwiches were my selection for light eating while others took the conventional items.

Speaking of eating, this must be a pretzel eating country around here. All along the road this afternoon we have noticed small boys standing by the roadside with an arm extended toward the passing motorists. The stance was not that of boys wanting a ride into town. We noticed a round object usually was dangling from one or more fingers. Eventually we discovered that they were all selling pretzels. From their numbers it appears that every other motorist must be a pretzel eater.

Beyond Aberdeen we came to a part of the country where every field was an asparagus bed. Trucks were strung along the highway loaded down with freshly cut asparagus and headed for the New York market. A little later the fields changed and were filled with potato plants as this part was potato country. Still farther on we began to note that everything had the word "cranberry" attached to it in some way. This was the cranberry section of the United States.

Late in the afternoon we approached Camden, Jersey City and Newark, New Jersey, just across the river from the big town of our destination. Although New York was just across the river it took us hours to get there. Near Newark we entered the "Skyway" drive. This is a bridge, several miles in length, where motorists scoot at 50 miles an hour over the housetops of the city until the road finally descends and the motorists enters either the Holland or the Lincoln tunnels under the Hudson River. We took the Lincoln Tunnel and after a ten minute under water drive found ourselves within a short distance of the Hotel Taft. It was now seven o'clock but Kathleen hurried in while we arranged for the unloading of baggage. Our reservations were still good.

In rooms 1611 and 1612 we found twin beds, radios and television, plus all other conveniences. A quick wash up and we were all ready for supper.

Before the supper, though, the bags which had been so carefully packed came near getting completely unpacked. Violet couldn't find the belt to the dress she wanted to wear this evening. It was finally decided that the belt must have been left at home.

Dinner, at Kathleen's suggestion, was at Toots Shor's, on 51st Street. They serve fine meals here at particularly fine prices for those who want to say they have been somewhere in New York. Particularly interesting here is the frequent sight of national celebrities. Soon after we had sat down Viola spoke up as though she saw someone she knew. Across from us at the next table was Guy Kibbe, whom movie goers have known for many years. Who the ladies with him were, we do not know. At least three different times either Violet or Kathleen let out exclamations of recognition of some sort of movie personality but they couldn't remember their names to tell George and I, who do not know one star from another.

Kathleen happened to glance over in a nearby corner. "There is Earl Wilson, I believe," she said. Wilson is a column writer for the Dispatch, doing Broadway news. He formerly lived in our city although I did not know him personally.

Because of that remark by Mrs. McCord we may have our names in the paper along with those of the other New York "personalities." As we were leaving the restaurant Mrs. McCord was more sure than ever that the man was Mr. Wilson. Violet and I went over to the table where he was sitting. I excused myself and also introduced myself and Violet. It was Earl Wilson, who was glad to see someone from the Buckeye State.

Green Cab Leads Loop; To Enter 'Round Robin' Play

By Dave Miller

Green Cabs' American Legion teams on the Hilltop are doing quite well for themselves in the local American Legion Loop.

Over the past holiday week-end and this past Sunday, they won four consecutive games, boosting their record for the year to six wins in as many outings, two each over all other loop opponents, Jeffry Post, Camp Chase and Southway Post.

They will now enter a round-robin type of play next week with the winners of the three other district loops competing. Two losses will spell out for a team, and from there the winner will advance to district honors.

The sizzling hitting of the Hilltop's current top athlete, Phil Young, was the main feature of Sunday's wins. The Cabmen beat Scuthway Post, 8 to 4, at the new Southview field. Young's 12 strikeouts and his two hits, one a double, were the main factor in the win.

The locals scored two in the first frame on an error, a walk, and consecutive singles by Young and Third Baseman Russ Rechling, and one in the next inning on Paul Ellingsworth, a sacrifice, and Young's second timely hit. In the third, two more came across on a walk, an error, and hits by Rechling and Ted Fladt.

Southway livened things up a bit with tallies in their half of the third on two walks and three consecutive one-basers to center. Run No. 6 for the Cabbies, plated in the fourth, on walks to Dave Caton and Don Smith, and Rechling's second straight hit. Single runs in the fifth and seventh climaxed the game for the Cabs.

It was a "slugging week-end" for the locals throughout the remainder of the present doings. Two Sundays ago the Cabmen won a double-header from Malcom-Jeffry Post, 15 to 2 and 14 to 0, with a total of 30 hits and 29 runs scored by the locals in the two games.

The games were played at Ft. Hayes field. It was all Young again as the big right-hander two innings in the first game and four in the second in addition to getting four hits for six in the opener and six for six in the nightcap.

For the day, he had a homer, triple, two doubles and six singles. Morris Dobbs, with two doubles, and Ron Farley and Dave Caton each had two hits to help the cause in the nightcap. Caton also played his swell brand of defensive shortstop.

The following Monday the locals won over Camp Chase, their other local rival, 8 to 1, at Westgate. Rechling and Young shared turns on the mound with the duo allowing the opposition only four hits. Paul Ellingsworth and Caton both had two hits.

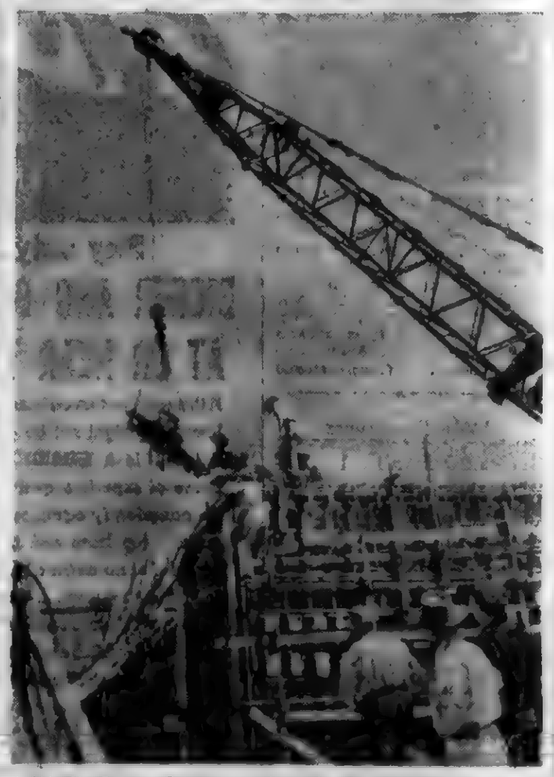
Have Hamburgers Handy

By BETTY BARCLAY

The question "What shall I serve unexpected company?" does not excite today's hostess as it did her mother or grandmother.

Manufacturers and packers have answered this question by furnishing cans of almost any food, that may be placed on the shelf or in the refrigerator — to be used almost instantly.

For instance, here are two wonderful tasties, made from canned broiled hamburgers:



Claridge Broiled Hamburgers With Tomato Sauce and Mushrooms

Place unopened can of ham burgers in kettle of briskly boiling water for 12 to 15 minutes. Prepare spaghetti according to directions on package—boiling required time—and drain well. Open hot can of hamburgers slowly and pour hamburgers and tomato sauce over spaghetti. Serve with tossed salad.

Broiled Hamburgers With Brown Gravy and Mushrooms

Place unopened can of Claridge Hamburgers in kettle of briskly boiling water for 12 to 15 minutes. Boil potatoes in their jackets until cooked. Remove skins and break potatoes into pieces. Open hot can of hamburgers slowly and pour out contents, making certain to cover the potatoes with plenty of brown gravy and mushrooms. Serve with your favorite green vegetable.

Tom Wakelyn Joins Air Force; Lists Reasons For Enlistment

(Editor's note: More and more the armed forces are appealing to youths just out of high school as careers offering a good future as well as a chance to serve their country. Reprinted below is a letter from Airman Tom Wakelyn, 211 N. Ogden-av, who recently joined the air force and will presently leave for training.)

"Being a June graduate, I naturally gave thought to my future. I considered college, work, and the armed forces, taking into account the specific advantages of each.

"Dad offered to send me to OSU for the four years it takes for a degree; but I just didn't feel right about accepting all the money it requires, especially when I have not entirely made up my mind as to what I really want to do.

"I could, of course, go to work, but I am not trained for any particular job. Once working, I feel, the possibility of my going back to school and obtaining higher education is unlikely.

"I then considered the armed forces. Being a National Guard member for the past seven months, I knew from experience that I would find an enlistment both profitable and gratifying. While in the Guard I received much valuable technical training in radio. I had letters from friends who joined months before, telling about service life and how they enjoyed it. Dad talked with men who had been in the army and air force, and others who had sons in these branches of the service at the present time, and received enthusiastic replies as to the many benefits they have received.

"Taking into account what I knew and what I had heard, I got in touch with T/Sgt. Diehr (the recruiter for the West Side) and made an appointment for him to come to my house and talk over the advantages and disadvantages of the army and air force with my parents and me. From him I learned about the opportunities for further education in service schools, on-the-job training, Officers' Candidate School, the Armed Forces Institute, Aviation Cadets, and even West Point. The last and flying have been almost my lifelong ambitions. This was what I wanted—so I joined the air force.

"I think that any young man who wants to get ahead would profit greatly from an enlistment. Why not call T/Sgt. Diehr and get the facts? His phone number is JO. 2207."

Sitting Pretty at West Broad

3 Big Reasons Why

HILLTOP FAMILIES Are Buying

THE FINEST REFRIGERATOR

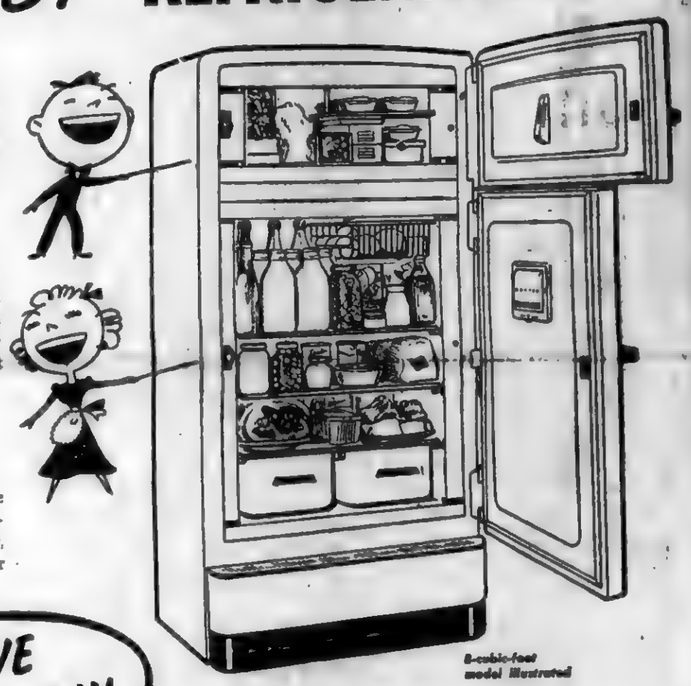
GET A REAL HOME FREEZER—



With its own separate door. Maintains zero temperature to quick-freeze your food and ice cubes. Stores up to 53 pounds of frozen foods (70 pounds in 12-cubic-foot model) in prime condition up to 12 months.

GET A BIG REFRIGERATOR—

With its own separate door. Never needs defrosting. No need to cover dishes. Packed with usable features—and it gives you as much usable fresh-food storage space as an ordinary 8-cu-ft refrigerator. (As much as a 12-cu-ft refrigerator in the larger model.)

GET GENERAL ELECTRIC DEPENDABILITY—

More than 2,000,000 G-E Refrigerators have been in use 10 years or longer! This performance, unsurpassed by any other manufacturer, is real proof of day-by-day, year-after-year dependable service.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

HER mother's problem could not be important, Beatrice thought. Having known Cecily for twenty-eight years, Beatrice knew that her mother had no really knotty problems. She had enough money, a maid who had been faithful—no one could imagine why—throughout the war, and she lived exactly as she pleased. She was only forty-eight years of age. Yet never, never had Cecily asked her to come other than to visit her and to go to the theatre and to shop. Never. And Beatrice knew that as soon as she could, she must go to her.

A second reading of the letter revealed no other interpretation. Beatrice's expressive mouth pulled dolefully at one corner when she knew that Cecily visualized her as living from one cocktail party to another and enjoying herself immensely. I would like it if I never had to go to another cocktail party as long as I live, she thought. I would cry out with joy if I never had to utter another word of banal, meaningless social chatter to all those people who will drop Libby now, until in a few weeks her name, if mentioned at all, will sound like a [redacted]. I would whistle with glee if I could scratch out every marked date on the calendar in my engagement book. I would be happy if I could take Porter by one hand and Marianne by the other and walk out of this house and never come back, because a home is only as beautiful as the relationship of those who live beneath its roof. We prattle about our precious economic security when the only security there is in this messy world is the love that others bears us and we bear them.

And I am alone and Porter is not with me. I don't ever know where he's staying. He didn't tell me. I am alone, and Marianne sleeps upstairs, and I am sitting within these cold walls that I have built up around her. Walls. What price ambition? Oh, memories that bless and burn! And you can't go back. Even a fool knows that you can never go back. Tomorrow's news is already on the presses. Tomorrow . . .

The telephone rang.

She arose slowly, feeling small in the large, lovely, shadowy room, and went in to the library. Her eyes roamed the bookshelves. The books I've never read, she thought. The music I never have time to listen to anymore. The earth I do not hold in my hands because the yard boy does it for me.

She picked up the telephone. "Hello."

"Beatrice?" It was Mrs. Ramey's crisp voice.

"Yes, Mrs. Ramey."

"I thought I had better remind you of the antique show tomorrow."

"The antique show? Oh, yes."

"You had forgotten, hadn't you?"

"For the moment. I hadn't checked on tomorrow yet." Tomorrow should be wonderful, she thought. All tomorrows should be full of promise and the hope of better things. No one should possess our tomorrow, Mrs. Ramey.

No one should claim another's unborn day as you claim mine, Mrs. Ramey.

"I knew I had to remind you," Mrs. Ramey continued. "I don't want to miss it. Of course I don't expect it will produce anything worthwhile. The things that pass for antiques these days are nothing but junk. I have the museum pieces. They shall all be yours, too, my dear, all my beautiful things. It opens at one, and I want to be there when it opens. There's always such a crowd."

"I'm having my hair done at eleven. I can make it easily." It would be good to see Hilde again, Beatrice thought. We haven't talked since the night she came to dinner. She knows, of course she knows who sent all those toys to Tommy at Christmas with no cards in the boxes.

Yes, Mrs. Ramey. Yes, Mrs. Ramey.

She turned out the lights and went upstairs. She went to the last room down the hall, threw open the french windows, and stepped out onto the balcony, and her thick hair swung out behind her. The winter night was fantastically beautiful, and there were mystic whisperings in the wind. Though the cold air went through her, it did not chill her. It seemed to [redacted] her as suffering [redacted].

This day was almost gone, this day that had held so much for Libby and was now ending for her, for Beatrice, with a strange tranquillity.

I am the girl I once knew, Beatrice thought. Her lips were moving. I don't want to go back because I have learned so much of living today. I have learned new secrets and new emotions so that I can be fuller and richer than I have ever been before.

For a week the telephone operator at Libby's apartment house said in bored tones, "They don't answer." That she did not say, "Mrs. Gundria is out of town," told Beatrice that this was Libby's way of telling her that she did not want to see anyone. And since it would certainly be wrong to thrust herself upon her, Beatrice did not go near her. But Libby was never out of her mind while she did all of the things that the notations in her red leather engagement book told her she had to do, those little notations that were becoming increasingly hateful to her.

It was indicative of the sort of people Helen and Dick were, that no one Beatrice saw mentioned the fact that Jane had left her mother. It was not that people would not be interested. Though they would look horrified, and a few would be deeply touched, some of them would relish the spicy gossip. Therefore it was to the credit of Helen and Dick that to all appearances Jane was doing no more than visiting them. The full truth when it was revealed would be mercifully tempered by time.

One day Beatrice went to an art exhibit that she had promised faithfully weeks ago to attend. She arrived late, and didn't stay long. If the exhibit had been held a week ago Libby would have been conspicuously present, surrounded by her little knot of admirers, her jewel encrusted hands gesticulating. She would have joked with the Director and she would have bought a picture for which she had no earthly use because the artist, a woman, was poor and unquestionably gifted.

But today Libby was conspicuously absent and for her, she knew, almost alone. There was always someone else ready to step into the limelight. There was always an eager understudy in the wings with her lines carefully rehearsed. There was always someone else who would buy the most noticeable clothes and give the most elaborate party of the winter season. Soon they would be talking about Libby as if she were dead, remembering her startling clothes more than they remembered that it had been she who had got them a nurse during the war when no one else could get one. Her bitterness, Beatrice thought, did not apply to all. Yet she knew that Libby without her anguished concern to be seen everywhere, Libby subdued and brought down from her high frenzied flight, would be just another divorced woman, an odd woman of whose existence one had to remind oneself occasionally.

This is not Hollywood, or New York, or cafe society, Beatrice thought. This is small city society, a closed corporation. And having money doesn't make any difference and doesn't alter the fact that a divorced woman has no status. She's still a social problem, a subject for pity, and indifference, and scorn. You can't ignore her and you don't know what to do about her. To some she's a blight, and to others a crashing bore, and to others simply a pain-in-the-neck. And Libby knows all these things, too. Her knowledge of her "no place" in society explains the things she did while everyone thought she was having a wonderful time, and not a few with stingy husbands, indifferent husbands, bad-tempered husbands, unfaithful husbands, or merely husbands would gladly have exchanged places with her.

The urgency to see her old friend and to do what she could drove her out into the heavy winter air. But just as she was leaving the museum she saw Bonnie Watson.

Dressed simply in a black coat, her soft black brimmed hat crushed in her hand, Bonnie was standing before a water color of wild geese in flight. What significance, Beatrice thought, had those winged creatures for this girl of the pensive, piquant face, and lovely brown eyes that bespoke her thoughts turned back into the past? It was not unusual that she had come to the exhibit alone. What was uncommon, Beatrice thought, was that Bonnie Watson's aloneness held also the obvious quality of loneliness — and that loneliness of hers was extraordinarily appealing and feminine to any man of kind heart. Like Porter.

Do You Get Your Money's Worth in Today's Home Appliances?

If You Need a New Appliance For Your Kitchen or Home Laundry, Be Sure to Read the Truth About Present-day Quality and Prices!

WITH SO MANY conflicting stories making the rounds about all lines of merchandise and their prices, you may be wondering about the true value of today's appliances.

THE FACT IS, you get more real value for your money in a good electric appliance today than in almost any other purchase you can make.

AS AN EXAMPLE, we have a new 1949 Hotpoint 6-cubic-foot refrigerator that you can buy for $189.75 -- only $10 more than the same size and kind cost in 1939 -- yet it's a great deal better. With today's dollar worth just 60 cents in terms of the 1939 dollar, we can honestly say that the actual cost of this new, post-war refrigerator is really a lot less.

BY COMPARISON, look at the price increase in automobiles, houses, or almost anything else you buy -- up from 50 to more than 100 per cent.

IF YOU ARE THINKING of buying a new appliance, we see no reason for you to wait. We honestly believe that at today's low prices you will get the greatest dollar-for-dollar values in appliance history.

QUALITY IS at an all-time high. From new post-war factories, Hotpoint brings you new, modern appliances that are as fine as technical facilities and human skill can produce, and we sincerely believe that you'll never buy a poor appliance with the Hotpoint name on it.

AT YOUR NEXT OPPORTUNITY, look over the new Hotpoint ranges, refrigerators, automatic washers, dishwashers and other appliances. We think you'll agree that you can 'Look to Hotpoint for the Finest - First' - and be sure of the most for your money - right now!

By Mrs. R. G. Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheets and son, "Pat," left Saturday morning for Highpoint, N. C., to make their new home. Mr. Sheets has been located there for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones and son, Bob, Mr. and Mrs. John Helm and son, Stephen, and Mrs. Florence Littrell, mother of Mrs. Jones, celebrated Mrs. Littrell's birthday anniversary at the home of Mrs. R. G. Barnecut Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Southerland and daughter, Nancy, Charleston, Mo., are visiting at the home of the Richeys, Pasadena-av. Mr. Richey and Mr. Southerland became acquainted in service, where they were buddies for five years.

Mrs. R. G. Barnecut and daughter, Mrs. Earl Knisely, spent Friday afternoon in Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Royer, Pasadena-av, were hosts to a number of Mr. Royer's brothers and sisters. Among those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Olin Minor, Wheatland, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Herman Royer of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, Valparaiso, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. George Royer of Dayton, Mrs. Florence Heiser of Coshocton and Rita Wright of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner of Pasadena-av entertained a number of their former neighbors Sunday, from Osborn, O. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Zeller, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Siddall and daughters, Mary Alice and Nancy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dellinger. Dorothy and Helen Benson were also home for the day.

Georgeann Terry, Maple-dr, and Lois Ann Moore, Amity-dr, are the representatives from this community attending the convention of the FHA held at the Neil House.

Mr. and Mrs. George Terry of Maple-dr and family, with Sally Owen as guest, attended the Knisley-Decker reunion held at Bryan State Park in the southern part of the state. There were about 100 present.

Songs Sung in the Temple

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Psalms 84; 24; 95:1-7.

By Alfred J. Buescher

The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein. For He hath founded it upon the seas.

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord; or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart.

The swallow hath found a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even Thine altars, O Lord God of hosts, my King.

O come, let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our Maker. For He is our God.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 95:6.

Odd Fact

Some flaky logs, picked up on her property by a woman in Lee's Ferry, Ark., who was searching for pieces of petrified wood to sell as souvenirs at her husband's filling station, led to a $40,000 find in uranium, the richest deposit ever found in the state.

In The Home Happy and Secure

"In the home, happy and secure," reads the caption of this picture. Happy? Yes. Secure? Well, now, that depends.

What will be the foundation of the home that is here being erected? Will it be built upon the sands of frivolous life, born of selfish desire and gratification of the senses? If so, the security of this family is questionable indeed.

If the future of this group is to be built upon the rock of religion and the church, there is no doubt as to the eventual outcome. Lives of respect in the eyes of their community await them. Children raised in the church and in the image of our Lord will assure lives of deep satisfaction for them.

Marriage is an important milestone in life. It is the beginning of a period of years which may stand out like a beacon of light to any wavering soul whose life is touched by the power radiated from the spiritual side of life.

This young couple, dedicating their family to God and the church, are assured of lives that will indeed be "happy and secure." When they or we cross any of the important thresholds of life, it would be well to cling to the promise of Hope and Eternal Life. In this direction lies the only peace of mind that this world can hold for us.

Abraham Lincoln Said It But It Is Still True

The following quotation from the writings of Abraham Lincoln is pertinent but so contrary to the trends of the times that it is worth pondering over:

"You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help wage earners by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot help the poor by discouraging the rich. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves."

Small World

Listeners to the Breakfast Club out of Chicago on this a. m. were entertained to a bit of local news. It happened this way:

Sam said he saw a couple sitting in the back who looked like they were married but didn't act like it. The man was sitting with his arm around the lady and Don asked if he was married and the answer was in the affirmative.

"But how long?" asked Don.

"Five weeks," was the reply.

"Who are you and where are you from?" asked Don.

"Herb Germain from Columbus, O.," came the reply.

Herb will be remembered as a former West Junior High music director and more recently a member of Mac Tooill's band and famous for his trombone solos in Hilltop Minstrels.

Church of Christ Announces Lectures

The series will commence at 7:30 p. m. Aug. 15, and contique through the 19th. There will be three meetings on each of the last four days.

R. Deem Injured In Fall From Ladder

Richard Deem, 165 S. Princeton-av, is reported in "good" condition at Mt. Carmel Hospital following a seven foot fall from a ladder last week. Mr. Deem suffered fractures of both wrists and a severe face laceration.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIANS

George Tarbutton is scheduled to speak at the Thursday meeting of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. He will give a talk on his duties as assistant Prosecuting Attorney, discussing interesting happenings during his administration.

There's a gate across the porch of the John Wesley home at 95 N. Wayne-av. There's also a fence around the back yard and a high gate at the side of the house. But all of these haven't stopped three-year-old daughter Beverly who has a bad case of the wanderlust.

Beverly, a pretty blond child, likes to explore her Hilltop neighborhood. Once her parents found her in the basement of Seiler's Department Store. Her latest and farthest trip terminated at the Westmont Theater. No one is quite sure how Beverly got so far from home, but the ice cream on her chin indicated that she had stopped for refreshments during the way. Police cruisermen finally located her this time.

Beverly's father has made an identification bracelet for her, and nearby neighbors have been alerted to watch for any new journeys the little girl might embark upon. The Wesley phone number, in case Beverly drops in on you some day, is RA. 8504.

Alfred E. Tonti Terms City Council A 'Rubber Stamp'

Alfred E. Tonti, Hilltop builder and candidate for city council, in the forthcoming primary election, said this week that "when" he is elected to council it will be his ambition to inject sound business methods into city government.

"I started with nothing and worked up to a two million dollar business. None of this money was made by conniving, but by hard work and application of sound business principles. The same principles can be used to make a city operate within its means," Tonti declared.

Tonti termed the present council a "rubber stamp" council, saying that complete control of the government by any single group leads to despotism. "I probably know as much about the way the city is run as anyone down at city hall and there will be no secret meetings and nothing going on that the public won't know about if I'm elected," he said.

Tonti also declared that the city has no building code, saying that he would campaign for the adoption of "some kind" of a code immediately.

The proposed plan to have a city finance director, appointed by the mayor, is "just another way of circumventing the public by putting power in the hands of a non-elected official" according to Tonti.

He said that he was persuaded to run for public office by a group of businessmen, and that he believed it was his duty to accept in the interests of good government.

Tonti is 49 years old, married, and has three children. He has been in the building industry for 29 years and was a government property analyst for seven years. He is a member of the Ohio Home Builders' Association and Columbus Builders Exchange.

His candidacy is supported by the Franklin County Democratic Executive Committee.

New Alleys Installed At Hilltop Recreation

Eight new bowling alleys, equipped with modern pin spotters and semi-automatic pin setters are being installed at the Hilltop Recreation, 2419 W. Broad-st. A new fluorescent lighting system is also included in redecorating plans.

Work is expected to be completed by the first week of August.

IN HOSPITAL

Joyce Johnston, daughter of the Hilltopper man, is reported in "good" condition by Grant Hospital this morning. She was taken to the hospital for an appendectomy operation Monday morning.

Merchant Puzzled As Hep Possum Packs to Pack's

A possum was waiting in the doorway of the Hilltop Tune Shop, at opening time yesterday according to Thelma Kuhn, proprietress.

It ran under Pack's Shoe repair shop as Mrs. Kuhn approached, but later reappeared.

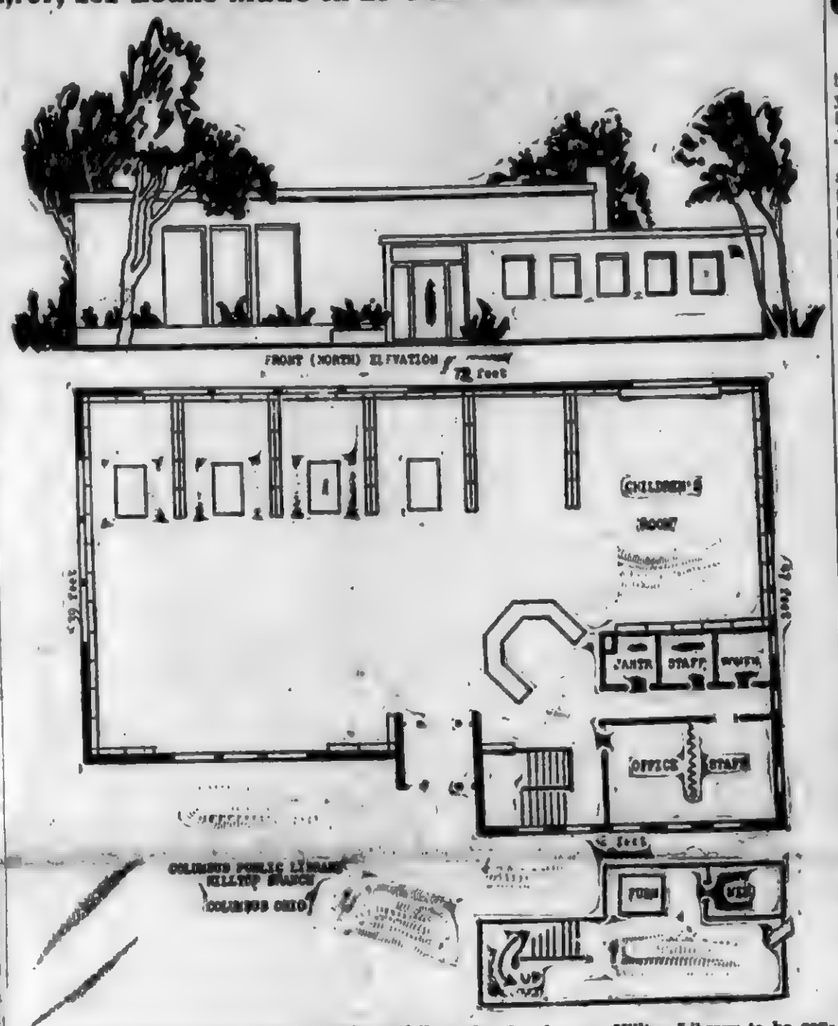
Hilltop wits have theorized that it was out to buy its cousins' latest recording of "Ol' Zip Coon."

'Y' Expands Free Movie Program

The free movie program of the Hilltop YMCA will be expanded this week as movies are also shown at the Oakley Avenue Baptist Church, at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Also scheduled are movies every Friday at 8 p. m. for teenagers and grownups. Currently featured is a series on the Cleveland Browns football team called "Meet the Browns." All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

Other free movies being sponsored by the "Y" are: at Hilltonia EUB Church every Friday at 10 a. m., at Burgess EUB Church at 1:30 each Friday, and at the "Y" at 3:30 Friday afternoon for Hilltop Record carriers and Gra-Y members.



Hilltop Family In Vacation Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hummell and daughter, Martha Jeanne, arrived home Saturday morning from an intended vacation trip to Florida. An automobile accident in Sparta, N. C., cut short their vacation causing Mr. Hummell and Martha Jeanne minor injuries and hospitalizing Mrs. Hummell with serious injuries.

Plans Progress On New Hilltop Library Building; 1,797, 181 Loans Made In 20 Years At Old Site

Candy, Cigars Stolen At Hilltop Recreation

Bill Wolf, proprietor of the Hilltop Recreation, 2419 W. Broad-st, reported that two boxes of candy, two boxes of cigars and approximately 100 pennies were stolen from the billiard department Thursday.

There was no indication that the building was entered forcefully and Mr. Wolf believed the thief hid in the building until after closing hours. A night latch on the back door had been opened from the inside.

The Hilltop Branch of the Columbus Public Library, to be vacated in the future in favor of a new and larger structure, has served Hilltop residents for more than 20 years.

The library was opened at 21 N. Hague-av in October, 1928, in rented quarters. Since that time more than a million and a half books have been loaned. At the time of its opening the library housed 1800 volumes and had 871 city residents as registered borrowers. During the first month 3,184 loans of books were made. The first librarian was Faith Wolfe. Five other librarians have served in the Hilltop library.

At present the library has 10,900 books and subscribes to 58 different magazines and newspapers. There are 6,089 holders of library cards. Residents of Franklin County as well as city residents are now eligible for cards. Library cards must be renewed every three years. Books may be borrowed for 30 days. Total number of book loans to date is 1,797,181.

Summer library hours are from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. weekdays and from 9 to 9 on Saturdays. During the winter months the library is open from 1 to 9 p. m.

Named Vice-President

Paul Carter, 160 E. Southampton-av, has been made first vice-president of the Robinson Houchin Optical Corp., 73 Thurman-av. He succeeds Walter F. Fleming, who recently resigned.

Ever been in the movies!

You will have your opportunity to do so if you put in your appearance at the Hilltop Bean Dinner, Wednesday, July 27, at Westgate Park.

Plans have been made for a special movie to be taken of the bean dinner events and to be shown on the screen of the Old Trail and Westmont Theatres following the bean dinner.

The picture entitled "For The Record," is being sponsored and edited by The Hilltop Record in cooperation with the Academy Theatres. L. C. Marble, well known Hilltop photographer, will have charge of the filming and a local man will act as commentator for the show.

Showings of the movie will be presented at the Old Trail on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 28, 29 and 30. It will be shown at the Westmont on Sunday, July 31, and on Monday, Aug. 1.

Further details of this Record community service project will be announced in later issues.

Dedicate New Market Tomorrow

Flying farmers, and mayors of Columbus, Grove City and New Rome will participate Wednesday morning in the formal dedication and opening of Farmers' Market, new modern drive-in shopping center at Huron and Sullivant-ave.

Tape-cutting ceremony will be held at 9 a. m. when the six stores in the shopping center open their doors. Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus, Mayor Paul White of Grove City, and Mayor Robert Longerbone of New Rome will officiate.

A squadron of Flying Farmers will land at 8:45 a. m. at Sullivant Avenue Airport. They will go directly to the shopping center, have breakfast at Edward's Drug Store with nearly two score guests and then shop the stores.

Farmers' Market, fronting nearly 500 feet on Sullivant-av, includes a new Albers Super Market a Moores Store, a Holiday Sweets Bakery and Candy Shop, Edward's Drug Store, another Miracle 5c to $1 Store, and Lang's Dry Cleaning Shop.

Four large parking lots on the wings and on lots to the west of Huron-av are provided for customers.

Store fronts of open design will permit motorists cruising along Sullivant-av to view the interiors of stores which will be air-conditioned. The shopping center was developed and built by the Don M. Casto Organization, 142 N. High-st.

All stores in the center have arranged an elaborate opening day program including gifts for all women and children who visit the stores.

Besides the mayors and Flying Farmers, guests will include W. H. Albers, president, A. J. Long, Jr., vice-president, and A. J. Scherer, Columbus branch manager of Albers Super Markets; Irvin F. Young, principal of West High School; Rev. Raymond Bauschard, pastor of St. Mary Magdalene Church; C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of the Hilltop Record; M. E. Sensenbrenner, president of Hilltop Kiwanis Club; Phillip Stout, president of the Hilltop Business Assn.; Sheriff Ralph J. Paul; Delmar G. Starkey, executive secretary of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce; and several radio commentators.

Cornerstone Laying of West Gate Masonic Lodge F&AM, Was Held 25 Years Ago Today; Gov. Campbell, Speaker

By Myron T. Seifert

Editor's Note—The late L. E. Turner, prominent Hilltop Mason, devoted 65 years to the cause of Masonry. Much of his life was spent in active service to Hilltop Masonic development, which institution he saw grow from a mere handful of Hilltop citizens to a membership of more than 1600 at his death. As chronicler and historian of Hilltop's largest fraternal organization, Dr. Turner left behind many valuable memoirs, including much of the material for this story.

Tribute was paid to Camp Chase by former Governor James E. Campbell, Saturday afternoon, July 19, just 25 years ago, when as the grand orator of the grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Ohio, he delivered the principal address at the laying of the cornerstone of the new West Gate Temple on the Hilltop, now an important landmark in the community.

"Saturday afternoon, July 19, when history has crystallized, and when the World War becomes ancient history, there will be thousands who will visit this location, because it had a part in the Civil War, by which the nation was made enduring forever," the former governor said at the cornerstone laying rites.

"On this spot 3000 Confederate soldiers died for what they felt was right," he added. "And I am still man enough, still American enough to honor any man who will starve, suffer and fight for a cause, whether he is right or wrong," the great Ohioan said.

West Gate Masonic Temple

2000 Present

This "grand old man of Ohio" proclaimed himself, during this talk, to be the oldest Mason among the 2000 or more present at the cornerstone exercises.

Campbell M. Voorhees, grand master for Ohio, presided at the ceremonies and called upon O. B. Cornell, grand treasurer, to read the contents of the box which was placed in the cornerstone. The typewritten pages, which were read by Mr. Cornell, gave a resume of happenings together with the names of the officers of West Gate Lodge, of the grand lodge and a history of local Masonry. Copies of the local newspapers also were put in the box, now securely sealed in the northeast corner of West Gate Temple.

A large crowd of Masons and Hilltop folk gathered there to hear the music and speeches, and the street was lined with automobiles. The committee in charge of the affair included Frank H. Constans, worshipful master of West Gate Lodge, chairman ex-officer; Charles O. Irwin, senior warden, chairman; Frank H. Winkler, junior warden; Harry C. Biddle, John W. Morgan, George W. Matson and George F. Hults.

The first Masonic Lodge in Columbus was located at W. Broad-st and Green-st in what at that time was Franklinton. It was known as Ohio Lodge No. 30 and

Rolsten-Cassell Wedding Held June 11

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cassell

At 7:30 p. m. Saturday, June 11, in Glenwood Methodist Church, a double ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Charlene Rolsten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chalice L. Rolsten, 90 S. Harris-av, and Mr. Robert E. Cassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Cassell, 244 N. Ogden-av. Rev. Joseph B. Shellhaas officiated at the ceremony before the altar decorated with palms, huckleberry and large arrangements of white gladioli. The lighted tapers of the four seven-branch candelabra spread a soft glow to make a truly lovely setting.

A half hour of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Clyde Moore, organist, and Mrs. Joseph Galloway, vocalist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of traditional ivory satin, with a deep V-shaped yoke of sheer net edged with a ruffle of satin that extended over the shoulders. The long tight fitting sleeves ended in points over each hand. From the fitted bodice which was accented by self covered buttons down the back and a three tier bustle, the extremely full skirt fell into a chapel train. Her circular finger tip veil was an original of imported illusion edged in lace and held in place by a halo of shirred satin. Her only jewelry was a family heirloom, a gold lace lavaliere centered with a small diamond and a pearl tip. She carried a cascade of white roses tied with satin streamers in love knots.

The attendants' gowns were identically styled. Mrs. Howard Young, matron of honor, wore a gown of aqua summer taffeta faille with matching mitts. The gown featured a fitted bodice with V shaped yoke, edged with a ruffle that extended over the shoulder and a bouffant skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses encircled by lemon leaves and tied with yellow satin streamers. The bridesmatron, Mrs. Howard Boucher, Jr., and bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Lindner, wore gowns of yellow summer taffeta faille with matching mitts and carried colonial bouquets of flame gladioli encircled with lemon leaves and tied with satin streamers. Each of the attendants wore a rhinestone necklace with pearl tip, gift of the bride.

Joseph H. Cassell, Jr., was best man for his brother. The ushers included Robert Kimes, Joseph Caligiuri and John Bill.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Rolsten received her guests in a dress of goldtone crepe with a sheer lace bodice with pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink gladioli. Mrs. Cassell wore a dress of aqua crepe with accents of sheer aqua lace with which she combined deep rose accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. J. F. Oherry and Mrs. W. E. Good, aunts of the bride and Mrs. Chester R. Hoffert, aunt of the bridegroom. Their shoulder corsages were of white gladioli.

The bride is a graduate of West High and Franklin University and is associated with Donald F. Bowers, MD. Mr. Cassell is also a graduate of West High and is a junior in the college of Architectural Engineering at Ohio State University, where he is affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity. He is also a draftsman for the F. & Y. Building Service.

Simmons-Wilson Rites Take Place In Chicago June 19

Mrs. Donald Wilson

On Sunday, June 19, at 3 p. m., Rosalie Ann Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Simmons, 1124 N. Morrison-st, Kokomo, Ind., became the bride of Donald C. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel M. Wilson, 299 S. Burgess-av. The wedding took place at the St. Paul Episcopal Church, Chicago, with Dr. Bylaardam officiating in the double-ring ceremony.

The ceremony was performed before an altar adorned with gladioli and white candles. Following the exchange of vows, the couple knelt on a white satin pillow for the blessing of their marriage.

The bride chose a pale yellow silk street-length dress; large pale yellow picture hat of horsehair braid, and white suede shoes. She wore her mother-in-law's three-strand pearl necklace, for the "something borrowed" tradition, and carried a bouquet of pale yellow carnations. She was given in marriage by Mr. Egon Weiner, Chicago's foremost sculptor and professor of sculpture at the Art Institute of Chicago.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Alden B. Haggard of New Castle, Ind., was the matron-of-honor. Mr. Albert J. Vaughn of Chicago was best man. Andrew Weiner of Chicago was ring-bearer, and Mr. Peter Weiner of Chicago was usher. Music for the wedding was furnished by organist, Mr. Rayfield of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left immediately following the ceremony for a honeymoon at Long Lake, Ill. After June 27 they will be at home at the Renaissance Hotel, 1411 E. Hyde Park-blvd, Chicago.

Mrs. Wilson is an honor graduate of Kokomo High School, has attended Indiana University, Ray School of Art, American Academy of Art, and the Art Institute of Chicago. She plans to continue sculpture study at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of West High School has attended Ohio State University and the Art Institute of Chicago. He is a commercial artist and is at present studying for his B. A. E. degree at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Welcome To

FARMER'S MARKET

You will see here today another climax of a modern evolution in the retail trade process of Columbus and Central Ohio. Farmer's Market Drive-In Shopping Center is in keeping with the new era in suburban market centers.

No longer is it necessary for people to go to the center of town for their family needs. Farmer's Market is located at Sullivant and Huron Aves., on the Rim of the City—where folks can drive with ease from all sections of the Greater West Side and Hilltop Sections of Columbus. Rural residents and small towns and villages will find it a safe and convenient place to do their shopping without becoming involved in downtown congestion.

Farmer's Market was conceived, planned, designed, built, and dedicated to all of the people of the Greater West Side, Hilltop Section, and adjoining towns and villages for their shopping comfort and safety, where the whole family may shop with pleasure, free from traffic hazards.

Farmer's Market forges another link in the chain of large super Drive-In Shopping Centers developed by the Casto interests in all sections of Columbus and throughout Central Ohio to better serve the shopping requirements of an even greater expanding trade area.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

WHO are you, Beatrice thought as she looked at Bonnie, that you make my husband feel that your need of him is greater than mine? Women should not be enemies. All women know what is dear to them, what must be safe-guarded or it will be lost, and what the loss means.

"Miss Watson."

And again the girl turned with the suddenness of alarm.

"Oh, Mrs. Farish!"

"Are you an art lover, too?" Beatrice asked.

"I'm afraid I don't know very much about it," Bonnie confessed. "I don't either," Beatrice told her. "I'm not a critic, but I do like to look at pictures."

Bonnie studied her for what seemed longer to Beatrice than it actually was, so that when they parted Bonnie would know what Beatrice was wearing down to the last detail. Not only what she was wearing, but beyond that—deeper than the mere fact of a casually fashionable appearance—for while the girl seemed terribly remote, her glance was penetrating and sharp with a resentment she struggled to relieve and a fear she tried to conquer.

Beatrice said, "I saw you looking so intently at this picture I hesitated to interrupt."

Bonnie's mouth opened to speak. But she pondered before she said, "I like flying. That's why I noticed this picture. They look so happy and free with their wings spread out."

"I know. Not earthbound as we are. They don't have to try to keep their horizons broad. I have to see all of life from my five feet four inches. I've always thought that Porter had an advantage over me when he views the world from the height of his six feet."

At the sound of Porter's name Bonnie's face brightened instantly. "He is tall. I hope the business in Chicago turns out the way he wants it to." She turned more intimately toward Beatrice. "I don't like it at all when he isn't in the office. That's the reason I came all the way out here today to see this exhibit. Frankly, I'm terrified of Mr. Ramey."

Beatrice spoke kindly. "We have that much in common, at least. I'm terrified of him, too. I must be running along. May I take you to the bus? I'm not going downtown. I'm going the other way to the country."

"Thank you, but I . . . I thought I'd like to walk around a little more. This place reminds me of another place."

"Memories?"

Bonnie nodded. "Yes." When she looked at Beatrice fully, her face took on strength and added beauty and charm. "Porter understands them, Mrs. Farish. That's why I miss him now. He's been so good to me. I can never repay my debt to him. All I can do is acknowledge it." Suddenly she was overcome by emotion. "It was nice to see you, Mrs. Farish. Good-bye."

She turned and walked away, leaving Beatrice feeling snubbed and dismissed. She had no heart now to see Libby or anyone. Bonnie. Bonnie Watson. She, who had been only a name floating on the surface of her mind, was now infinitely more than that. Where once there had been only one who had missed Porter when he had gone away, there were now two. Porter lived and walked and breathed in the consciousness of two women now. The fact of his being was of paramount importance to two women. To whom did he, in his heart, really belong?

It was strange, Beatrice thought, that she had had to meet the impact of that question in the quiet of a museum. To meet it, and to know that the answer lay somewhere in infinity beyond her present grasp.

Bessie, a study in gray, opened the door and Beatrice stepped into an apartment empty of everything except some barrels, into which Bessie was obviously packing china and crystal.

An empty apartment, a place that had been a home, a place where one had laughed and dined and known companionship and pleasure, was a sobering spectacle. When Beatrice heard the tap of her brown alligator heels on the bare floor she recalled that the thickness of Libby's carpets had been locally famous. She stood still and looked dejectedly about her. But there was nothing to see. There was nothing here anymore. Everything was gone.

"Bessie, where is she?"

Bessie's plump hands made helpless little gestures.

"There's no place for you to sit, Mrs. Farish. Oh, dear . . ."

"It doesn't matter. Where is she?"

Bessie sighed, and the tears glistened in her eyes. "In the country. About five miles out. She couldn't stay here."

"No."

"The woman who owns the house went to Germany to see her son in the Army. That's what the real estate man said. She . . . she had to take it. She had to get away quickly. She couldn't go to any of those other places like Bermuda or Florida. She couldn't."

"No, Bessie, she couldn't. What happened to everything? Did she take it with her?"

Bessie shook her head. "Sold. A man came and bought everything." She looked at Beatrice. "I'm not surprised at this, Mrs. Gundris isn't well. She hasn't been sleeping. Many's the night I've seen the light under her door at all hours. She said she'd been reading. But the cigarette stubs I found the next morning. And the clothes she bought and never wore. Recently, I mean. She never took them out of the boxes they came in. I sent them all back like she told me. And Jane . . . I've been with her since she was born! Oh, Mrs. Farish—"

Beatrice stood speechless, her heart aching. And there was nothing to say except empty platitudes. There is no happy ending to this, she thought. I cannot tell Bessie that everything will be all right, that it will be the same as it used to be. This is divorce.

She recalled her wretchedness when reading in the newspaper that Mrs. Richard Gundris had been granted a divorce in Reno, and that the custody of the child had been given to the mother.

And now this is the result of that small printed item, she thought. This surgery on the heart. Marriage is not pure. It is interwoven even with those who come into our homes to work for us. Like Bessie; like Frances.

"What are you going to do, Bessie?"

The older woman breathed deeply. "Well, I've gone to live with my sister-in-law. My dead brother's wife. We're both alone, and she works. She has a nice little place. You know Mrs. Gundris wouldn't just turn me out. Upset as she was, she made sure that everything was all right with me. I didn't want to take all that money, but she made me. She put the check in my hand, and said they'd be something coming into me every month. It isn't that, Mrs. Farish. Mercy, no! I don't know why I even mentioned it. It's . . . it's . . ."

"I know," Beatrice said. She felt dreadfully depressed. "It's the end of everything around which you've built your life for almost sixteen years. I am truly, deeply sorry. And now will you tell me, please, how to find her?"

Beatrice saw the low, small brown house with smoke coming from the chimney. There was no sign of another house for as far as she could see. Indeed the little house seemed to have sprung up like a mushroom, finding itself in the fortunate position of having grown close to an old quarry that had filled with water and resembled a nearly perfect lake. Yet, as Beatrice got out of her car, she saw evidences of human love and human touch in the many lilac bushes and climbing roses that would, when spring came, make this a radiantly beautiful place. There were so many trees that when they were in full leaf their branches would touch, providing not only a cool green canopy over the little house but also a haven for singing birds. Whoever had come to build this house beside the quarry, to plant the lilacs and the roses, and to listen to the birds, had not been lonely nor oppressed. Beatrice did not know when she had been more eager for a door to open, for whoever was of this house, owner or tenant, would make you welcome.

She did not have to wait. Libby, in dark brown slacks and a yellow sweater, and heavy country shoes with mud on them, opened the door and smiled at her.

"I knew your car," she said. "Hello, Bee, dear. Come in." As Beatrice went in, Libby said, "You've had your hair cut. I like it. I like it very much."

Beatrice touched her short hair almost self-consciously.

"I didn't dream it would make me feel different, but it does. Hilde said it would."

"How is Marianne? And Porter?"

"Marianne is fine, and Porter is in Chicago on business." She could not tell Libby how much she missed him. More this time than at any time since he had gone to sea during the war. Nor could she tell Libby that there had been many times during the past two years when she had been actually glad when business had taken him out of town because his presence baffled her and filled her with anxiety.

Feltcraft Class Organized at 'Y' For Hilltop Girls

Hilltop girls find that feltcraft provides interest, recreation and even a new and profitable experience in the newly organized YMCA class.

Colorful and useful articles such as purses, handbags and hats are being made under the guidance of Mary Alice Downing.

Girls interested in this class are encouraged to join. Enroll at the "Y" immediately. Classes are held every Thursday at 1 p. m.

Hike, Night Baseball On Gra-Y Schedule

Future events on the Gra-Y calendar include a cross country hike and attendance of night baseball games at the Red Bird Stadium.

A hike is planned for tomorrow. The group will hike cross-country, leaving from Mound and Hague-avs.

Members of othe Gra-Y clubs are urged to contact the Hilltop "Y" regarding plans for attending future night baseball games at the Red Bird Stadium.

Rats have caused more deaths than any other animal.

WE OWN OUR BUSINESS...
WE SERVE OUR COMMUNITY...
OUR PRICES ARE COMPETITIVE...
OUR MERCHANDISE IS GOOD...

WE PAY OUR FULL SHARE OF FEDERAL INCOME TAX

WE THINK OUR CO-OP COMPETITORS SHOULD, TOO!

When businessmen ask for TAX EQUALITY with their CO-OP COMPETITORS they are only asking for a square deal. They want no advantage or special treatment. They think that ALL business—their own and CO-OPS, too—should pay FEDERAL INCOME TAXES on profits in the same way and on the same basis. They are not opposed to CO-OPS—do not want to put them out of business.

Paying equal federal income taxes with other businesses will NOT put co-ops out of business any more than it puts others out of business.

Co-ops make profits—big profits. They are able and should pay federal income taxes on them. Private business pays full taxes on its profits to Uncle Sam. CO-OPS pay little or nothing. They should be taxed the same as their competitors.

TAX THE UNTAXED First!

At this time Congress is talking about INCREASING the federal income tax rates to produce more money for new government costs—debt reduction — foreign commitments. They are talking about taxing present taxpayers MORE.

Congress should TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST!

Every income taxpayer should make sure that his Congressmen and Senators understand this. Every taxpayer should TELL his representatives in Washington to "TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST."

West Gate Lodge

was instituted June 11, 1815, and in December, 1816, it moved across the river, where it continued until December, 1834, when, because of Anti-Masonic agitation it was discontinued until in 1841 it was reorganized as Columbus Lodge No. 30 F. & A. M. and is today one of the strongest lodges in the state.

Early in 1913 a few Masons met at Web Davis' grocery at the corner of W. Broad-st and Burgess-av and at this time the new lodge, christened by Frank Allen as West Gate, was started.

Tom Jones was elected chairman of the new organization, and appointed Dr. L. B. Turner, Web Davis and Mack Grove as a committee to secure the consent of the various lodges in this jurisdiction and to take any other steps necessary to procure a Masonic Lodge.

This was done May 29, 1913, and the committee started to work at once and visited every lodge in this jurisdiction, at that time, and asked and secured the unanimous consent of all the lodges. Humboldt Lodge No. 476 acted as sponsor, and on June 2, 1913, formal application was made to the Grand Lodge of Ohio for a Dispensation, and 13 days after this, on June 22, the Dispensation was granted.

A previous attempt to form a Masonic Lodge on the West Side had failed, because there was no place to meet, but at this time Web Davis came to the front and agreed to see that a place was provided by erecting the building at the corner of W. Broad-st and S. Burgess-av, later occupied by Westwood Lodge of Knights of Pythias, and it may be truthfully said that without Web's assistance there would have been no West Gate Lodge, at least at that time.

Dr. L. B. Turner was selected for first master, Web Davis for senior warden and Tom Jones for junior warden, Len Seiller for treasurer and Harry Hawk for secretary.

Dr. S. J. Randall was senior deacon, Frank Allen, junior deacon; John Miller, senior steward; Denny Wells, junior steward, and Al Hoar, tyler. Andy Ogg, Mack Grove (who has been secretary of the body for the last 33 years) and John Morgan were trustees.

Besides the brothers named, Nelson Curtis, Evan Ellis, Harry Greenwood, Dell Howard, Dick Hughes, John P. Johnson, Charley Johnston, E. A. Lawrence, George Matson, Fred Postle, Charley Slater, Fred Slater were the names of the original 25 who founded West Gate Lodge, and they, with 12 others, "raised to master Masons" before Oct. 23, 1913, the date of the original charter, constituted the charter members of the new lodge and are as follows. Brown Turner, Clarence Curtis, Selwyn Fox, John Porter, Achbur Budd, John Jones, Charley Millikin, Marv Millikin, Harry Beckett, Jesse Sparks, John Hatfield and Bert Groff.

First meeting place was at the corner of W. Broad-st and S. Hague-av, until Web had the next meeting place at the corner of W. Broad-st and S. Burgess-av completed and where the Hilltop Masons met until the present temple at 2925 W. Broad-st was completed and dedicated March 30, 1925.

The lodge was instituted Nov. 24, 1913, by Grand Master Charley Pretzman, and on that same evening consent was granted to Robert Mcrris Chapter, O. E. S., to occupy rooms, and Apr. 7, 1914, the chapter was instituted by Robert McGaughy, and has grown and expanded in a phenomenal manner.

"While it is impossible to individualize each member of the 25, yet suffice it to say, not one of them ever shirked a duty, nor failed to bend every energy towards the advancement of Masonry in general and West Gate Lodge in particular. And they were and are true brothers. True in themselves, true to their country, true to Masonry and above all, true to the great and beneficent Author of their being," Dr. Turner said in his journal.

Earl W. Ellison was the first member "raised" after the charter was received. Since that time, there has been a regular healthy growth, until now the lodge is among the most influential in the country.

West Gate Lodge No. 623 was instituted Nov. 24, 1913, with the following named officiating: C. J. Pretzman, W. R. Scirner, J. W. Mangold, H. E. French, R. R. Rickley, H. N. P. Dole, J. H. Hatfield, W. L. Herron, C. D. Cussins, I. Kleeman, C. N. Roling, Simeon Nash, Otto Magly, W. H. Diel.

West Gate Chapter No. 216 received its dispensation Feb. 27, 1921, with Otto Magly, high priest, Earl Williams, king, and Frank Allen, scribe, and their first meeting was held March 9, 1921. Their charter was granted Oct. 6, 1921, and the chapter was duly constituted Dec. 7, 1921, by Most Excellent Grand High Priest Frank Beggs of Newark, with 10 of the grand chapter officers present.

The dispensation for West Gate Council which also meets there was granted Dec. 13, 1922, with George Wood, master Earl Williams, deputy master, and John Nuber, principal conductor of the work. Oct. 17, 1923, the council received its charter from the hands of Henry A. Weeks, the charter being read by T. S. O'Harra, grand recorder.

In 1917 24 West Gate boys were in uniform, ready to do their part in the World War. At that time the membership was 130.

West Gate men in the service were Harlan Born, Clark H. Constans, Gerald M. Case, Herbert C. Davis, Edward F. Gillette, Harry E. Goss, William H. Hawk, Daniel O. Jenkins, Lester Link, Carlos W. Matheney, Anthony C. Maife, Leon C. Rice, Ira Russell, Samuel J. Randall, Christopher Slater, Fred Slater, Elmer Sulzberger, Fred Sulzberger, Elmer Steiner, Vernor Stout, Cyril B. Turner, Lawrence B. Tanner, Ralph Weidman and William O. Zeibold. Of these 24, only one lost his life while in service, Lester Link, who died in Italy, far from the scene of combat, but where his regiment had been sent. His body was later transferred to Wesley Chapel Cemetery.

REFRIGERATION
Is Too Slow and Wasteful For Today's High Priced Perishable Foods

Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

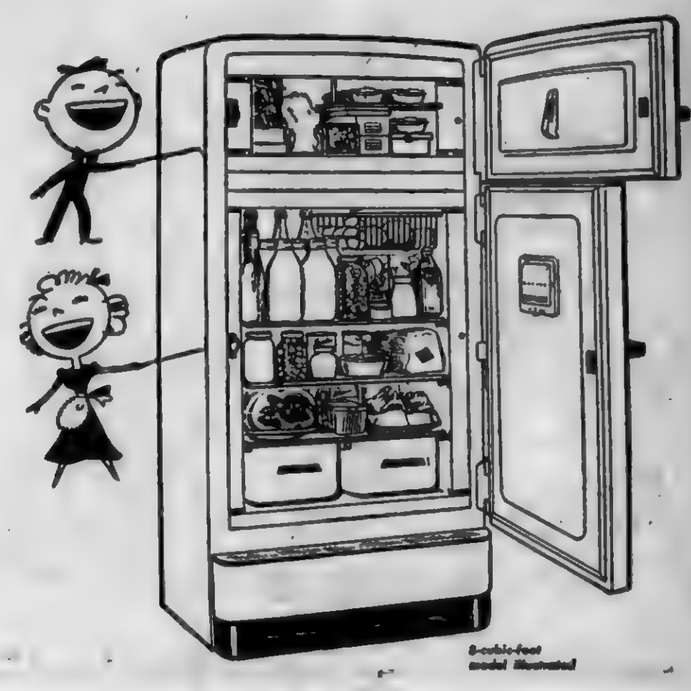
Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get,



In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in d spacious fresh-food refrigerato.r Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
REFRIGERATOR-HOME FREEZER COMBINATION

A SEPARATE REFRIGERATOR

PLUS A SEPARATE HOME FREEZER

You'll never forget . . . never regret . . . the day you buy this General Electric Combination. For the name GENERAL ELECTRIC means dependability . . . dependability based on an unsurpassed record for year-after-year performance.

More than 2,000,000 General Electric Refrigerators have been in service 10 years or longer!

And the chief reason, of course, is the famous General Electric sealed-in refrigerating system. Airtight and oiltight, this dependable system has never been excelled for efficient, economical operation . . . year in, year out.

8- AND 10-CUBIC-FOOT MODELS

The General Electric Combination is available at your retailer's in both 8- and 10-cubic-foot models—one of them just right for your household. We think you'll agree they provide the most that's offered in a home refrigerator today.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of Franklin Township, Local School District, Brigsdale School Building, Harrisburg Pike, Brigsdale, Franklin County, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk of said School District until 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on August 15, 1949, for the furnishing of materials and the performing of labor necessary to erect a one story elementary school building on the north side of Frank Road east of Brigsdale, Ohio, for the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, all in accordance with the plans and specifications as prepared by Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, Dayton, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are on file as follows:

The office of the Clerk of the Board of Education, Mrs. Sara Ely, 1077 Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio.

The office of Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, 1301-4 American Building, Dayton 2, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are open to public inspection during all reasonable business hours, until time fixed herein for closing of bids.

Proposals will be received for the General Construction Work; Plumbing; Electric; and Heating and Ventilating Work, separately. Bidders may submit a combined bid for the Plumbing and Heating and Ventilating Work.

All proposals shall be made and considered by the Board in accordance with the General Code of the State of Ohio, and be on blank forms furnished by the Clerk of the Board of Education or the Architects, and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Clerk of the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, Brigsdale School, Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio, endorsed on the outside of the envelope with the name of the bidder and the branch of the work bid upon.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after the opening thereof. Particular attention is called to the statutory requirements of the State of Ohio relative to the licensing of corporations organized under the laws of any other state.

Each bid must contain the name of every person interested herein, and be accompanied by a certified check or bank draft in favor of said Board of Education upon a solvent bank, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid, or by bond in like sum, executed by an approved surety company, conditioned that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance of it properly secured. Checks submitted by the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the award of the contract is made, and a performance bond in the amount of 50% of the contract has been executed by the successful bidder.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Architects upon the deposit of fifteen dollars ($15.00), which will be refunded to all contractors submitting bids upon the return of plans and specifications. Others will have refund of five dollars ($5.00) upon return of plans and specifications.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularities in bidding.

By order of the Board of Education of the Franklin Township Local School District, Brigsdale, Franklin County, Ohio.

Elbert L. Becker, President
Sarah Ely, Clerk.

TENNIS MATCH CALLED

Rain forced postponement of the clay court tennis tourney at Westgate Park Sunday. Eddie Moylan was one set short of a win over Billy Talbert when the match had to be called.

A-C Wesley Yahn Killed In Nevada

Aviation Cadet Wesley Yahn, 21, former resident of Zanesville, was killed Thursday in a routine solo flight during advance air force flight training at Las Vegas, Nev. When the plane became overdue, army authorities sent out a searching party and found the aircraft, which had crashed and burned.

Yahn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yahn, Santa Monica, Calif. The elder Mr. Yahn operated an insurance agency in Zanesville for many years. Wesley was formerly athletic manager at Lash High School in Zanesville before graduating in 1946.

Surviving are his parents; a brother, Donald; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maneely, Zanesville; an aunt, Mary E. Yahn, 2335 Glenview-blvd, Columbus, and an uncle, John G. Yahn, 1666 Union-av, also of Columbus.

Funeral services were held Monday in Santa Monica, Calif.

More Truth Than Poetry

E. T. Fox, 33 N. Roys-av, submits the following bit of verse that contains a lot more truth than poetry.

THE MAN IN THE GLASS

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day,
And see what THAT man has to say.

For it isn't your father or mother or wife
Whose judgment upon you must pass;
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the one staring back from the glass.

You may be like the fellow that chiseled a plum,
And think you're a wonderful guy,
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum,
If you can't look him straight in the eye.

He's the fellow to please, never mind all the rest
For he's with you clear up to the end,
And you've passed your most dangerous, difficult test
If the man in the glass is your friend.

You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years,
And get pats on the back as you pass,
But your final reward will be heartaches and tears
If you've cheated the man in the glass.

Kiwanis To Award Four Tennis Trophies

Four pedestal type trophies will be presented to the winners and runners up in the city clay court tourney being played at Westgate Park. The trophies were donated by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. A trophy will be presented to the winner and runner-up in singles and doubles divisions.

Some of the preliminary matches were rained out last week-end, but officials still hope to complete play this Sunday.

Bean Dinner Contest Rules Are Announced

Here's the "info" you've been waiting for, Hilltoppers — the rules governing the big Hilltop Bean Dinner Contest, which will appear in the Record next Tuesday, July 26:

1. Most of the ads on the contest page will contain a misspelled word. Read every ad and locate the misspelled words.
2. Put the words together to construct the best possible sentence.
3. Mail or bring your entry to The Hilltop Record, 2485 W. Broad-st, before noon Monday, Aug. 1.
4. Neatness and originality will be considered.

Winners will be announced in the Record on Thursday, Aug. 4.

Graphically shown at the exhibit are many of the 786 different auto body hardware and appointments made by the millions in this community, adding much pleasure to the riding comfort of motorists.

Ternstedt brings to the Hilltop a unit of the world's largest manufacturer of automobile body hardware. Many of the parts manufactured by the Hilltop firm are largely hidden from the eyes of the motorists, but nevertheless necessary to traveling ease and comfort in riding.

Located but a mile west of the corporation limits are housed, on a plot of 191 acres, 3700 employes, who work in three shifts: 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.; 3:48 p. m. to 12:16 a. m.; and 10:30 p. m. to 7 a. m.— around the clock.

Of this number, a very large percentage are residents of the Hilltop.

Million Dollar Payroll

With a payroll of approximately $1,000,000 monthly, few, if any other Columbus enterprise, meet or beat this figure.

In number of employes the plant is among the top three concerns in greater Coumbus, Chamber of Commerce records show. The other two are Timken Roller Bearing Co. and Lazarus Co.

Much of the payroll money is converted by Ternstedt employes into local channels, adding immeasureably to the purchasing power of the Hilltop residents.

Thirty-five per cent on the total payroll are women, and in the production jobs, the ratio of men and women is approximately 50, 50.

Age is no barrier to production, and Ternstedt takes cognizance of this in its employment policy. All people employed must be at least 21 years of age, save messenger boys. All applicants who qualify for the job available are given the same consideration regardless of age, race, creed or color. The policy has meant much to the Hilltop, since it is a stabilizing agent in the community.

In addition to occupational duties, Ternstedt provides recreational facilities for its "family" of 3,700. Baseball diamonds have been set up, south of the mammoth production center, where intramural contests are carried on by employes on respective shifts. All equipment is furnished by the company for the employes' enjoyment of the national pastime.

Other sports, including golf, bowling teams, etc., are made up of Ternstedt employes although not sponsored by the company.

Ternstedt operates two other similar auto body hardware enterprises in Detroit, Mich., and Trenton, N. J. Seventeen thousand employes work at Ternstedt in the three centers.

Largest Dining Hall

Ternstedt houses Hilltop's largest dining hall. In fact, two cafeterias, with every culinary appointment and accommodation known in the Epicurean world will comfortably seat 1,700 at one time. One cafeteria, with a capacity of 500, is delegated to the Aug. 20: Rivoli Theater. "Frontier Agent," with Johnny Mac Brown. Three cartoons.

Seeks Man Who Returned Purse

Mrs. Oakley Wiseman, 77 S. Warren-av, would like to find the honest and anonymous man who returned her purse Tuesday. She was driving to the country to buy eggs, and upon arriving found that her purse contaning "a large amount of money" was gone. She then remembered that the car door had come open as she turned the corner at Olive and Warren-avs.

Failing to locate the purse there after a frantic search, she returned home. The man had already been there and left the purse.

Koontz Says He Is 'Interested' In Parking Plan

"I am very interested in some solution to the downtown parking problem, but, considering the city's finances, three million dollars is an awful lot of money to pay for any one thing," said Councilman Henry Koontz, 485 Hillitonia-av, of the six recommendations for parking facilities offered by the city traffic and transportation commission.

Mr. Koontz said that he would withhold approval of the recommendations until he had studied them further.

Three of the proposed parking lots would be developed by the city and three by private developments.

Those slated for city development are: a Scioto deck parkway, 200 feet wide and 1000 feet long, along the east bank of the Scioto River north of Broad-st; an under ground lot beneath the state house grounds; and a triple deck structure at Central Market.

Estimated cost of the projects is three million dollars. It is suggested that the financing of the project be by mortgage revenue bonds, retired with money derived from parking fees.

E. O. Melvin, Hilltop representative on the city traffic commission, says the commission feels this is the best possible solution of the downtown parking problem.

Brother of Local Man Dies In Crash

James T. Murray of Congo, O., was killed early Wednesday morning as the result of an auto accident in Crooksville, O. He died within 15 minutes after colliding with another car. Raymond Baird, also of Congo, who was with him, was injured.

Mr. Murray is survived by his wife, Isabel; a daughter, Mrs. Thea Janet Mosier and a son, James, all of Congo; by his brothers, Joseph of Duncan Falls, O.; Donald, 73 S. Warren-av; William H., 554 Nashoba-av; and by two sisters, Elizabeth B. Murray, Atlantic City, and Mrs. Mary J. Floyd, Los Angeles.

The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. Saturday at his home in Congo.

Sullivant Ave. To Be Opened By July 27

Repaving of Sullivant-av will be completed by July 27, in time for use by cars traveling to the bean dinner, the Complete General Construction Co. revealed today.

Repaving of the road started early last April. It has been opened from Hague-av to Binns-blvd at this time. At the completion of the work, Sullivant-av will have been widened to 40 feet and resurfaced with asphalt paving from Hague-av to Derrer-rd. This nearly doubles the former paved surface.

The contract on the project was let for $156,632. The money was approved by the voters in 1945. Tentative date of the completion of the project had been July 1.

New School Planned For Briggsdale

Hope was expressed today that construction of a one floor, 17 room, elementary school building on the north side of Frank-rd, east of Briggsdale, would be started by early September.

Mrs. Sara Ely, clerk of the Franklin Township School District, said that bids on the building will be accepted until noon, Aug. 15. Walker, Norwick and Templin are architects for the structure.

Mrs. Ely said that the census figures indicate that the building will be crowded to capacity as soon as it is put in service. She added, however, that the board hoped to be able to discontinue the use of basements and portables for teaching, after the new structure is erected. Portables are rooms that may be attached to other buildings or schools and used for class rooms. About five of them have been in use in the township.

Capacity of the new school will be about 700. Census figures show that 1680 children of preschool and school age live in the area.

Rome Firemen Hold Celebration This Saturday

Prairie Township Volunteer Firemen will hold their second annual celebration this Saturday at the New Rome School Grounds.

The all-day celebration will start with a parade at 10 a. m. and finish with round and square dancing in the evening. Prizes will be awarded in doll and pet shows, and for the best decorated bicycle. A fish fry, games, concessions and rides will also be featured at the public celebration.

Refrigerator, Washer Top Bean Dinner Prize List

The list of free prizes to be given away by Hilltop merchants the Hilltop Bean Dinner next Wednesday has reached a value of over $1000 and is still growing, according to Elmer Hegenberger, in charge of merchandise.

Topping the list of prizes are a 1949 Crosley Shelvador Refrigerator, valued at $379.95, and Westinghouse Laundromat automatic washer valued at $[illegible].

The refrigerator will be given away by Nelson Appliance Service, 2289 W. Broad-st, and Better Home Center, 2775 W. Broad-st. Information on entering the contest for it may be had at either store.

Westgate Electric, 2935 W. Broad-st, will give the Laundromat and has information on entering that contest.

Other prizes for the contest have been donated by Murnane's Sohio Service Station, Berraw Beauty Shop, Central States Laboratory and the C. C. Robinson Co.

The list of prizes given by the Hilltop Business Association to date includes a $12 case of peaches, a $5 poultry order, a $7 bath set, three $5 dry cleaning orders, seven baskets of groceries, a $6.50 permanent wave, two $10 toilet seats, three dish gardens, two electric irons, an $8 motor tune-up, an $8 plate glass mirror, a $5 order of baked goods, two $9 table lamps, a 32-piece gold tinsel breakfast set, a floor lamp, a pin-up lamp, two albums of records, a clothes hamper, two cases of motor oil, a case of soap flakes, 25 pounds of flour, 50 pounds of sugar.

A child's cowboy suit, a gold bracelet, two boxes of frozen food containers, a $7 home first aid kit, a man's jacket, a 50-foot garden hose, a $9 electric bottle warmer, a wristwatch, a fly rod, a two way kitchen faucet, two orders for shoes, and two electric clocks.

Hegenberger said that the list of prizes being furnished by the Hilltop Business Association is only about 50 per cent completed at this time.

Roy Bowen Named Director Of Players Club

Roy Bowen, dramatics director at West High, has been named managing director of the Players Club, to succeed Stokes McCune. For the past year and a half, Mr. Bowen has been directing the shows at Players Club, but with the opening of the 27th season in September, he will step into the full time job of managing director.

For the past six weeks, Mr. Bowen has been in Texas where he was doing drama research. He has been attending the Margo Jones' Dallas '49 Theater, which has proved so successful in repertoire arena production.

Mr. Bowen is a graduate of Otterbein College and received his M. A. degree from Northwestern University with a major in theater. While at Northwestern he was in the cast of several plays directed by Charles Vance, now director of the America Theater Wing. He is now completing work on his doctorate degree at Ohio State University.

For three years, Mr. Bowen was drama teacher in Circleville, and for five years was on the faculty of West High School. He taught speech and acting at Ohio State University for three years prior to assuming his duties at the Players Club.

Robert T. Jones Named Architect For Golf Course

City Recreation Commissioner Nick Barack announced yesterday that Robert Trent Jones of New York has been chosen as the architect for the planned 27 hole golf course to be built by the city at Trabue and Wilson-rds.

Mr. Jones is the architect of the famous Bobby Jones golf course in Atlanta, Ga., and of several other golf courses throughout the country.

Date for beginning work on the new course has not been set.

13 Club Plans Stag Charity Outing

Leroy S. Weygand, treasurer of the 13 Club, has announced that the club will sponsor a stag outing this year as part of its charity program.

The outing is scheduled for Sept. 18 at Valley Ranch, Broad and Valley Creek. Plans are being made to accomodate 1000 men. All of the proceeds will go to charity.

RE-ELECTED TREASURER

C. H. Campbell, proprietor of Campbell's Pharmacy, 2766 W. Broad-st, was re-elected treasurer of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association yesterday at its 70th annual convention at Toledo. More than 1000 druggists from all parts of Ohio are attending the convention.

No Traffic Lights For Sullivant Ave. Until Next Year

No more traffic lights will be put up on Sullivant-av this year according to Harry Turner, city traffic engineer.

"We have about 34 accidents a day, most of them at intersections, and about 200 requests for traffic lights, that we are unable to take care of with present equipment," Mr. Turner said. He added that a survey would be made of Sullivant-av next year and signals would be installed where needed between Whitethorne and Hague-avs.

Mr. Turner said that the number of accidents at an intersection is only one of six factors considered in determining where traffic lights will be placed. "Traffic lights do not prevent accidents, they control traffic movements," he said. He cited as an example an intersection where three accidents occurred the day after a traffic light was installed.

Mr. Turner's statement followed complaints of Sullivant-av residents in the vicinity of Wayne and Eureka-avs.

Mr. Turner concluded that traffic officials considered the survey of Sullivant-av "as vital as anything in the city."

Mrs. Draper Named Vice Chairman On Finance Director Committee

A Hilltop woman, Mrs. Robert M. Draper, 74 N. Roys-av, has been named vice-chairman of a citizens group to back Columbus charter amendments, creating the office of municipal director of finance, to be voted on at the Aug. 9 primary election.

Mrs. Draper is active in the League of Women Voters, one of several groups that have already endorsed the finance director proposal.

The committee, which will consist of about 25 members, will be known as the "Columbus Finance Director Committee." Other committee officers include: Charles V. Schwoenker, chairman, Mrs. Henry A. Stair, secretary, and Robert W. Leutheueser, treasurer.

In discussing the proposed amendments following his election, Chairman Schwenker said: "There's really nothing new or radical about the charter changes which will be voted on Aug. 9. The State of Ohio already has a finance director appointed by the chief executive with the approval of the legislative body. So do a majority of the cities of Ohio and the nation which compare with Columbus in size and influence.

"With the vastly increased sums of money handled by municipal government these days, taxpayers of other cities have been far ahead of Columbus in realizing that financial practices of 30 or 40 years ago are inadequate for modern needs. The best protection for taxpayers is the establishment of clear-cut financial responsibilities, as proposed in the charter amendments."

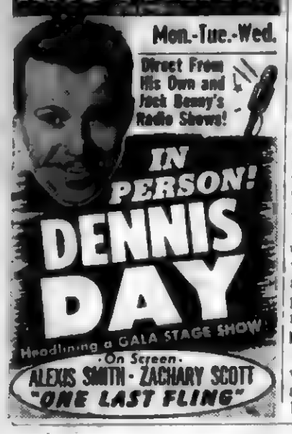
Charles A. Jones, temporary chairman, presided at the preliminary meeting, at which the nominating committee consisted of Howard F. Haines, Paul F. White and Dr. Howard Whitehead, 2330 W. Broad-st.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Jones gave this explanation of advantages of the city finance director plan: "Under the present city charter, Columbus' finances are everybody's business —and therefore nobody's business! Financial responsibilities are divided among the mayor, council, auditor, treasurer, and other officials, and it's little wonder that Columbus can end a year—as it did last December —without anyone knowing whether the city's 'in the black' or 'in the red.'

"'Buck-passing' is easy today, with that many officials all having hands in 'the financial pie'. With the approval of the charter amendments, 'buck-passing' will end, and the taxpayers will know exactly where to place responsibility for the proper handling of their tax dollars."

Gold Star Mothers Plan Pot Luck Dinner

Members of Columbus Chapter 1, Gold Star Mothers, are invited to be guests at the farm home of Mrs. Martin Lochner, 2221 Big Run-av, Friday, July 22. Mothers are asked to meet at 10:45 a. m. at the Grove City bus line with a covered dish of food and their own table service for a pot luck dinner.



Gold Star mothers in the city who are not members are welcome to join the group and may receive information by calling the president, Mrs. E. A. Gerber, 2164 Rankin-av, LA. 1993.

The next regular business meeting will be Friday, Aug. 12, at 8 p. m., in Memorial Hall. This will be an important meeting concerning stop corn stands at Ohio State Fair. A social hour is also planned by the committee.

Townsend Club No. 7 meets at 7:30 p. m. Friday, July 22, at 2293½ W. Broad-st.

A horseshoe should be hung with the ends pointing down.

MISS PAULINE DOWNEY WEDS MR. HARMER IN NEW CONCORD

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Harmer

Miss Frances Pauline Downey, New Concord, and Mr. Richard L. Harmer, 192 N. Powell-av, were joined in holy wed-lock at the Presbyterian church in New Concord Saturday, June 11, at 8:30 p. m. Rev. E. B. Welsh officiated at the double ring service.

The altar was adorned by four candelabra, palms, and large vases of white gladioli, larkspur and carnations. Candles were placed in the windows and white ribbons marked the reserved pews.

The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a low-cut rounded neckline embroidered in seed pearl, bead and bugle bead design. The long fitted sleeves extended to points over the hands. The fitted bodice featured a torso effect with two rows of matching satin cording through the straight line skirt, which extended into chapel train. For her headdress, the bride chose a Dutch cap beaded in a design matching her gown and a fingertip veil of imported illusion edged with Chantilly lace. She carried a bell-shaped arrangement of white roses with a white ribbon handle.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Downey, New Concord, sister of the bride, and Mrs. John Nihog, Columbus. Miss Suzanne Hunter, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Mr. John Harmer, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Guests were seated by Mr. Carlton Walter of Columbus, Mr. Thomas Aitkens, Dallas, Tex., and Mr. Robert Shaw, South Zanesville.

A reception was held following the wedding in the social rooms of the church for 125 guests. Aides were Mrs. Robert Shaw, sister of the bride, Mrs. Wayne Webb, Columbus, Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald, Zanesville, and Miss Vivian Meredith, Columbus.

For going away the bride wore a pink gabardine dress with navy accessories and a corsage of white roses. Following a trip through the north, the couple will reside at 140 Highland-av.

The former Miss Downey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Downey, New Concord, and is a graduate of New Concord High School. She was formerly employed in the office of the Columbus Rendering Co.

Mr. Harmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold O. Harmer, 192 N. Powell-av. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was graduated from Ohio State University in electrical engineering. He is at present a teacher at Franklin University.

Good Luncheon, Supper Ideas

By ALICE BENHOFF

FOR a pleasing luncheon or supper dish, quickly prepared, cook a 6-oz. package of wide noodles according to package directions. Drain, then return to utensil in which noodles were cooked. Add a 7-oz. can of tuna fish, flaked, also a 10½-oz. can of condensed cream of mushroom soup. Cook until ingredients are thoroughly heated. If too dry, add a small amount of milk. Yield: 6 servings.

Mixed Vegetables

If the larder yields 1½ c. mixed vegetables such as cooked carrots and peas or some limas or string beans, prepare a molded vegetable salad to give a light touch to a hearty menu. For 6 servings, soften one envelope unflavored gelatine in ½ c. cold water. Add ¾ c. hot water; ½ tsp. salt, tbsp. sugar; stir until dissolved. Stir in ½ c. mild vinegar and tbsp. lemon juice. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Stir in tbsp. onion and 1½ c. cold cooked mixed vegetables. Pour into large or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and serve on salad greens with French dressing.

For something different to add interest to one of your standard menus, serve corn bread baked with bacon strips, something that the menfolk will applaud. Make corn bread according to your favorite recipe, but omit the shortening. Pour batter into a well greased shallow pan and arrange slices of bacon on top of batter. Bake according to recipe. The crisp bacon will add a pleasant crunchiness.

Give a piquant touch to the same old green beans by preparing them with a Creole accent. Place 2 tbsp. table fat in saucepan; add 2 tbsp. finely chopped onion, 2 tbsp. finely chopped green pepper and ½ c. slices mushrooms; cook over low heat for about 5 min. Add one c. canned tomatoes, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper. Simmer until sauce is thickened. Add 2½ c. cooked or drained canned green beans; heat. Yield: 4 servings.

G. M. Plant

Both officials and employes enjoy the same meal, and both pay identical prices for food served there.

Parts produced in the Hilltop plant are eventually assembled in the complete line of General Motors automobiles, including Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac. So, wherever you see a General Motors car you see, in part, the legion of contributions made by Hilltop's Ternstedt.

Since the first manufactured part was processed and shipped, Sept. 13, 1946, millions of units have found their way to 58 G. M. assembling centers.

More than 340 tons of steel daily go into the manufacture of 786 units which are shipped to G. M. plants in more than a dozen states, Canada and other foreign countries.

3700 Employes

Each day finds 3,700 employes making 641,920 spring steel wire units, used in a new type auto seat and back cushion, and shipped to assembly lines daily. Four million clips are made, and shipped with the cushions units to the G. M. plants.

Then too, Hilltop's largest industrial enterprise makes daily more than a half million auto body parts, including 35,000 garnish window moldings, 25,000 auto door locks, 17,000 door hinges, 35,000 roof drip moldings, 7,000 trunk compartment hinges 7,000 trunk locks, and 20,000 window regulators—all of which may be seen on exhibit at the City Hall Industrial Exposition this week.

Each manufactured detail may be observed, also the assembled product, its nomenclature, and use in the G. M. automobile.

Attractive Exhibit

Until October, 1948, the Hilltop plant was known as the Fisher Body-Ternstedt Division of General Motors, since which time it is known as the Ternstedt Division of General Motors.

Incidentally, the Fisher brothers—six of them—who revolutionized automobile bodies, are natives of Norwalk, O.

Founder of the tremendous industrial enterprise which bears his name, Alva Ternstedt opened his concern in Detroit 32 years ago. His first manufactured product was a mechanical window regulator.

Then, three years later, Fisher Body Co., who pioneered automobile bodies for all-year driving, acquired the Ternstedt interest.

This industrial expansion consolidated several manufacturing activities then engaged in the production of various types of body hardware parts and fittings.

Within the next three years the England Manufacturing Company, International Metal Stamping Company and Shepard Art Metal Company became a part of Ternstedt. In the Ternstedt organization Fisher Body gathered for the first time in the history of the industry a complete staff of engineers, designers, artists and modelers prepared to fill the modern demand for artistic harmony of design in body hardware interior fitting and similar appointments.

Another important event took place June 30, 1926, when General Motors purchased the outstanding minority interest in the Fisher Body Corporation and it became a division of General Motors. Management remained with the Fishers. General Motors thus had first call on the production of the largest and best equipped body-building plants in the world. The name Fisher Body had become nationally known for quality and quantity and its emblem on a car recommended it to the buying public.

The early '30's were so-called depression years, but "Body by Fisher" improvements continued, with Fisher being first to achieve a notable production accomplishment by stamping roof panels in one piece. About the same time Fisher introduced the Protecta-lock door handle.

Picked Columbus Early

Early in their planning, G. M. officials picked Columbus as the site for their first post-war plant—the new Ternstedt unit. They liked Columbus for several reasons. One of the big ones was the large pool of labor trained in factory skills at Curtiss-Wright during the war. Another was the geographic location of Columbus in reference to the location of G. M.'s other plant cities where products made in Columbus are shipped.

Guiding the destinies of the local plant since the first shovel of dirt was excavated has been James L. Conlon, its resident manager. Mr. Conlon joined the company 24 years ago as an experimental mechanic and draftsman and by 1938 had climbed his way up to the post of chief engineer. In 1940, he became works manager, supervising Ternstedt's production of aircraft instruments during the war.

The growth and expansion of the Ternstedt plant on the Hilltop is a testimony of his leadership and the 3,700 substantial citizens who cooperate in this vast industrial enterprise.

We salute Ternstedt!

Looks Like A 'Champion'

Marilyn Maxwell is the blonde siren who captivates Kirk Douglas in "Champion," coming Sunday to the Old Trail Theater. Ruth Roman and Arthur Kennedy also have large roles in this film. The second feature will be "State Department," starring William Lundigan and Virginia Bruce. "Champion" was featured in Life Magazine.

A Little Bit Of Everything

By russ lang

"Conservatism" as proudly interpreted by some is diagnosed as just plain backwardness by many others.

Even if our favorite home economist, Dr. Elaine Knowles Weaver, did have us clean the basement twice at housecleaning time, she can do no wrong in our eyes. The first cleaning, you recall, was to make room for the new rubbish from housecleaning; the second to haul it away for no apparent reason.

The lady's present enthusiasm for one floor plan houses as a means toward the elimination of much household drudgery finds us in a grandly receptive mood. Living on a single floor would eliminate both cellar jobs; the first because there wouldn't be any basement, and the second not only ditto, but because there wouldn't be room in the house anywhere to accumulate any junk.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Britannia No Longer Super Military Power | United States Holds Upper Hand on Seas

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—American military men are writing off much of Britain's historic military might in their global planning.

The rearmament program may help some, but it is doubted that the sturdy islanders will ever again be able to play their role of holding the continent until American aid comes.

The British Army itself is less powerful than before World War II because of budgetary difficulties.

It is no longer so widely deployed. Although India now is a member of the Commonwealth, its 16 to 12 divisions which have formed a cogent figure in estimating British might can no longer be depended on as a certainty in event of hostilities.

HMS Malaya

The Royal Air Force has not been kept abreast of the requirements set up for it. Its planning has been long-range, but short-term planning will enter the picture when the arms program gets under way.

The Royal Navy no longer controls the seas, for the ships of the United States took supremacy over it and all enemy fleets during the war.

However, the islands are a bastion not to be written off in case war comes—and the tough British people are rated perhaps the staunchest allies of the United States.

● JOHNSON AND THE NAVY—A flat charge of "dictatorship" has been hurled at Defense Secretary Louis Johnson by the national directors of the Navy League of the United States. The organization is pressing an all-out attempt to clip Johnson's wings.

The Navy League—which calls itself the "civilian arm of the Navy"—is marshalling its strength to throttle in the House the bill already passed by the Senate which would greatly increase Johnson's power over all the armed services.

In an urgent letter to members, Frank A. Hecht, League president, warned that the bill "would do great injury to the national military establishment and to the security and institutions of our country."

Convinced that Johnson regards the Navy and the Marine Corps as second-rate fighting forces under present conditions, and equally convinced that the Defense secretary is wrong, the League is preparing for a finish fight.

● RADAR FENCE—The radar fence which is being built around the United States and Canada is calculated to cost the United States about 161 million dollars.

That is the sum that Congress is ready to spend. Actually, however, the cost will be well below that—probably only 85 millions. This is due to the amount of radar equipment left over from World War II which still is serviceable.

The armed forces estimate that they have on hand about 76 million dollars worth of good, useable radar detectors for the new warning network. A fact little known to most Americans is that this new network to detect enemies approaching the northern sector of the western hemisphere is really the second one this nation will have had.

The first warning screen actually was set up in World War II and was very much in use. There was nothing theoretical about it, and it saved many lives, particularly in the Alaskan theater.

● SOVIET INTENTIONS—The East-West "cold war," which has chilled the chances for a lasting peace since the end of World War II, now appears destined to be with us for a long time to come.

When Russia signified her willingness to end the blockade of Berlin, the hopes of the Western Powers rose that the Soviets might be ready to negotiate an overall settlement of the issues that have split the world into two armed camps.

"Cold War" Peace Hopes Dim Again

At that time, there was speculation that Russia wanted the blockade lifted only because it was harming her economy and the economy of the eastern European satellite countries. The State department attitude was "cautious optimism."

Now the continued Soviet recalcitrance at the Paris "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting has erased that hope for an early settlement of the "cold war" issues.

JOE BRIGGS
Says:
A burglar is a man who isn't as rich as he thinks he ought to be.
There is little likelihood of a burglary in your home, so you put off insurance. Then remember: if your risk is low, your insurance premium is low. Remember also: government statistics prove that crime is increasing. Yet you can still get protection against burglary and theft—at home and on the street—for current low rates. What to Do

Here's How To Keep Cool

Letting the heat get you down? Suggestions were advanced this week as to the best means to disregard hot weather. Dr. Homer L. Mitchell, Franklin County Health Commissioner, advises:

1. Drink plenty of water.
2. Wear light-colored, loose-fitting clothing.
3. Cleanse the skin often.
4. Eat the proper foods.

Dr. Mitchell advised that humans have the most efficient cooling system in the world, and called perspiration the secret. Perspiration brings water to the surface of the skin, there to be evaporated with the effect of cooling the skin.

To help along perspiration Dr. Mitchell suggests—"Drink four to six glasses of water daily." This gives the body sufficient fluid to permit perspiration.

Wear light colored clothing of the open weave type such as cotton or linen. This allows air to circulate about the skin and help the process of evaporation.

One warning the health commissioner issues is not to cool the body too quickly. This may lead to a chill and a summer cold.

When overheated, he advises, cool off slowly, don't turn on a fan and sit directly in the breeze. Cleanse the skin often in summer. In that way all dust, oil and waste that may otherwise clog pores and cut down on the skin's ability to perspire, are removed.

Also tests have proven that by getting hot under the collar, an individual gets hot literally as well as figuratively. Keeping tempers in check will help the body keep cool.

Sufferers from heart disease would do well to remember that heat lowers their fatigue point. They should take life easier and work less when the thermometer goes up.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IT was five minutes before the end of a tense Army-Navy football game. The score was 28-28; Army had worked the ball to the Navy three-yard line. The stands were in an uproar.

Suddenly a man who had been following the fray on his television set snapped off the current.

"What's the idea?" cried his outraged guests. "We'll miss the most exciting part."

"I know," admitted the host, "but do you think I'm going to get caught in that mob?"

A flutist at the Berkshire Festival figured in a famous Toscanini episode. The maestro interrupted a rehearsal to upbraid the unfortunate fellow and ended by firing him on the spot. The departing flutist muttered, "you blank-blank egomaniac. I'd like to . . ." Toscanini cut in angrily, "No, no! None of your apologies!"

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, 249 S. Powell-av, are entertaining Mrs. Lillian Bevan of Todmerden, Yorkshire, England, who is in Columbus visiting her sister-in-law, Emily Bevan.

Mrs. Bevan is planning to visit Niagara Falls, Canada, and Chicago during her six-month stay in the United States.

Odd Facts

A few minutes after the minister of a church in Port Carbon, Pa. had ended his sermon with the words, "No one knows what things will befall," the 35-pound chandelier plummeted from its ceiling fixture to the floor.

Household Hint

If fat in the pan gets on fire, smother it with wet cloths. Never pour on water because it makes the fat spatter and may spread the blaze.

Westgate Pastor To Be Counsellor At Church Camp

Norman L. Schreiber, pastor of the Westgate Methodist Church, will be on the teaching and counselling staff when the Columbus District Methodist Intermediate Camp meets at Salina, O., on Sunday, July 31. Rev. J. O. Williamson, pastor of the Third Avenue Methodist Church, will be camp director.

The counselling and teaching staff will also include Richard Drake, of the Whitehall Church, and Robert Scully of the University Church. Registration will begin at 4 p. m. Sunday and continue through Friday afternoon, Aug. 5.

The program will include classes on the theme, "Adventures in Christian Living." Talent night, movies and treasure hunt will be featured in the evening programs. Campfire programs will end the day and the final campfire program will conclude with a consecration service in the Chapel in the Woods.

Westgate Methodist Church is sending 10 intermediates to attend the meeting. They are Scott Pence, Billy Greene, Robert Kain, Cliff Holtzman, Mark Rector, Karlene Spohn, Janet McCord, Emile Halverson, Irene Curl and Jane Glass.

Hilltop Recruiter Announces Opening Of Navigator School

The Air Force will enlarge its Aviation Cadet Program this fall by opening an Aviation Cadet navigator school at Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, Tex., T/Sgt. John R. Diehr, 187 S. Hague-av, announced today.

The new school, designed to train navigators needed for aircrews of the latest types of transports and bombers, will be patterned after the Aviation Cadet Pilot program in eligibility requirements and training.

The first class will begin Nov. 1, and a new class will follow each month thereafter. Approximately 100 students will be enrolled in each class.

To be eligible for Aviation Cadet training, men must be between the ages of 20 and 26½, must be U. S. citizens, and may be either married or single. They must have at least two years of college or the ability to pass an equivalent examination. Cadet navigator graduates will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve and aeronautical ratings as navigators.

Howard D. Estell Qualifies As MP In Yokahama

Pvt. Howard D. Estell, 519th Military Police Battalion, Yokahama, Japan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Estell, 227 N. Eureka-av, has been found qualified in the military occupational specialty of military policeman. Acquired largely through his Army training and experience, this qualification will aid Pvt. Estell to obtain advancement under the new Career Plan which is to govern all promotions in enlisted and warrant grades.

Stationed in Yokahama, Japan's major port city and seat of the headquarters of the Eighth Army, Pvt. Estell is filling an essential job with the Army's Occupational Forces. To occupy his leisure hours, he has access to theaters, clubs, libraries, evening classes, a gymnasium, bowling alleys, volley ball and tennis courts, a swimming pool, a golf course, as well as the picturesque scenery of this ancient country.

Entering the army in October, 1948, he arrived in this theater in March of this year. He attended West High School.

SPARK BLAMED FOR FIRE

A fire, reportedly started by static electricity, caused damage estimated at $2500 to the service station of H. L. Clark, 222 Letchworth-av. The fire broke out as gasoline was being syphoned from a car at Clark's Texaco Service, 2580 N. High-st. Mr. Clark's service car was destroyed and the car of Harold L. Stephenson was badly damaged.

PLAN CHICKEN SUPPER

Rev. Schoof Finds South American Struggle for Liberty Much Like Ours

"South Americans are today, where we were 150 years ago," says Rev. W. Howard Schoof, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, 286 Belvidere-av, who has recently returned from a "Youth for Christ" crusade through Ecuador.

Rev. Schoof said that the countries he visited were living under conditions very similar to those of the American frontier, and that they were on the threshold of gaining the liberties guaranteed in our constitution.

Meetings of the team were generally well attended according to Rev. Schoof. "The people are interested in South America; they were interested in what we think, and they were eager to hear what we had to say," he added.

The general pattern of the meetings was musical offerings by a vocal and brass quartet, and motion pictures followed by a short sermon. This was followed by another meeting for those who were interested and wished to have more information.

Other members of the team were Rev. Robert Savage and Rev. Clyde Taylor. Various fourth persons were used to fill out the quartet at each meeting. A large tent, complete with its own generator for lighting, was carried by the team.

Meetings were held in Esmeraldas Quito, Quinche, Rio Bamba, Guayaquil, Monta, and Jipijapa, Ecuador. Parts of the trip included plane flights, travel by canoe and cattle boat, callectivo (chartered station wagon), and a 100 mile train ride from Rio Bamba to Guayaquil that took 12 hours. Rev. Schoof pointed out that the lack of roads is causing the people to bypass auto and rail travel, going from horse and donkey directly to airplane transportation.

Rev Schoof conferred with several Protestant missionaries and spoke to the congregations of some of the native churches. (Incidentally, all Protestant churches in Ecuador are called Evangelical.) He also spoke over station HCJB, the missionary radio station in Quito.

Rev. Schoof completed his journey with a trip through parts of Venezuela and Colombia. He was stopped seven times by border officials on a 25 mile journey from Circuta, Colombia to San Cristobal, Venezuela. He returned by plane to Miami on July 4.

Rev. W. Howard Schoof

Pictures taken on the trip will be shown to the congregation of the Immanuel Baptist Church as soon as they are developed. These movies will also be available to other interested groups, Rev. Schoof said.

Household Hint

Never let your silver lie after it has been used. Wash in hot soapy water as soon as possible after a meal; see that all food, grease and other matter are removed. Rinse thoroughly in very hot, clean water, dry immediately on soft, clean cloths, being sure that the pieces are perfectly dry before putting away.

Hilltop Sport Shorts

By Dave Miller

Three Hilltop boys seem like sure prospects for the City Knothole League All-Star team that will entertain Louisville here next week, before the games between Louisville and the Columbus Red Birds on July 25 and 26. They will wear Red Bird uniforms in here and then will go to Toledo with the Birds on July 28-29 to play that city's All-Star Knothole team. Coaches for the local team are Mark Stephans, Sr., of Green Cabs, Harry Lambertson of Cohagen Hardware, and Floyd Stahl, head coach of baseball at Ohio State. The three locals include infielder Jack Pickens, outfielder, Dick Kirk and pitcher, Paul Theisen. All made All-City Baseball nines while with West High.

Columbus Air Conditioning and Camp Chase teams in the Intermediate League in the Knothole League are currently pacing the loop, both with 3-0 records. The two teams met in the first set of games this season, with a protest resulting and causing a replay of the game. In the Senior Loop here on the Hilltop, Wyandotte A. C. currently paces the loop with a 3-0 mark. The leaders met a tough Green Cabs No. 2 team at Central this Thursday at 6 p. m. Camp Chase paces the West-Junior League with a 3-0 mark, and Westgate is in a two-way tie with John Burroughs in the Midget League.

Two Hilltop boys, Paul Theisen and Charlie Weeks, West High grads, are slated to play for the Southern All-Stars in the annual North-South High School All-Star Football game, to be played Aug. 13 this year at Massillon, in Washington Stadium. Mack Pemberton, West grid coach, is one of the coaches for the Southern All-Stars.

Jack Thrush, Hilltop resident, and former West High all-around athlete, is currently leading the Grove City Night League in hitting with a .700 average. Jack, who plays first base for Whitehall, has seven hits in 10 times up in the second round play of the league.

The scheduled round-robin type tournament between the local American Legion representing Green Cabs, and Wire Motors representing the North League at Goodale Field last Sunday was postponed due to rain.

Hilltop 'Y' Plans Tennis Program

Plans are under way at the Hilltop YMCA for a tennis program if enough boys are interested. Those interested in learning the basic fundamentals of tennis and, also, more advanced players are wanted.

The following program for Gra-Y activities is being followed thus far during the summer months:

Mondays: 9:00-1:00—Gra-Y Softball League; 2:00-4:00 — Craftshop (woodwork).

Tuesdays, 9:00-1:00—Gra-Y Softball League; 2:00-4:00—Craftshop (woodwork).

Wednesdays: Hikes, swims and tours.

Thursdays: 9:00-11:00 — Craftshop (plastics); 2:00-4:00—Craftshop (plastics).

Friday: 9:00-12:00 — Ping-pong, pool, etc.; 3:30-5:00 — Movies; 8:00-10:00 — Movies.

Saturdays: 9:00-12:00 — Ping-pong, pool, etc.

Playground Plans Horse Shoe, Foul Shoot Contests

Elimination rounds will be played this Friday at the Highland Avenue Playground in horseshoe pitching and basketball foul shooting. Contests are open to junior and senior age groups. In the junior group are the 12-15 year-olds, and the senior group consists of those from 16 to 18 years old.

Horseshoe finals will be held at Goodale Park, July 26, for girls and July 27 for boys. Finals in the foul shooting contest will be held July 29 at Schiller Park.

Bicycle races were held last Friday to pick contenders for the all city race at Franklin Park Sunday. David Harris, 126 Clarendon-av, was the winner and also placed third in the city meet, a quarter mile race for the 12-16 age group. Billy Smith, 411 Clarendon-av, was second in the Highland Avenue trials, but did not place in the larger meet.

'Wizard of Oz' Coming Sunday

"The Wizard of Oz" is coming to the Old Trail and National Auto Theatres Sunday for a four-day run. This technicolor treat features Judy Garland and Ray Bolger in the leading roles.

It is the famous story of little Dorothy, the farm girl who is blown away by a cyclone and finds fantastic adventure in the Land of Oz. A brilliant musical score with six lilting songs accompanies the action of the picture, with colorful dance ensembles and chorus numbers.

At the Old Trail Theater the second feature will be "State Department," starring William Lundigan and Virginia Bruce. At the National Auto Theater, the second feature will be "Act of Violence," with Van Heflin and Robert Ryan.

Confused About Appliance Prices?

This Message May Help You

IN TERMS OF QUALITY and new work-saving conveniences, leading electric appliances like our own Hotpoint Refrigerators, Ranges, Dishwashers and other products are far superior to pre-war models.

BUT THAT'S ONLY THE HALF OF IT! In terms of today's cost of living and the price increases of other commodities such as automobiles and houses, our 1949 Hotpoint Appliances actually cost a lot less than the corresponding models of 10 years ago.

FOR EXAMPLE, you can buy a new Hotpoint Refrigerator now for just $189.75 -- only $10 more than the comparable 1939 model, which gave you far fewer advantages. When you stop to think that the dollar today is worth only 60 per cent of what it was 10 years ago, you can readily see how low appliance prices really are now.

THE APPLIANCE INDUSTRY has done a great job of building new and better products, while still maintaining the low prices you want. Hotpoint, for example, has accomplished this by careful planning--having completed the industry's greatest postwar expansion program to provide far more efficient production facilities.

BECAUSE YOU GET record quality at such low cost, we can say sincerely that now is the time to buy an appliance. In making your selection, however, be sure to look them all over, compare values and ask your friends who know from experience.

WE THINK you'll choose Hotpoint, because we honestly believe that these appliances are as fine as technical facilities and human skill can produce--and priced as low as any other make of comparable quality.

WE INVITE you to inspect the latest models and see why we say you can 'Look to Hotpoint for the Finest -- First' -- why you can get the greatest dollar-for-dollar values ever offered--right now!

Use Leisure Time Wisely . . .

Vacation time is now being enjoyed by the hundreds of thousands of school children, college students and teachers. After a strenuous session of hard work, a little period of rest and recuperation is deserved and appreciated by all of them.

Wouldn't it be fine if in all vocations in life, there could be arranged a vacation like that of the school children and teachers, with pay the twelve months? Too many men and women grind from start to finish of their earthly career and stop only at the final heartbeat.

Sooner or later, in the progress of the world, more leisure time will be available for the average man and woman. What will be done with this spare time? Are we preparing ourselves to enjoy leisure in a healthful manner?

LAFF-A-DAY

"Gentlemen!"

And Have Not Love

By Margaret Nichols

CHAPTER THIRTY

AND now Beatrice looked away from Libby to the large many-windowed room in which she stood. That the room had so little furniture in it gave on the feeling of luxurious space. There were books on an open shelf, good French prints on the rough wall, an excellent modern painting by a well known painter, a phonograph, and many albums of records. A window seat had been built around the wide window, so that one could sit and view the lake with comfort.

"There's a bedroom, too," Libby said, "with a great wide bed, and a dressing table built in, and an old pine chest. A bathroom and a kitchen—the most complete little kitchen you ever saw—and a back porch. That's all. But it's enough. I'll make some tea, Bee."

"No, not now. Maybe later but not now." She took off her fur jacket, and went over and sat on the window seat.

Libby sat on the wide fat ottoman before the fire, and folded her hands. And Libby's [illegible] plain and unadorned, were good hands, and strong—hands of character. She was perfectly calm, though Beatrice guessed the black wretchedness through which she had emerged to tranquillity. Her voice had lost that unpleasant rasp when at last she spoke.

"Bee, we've known each other too long to make agreeable conversation and let it go at that." She raised her eyebrows. "I don't know anything about the woman who lived in this house except that she's a 'widow, and her name is Mrs. Barton. And yet I know a great deal about her. You come to know a great deal about a person from living in her house. The real estate agent didn't know anything about her except that she'd gone to Germany to see her only son. She's a person who has a passion for privacy, when most of us have a passion for just the opposite. She's a swell gal, whoever she is. I got more than a house in the country when I made the clean break I knew I had to make or go mad—I got a legacy, an education, a revelation and a revaluation."

"Mrs. Barton has traveled," Beatrice said. Her mood of depression had left her. This was so pleasant, so unexpected—like coming upon a garden in the wilderness.

"Yes, but not just so she could come back and tell her friends about it. Travel is a necessity with her, a refueling of her spirit. She'd scrub floors to get to see the Alps. That's the kind of a woman she is. But she didn't live here because she had to. She came because she wanted to. Her friends ask—because she's a person who doesn't have quantities of acquaintances but a few good friends—'But why do you live out there all by yourself?' Do you know what she tells them, Bee? She doesn't get angry or try to defend her position. She says, I live. And she means it. She lives!"

"There's her walking stick in the corner," Beatrice said.

Libby nodded. "She didn't take it with her because she knew she could get another in Germany. Look at this room, Bee. Not too much of anything. It's that way with everything in this house. There's not too much of anything anywhere. A woman who likes the things in her house to mellow with living. A woman who knows when to say yes and no and when to stop buying. A good cook. She left a loose-leaf notebook of recipes. Just left it for anyone who might be interested. The birds know her. They come down to be fed. Yet for all its comfortable appearance, there's nothing here that's haphazard. It's a little work of art. She was a wonderful wife, and she's a wonderful mother. I've lived through a week, Bee. Mrs. Barton has helped me a lot—I'll make it now."

"Is there anything I can do for you, Libby?"

"Don't . . . don't see Jane, please. That's all I ask. Don't see her yet. Dick has called me every day. He's been fine, really fine. And Helen, too, Jane hasn't been easy to handle. She's had frightful crying spells, and fits of remorse. She's been so quiet all her life. I didn't know how she was damming up feelings. She's better now and back at school. Dick's bringing her out to see me on Sunday. No, not to stay. She's just coming to see me to be convinced that I've pulled myself together. Dick told me yesterday that I had only to ask, and Jane would come back. But that isn't what [illegible] wants. He really wants to be with her father. That's the way it is. That's the way it's got to be."

"You're very brave, Libby."

"No. I'm not."

"Because you're afraid? That's why you are brave, because you are afraid."

Libby smiled. "I'll make you a cup of tea." She stood up. "And what am I going to do, you are asking yourself? I'm going to stay here and live. I want to know more of Mrs. Barton's secrets. Oh, Bee, you have no idea of how weary I have been of the sound of my own voice. Some of my friends will come to see me. The ones who will take the trouble to find me are the ones I can depend upon. The others don't matter."

Beatrice followed her into the small kitchen.

"I had a letter from my mother, Libby. I'm going up to see her when Porter gets back."

Libby turned away from the stove. "That's where David is now, I believe. In New York. If only you knew, too, Bee, how I have wanted someone to be tender with me, to be concerned for me. In the beginning David was, in a hundred wordless little ways. He has compassion, a deep understanding of human needs. I think that all along he understood my need not to be made love to, but someone to be gentle and considerate and tender. And kind. Is kindness a vanishing quality? He did not want to hurt me, and that's why he bowed out quietly and debonair and sweet to the very end. I think he knows what he gave me, though I shall never be able to tell him now. Bee, it's an extraordinary person in these days of snap decisions who takes the time and the trouble to perceive beneath. My act didn't fool David. But he couldn't love a woman who didn't have the courage to be herself, to admit her mistakes and her loneliness."

They took their tea and went back to the living room. They spoke of Jane, and David, and Beasie. And when Beatrice said that she must go, Libby did not try to keep her. She put a coat around her shoulders, and walked with Beatrice to her car.

"Last night I actually slept well," Libby said. Her plain hand rested firmly on Beatrice's shoulder. "You know something, Bee? I didn't have anything to look forward to before. I had absolutely nothing wonderful to anticipate that wasn't old stuff to me. Now I have. I can look forward to Jane's visits, and maybe . . . maybe someday when I'm a lot braver than I am now and not afraid, I'll . . . I'll thank her."

When Porter returned from Chicago he brought a man with him, a business acquaintance, who was to be his and Beatrice's house guest. Thus for a week Beatrice adjusted herself, as she had many times before, to having a strange man in the house, and objected only because there was no time to be alone with Porter since the man shared their evenings, and was one of those people who couldn't think of going to bed until after midnight. Consequently she was always asleep when Porter came to their room, and it had to be at breakfast that she told him of Cecily's letter. He deliberated a moment, and then satisfied with what he saw in her face said, "Of course you must go, Bea. Frances will look after us." Beatrice had looked at him with intense appreciation. "Thank you, Porter."

Two days later she was on her way, a gray-suited figure in a green hat, a young woman whose look of simple elegance and sensitive preoccupation fascinated a man across the train aisle who would never know her identity. Beatrice herself was conscious only of staring out the window at the February countryside, and wondering why she was here at all. Cecily's wire, "Come directly to the apartment," had baffled her because always heretofore Cecily had met her. Cecily loved the excitement of railroad stations, and meeting people, and being met when she herself was the traveler.

It was altogether impossible, moreover, to dismiss and snap out as one does an electric switch that which she had left behind—Porter's attitude for which the language of words was pitifully inadequate. He was not indifferent. On the contrary, she had felt his keen though puzzled awareness of her when he had returned. Yet that same welcome awareness was tinged with a patronage that she deplored. She could not reach him, Beatrice thought, to know his heart, or his mind, or the dark distress that lay behind his eyes. Every evening that she had been in the living room with him and the other man, she had known Porter's unhappiness, and also that she was not in his confidence. Was Bonnie Watson? And would it be too late, Beatrice asked herself, to tell him what she knew now about herself and what ways she, too, had been wanting?

If an increase in taxes would be harmful, it is reasonable to assume that a decrease would be helpful. It follows then that no taxes whatsoever would be the happiest solution of all.

The crystal clarity of the foregoing reminds us of a tale of Barcelona late in the Spanish Civil War. It concerns Anarcho-Syndicalists who believe in nothing—literally—but freedom of everything.

A group of them, at peace with everyone in the world but Franco, was startled to hear a member excuse himself because he had to run home to fix the furnace. Another of the gathering quietly stole away, beat the would-be furnace tender to his house and solved the whole thing once and for all by tossing a grenade in the firebox.

LEGAL NOTICES

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, OHIO

In the matter of The St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Rome

No. 178004

PETITION TO ENCUMBER REAL ESTATE

The petitioner, the St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Rome, of the Township of Prairie, County of Franklin, and State of Ohio, for its petition herein, alleges that it is a corporation not for profit, organized under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Ohio. Said corporation is organized for religious purposes.

Being lots numbers two hundred and seventy (270), two hundred and seventy one (271), and two hundred and seventy two (272) of the National Pike Little Farms Addition as the same are numbered and delineated upon the recorded plat thereof of record in plat book 19 pages 7 and 8 of the Recorder's Office of Franklin County, Ohio.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the congregation at a duly called meeting thereof, on the 30th day of January, 1949, the Board of Trustees of the petitioner has been authorized to borrow the sum of $15,000.00 from First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Columbus with interest at the rate of 4½% per annum and to encumber the above described real estate by placing a mortgage thereon, for said sum.

The petitioner alleges that said sum of money will be used by the petitioner for the erection of an addition to its present church building.

The petitioner further alleges that the congregation desires to encumber the above described real estate for the purpose of erecting such addition to its present church building.

WHEREFORE, the petitioner, under the provisions of Section 10061 of the General Code of Ohio, prays that the court authorize its Board of Trustees to encumber the above described real estate for the sum of $15,000.00.

Theodore L. Horst
Attorney at Law

STATE OF OHIO
FRANKLIN COUNTY, ss.

Erwin Toops, chairman, and David Haueisen, secretary, being first duly sworn, say that they are the chairman and secretary of the Board of Trustees of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Rome, a corporation, and that they are duly authorized in the premises, and that the facts stated and allegations contained in the foregoing petition to encumber real estate, are true as they verily believe.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rutherford, Vancouver, B. C., visited with the Marshall Halls, Buena Vista-av, last week. They are on their way home, after visiting in Terre Haute, Ind., where they were schoolmates of Mr. Hall's mother.

Emma Ballenger of London has returned home after visiting her sister, Mrs. John Giehl,, N. Grener-rd.

Approximately 50 ladies attended the "brunch" given Thursday at the home of Mrs. Henry Warner, Pasadena-av. The "taxi drivers" were Priscilla Warner, Mrs. Harold Ball and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong. The hostesses were Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Sheets, Sr., and Mrs. Warner.

The Brean Bible Class of West Fourth Avenue Church of God met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hughes, Pasadena-av, Thursday evening for a picnic. There were about 30 present.

Mrs. Elton Kaderly, Fairacres, Galloway, entertained with a baby shower for Mrs. Jack Adams, Kenbrook-dr, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Adams is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. O'Hara, 5466 W. Broad-st. Those attending the party were Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. W. G. O'Hara, Amy Tinapla, Florence Weber, Mrs. Walter Parker, Mrs. G. H. Nole, Mrs. Della Rouff, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. W. G. Lamb, Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Sr., Mrs. Jack Elliott, Mrs. Kenny Spring and Mrs. Oscar Eberhard. Caroline Kaderly was her mother's assisting hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, Maple-dr, spent Saturday in Marion and Mt. Gilead.

Mrs. W. G. Lamb and Mrs. Marshall Hall, Buena Vista, entertained the members of the Columbia Heights Methodist Church Choir Friday evening in honor of Opal Williams, a former member, now of Washington, D. C. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner and David Warner, Mrs. Frank Calland, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Price, Mrs. Clarence Larsen, Mrs. Sheets, Sr., Mrs. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ely and daughter, Alice Ann, of Chicago, formerly Martha Adams of the Hilltop, stopped Sunday afternoon, enroute to their home to visit with her aunt, Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Sr., and family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. English visited Mr. and Mrs. Russel Simonson of Columbus Saturday evening.

After an extended visit in several Ohio towns, Mrs. Phillips, mother of Mrs. Glen John Stoody, Pasadena-av, is leaving today for her home in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Thompson and son, Robert, spent the week-end in Dayton, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Laird, after returning from their vacation in the East, coming home by way of Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner and family spent the week-end on Lake Erie at Vermillian, O.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gould and family of Dayton visited Sunday afternoon with D. C. Warner.

Church service will be resumed in Columbia Heights Church as Rev. Rose, pastor, will be home from his vacation. The Monitors Class (young married folks) of the Columbia Heights Sunday School, will hold its annual picnic next Sunday afternoon. They will meet at the church at 2:00.

Israel Confesses Sins

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Psalms 32; 51; 103; 130:1-5.

By Alfred J. Buescher

When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night Thy hand was heavy upon me.

I acknowledged my sin unto Thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and Thou forgavest.

Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation . . . Then will I teach transgressors Thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto Thee.

For Thou, Lord, art good, and ready to forgive; and plenteous in mercy unto all them that call upon Thee.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 86:5.

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Monday, May 16

Because shopping or window shopping is always a delight to the women folk Violet and Kathleen decided to spend their time today looking at the store offerings. They started on this trip trip as soon as we had finished breakfast at 10:00 in the grill room of the Hotel Taft. Vincent Lopez was not among those present at breakfast although this grill room is where his orchestra plays each night.

George and I started out for a walk about town. Our first destination was down 50th-st from Seventh-av to 12th-av where Pier 90 is located. A bulletin posted on the Cunard building there said that the Caronia would not arrive until tomorrow morning as a result of storm delays. I made some inquiries concerning details of our boarding and the arrival of our baggage after which George and I went on with our walks about town.

Down 10th-av we walked as far as 42nd-st taking in all the city sights in this stroll. The sections was pretty much of a slum area. Dirty windows predominated in the cheap shops. Rubbish cans and garbage cans were lined up in front of all the tenement houses. Children of all ages were playing in the sidewalks and occasionally in the street. "Fun in a rubbish can" was my title for one group of children who were having the time of their lives pulling papers, cardboard and everything else out of nearby cans and building with them what, I presume, they imagined to be a house.

Tomorrow there is to be an election in this district for the seat in Congress made vacant by the death of Sol Bloom. Store rooms were serving as headquarters for the candidates and posters were plastered all over the windows. Sides of buildings also carried the posters. Candidates for the Democratic nomination were a man by the name of Shallek and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the former President. From what we learned the Tammany Democratic organization is supporting the former while Roosevelt is bucking the organization. It will be interesting tomorrow night to hear the result of this election.

Down 42nd-st we returned to Seventh-av where we passed the saloon and restaurant of the famous Diamond Jim Brady. Maybe you can remember what he was famous for, I can only remember having heard his name for years in connection with New York.

A final walk brought us down Seventh-av to the Taft and a much needed rest. The rest was especially good when we figured out roughly that we had walked nearly four miles at one stretch.

Lunch at Lindy's, with a corned beef sandwich as the specialty, was our first stop after the rest. The lunch turned to be so much more than we had intended to eat that another walk was needed. This time we went eastward to the opposite side of Manhattan Island, two short blocks beyond First-av, via 50th-st and 51st-st. We passed one apartment or pre-tenement house on this walk where a shirt sleeved man was sitting on the front steps talking to a neighbor woman, or maybe a woman who didn't like cats and had just voiced her objection to them. The man's reply, which was the only thing I heard said, was "You need cats around here." I could visualize the mice and rat population which must have prompted the man's remark of defense for having the animals around.

We had come back to the hotel and were resting until nearly five o'clock when Violet and Kathleen came in. They had been walking since they left us this morning, for a total of as much in the way of mileage as we had made in our two trips. They had walked down one side of Fifth-av from 50th-st to 34th-st, up the other side and in between into and out of all the famous Fifth-av shops. They returned with tired feet and three or four packages of minor articles which they had purchased. Violet also had bought ten yards of goods with which to have some dresses made at a later date.

"When in Rome do as the Romans do" has been our eating schedule so far with breakfast at nine thirty and dinner tonight at 8:30. It was 10:30 when we finished dinner tonight.

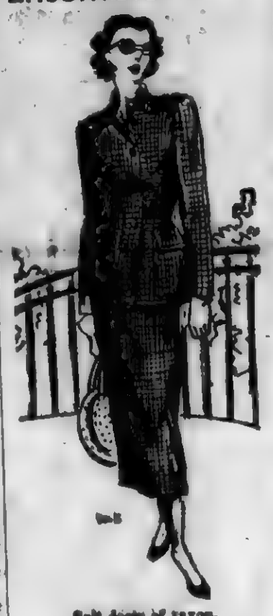
George got the car out of the garage for this evening. We drove way down to the southern part of the city, through Greenwich Village, through a bit of the Bowery and into the Italian section. This is another part of town with winding streets lined with tenements and the sound of hundreds of street playing children all over the area drowning out the sound of motor traffic.

Woman Wins Refrigerator

Mrs. Robert J. Dent, 806 Bellows-av, won a seven cubic foot Westinghouse refrigerator Friday. A Folger's Coffee quizz man came to her door and asked her the question: When waters flow toward land they're called flood-tide. What are the receding waters called? Mrs. Dent gave the correct answer—ebbtide — and was also able to show that she used that brand of coffee. She received her prize Monday.

Red Cross Offers Mother - Child Care Classes

Two classes in "Mother and Child Care" are being offered by the Home Nursing Service of the American Red Cross starting next week.



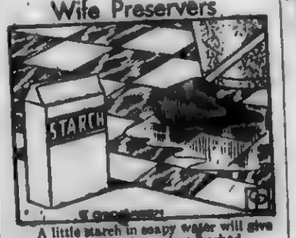
The course is free and offers instruction in the care of the mother before the baby arrives, preparations for the new baby, the birth of the child, and the care of mother and child during the first year.

An evening class will start Tuesday, July 26, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., and will continue on Tuesday and Thursday evenings for a three week period. This class is open to both husbands and wives.

A daytime class will begin Wednesday, July 27, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., meeting twice each week on Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Both classes will be held at Red Cross headquarters, 30 E. Town-st. Registration for either class may be made by calling FL. 1511.

Hot Weather Ensemble



Suit dress of rayon.

By VERA WINSTON

ONE OF THE sartorial boons this summer is the suit dress made of rayon that is practically wrinkle-proof and that manages to stay crisp looking throughout a hot, busy day. This one is in pin-checked dark gray, a pattern that closely resembles its fine worsted original. It has a convertible collar, three-button closing, and flapped patch pockets. The skirt is straight. The outfit can be worn with or without a blouse.

Westgate Methodist Picnic Sunday

On Sunday afternoon and evening, July 24, the Westgate Methodist Church will hold its annual church picnic at Shelter House No. 6 on the Scioto River. The picnic is sponsored by the church school, which will furnish dessert and beverage for the group. The general chairman of the picnic is Russell Anderson.

All members and friends of the church are invited to come and bring their families. Meet at the church, Brinker and Algonquin-ava, at 1 p. m. Bring a covered dish, table service and sandwiches and a good disposition.

If telephone wires, constructed by man, can carry a human voice over an ocean or a continent, should any man doubt that God can hear a prayer.

The invention of the telephone opened to man a vast new world of communication with his fellow men. It sped the commercial life of the world. It created vast new fortunes by the opportunities it tapped.

What the telephone opened to man in social and commercial possibilities, is insignificant in comparison with the incalculable sources of power offered him through prayer.

Prayer, from the heart and soul of someone in need of spiritual aid to an omnipresent God, spans a universe, unaided by telephone wires, unassisted by man-made devices. Quicker than it takes to establish a telephone connection; no longer than it takes for man to fall to his knees, contact with his one sure source of power to dispel his worries and offer solution to his problems is established.

All of us need to know how to pray. A background of church and Sunday School attendance offers a fitting start in the right direction. From a weekly communion with God, daily contact with Him through prayer and righteous living can become a habit. One of the results of prayer is a peace within the individual that brings strength to bear the most rugged challenges of life, and a sense of well being which brings a realization of true purpose of life and the proper relationships between individuals.

Highland Friends Defeats Burgess E.U.B. As 'Y' League Resumes Play

With the aid of brother "sol" the "Y" intermediate softball league resumed play after a two week layoff. The scores of the games seem to indicate that the teams have a renewed interest in the grand old game and they were all out to win.

Highland Avenue Friends turned back Burgess EUB by the score of 11 to 9. Burgess EUB scored 9 runs in the last three innings and the Highland flock was happy to see the game come to an end.

Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerato.r Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

TOMORROW IS BEAN DINNER DAY!

Westgate Park To Be Scene of Sixth Annual Hilltop Bean Dinner

The Spectator
By C. C. Hartley

Coming Up . . . One Big Order Of Baked Beans

On the menu tomorrow we have . . . BEANS!

Comes a nice bright day and some 15-20,000 people will visit Westgate Park for the sixth annual Hilltop Bean Dinner and to partake of the menu of baked beans served up by the Hilltop Business Association, as well as mingle with friends, many of whom they haven't seen since last year's bean dinner.

This big summer festival has grown with each year's production and indications are that this one will top all others. Numerous new features have been added with increased interest being shown on many sides.

This big community picnic tomorrow is but another indication of the community cooperation so evident on the Hilltop —as displayed by Hilltop individual business firms.

One can't help but reflect at this time that these are the men and women who have the best interests of this community at heart. They not only serve you well in their businesses but are putting much of their time and profits back into making this a better place in which to live.

Joan Heights Subdivision Asks For Incorporation Into City

Cite Need for Sewage-Water Facilities; 3 Have Died In Fires

Preliminary steps were taken at last week's meeting of the county commissioners to have Joan Heights Subdivision incorporated into Columbus.

Commissioner Nathan McCoy introduced the resolution which was seconded by Commissioner Harry T. Vigor. C. P. Lauderbaugh was absent and not voting.

Action of the commissioners followed the signing of a petition for corporation into the city by 77 per cent of the property owners of the subdivision.

Mrs. Thelma Neal, 367 N. Sylvan-av, one of the initiators of the petition, said, "Most of the men out here work in Columbus and pay the city income tax, and we believe we should get the benefits given to Columbus citizens."

The subdivision is getting installation of gas lines and has petitioned for city water. They do not have sewage and refuse collection services or fire and police protection.

In the last year and a half fires have claimed three lives in the subdivision. Mrs. Donald Lowe, 359 N. Sylvan-av, was seriously injured in a fire Feb. 3, 1948, and died a few days later of burns. Mrs. Geraldine Canada and her two-weeks-old daughter perished in a fire in their home at 3240 Joan-rd on Oct. 4, 1948. W. F. Canada, her husband, was badly burned.

Columbus fire fighting equipment responded to the call for aid, but hose had to be run across the railroad tracks to the fire from Broad-st.

Mrs. Emma Russell, mother of Mrs. Lowe, is one of the residents active in circulating the petition.

Children from the subdivision attend West Broad Street and West High Schools. Transportation by school bus is not provided.

The subdivision extends north from the city limits between Algonquin and Sylvan-ays to Valleyview-rd. About 75 families live in the area of which approximately two-thirds own their own homes.

A public hearing on the annexation of the subdivision into the city is scheduled for 10 a. m. Sept. 20 at the county court house. If the county commissioners approve annexation following this meeting, the matter will go before city council for final action.

Charles Butler, insurance agent of 2334 W. Broad-st, and City Councilman Henry Koontz, 485 Hilltonia-av, have assisted residents in their attempts for incorporation into the city.

"A lot of fine families live out there. I would be very happy to see them come into the city and will assist them in every way that I can," Mr. Koontz said.

Officers Elected By Hilltop Parents Assn.

The Hilltop Parents' Association elected the following officers at a recent meeting at the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church: Cienzo Fox, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Estella Franklin, assistant historian; Mrs. Ora Benton, chairman of the social committee, and Mrs. Charles Shaw, chairman of the sunshine committee.

Thomas Shaw and Mrs. Ora Benton were appointed as delegates to the Council of Social Agencies and the Hilltop Community Council.

Plans were approved for the sale of baked goods at the junior fair Aug. 11 and 12, sponsored by the Wheatland Methodist Church board of education; a garden party Aug. 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Prillerman, 390 S. Highland-av; and a membership drive from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for Aug. 16 at 8 p. m. at the Wheatland Methodist Church.

Little Theater Tryouts Set For July 31

The casting committee of the Hilltop Little Theatre has set Sunday afternoon and evening, July 31, from 2 to 11 o'clock as the date for try-outs for the organization's first play of the 1949-1950 season.

Members of the theatre group are urged to try-out for the current production and an invitation is extended to interested persons on the Hilltop who may like to become affiliated with this latest civic activity.

The play selected for this second season's initial performance is "You and I," a three-act comedy by Philip Barry, produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc. One of the best known comedies ever to reach the legitimate stage, "You and I" was first presented at the Belmont Theatre, New York, early in 1923.

Present plans call for this play to be presented two evenings, September 10 and 11, in the John Burroughs School Auditorium.

Lightning Strikes W. Broad St. Bus

Lightning caused $5 damage to a trolley bus at W. Broad-st and Westmoor-av during an electrical storm last Thursday. Passengers said the lightning appeared like a "ball of fire."

Damage was caused by a fire started in the fuse box of the bus which was extinguished by removing the trolley from the line. None was injured.

Bargain Price Offered On Theater Ducats

Something entirely different in the way of birthday parties is being planed next week at the Old Trail Theater, which will be celebrating the completion of its first year of operations as the Hilltop's newest and largest motion picture theater. Three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, are being set aside for the unusual "party", which will feature reduced admissions for all adults.

The reduction in price has been

Four Hilltop Men To Attend ONG Camp

Four Hilltop residents will leave Aug. 14 for a two week training period with the Ohio National Guard at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

They are Charles Eppert, 2721 Elliott-av, Sgt. Paul T. Weber, 758 S. Eureka-av, Sgt. Fred J. Harris, 233 N. Oakley-av, and Cpl. Robert Taylor, 125 N. Guilford-av. All are members of Headquarters Battery, 174th Field Artillery.

Monthly Collection Is Aim Of City Refuse Collection Division

"We have four good crews serving the Hilltop area and if the people will cooperate we can give them good refuse collection service," John Sparker of the city refuse collection division said yesterday.

Mr. Sparker said that his department had stopped distribution of cards announcing rubbish collections because the cost made this practice prohibitive. When pick-ups were made only three or four times a year the cost of printing and distributing these cards was around $30,000, now it would be many times that much. However cards are still distributed on streets that have no alleys, where trash has to be picked up at the front curb. "If we distributed cards to all houses now we would use up available funds and that would mean a long period at the end of the year with no rubbish collection service at all," Mr. Sparker said.

Mr. Sparker said that the aim of the division is to run on a monthly schedule so that rubbish will be picked up at the same time each month at every house. In some areas this is already possible.

Due to the use of new rear loading trucks the rubbish that is left on the ground cannot be shoveled over the fences into the trucks as previously, but each shovelful must be carried around and into the back of the truck. Mr. Sparker pointed out that it had recently taken three days to collect rubbish in one Hilltop alley between Broad-st and Sullivant-av.

"We cannot pick up brush and burnable trash in the new trucks," Mr. Sparker said. Pointing out this often led to complaints that the city had "only taken away half the trash," he said that open trucks were following up the new closed trucks when necessary to pick up brush and other burnable trash.

Of the four crews assigned to the Hilltop area one serves the area between Broad-st and Sullivant-av, west to Richardson-av; one between Broad-st and Sullivant-av west from Richardson-av to the city limits; one the area north of Broad-st; and another the area south of Sullivant-av.

These crews have covered their areas an average of a little more than six times this year. At present rate of collection they have nearly attained their goal of monthly collections.

Bob Ripley's 'Believe It or Not' New Weekly Feature of Record

Have you heard the one about the place where people go to funerals on skates? Did you know that there are women whose hats are so intricate that they never remove them? Could you believe that there is a neighborhood where the residents haven't had a rent increase for 837 years?

The idea for the cartoon had its birth back in 1918 as Ripley, a young cartoonist and would-be big league baseball pitcher, was laboring over his drawing board, trying to think of a good idea for a sports cartoon. He ended up drawing a page of sports oddities —about the man who walked across the country backwards, and the Frenchman who stayed under water six minutes and 29 seconds. For want of a better title he called it "Believe It Or Not."

From that time until his death he roamed the world searching for the fantastic and unbelievable. His journeys took him to such places as Ajmer-Merwara, Bahawalpur, Inini Territory, and places with names so long they would fill more than two lines if printed here.

Bob Ripley

Knowing of the interest most people have in reading the truths of which he wrote, much stranger and more fantastic than fiction, the Record has arranged to print his cartoons as a weekly feature of the paper, just another of the big extras that readers of The Hilltop Record get in their subscription.

Mrs. B. McCullough Continues Agency

Mrs. Bryan McCullough, 2655 Elliott-av, has announced that she will continue the operation of the McCullough Insurance Service following the death of her husband.

Mrs. McCullough has been a licensed insurance agent since 1925. The McCulloughs opened their office in Valleyview in 1928.

Rome Church Building Plan Is Announced

Rev. Arthur Rismiller, 250 N Harris-av, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Rome, announced today that construction will start around Aug. 15 on an addition to the basement of the church.

The new basement will be 31 by 49 feet and house a new kitchen and four new Sunday School rooms. New inside toilets will be installed in the old basement. The basement will be so constructed that additional rooms may be built on it later.

The building program is being financed by a $15,000 mortgage loan from the First Federal Savings & Loan Association. Work is expected to be completed within 30 to 60 days from the time it is started.

Plans Complete; Phil Stout To Give Welcoming Address

Final plans have been completed and everything is ready for the big sixth annual Hilltop Bean Dinner tomorrow afternoon and evening at Westgate Park, Chairman Jack Merriman said today.

Business will be practically at a standstill on the Hilltop as most merchants are planning to close at noon for the event.

President

Phillip V. Stout

Phil Stout, president of the Hilltop Business Association, will make the welcoming address at the bean dinner tomorrow.

Westgate Park will take on the appearance of a movie lot, as bean eaters are photographed for the Record sponsored movie, "For the Record".

Featuring a big merchants' fair and real baked beans, this promises to be the biggest and best bean dinner yet.

The prize list far surpasses any past lists both in value and number of prizes given away. The total value of free prizes will be close to $2,000.

Topping the list of prizes will be a Crosley Shelvador refrigerator, a Westinghouse Laundromat, and a Hoover sweeper complete with tools. Value of these three prizes alone is $794.35.

The program for the bean dinner offers a full day of games and entertainment. The official welcoming speech by Phil Stout, president of the Hilltop Business Association, will be at 6 p. m.

There will be two ball games, dancing, entertainment by four musical groups, and a section set aside for merchants' displays. Seventeen Hilltop merchants will have tents and displays on the grounds.

Program

1:00 p. m.—Opening of Bean Dinner.
1:45 to 3:45 p. m.—Games for children and adults.
2:30 to 3:30 p. m.—Serving of beans at bean tent.
2:30 p. m.—Greased pole contest.
3:30 p. m.—Prize awards.
4 to 5 p. m.—Visit merchant displays.
5 to 8:30 p. m. — Serving of beans at bean tent.
6 to 7 p. m.—Hard ball and soft ball games.
6:30 to 7 p. m.—Dance band, Carl Hartley.
7:00 to 7:30 p. m.—Visit merchant displays.
7:00 p. m.—Crawford Brothers radio show.
7:30 p. m.—Band concert, Federation Band.
8:00 p. m.—Welcome by President Phil Stout.
8:00 p. m.—Prize awards.
8:30-12 p. m. — Dance, round and square.
8:30 p. m.—Band concert, Federation Band.
9:30 p. m.—Merchants' prize awards.
9:45 p. m.—Crawford Brothers radio show.

Music will be offered to appeal to all tastes. Al Bettinger will provide the dance music, both round and square. Carl Hartley's dance band will play popular numbers with the accent on jazz. The Crawford Brothers, well known radio stars, will play and sing Hillbilly music. The Federation of Musicians Band will be on hand with marches, concert numbers and the singing of popular and semi-classical songs by soprano Patti Cooper.

The Red Cross mobile disaster unit will be on hand to administer first aid if necessary, as well as a number of Hilltop physicians and ambulances.

Tents for the various displays and concessions are being furnished by the Buckeye Tent and Awning Co.

And of course the big attraction and drawing card will be the bean tent, on hand to dispense beans, crackers, beans, coffee, and more beans—a big plate for a dime.

Merchants Fair New Feature At Bean Dinner

A new feature at this year's bean dinner will be the merchants' fair. Seventeen Hilltop merchants will have tents and displays set up at Westgate Park tomorrow, exhibiting merchandise of their particular business.

Merchants represented will be Gabriel Body Shop, Central States Laboratories, Broadview Linoleum and Tile Co., Shank and Saunders Insurance Agency, Old Trail Theater, Better Home Center, Nelson Appliance Service, Robinson's Electric Co., Seiler's Department Store, Rausch Brothers Hardware, West Side Motors, Westgate Electric, Erlenbach Hardware, Dean & Barry Paint Co., Hilltop Real Estate Association, Joe Briggs Insurance Agency and The Hilltop Record.

Patti Cooper To Be Concert Band Soloist

Patti Cooper, well known Columbus soprano and former Hilltop resident, will be guest soloist with the 40-piece Federation of Musicians band when it plays at the bean dinner tomorrow night.

The program will be under the direction of Robert W. Hicks, regular leader of the 37th Infantry Division Band and teacher of instrumental music in the public school.

Among songs offered by Miss Cooper will be selections from "Porgy and Bess" and songs from the new Broadway hit, "South Pacific."

The band will play at the bean dinner at 7:30 and 8:30 p. m.

Good Guesser? String Along With This Contest

Tie a string around your finger to remember to enter the string guessing contest at the insurance tent at the bean dinner tomorrow.

The trick of the contest, sponsored by Shank & Saunders and Joe Briggs Insurance agencies, is to guess the length of a piece of string on display there.

The one guessing the closest will win a table model radio. Judges for the contest are Phil Stout and Jack Merriman. The winner will be announced in the Aug. 2 issue of the Record.

Sensenbrenner To Narrate Bean Dinner Movie

Jack Sensenbrenner will do the narrating as the cameras grind at tomorrow's bean dinner, recording the events of the day for The Hilltop Record sponsored movie, "For the Record."

L. C. Marble, Hilltop photographer, will be in charge of the photography.

4 Hilltoppers On OSU All 'A' List

Four Hilltop residents were listed on the spring quarter honor list of Ohio State University as having received all "A's" for the quarter.

They are Edwin R. Westcott, 103 S. Highland-av, college of agriculture; Ray Harding Rudolph, 215 Whitethorne-av, college of commerce; Virginia Witherspoon, 40 N. Ogden-av, college of education; and Normalee Spangler, 248 N. Ogden-av, school of nursing.

Three Hilltoppers Named to Finance Director Group

Three Hilltop residents have been named to the 26 member Columbus Finance Director Committee, Chairman Charles V. Schwenker reported this week.

They are Mrs. Robert M. Draper, vice chairman of the committee and member of the League of Women Voters, of 74 N. Roys-av; E. O. Melvin, retired businessman of 107 S. Warren-av; and Dr. Howard Whitehead, physician of 2239 W. Broad-st.

The purpose of the committee is to spearhead an educational campaign to win voter approval Aug. 9 on charter amendments providing for the creation of a city department of finance. Director of the department would be appointed by the mayor, subject to approval by city council.

This has been a common expression on the Hilltop for 31 years and it still holds good. If it is a spool of thread, a package of gum, a can of paint, a gift for the kiddies, a piece of household hardware, a package of garden seed, a birthday card . . . or one of a thousand things to be found in a variety store, you will find it at Fred Raether's Economy Variety Store.

We are proud of the fact that we have served the progressive Hilltop so long. We hope to be able to continue for many years.

Good "Coolers" for Summer

By ALICE DENHOFF

HEALTHFUL drinks start to come into their own as Summer beckons. As the weather warms up, youngsters, old folks and invalids become increasingly difficult to feed, and where a certain nutritional intake must be observed, it becomes a problem difficult to solve. One way is through the medium of good, healthful, refreshing and tasty drinks made with eggs, milk or fruit juices.

Florida Froth, for instance, is delightful for youngsters, good to drink and good for them. To prepare 4 servings combine 3 c. strained orange juice, 2 tbsp. sugar, one c. evaporated milk, and ½ c. water; chill. Beat well 4 egg yolks; and add to first mixture. Beat 4 egg whites well; fold in. Serve in tall glasses, and dust with nutmeg.

Grapefruit Foam will add a nice note to a difficult breakfast table, and it is a good way of seeing that folks that refuse to tackle an egg, however nicely served, take their quota. For 2 servings (8-oz. glasses) beat 2 egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Add 2 c. grapefruit juice, and beat well. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff, then beat in 3 tbsp. light corn syrup. Mix with grapefruit juice mixture. Pour into tall glasses.

Delightful Egg Nog

Banana and pineapple get together for a delightful and different egg-nog that youngsters, and adults too, will adore. To prepare one large or 2 medium-sized drinks, slice a ripe banana into a bowl; beat with rotary egg beater or electric mixer until creamy. Or, if desired, press banana through a medium mesh wire strainer with a spoon. Add 1 c. cold milk, one egg and 2 tbsp. unsweetened pineapple juice. Mix thoroughly; serve cold.

A rich coffee-flavored egg flip will be appreciated by the convalescent who has to take plenty of nourishing food but who doesn't care to stuff. To prepare 4 portions (since we've discovered that one doesn't have to be an invalid to enjoy this concoction) chill 2 c. double-strength, freshly-made coffee. Combine chilled coffee, 2 beaten eggs, few grains salt, sugar to taste, 2 c. milk, 2 tbsp. heavy cream. Shake well or beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended.

And for a wind-up here is a good recipe for those summer gatherings that will be along quite soon now. For 1¼ qt. beverage place an unbeaten egg white, ½ c. strawberry preserves or jam and dash of salt in bowl; beat with rotary beater 3 to 4 min. or until mixture is thick and creamy. Combine juice of 2 lemons, 4 tsp. sugar and 2 c. ice water. Just before serving, place egg mixture, lemon mixture and 2 c. crushed ice in shaker or tightly-sealed 2-quart jar; shake thoroughly.

Hilltop Girl Scouts End Day Camp Week

Two hundred and fifty Girl Scouts of District Eight finished a week of day camping at Camp Cline on Demorest-rd. June 19. It was the fifth annual camp supervised by the Columbus and Franklin County Council.

The Brownies and Scouts transported to the site by chartered bus were from John Burroughs School, St. Aloysius, West High, Grove City, St. Mary Magdalene, Wilson Road School and Sullivant Gardens.

Camp chairman was Mrs. H. C. Booth, 319 S. Roys-av, while her assistant was Mrs. Carl Spohn, 436 S. Wayne-av. The camp nurse, Mrs. Margaret Wiggins, was aided by three student nurses from University Hospital. Camp director was Mrs. Lois Swack of the Girl Scout staff.

The Hilltop Kiwanis, Hilltop Business Association and the John Burroughs PTA aided the campers with donations to their fund.

Camp committee members for 1950 are Mrs. Lowell Hardacre, 713 S. Roys-av; Mrs. Melvin Craig, 336 S. Powell-av; Mrs. Ray Eyerman, 2970 Parkside-av, Mrs. D. Parks, Mrs. G. Allmon, Grove City; Mrs. E. Houghton, Grove City; Mrs. S. Reinhard, Mrs. K. Merriandale, 36 Clarendon-av; Mrs. W. C. Glass, 213 Demorest-rd, and Mrs. R. Haughn.

Nelso Club Guests Of Mrs. Primmer

Mrs. Amy Primmer, 36 N. Oakley-av, entertained the Nelso Club Friday, July 15, at her cottage at Buckeye Lake.

Members present were Mrs. Gladys Gray, Florence Fulton, Esther Murphy, Dolly Koenig, Lucille Hillyer, Bertha Evans, Irene Preston, and the hostess, Mrs. Primmer. Guests were Beverly Wilson, Mildred Everhart, Wilma Hillary, Geraldine Christopher, Cora JuTavern, Mrs. Clara Sheerwood and Bill Preston.

Mrs. Bertha Evans, 1587 Mooberry-st, has been Mrs. Primmer's guest at the cottage for the past week.

Modern Poetry

By Esther Weakley

OFFICE INTERLUDE

Little words with mighty meaning
Slave across the page.
Little bits of business gleaning
By their vassalage.

Saucy little commas sitting
Snugly on their tails,
Watching nimble fingers knitting
Short-hand into sales.

Rows of stately figures dancing
Up and down a pad
To the tune of high financing;
Little minds go mad.

Taking notes and counting money,
Trembling at the nod
Of a bald and slightly funny
Office demigod.

TWILIGHT LULLABY

In the shadowed softness
Of twilight,
Day comes to rest;
She nods once or twice,
Then drops her bright head.

Twilight wraps
The sweetly-dreaming day
In veils of darkness,
Then gliding,
Smooth as a bird in flight,
Carries her
To sleep on the bosom
Of the star-covered night.

DEATHS

Gustav C. Lange

Gustav C. Lange, 72, died yesterday after becoming ill, apparently of a heart attack, in his home at 134 N. Eureka-av.

Fire Department emergency squadmen took him to Mt. Carmel Hospital where attendants pronounced him dead.

Mr. Lange had been a cook at the Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe for 16 years prior to his retirement in 1947.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Lange; a son Dudley Lange, of Lorain; two daughters, Mrs. Lucille Smith, Chicago, and Mrs. Marie Seeds, at home; a sister and two grandchildren.

Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery by the Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

Mrs. Helen M. Price

Mrs. Helen M. Price, 72, of 2654½ W. Broad-st, died Saturday at her home. She was a life-long resident of Columbus and a member of St. Francis Circle No. 15.

Surviving are a son Frank; a daughter Mrs. Helen Snyder; seven grandchildren and a brother, John Crawford, all of Columbus.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 9 a. m. in Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Hilltop Ministers Cite Record For Church Page

The Hilltop Ministerial Assn. this week cited the weekly church page of the Record as an outstanding example of community service. The following letter was received, signed by Revs. Norman L. Schreiber and A. L. Roth, president and secretary of the association:

"Seldom have the churches of a community, such as our Hilltop community, had a better example of voluntary public support than that appearing in The Hilltop Record each week in its enlarged, impressive church page. The visualized emphasis, and pertinent message, along with the weekly church announcements, are all in keeping with the indispensible place and dignity of the church in the community.

"The Hilltop Ministerial Association takes this method and occasion to voice this public expression of appreciation to the editor, Mr. C. C. Hartley, his staff, and the sponsors of the church page."

Dance Floor Comes From Grove City

"Del" Pack and the other members of the dance committee brought the dance floor for the bean dinner dance from Grove City last Sunday. The big 60 by 40 foot floor was brought to town by truck and then assembled by the committee at the shelter house.

Music for the dancing will be furnished by Al Bettinger and his well known band. Mr. Pack announced that Russ Thomas will be on hand to do the calling for the square dancing. Mr. Thomas is one of the better known callers in Ohio, he is easy to understand, so beginners will always know just what they're supposed to do next.

Dancing will start at 8:30 and continue until closing time.

Bill Would Return Quail to Game List

Both houses of the Ohio legislature have approved returning the Bobwhite quail to game bird classification but the measure needs Governor Lausche's signature to become official.

Since 1913 the quail has been classed officially as a songbird in Ohio and nearly every legislative session since that time has battled with the problem of what to do about it.

If the measure receives the governor's approval it will become law in 90 days. From there on the matter of just what will be done for the Bobwhite in its new role will be determined primarily by the Wildlife Council.

made possible by The Hilltop Record, which today officially salutes the Old Trail for its service to the community, present, past future. From the Record's booth at the Hilltop Bean Dinner, which will be shared with Dick Laird, manager of the Old Trail, special "Birthday Party Tickets" will be distributed to all persons desiring them. These tickets, good only for the celebration days, Aug. 2-3-4, will enable the users to realize a saving of 20c on the regular admission price of 45c. In other words, the Record ticket will entitle you to admission for only a quarter next Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday!

Arrangements have also been made by The Hilltop Record to sponsor a series of "Community Nights" at the Old Trail, the first to be on Aug. 10. Therefore, the special party next week will actually provide a preview of the bargain admissions to be offered each Wednesday during the balance of the summer and in the fall. However, it should be noted that the special reduced prices, after the distribution of tickets at the Bean Dinner for Aug. 2-3-4 will be available only to readers of the Record. The ticket will be printed in the paper, the first appearing on Thursday, Aug. 4, with a repeat on Tuesday, Aug. 9, both tickets being good on Wednesday, Aug. 10, each of them offering a saving of 20c on each adult admission.

Glenwood And Highland Avenue Split Twin Bill

A crowd of loyal fans watched Highland Avenue Friends and Glenwood Methodist Church split a twin bill on Westgate Park's No. 1 diamond last night. Highland Avenue friends won the first, 3 to 2. Each team evened on hits, D. Skipper and Bill Dawson giving up four each. This, by the way, is the first game the Glenwood team has been beaten—their record being 6 wins to 1 loss, in the church league for this season.

The second game was highlighted by Glenwood's Dawson pitching a no-hitter, for the five inning win of 8 to 0.

Next Monday night Glenwood Methodist meets St. Aloysius on the same diamond for a double-header. Interest is running high here on the Hilltop, for the entire church league has been displaying fine baseball.

Umpiring for both games was ably handled by G. Layman.

Gl. Meth.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	0	4	1

Batteries for Friends Church: D. Skipper and Harper; Glenwood, Bill Dawson and H. Grashel, relieved by Dick Lamprecht in the third.

Second game:

H. Ave. Fr.	0	0	0	0	0	—	0	0	2

Batteries for Glenwood Methodist: Dawson and D. Lamprecht; Friends Church, Wilkes, Skipper (5) and Bond, Clark (4).

New Manager

Dick Laird

Dick Laird, 140 N. Warrenav, extends a hearty welcome "to all my friends on the Hilltop" to enjoy a cool evening at the Old Trail Theater of which he became the manager June 23.

Dick was graduated from West High in 1941 and was in the army for three and a half years. Following that he acted as civilian supervisor of the telephone exchange in Tokyo, Japan. Since then he has been a salesman for Kirk's Appliances, formerly at Oakley and Broad.

He is now a junior in the college of education at Ohio State, and hopes to teach "if nothing else comes up before then."

The Old Trail, according to Dick, is Columbus' largest suburban theater. It has a seating capacity of 1400 people and a 1000-car parking lot.

W'gate Park Clay Court Matches End

Winners in the singles division who were awarded trophies were Ed Jones and Guy Blair. Jones beat Blair in the three set finals 5-7, 6-0, and 6-3.

Guy Blair and Dr. George Hoeflinger won in the doubles division defeating Ed Jones and Dave Kuenzli 6-3, 4-6, and 6-3.

Trophies for the champions and runners up were donated by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. Presentation was made by Kiwanis president Jack Sensenbrenner.

Leo Phillips, Sr., chairman of the match, said that this was the largest tournament ever held in the city. There were 56 entries in the singles division and 27 doubles teams entered. Dick Slager, of the Westgate club, was the only Hilltopper to reach the finals play.

Better Reading, Eating for Year $4 at Record Tent

Special bargains will be available at the Hilltop Record tent for those who subscribe to the Record tomorrow. A one year subscription to the Record for $3.50 will get you a $1.00 box of Christmas cards free. If you think it is too early to start thinking of Christmas cards, there will be other merchandise sold at substantial reductions with subscription orders.

For just $4.00 you will be able to get the Record for a year and a new big $2.50 cook book.

Also available will be door name plates and mail box name plates for rural customers. The Record has made arrangements with the Art Plate Company to sell you these aluminum bronze background plates with your own name in black lustre faced raised letters at a big reduction.

The door name plate (valued at $2.00) and a year's subscription to the Record will cost just $4.35. The $2.50 mail box plate and a Record subscription will be $4.85.

Hardy Family Back From NYC

Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy and daughter, Jackie, have just returned from a 10-day visit to New York City where they attended all the Broadway shows in search of new ideas for dance routines.

Jackie also took a series of lessons in taps at a Broadway studio. She will teach dancing at the Hardy home, 608 Racine.

Chester, common ending for English town names, comes from the Roman word caster meaning camp, since many were originally Roman camp sites.

Hilltop Picnic At Buckeye Lake In 1909 Was Forerunner of Bean Dinner

By Myron T. Seifert

Days of the first Hilltop picnic and succeeding ones are recalled with the approach of probably the biggest one tomorrow at Westgate Park when beans will be served.

first community picnic was

Forty years ago tomorrow, July 27, under HBA sponsorship, the first community picnic was staged when the Hilltop was in its infancy.

L. M. Seiller, brother of M. W. Seiller, local merchant, was then in business on the Hilltop. He and the late Wyatt L. Millikin, local hardware dealer, conceived the idea of bringing the whole community together at the picnic.

The first one was held at Buckeye Lake as were the next two. The lake was a favorite amusement center at that time. The problem of transportation for the crowd was solved by chartering two interurban cars. But the number increased to such an extent that two more cars were ordered out just before the day of the picnic.

Between 400 and 500 residents of the Hilltop met at Mound and High-sts where they boarded the picnic excursion for Buckeye Lake.

The Hilltop had a band of its own that also made the journey. Grant Long, officer, went along.

Second year found the picnic so popular that six cars were chartered and about 800 people spent the day at Buckeye Lake. Following year 1200 people attended the big get-together and boarded the cars at Broad and Hague.

The first two picnics were successful in every way except financially. The deficit for the two years was taken care of by these two men who had started the picnics. The third picnic was a financial success.

With the formation of the Hilltop Improvement Association in 1912 the picnic was sponsored by them. It was held at Buckeye Lake again and for the fifth time in 1913 and 1914.

The Hilltop Record 35 years ago publicized the annual occasion in its columns. The story read:

"One of the biggest events of the year will take place at Buckeye Lake on Wednesday, July 29, when the Hilltop has its annual picnic there. Great preparations have been made for all the former picnics but the Improvement Association has made the greatest ever for this one, with the desire that this be the biggest outing the Hilltop has ever had. Special cars will leave W. Broad-st and Hague-av at 8 o'clock, bound directly for the lake. Round trip fare for adults is 50 cents, and for children, 25 cents. An elaborate program of races, games and other forms of outing entertainment has been prepared. There is every assurance that everybody will enjoy themselves.

"This is a fine chance for everyone to show his loyalty to the Hilltop. There should be an immense crowd attend and enjoy this outing. Let everybody show an unusual amount of enthusiasm and interest. Help make it a grand success. Let this outing be an indication of the growth, progressiveness and genial environment of the Hilltop.

"Preparations for the big Hilltop picnic, which will be held at Buckeye Lake, Wednesday, July 29, are being made on a mammoth scale by the Improvement Association. All sorts of games and sports are on the program, besides the many attractions offered by the Park. As usual, the Hilltop Band will be out in full force, playing many pieces on the way to the Lake and more after they arrive there. All stores and shops on the Hilltop will be closed Wednesday and everyone will be given an opportunity to attend the outing. Members of the Association state that they expect a crowd of from 700 to 1000. Through Buckeye Lake cars will leave Broad and Hague at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. The round trip fare for adults is 50 cents, and for children is 25 cents.

"It is hoped that all who can will make an effort to attend this picnic, the largest ever given by the Hilltop.

"Everyone ought to pack his or her lunch and join the crowd for the Lake. A good time for all is assured. The spirit in which this picnic is attended will, in a great measure, indicate to the rest of the city the attitude of the Hilltop. Let the rest of Columbus see that the people of the Hilltop are the most congenial, neighborly, friendly and enthusiastic people in the city. So if attendance to the outing does not appeal to one as an excellent recreation, which it undoubtedly is, it certainly can not fail to be an indication of one's community pride and patriotism."

In 1915 the Glenwood Shelter House was completed and for the first time the annual picnic was given at home. It was held in connection with the dedication of the new building.

Expenses of these picnics were meant to be defrayed by the advertising in the program issued the day of the event; however, this was often low and the Hilltop doctors helped by putting their names in the bulletin.

And so through the years has the Hilltop picnic continued. Then in 1926 the first ox roast was held and credit for this idea goes to the late Fred L. Sulzberger, chairman of the committee from the Business Men's Association. Thousands of people gathered at Sullivant-av and Binns-blvd for their old-fashioned barbecue sandwich. The meat was roasted in the oven by "Cap" Fagley of the Columbus Fire Department and was pronounced as being "most delicious."

Then in August of 1927, another ox roast was held in Westgate. A greater crowd than ever before assembled on the grounds for the good time. It was followed by a moonlight dance.

Bean Dinner Entertainers

Gene and Garland, the Crawford Brothers, will entertain at the Hilltop Bean Dinner July 27. Well known throughout Ohio and neighboring states, their acts of entertainment provide a well-rounded program of entertainment. Both play guitars and sing. They are featured over Radio Station WRFD, Worthington.

CHAIRMAN

J. C. "Jack" Merriman

Jack Merriman, general chairman of the bean dinner, modestly gives credit for the success of the project to his committee members.

"It was a big job," he said, "but we had good committees who did their jobs well and everything has gone smoothly." He added that he had no idea of the number of hours of work that have gone into the job, but that there were no particular "headaches."

Credit for the idea of having baked beans instead of soup beans is given to Mrs. Merriman.

"Baking the beans, a larger prize list, and the new merchants' fair are just a few of the things that will make this bean dinner bigger and better than any we've had before," Mr. Merriman said.

A Dime Buys A Meal At Bean Tent

A meal in itself.

That's the phrase that describes the big helping of baked beans you'll be able to get for a dime tomorrow at the bean dinner.

All cooked and ready to serve, there will be two tons of beans, so be sure to drop around and get your share. Crackers and coffee (with real cream) will also be served at the bean tent.

Seiller's To Give New Sweeper

Do you feel lucky?

Some lucky person is going to win a new Hoover sweeper at the bean dinner. Seiller's Department Store has anncunced that it will give away a new sweeper absolutely free.

The $94.95 sweeper "beats, as it sweeps, as it cleans." With the $19.95 kit of cleaning tools, given away with it, the sweeper is easily converted for above the floor cleaning jobs.

There's just one more day to join the contest, so drop in at Seiller's today and get full particulars on the contest.

Bill Coon To Run Pony Ride At Bean Dinner

Bill Coon, who says that next to horses he likes people best, will be in charge of the pony ride at the bean dinner again this year. Bill is proud of the pony concession as being the "only real live flesh and blood ride on the grounds."

Ponies, as well as other amusements, are furnished by Tim Nolan, 617 Whitethorne-av, who brings them in from Moxahala Park at Zanesville.

There will be all colors of ponies and all will be outfitted with cowboy saddles. All of them are gentle, and there will be boys on hand to lead the very young children around the track.

At last year's celebration the ponies were the most popular ride, more than 1500 tickets being sold.

Up, Down and Around

Greased Pole Offers Cash To Two Free Lubrication Jobs To Many

Have you ever had a dream where you are being chased and just can't seem to run no matter how hard you try?

If so, then you have an idea of how it feels trying to climb a greased pole. The first few feet are easy, then you notice that you are putting forth as much or more effort than before, but just aren't gaining altitude any more. First thing you know, you've used up all your energy and slide back to the ground.

The greased pole is going to be one of the main attractions at this year's bean dinner—for contestants and spectators alike. The height will be about 25 feet, and the grease used will be automobile grease.

Someone usually succeeds in climbing the pole only after most of the grease has been transferred to the clothing and anatomy of the other contestants.

Part way up the pole will be a bag containing two dollars. The lucky one to reach the top of the pole first will find a bag containing five dollars. He will also be rewarded with a wristwatch from Lou Klass of Hilltop Jewelers and a surprise prize from Bob Strope of Strope's Auto Service.

Conotestants must pay their own laundry and cleaning bills.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

I thought that love and I were friends,
I thought I knew his face.
I thought I was familiar with
The warmth of his embrace.

How could I be so gullible
When now I realize
That here before me stands a clever
Stranger in disguise!

From Hainault Forest To The Hilltop With Phaseolus Vulgaris (Beans That Is)

By Harry Frankes

Bean dinners are one of the oldest traditions of the modern world. The man who popularized them and, incidentally, is credited with the invention of baked beans as we know them today, was an eccentric Englishman, Daniel Day Good, familiarly known as Good Day. He was a maker of pumps and blocks at a place called Wapping Old Stairs. On the first Friday of July he used to gather his friends in Hainault forest and regale them on baked beans.

Long after his death in the early 17th century the day was celebrated as "Mr. Good's Bean Feast." However at later bean feasts, only one bean was served. This was hidden in a piece of cake. The one getting the cake with the bean in it was made king of the feast.

Beans themselves have been cultivated by man since before recorded history. The ancient Greeks thought beans begat insomnia and nightmares and even caused ghosts to flee shuddering. Pythagoras believed that certain souls became beans after death; Hippocrates thought they injured the sight; and Cicero claimed they corrupted the blood.

Research shows that beans were cultivated in the western hemisphere long before the voyages of Columbus. Fifty species of beans have been found in Peruvian sepulchres dating back to the 12th century.

In the United States, Michigan produces 90 per cent of the beans. Bostonians are reputed to be the largest consumers. At 10 inches per bean pot, the average Bostonian eats more than two and one-half times his height in beans each year.

The French beans may not be better than the Boston baked type, but they do have a greater variety of ways of preparing them. One Alsatian recipe calls for a dismembered goose, a calf's foot and a half-pound of veal knuckles among other things.

The average American consumes nine pounds of beans per year. The average Hilltopper should get most of his share at the Hilltop Bean Dinner, July 27.

Wyoming granted women suffrage in 1869.

HBA Versus Housewives -- Who Cooks the Better Beans?

The men on the bean committee may think they have a good recipe for the Hilltop Bean Dinner, but some of our esteemed Hilltop housewives think differently. In fact, they've offered their own recipes for comparison.

As you probably know by now, the recipe that will be used at the Bean Dinner is as follows: 100 pounds white soup beans boiled well. Ten pounds of brown sugar, seven pounds of catsup, five large onions and a batch of ham hocks are added and everything is baked until well done. However, if you still prefer the home-baked variety, take a look at these recipes by our Hilltop women.

Mrs. H. L. Hetterscheidt, 193 Midland-av, says she cooks her beans until partly done, then adds brown sugar, two or three small onions, tomatoes and bacon or ham, plus a little water. They are then baked until done.

Boston Beans Preferred

Mrs. Lawrence Irvin, 807 S. Roys-av, states that her family prefers the Boston type of baked beans. For this dish, she soaks the beans overnight. The following day she places them in the oven with molasses, dry mustard, salt and pork chops or a piece of loin roast for seasoning. They then bake for three or four hours until well done.

Mrs. Paul Kauderer, 94 N. Hague-av, cooks plain soup beans with a carrot grated through them and a piece of bacon for seasoning.

Mrs. Martha J. Nutter, 103 S. Terrace-av, likes them cooked with "some real good ham broth" and then seasoned with salt and pepper.

Mrs. Charles E. Parks, 69 Haldy-av, gives her recipe a little more specifically. States Mrs. Parks: for an ordinary casserole of beans use one-third cup brown sugar, one-quarter teaspoon dry mustard, a teaspoon of minced onions, and one-half to three-quarters cup catsup. Place bacon strips across the top and bake in a slow oven for a couple of hours.

Uses Marrow Beans

Marrow beans are used by Mrs. Fred W. Deubner, 172 S. Brinker-av, for her recipe. She soaks them overnight and then drains them the next day. Chili sauce, catsup, onions and mustard are mixed in with the beans. Then brown sugar and bacon strips are placed on the top. She bakes them in a 425 degree oven for the first half hour and turns the oven down to bake them until the mixture is "gooey" and dark.

Mrs. Alan B. Coss, 266 S. Burgess-av, soaks her beans for three or four hours in warm water, then places ham in with the beans and puts them on the fire until they boil. They are seasoned to taste. A tablespoon of sugar is mixed in and a whole onion dropped in. They simmer and cook until the mixture is thick.

Mrs. James A. Fodey, 143 Powhatan-av, soaks marrow fat beans the night before. The following day she mixes in chili sauce, molasses and a teaspoon of mustard sauce. Fried bacon is chopped up and mixed with its grease into the beans. A few strips of raw bacon are placed on the top of the beans and then all placed in the oven.

Boil 'Em First

Mrs. George Trout, 1662 Hopkins-av, soaks a quart of beans overnight. Then she parboils them until the skins break. The beans are salted and a half pound of bacon or fresh pork and a tablespoon of dry mustard dissolved in warm water is placed with the beans. Two tablespoons of molasses, two tablespoons of brown sugar and a little catsup is mixed in with them. One onion is placed in the center of the dish and then all is baked for an hour and a half.

Those recipes sound good, don't they But are the housewives right in assuming that they know more about cooking than the men, or will the beans at the Hilltop Bean Dinner beat them all? Next Wednesday will tell the tale.

Then, too, there's always the person who prefers his beans in a bag or in a bean-shooter.

But, anyway you look at it, most everybody likes beans. So, come and enjoy a big plate of the old vegetable at the Hilltop Bean Dinner. If you don't we might have to ask, "Where have you been?"

Health Officials Ask Parents Aid In Local Campaign Against Diphtheria

Immunization is a painless, fast procedure. The family doctor can easily immunize the entire family at one time. Whether the doctor prescribes the one, two, three or five shot method, diphtheria immunity is equally well established.

Parents were warned today that their cooperation will either win or lose the all-out campaign against diphtheria in Columbus.

Dr. Ollie M. Goodloe, Columbus health commissioner, said complete cooperation will win the battle to reduce the high toll of cases of diphtheria in the city.

"It's imperative that parents have their children immunized against diphtheria," Dr. Goodloe said. "If children aren't immunized, we can do little to prevent their catching the disease."

Health authorities suggest a diphtheria inoculation before the age of one year. Other immunizations should be made at the approximate ages of 3, 6 and again at 10 years. This supports a high degree of immunity throughout the years when children are most likely to contract the disease.

More Liquids Needed in Diet In Summer Months

During the summer months the body adjusts to warmer weather by circulating a larger volume of blood to provide an efficient "cooling system." Body heat is carried to the surface by the blood and is given off through perspiration. Additional fluids are required in order to have body mechanisms run smoothly. Thirst usually causes people to drink more liquids in hot weather, but those having no desire for liquids should make a conscious effort to drink more water, milk or fruit juices.

The fatigue and exhaustion that many people experience during summer months are often due to poor eating habits because improper diet can cause poor appetite, loss of weight and tenderness. It is no less important to include body building foods in the meals in August than in January.

Even though most people like crisp cool foods when the mercury soars, it is a good idea to include at least one hot dish, such as cooked green vegetable, or potatoes, or beverage, in each meal. Hot food gives a greater sense of satisfaction and seems to aid in digestion. Vegetables are essential in the diet because they contain iron which is needed to maintain a healthy red blood supply, and B vitamins which aid the nerves and digestion. Using fresh fruits for desserts will cut down on the time spent in the kitchen, and will add extra vitamins to the meal.

Those who eat adequate meals three times a day during summer months, and drink plenty of liquids, will find hot weather easier to take. They will be in better condition when winter arrives.

The "Pipe of Peace" Is Fun, Too

Some of us remember the romantic story of Pocahontas, the Indian Princess—how she rescued Captain John Smith and later married the Englishman, John Rolfe. And after that, her father, Powhatan, chief of the Chickahominy Tribe, and our early American Colonists sat around the council fire and "smoked the pipe of peace." They never fought again.

Now, even more of us remember the story of Sitting Bull, chief of the Sioux, whose tribe massacred General Custer and his force at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Old Sitting Bull never smoked the pipe of peace. Both he and his son, along with several chiefs, were later killed while resisting arrest.

What are we "driving at"? Why, our United Nations organization, of course! Isn't the UN similar to the council fire of old Chief Powhatan, where representatives of the nations of the world sit down and "smoke the pipe of peace"? True, there are arguments, disagreements, and ever so often someone "takes a walk." This makes news because "conflict makes news," just like old Chief Sitting Bull. Unfortunately, it is seldom ever reported that the representative who walked out, walked back. That's the main thing—they walk back—and common sense tells us that no nation will likely "start shootin' " while sitting around the council fire and "smoking the pipe of peace."

Expensive? Yes, this business of the United Nations, ECA, UNESCO, and all the rest takes a "whale of a lot" of money. Seems as if it is going out faster than "pouring sand down a rat hole." But isn't it rather like buying fire insurance or life insurance? Certainly insurance is no guarantee that your house won't burn or that you won't pass on, but it is security. Neither will money spent on the UN guarantee world peace. Chances are, however, that the UN will work out. It's a good investment—it's good business.

Personal? Sure, peace is personal. Peace begins at home, on YOUR street, on OUR street. We can talk it, we can write about it, and we can live it! 'Course, we'll remember Teddy Roosevelt's advice, "speak softly but carry a big stick." We can back our nation's defense program, "carry a big stick," yet at the same time "speak softly," trying to understand and get along with all nations.

Too, we can back our State Department. Our Senators, Congressmen and State Department want to know how we feel about the vital issues at stake. Let's study the problem, write them, and "back them up" because "It's Fun To Live In America," and we want to keep it that way.

(This is Number 6 in the new 1949 "It's Fun To Live In America" series prepared in the interest of our American way of life by Kiwanis International.)

Over Production Not Cause of Recession

By John Kely

That final consumption has been well maintained can be seen by study of Department of Commerce statistics. Those who look no further than the drop in manufacturers' orders see the situation worse than it really is.

For almost six months production has lagged behind consumption. In May, the latest report available, retail sales were approximately at last year's level. But in the same period production amounted to about 10 per cent less than in May, 1948. There is no apparent reason to feel that consumption hasn't continued to outstirp production during June and July.

If we continue to use up more than we manufacture, one of these days we shall discover that we have in turn "caught up" with the current recession—which is principally attributable itself to "catching up."

Distributors are trying to carry as little stock as possible, counting on manufacturers for prompt deliveries. Manufacturers in turn are trying to avoid a pile-up of finished goods and to get along with a minimum of purchased materials.

Thus new orders are reduced all along the line. The drop is cumulative as it reaches back into basic industries, and activity suffers. That is the chief explanation of the present dullness.

Consumers also have inventories, and their disposition to buy also fluctuates. In fact, it is the consumers' indisposition to buy in their accustomed open handed manner that accounts for the determined effort to reduce inventories.

Once their most urgent needs are satisfied, people choose to wait for lower prices, or choose to add to savings rather than buy at all. However, reduction of consumer spending is far less a factor in this recession than the reduction in business spending.

A business decline which is mostly attributable to "catching up" has in itself elements of a downward spiral. The drop in buying leads to industrial curtailment, reduced employment and loss of purchasing power.

But it also provides—its own brake to such a downtrend. The decline in orders and production inevitably exceeds the drop in ultimate consumption, and in due course will reverse itself.

Memories of the inventory troubles after the World War I inflation probably account for the determination to pare stocks of goods to the bone. However, at no time have business inventories been regarded as dangerously large as was obviously the case the other time.

Reduction of inventory is making rapid headway, and it is hard to see how commitments can be shortened further. Whenever inadequate stocks of merchandise cause a noticeable loss of sales, there will be lots of forward orders again.

In the meantime — whatever our personal troubles — we can find solid comfort in the fact that nothing like the 30's is in store for us.

And Have Not Love

By MARGARET NICHOLS

Copyright, 1948 by Margaret Gorman Nichols. Published by Macrae-Smith Company. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

Love was never old, Beatrice thought, because it had the magic of rejuvenating and renewing itself. And so there was no such thing as an old love, because love was eternally young. She swallowed a sudden excruciating lump in her throat, and her eyes misted over so that the landscape was blurred. She felt stirred and, at the same time, more serene than she had felt in a long time. She was coming to a new knowledge not only of her own life, but also of the lives of those around her. She was beginning to [illegible] again and it always hurt to grow. Because of her childhood she had been mortally afraid of change and experiment. Don't let anything be changed, [illegible] had cried ever since her marriage. Not even a piece of furniture in the house. As if there could ever be any growth without alteration and experiment. Porter, she thought, what have I done in being the perfect wife except to strip our love of all enchantment? Marriage in crisis is love in disenchantment.

Time seemed to melt, and then the conductor was calling New York. The man across the aisle paused to let her pass, and presently she was following the redcap through the milling crowds and outside to the cabs.

She could not, and indeed had never wanted to, deny her affection for New York. She was that rare being, a person who had actually been born in New York. Granted that much of it was unlively, both frankly ugly as well as that which bore only a veneer of beauty, yet the city has the lusty vitality of any seaport—the vitality of new blood.

The cab moved jerkily in the seething traffic. It would have been unprecedented if the driver had not turned his head and spoke out of the corner of his mouth. "Didja see that guy? He's nuts!" as another cab cut heedlessly in. Beatrice smiled. I know I'm in New York, she thought. She had always wondered where everyone went at night, because it seemed altogether unbelievable that all those millions could be housed.

It was inconceivable, too—it could happen only here—that in a few minutes you could leave the blatant roar of commercialism and find yourself on a relatively quiet street. The apartment building in which Cecily lived rose steeply and sharply toward the sky, and from its windows the river traffic could be vividly seen.

When the doorman opened the door of the cab, he actually remembered her and spoke. Beatrice stepped from the lengthening shadows of late afternoon into the cool, impersonal, mirrored foyer and walked toward the elevator; the doorman following with her bag.

Cecily's diminutive, discreet colored maid, Elizabeth, opened the door. It was just like Cecily not to be dressed, though she knew exactly what time Beatrice would arrive.

The elevator man closed the door, and Elizabeth picked up Beatrice's bag just as Cecily appeared.

Cecily said precisely what Beatrice knew she would say, and did precisely what Beatrice knew she would do. She uttered a delighted little cry of "Darling!", and hurried to her and the tears started in her eyes. Elizabeth's face bore no expression whatsoever because she had been with Cecily so long that she, too, knew exactly how she greeted her friends and relatives—as if they were the dearest people in the world to her, and she had suffered unbearably at being separated from them. All of which, as Elizabeth had gradually come to know, was not true at all.

"How wonderful you look, darling. How chic! Of ocurse you always had the loveliest hair."

Cecily wore a frock of periwinkle blue made of silk. Abhorring wools and tweeds, she would wear nothing except the softest silks against her skin. She was slim, tiny, golden-haired and ageless.

The apartment was still as Beatrice remembered it—moderately and tastefully modern. Cecily's abhorrence of woolens was exceeded only by her loathing of antiques. She had grown up with a lot of broken down antiques, and could not bear the sight of them. So that all the years she had lived in New York, she had surrounded herself with furniture made of light colored wood, honey colored carpets, and draperies of delicate pastels, and an abundance of mirrors.

They went to the small guest room when Cecily, with the lithe ness of a kitten, curled up on the chaise longue, while Elizabeth unpacked Beatrice's bag, and Beatrice freshened her face and fixed her hair. More than once it had occurred to Beatrice that if unpredictability could be inherited, then Marianne had undoubtedly inherited that characteristic from her grandmother. Therefore, Beatrice thought, she would not bathe and change until she knew Cecily's plans, that could well range from a dinner party for eight right here in the apartment to a long evening of night club hopping.

They returned to the living room, and Elizabeth brought in the tea tray of which every detail was perfect. Beatrice thought, When I think of my mother I fail to give her credit for the grace of her living. When you live alone you are apt to become careless, and she has never been that. She would spend her last dollar for flowers, and she would not hesitate to send back to the kitchen a tea tray on which one small blunder spoiled its perfection.

"Darling, now tell me everything," Cecily said. She adored people to talk to her. She listened like a child and she wanted details, the fine lace work of any story or anecdote.

And while Beatrice spoke circumspectly of her family, her home, and the things of which her life consisted, and Cecily looked at her attentively, Beatrice saw that her mother was not the same as she had been a year ago when she had last seen her. Yet the change was barely perceptible. It was the expression of her eyes, those large, wide, very blue eyes of hers that had so easily laughed and wept heretofore according to her moods, and which in Beatrice's bitter remembrance had been empty. That was the difference and the change because in the eyes of this pretty woman—her mother, who had lived on the opiate of petty pleasure, who had done nothing to ennoble life—were nobility and a strong conviction. And whatever had caused Cecily to write her to come had also filled her empty eyes. She felt compelled to speak of it at once.

"I'm exceremely curious. Why did you ask me to come, Mother?"

Cecily laughed and waved her soft little hands. "Oh, darling, I solved it myself. I always do, you know. And then I thought I wouldn't tell you I had because then there wouldn't be any reason for you to come. More tea? I knew that you would want your tea and not a cocktail. It's queer, but we are alike in some respects, Beatrice. We really care nothing at all about smoking and drinking. Vile habits, both of them."

"So you won't tell me," Beatrice said with a smile.

Cecily nodded her golden head and her extraordinary lashes swept her cheeks as she lowered her eyes. She was sitting on the edge of the divan, her knees pressed together, the skirt of her vivid frock lifted just enough to reveal her pretty legs, her rosy-tipped fingers touching the fragile china cup. Her small feet, in black suede pumps with an ankle strap completed the picture of a soft, fastidious, and pretty woman. Long ago Beatrice had heard a man say that feet and legs like Cecily's belonged in the Follies.

Cecily lifted her eyes. "Yes, darling, I will tell you but only because I suppose I must." She smiled. "I hope you won't hate me for this but I've never felt you were really my child—or rather that I was ever anyone's mother. I can't help it. That's why I've been such an appalling mother to you. I don't like children. I've never liked children. I like men. I suppose a woman is either one way or the other. I've seen very few women who can be successful with both children and men." She smiled again. "It isn't important, really. But somehow I just wanted you to know that, dear. Oh, I'm not profound, or intellectual, or anything like that. The truth is I've got along beautifully with no one giving a hoot what I thought, and so I haven't thought very much about anything."

Beatrice felt hollow inside. She could not imagine what would come next. She couldn't think of anything to say.

It wasn't necessary, for Cecily said, "I'm so proud of you, Beatrice, now and I have no right to be, as you know, because I've never done anything for you. But I am terribly proud of you all grown up and sitting opposite me in your gray suit that fits you perfectly, and with your hair that has those subtle red lights in it, and your really extraordinary eyes. When you were a child you were my cross—and now you're my daughter, my own child, my own flesh and blood, and all I really have in the world." She shrugged and laughed. "So that when I die I'm going to sit up on a pink cloud and look down on you and Marianne and be ashamed I was such a lousy mother but terribly proud, boringly boastful, that I contributed you and Marianne and all of Marianne's children. Marianne told me she was going to have six children."

"I know," Beatrice said. "She still says she's going to."

And then all at once she knew what Cecily was trying to tell her, and she felt her bones chill. With complete understanding they looked at each other across the honey-colored rug over which so many men had walked to the tiny woman opposite.

Modern Poetry

THE STRANGER

A stranger stalked world-shattered world . . .
From fear-raised wall and barricade.
With face restrained,
Dead eyes . . . lips curled,
Stands on the crowded stage, his part well played.

To him the million worlds all have a face
Embalmed with self-esteem . . . and lust
To stay in step, keep time with pre-decided pace.
The stranger looks,
And finds not one to trust.

THE SONGS UNSUNG

Let no sadness mar or mute,
Let no note of sorrow
Touch the beautiful unsung
Lyrics of tomorrow.

Let no trumpet blare or burn,
Let no word be spoken
That will wear the singing voice
To a heartless token.

O makers of the still unborn
Tunes of time to be,
Let tomorrow's songs ring out
Resolute and free.

GRIEF

Stars that sing across the skies
Are louder than a heart that cries;
And crickets on a summer eve
Can dull the pain of those who grieve.
A wind can compensate so much
For absence of a lover's touch.

Stars shall sing so many years
Beyond the span of human tears;
And crickets still in slumber hold
The wakeful, though the pain is old.
The wind shall never end its song—
And still my heart cries on and on.

BACK PORCH CALLER

This friendly place, half out of doors, half not,
the grey screen letting day and laughter in,
invites more than the parcel that is bought,
more than the foodstuff stored in winter's bin.
The back porch friend, attired in overalls, has cupped in his big warm and roughened hand
the seed of summer, knowing where seed falls a friendship grows, ripe in his neighbor's land.
All winter long, as small things wait for growing,
two men sit down through dark and fruitless hours;
already, warm as spring and kinsmen sowing,
their thought is like one April branch that flowers.

"Imagine Me..."

PAYING SOMEONE ELSE'S TAXES!

"My Husband and I Pay Our Income Tax Before We Do Anything Else With Our Money. We Think Co-ops and Other Tax Exempt Businesses Should Do The Same."

Many people do not realize that one of the big reasons why income taxes are so high is because there are favored profit-making businesses that are permitted to escape all or most of their income tax. What they do not have to pay is added to the burden of the rest of us—naturally.

Who are these tax dodgers? Well, CO-OPERATIVE CORPORATIONS for one, government businesses for another. Even some colleges and universities own and reap tax-free profits from commercial enterprises making big profits. ALL escape entirely or avoid a major portion of their income tax liability to Uncle Sam.

TAX THE UNTAXED First!

An estimated BILLION DOLLARS EACH YEAR is lost to Uncle Sam in income tax revenue by such exemptions. YOU make it up! Right now Congress is talking about getting even more from present taxpayers. Contact your Congressman NOW. Tell him to TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST before adding more income taxes onto present taxpayers. All present tax-exempts should pay federal income tax just like other businesses and individuals.

MAIL BOX

Dear Carlton:

President Sensenbrenner of your club has sent us a copy of the July 7 issue of The Hilltop Record, and we are greatly pleased that you saw fit to use the copy from the No. 3 issue of our 1949 "It's Fun to Live in America" series.

It is indeed gratifying that you made it possible for your readers to read this message. We feel that it is imperative that the story of our American Way of Life be told at every opportunity.

I think you may be interested to know that distribution on that particular issue stands at 1,700,000 copies to date. Distribution on succeeding issues continues to run in excess of a million copies per issue.

Thanking you again, and with all good wishes, I remain

Cordially yours,

WHERE IS YOUR HEART?

Home, they say, is where the heart is, and where your heart is, there your interests are. Where, we ask, is YOUR heart?

From thousands of home-owners on the Hilltop, this answer comes—"Our heart is at home—on the Hilltop. Therefore, our interests are centered on the Hilltop; we want to see it grow, and prosper; we want to help improve our parks, our playgrounds, our schools. We want the Hilltop included in our plans for the future."

To these people, their first interest beyond their family is the welfare of their community. They know that a healthy, growing community produces better living for them. They know that their civic organizations are working towards this end—better streets and more street improvements; extensions on bus service; safer streets and more schools, etc.

These people know, too, that the civic organizations of the Hilltop are led by and supported by the individual business men and women of this community. They too, have homes on the Hilltop, and their hearts and interests are centered here.

Tomorrow's Bean Dinner at Westgate Park is just one of the many "home-town affairs" enjoyed by those who live on the Hilltop and brought about by the planning and co-operation of our individual merchants of the Hilltop. They alone have contributed of their time and their efforts—much needed, in many instances, in the pursuit of their own businesses—to make this community gathering a success.

Yes, home is where the heart is. Is your home and heart on the Hilltop? Then remember the individual merchant whose interests are parallel to yours. He'll serve you better, because he's serving HIS COMMUNITY — AND YOURS!

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of Franklin Township, Local School District, Brigadale School Building, Harrisburg Pike, Brigadale, Franklin County, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk of said School District until 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on August 15, 1949, for the furnishing of materials and the performing of labor necessary to erect a one story elementary school building on the north side of Frank Road east of Brigadale, Ohio for the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, all in accordance with the plans and specifications as prepared by Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, Dayton, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are on file as follows:

The office of the Clerk of the Board of Education, Mrs. Sara Ely, 1917 Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio.

The office of Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, 1301-4 American Building, Dayton 2, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are open to public inspection during all reasonable business hours, until time fixed herein for closing of bids.

Proposals will be received for the General Construction Work; Plumbing, Electric; and Heating and Ventilating Work, separately. Bidders may submit a combined bid for the Plumbing and Heating and Ventilating Work.

All proposals shall be made and considered by the Board in accordance with the General Code of the State of Ohio, and be on blank forms furnished by the Clerk of the Board of Education or the Architects, and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Clerk of the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, Brigadale School, Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio, and endorsed on the outside of the envelope with the name of the bidder and the branch of the work bid upon.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after the opening thereof. Particular attention is called to the statutory requirements of the State of Ohio relative to the licensing of corporations organized under the laws of any other state.

Each bid must contain the name of every person interested herein, and be accompanied by a certified check or bank draft in favor of said Board of Education upon a solvent bank, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid, or by bond in like sum, executed by an approved surety company, conditioned that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance of it properly secured. Checks submitted by the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the award of the contract is made, and a performance bond in the amount of 50% of the contract has been executed by the successful bidder.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Architects upon the deposit of fifteen dollars ($15.00), which will be refunded to all contractors submitting bids upon the return of plans and specifications. Others will have refund of five dollars ($5.00) upon return of plans and specifications.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularities in bidding.

By order of the Board of Education of the Franklin Township Local School District, Brigadale, Franklin County, Ohio.

Elbert L. Becker, President.
Sarah Ely, Clerk.

STEED OF THE MORNING

The beautiful steed of the morning
Comes out with his flaming eyes
To circle the amber paddock
In the turquoise field of the skies.
His changeable mane is flaring
Along the course he spans
And it flutters across the heavens
Like shimmering ostrich fans

He rooms through the purple valleys
And drinks at the crimson rills
And his silver horse-shoes glitter
In the topaz dust of the hills.
Till weary of dawn's bright pasture
He ambles slowly away,
His pink tail disappearing
Down the golden road of day.

Dance Orchestra To Entertain At Bean Dinner

Carl Hartley

Playing at this year's bean dinner, under the sponsorship of The Hilltop Record, will be Carl Hartley and his orchestra. Carl is a West High boy, as are the other members of the orchestra.

The orchestra has been in existence for about a year now, and all of the musicians have had previous dance band experience. The West High School prom and the Job's Daughters dance have been two of their recent successful engagements.

All of the boys play in the All West Senior Dance Band and most of them are in the marching band.

The orchestra will be out in full force for the bean dinner dance with the following members: Bill Grim, Jack Haggans, Stanley Nippert, saxophones; Carl Hartley, Dennie Leach and Bill Rayburn on trumpets; Ronnie Boothe playing the drums; Jim Lee at the piano; and Tom Heyl on the bass viol.

Compete In Bean Dinner Ball Game

Two ball games and a greased pole climb will highlight the games at the bean dinner this year.

The Sullivant Avenue Merchants will play Dublin in a hard ball game on Diamond No. 1 at 6 p. m., and at the same time St. Aloysius and West Park Methodist, of the West Senior Church League, will meet in a softball game on Diamond No. 4. The winner of each game will be awarded a new ball and bat.

Prizes on the greased pole this year will be a bag half-way up containing two dollars, and a bag at the top containing five dollars. In addition to this, the lucky one to reach the top first will get a wristwatch donated by Lou Klass of the Hilltop Jewelers, and a surprise prize from Bob Strope of Strope's Auto Service.

Other contests for which prizes will be awarded will be held between 3 and 5 p. m. The list, as announced by Sam Alford, chairman of the games committee, is: a penny grab for those under four years old, a 30 yd. race for those five or under, a 40 yd. race for the six-year-olds.

Games for girls include a kangaroo race for the seven and eight year old group, a shoe race for the nine and 10-year-olds, a peanut race for those 11 and 12, a relay race for age groups 13 and 14, a softball throwing contest for the 15-16-17 group, and a balloon blowing contest for girls from 18 to 80. (If you are just a little over 80, you may still enter.)

Games for the boys and the age groups are: 7-8, four legged race; 9-10, shoe race; 11-12, one legged race; 13-14, relay race; 15-17, football throwing contest; and for the men, an egg throwing contest.

An egg throwing team consists of two men and a raw egg. Men throw the egg to each other, getting progressively farther apart. The two making the longest throw without breaking the egg are the winners. Half of the losers will spend the rest of the day trying to get even with the other half for splattering them with eggs.

A PRAYER

Make chaste the hearts
And clean the hands
That succor the vanquished
Of barren lands,
That we do not include a stone
With the bread that we mete.
Instill humanity
To render charity complete.

CONFIDENCE

As I lie upon my bed,
I watch my company come and go.
I always smile at what they say—
"You'll soon be up again, I know."

Meaningless phrases (all well meant)
Everyone thinking, as eyelids fill,
"Poor dear—knowing she'll never walk!"
With only ME knowing that I will.

Happy Smiles, Laughter Prove Old Cliche True -- 'A Good Time Was Had By All' At Westgate Park Yesterday

Beans arrived on the grounds about 1 p. m. and are being unloaded at the bean tent by Franklin Sparks, Roscoe Rings (inside truck) and Charles Ezro. This was the first shipment and they continued to be delivered during the afternoon as the crowd consumed their. Biggest rush on the bean tent was about 6 p. m.

First takers of the beans are shown here making their way up to the tent for a serving. The bean line was a popular spot and in early evening stretched out an estimated block and a half long. Many a service man was reminded of his late "chow line" experiences but for a generous serving of beans and coffee and crackers for a dime it was worth it.

Yum, yum, but the beans are good! Partaking of the first serving while comfortably seated on a truck running board are Mrs. Charles Wilson, 2766 Sullivant-av; Mrs. Theron Neil, 100 S. Burgess-av; Jim Morris, 288 S. Harris-av; Mrs. Charles Morris, 288 S. Harris-av; Sharon Neil, Stephen Wilson, Brenda Hill, Linda Morris.

When the signal was set off announcing that the greased pole was ready there were plenty of early candidates. Here are some of the first youngsters who merely got a good lubrication job. In the photo are Lou Klass, Charley Kent and Bob Strope, who had charge of this feature. After the little boys took the grease the big boys got the money.

Prescription?

Doctors are still very busy these days. As the story goes about one M. D. who wrote out a prescription in the usual legible fashion to which doctors resort on such occasions. The patient used it for two years as a railroad pass. Twice it got him into Radio City Music Hall and once into Ebbets Field. It came in handy as a letter from employer to the cashier to increase his salary. And to cap the climax, his daughter played it on the piano and won a scholarship to the Curtiss Music Conservatory.

Westgate Park Was All Dressed Up

Our hats are off to city officials responsible for the nice job of cleaning up Westgate Park in time for the Hilltop Bean Dinner. They did a very nice job and are to be congratulated.

The park was all dressed up and in such a shape is indeed a beauty spot.

Such cooperation on the part of city officials is greatly appreciated by members of the Hilltop Business Association as well as the public.

The same word of thanks goes for other city departments that cooperated in furnishing police protection, lighting facilities and numerous other services.

Flowers Of The Week

A nice big Rosebud bouquet should be delivered to Jack Merriman, the chairman of the Hilltop Bean Dinner committee. Jack did an excellent job in looking after all the thousand and one matters that go with such a post. The success of the affair reflects the magnitude of the task.

Andrew Mulholand Taken by Death

Andrew L. Mulholand, a retired New York Central Railroad employe, died unexpectedly yesterday at his home, 80 Eldon-av.

He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Holy Name Society of St. Aloysius Church and Franklin Court of Catholic Order of Foresters.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary C. Mulholand; two daughters, Margaret F. and Marie H. Mulholand, both at home; and four sons, Victor L., Charles W., Ernest R. and Edward Francis Mulholand; a brother, Charles Mulholand, and a sister, Catherine Mulholand, all of Columbus.

21 NEW POLIO CASES

Twenty-one new cases of polio in Ohio were reported yesterday. The total reported since Jan. 1 now is 140, five below the 1948 figure on a similar date.

Forger Arrested Here by Madison County Deputy; Had Victimized Hilltop Merchants

A check forger who had victimized several Hilltop merchants was arrested yesterday in Columbus by a Madison County sheriff's deputy.

The man, John A. Neer, 21, of London, O., had been forging checks over the signature of John Murnane of Murnane's Sohio Service Station at W. Brad-st and Ogden-av. He had stolen a rubber stamp from the service station.

At the time of his arrest Neer was carrying several forged checks, at least two of them were made out to the Murnane account. All checks were for $30.

Neer had been sought by London officials since he stole a radio there some months ago. Madison County Deputy Bob Allen was in Columbus on other business when he recognized Neer on Front-st near the Lazarus Annex. Neer said that he had been living at a S. High-st hotel for four days. Allison took Neer to the Franklin County jail and from there to the Madison County jail at London where he is now being held.

The Madison County Sheriff's office reported that he has confessed to passing bad checks throughout the middle-west states during the past few months. He is known to have operated in Springfield, O., Chicago, and as far west as Texas.

Hilltop merchants were warned against the forger last week in a letter from C. H. Campbell, secrtary of the Hilltop Business Association, after several checks had been passed. Checks were all made out payable to John Neer. Neer carried ample identification and credentials and was identified by Campbell as "a smooth operator."

A warrant for Neer's arrest is on file at the Columbus Police Station and notification to be on the lookout for him had been sent to London by city police.

The Madison County Sheriff said that they had not yet determined the number of charges against Neer or in how many places he was being sought by police.

WINS TILE KITCHEN

Mack Pemberton to Coach South All-Stars; Two West Players on Team

By Myron T. Seifert

West High Football Coach Mack Pemberton, signally honored by virtue of his record at the Hilltop school, and subsequently appointed to the coaching post of the All-High football clinic to be held at Massillon, Aug. 8 to 13, will leave Sunday, July 31, to take up his duties.

Accompanying the Cowboy coach will be two West High ace performers on last fall's team, Paul Theisen and Chuck Weeks, recent selections from West High, the only Franklin County boys who will attend, along with 50 All-Star players in the state. They will compete in the fourth annual North-South game, to be played at Massillon stadium before an anticipated crowd of 28,000 people, Aug. 13.

During the first week in August two teams, a North and a South, will train for the game to be played in the Tiger stadium, Massillon. Pemberton will be assigned to the Southern delegation of stars, whom he will coach in a separate camp from the Northern-ites.

A coaches' clinic will be conducted by leading experts and names in the football world during the second week in August. Pemberton's traveling expenses and financial account, incidental to the trip, will be paid by the Ohio High School Football Association, which sponsors the event.

During Mack's three year tenure as head football coach at the Powell-av school the Cowboys have "rung up" an enviable record of 22 wins, five losses and two ties.

The past two years, records show, the Westerners have held two consecutive city championships and an undefeated eleven.

Stop Order Issued On Eakin-rd Site

A stop order issued by the Franklin County zoning commission stopped work on a structure being erected on Eakin-rd last week.

The area had been zoned as residential only as the result of a local election held Nov. 12, 1946.

The lot had been owned by the Baker and Hickey Co., bridge contractors. The office and warehouse of the Baker and Hickey Co. is at 2170 Eakin-rd. They are non-conformers to the zoning law, but permitted to stay there since rural zoning laws are not retroactive. Also, as the law stands, they would be allowed to expand by 50 per cent if any new structure is attached to the present building.

A construction company had already broken ground when the stop order was issued. Enforcement of the rural zoning law is the duty of Orlando Miller, county building supervisor.

Baker-Hickey officials said they had recently sold the property. It was a part of their eight acre plot on Eakin-rd.

The building was being built for a Mr. Blackstone of Zanesville who is in the grave vault business there. Mr. Blackstone could not be reached for comment, but the realtors handling the transaction said that the stop order will not be appealed and that there are no further plans for building on the Eakin-rd plot.

Zoning Decision Reversed By Commissioners

Franklin County Commissioners have reversed a decision of the Franklin County Zoning Commission in the first move of its kind since voters adopted a zoning program here last November.

The commissioners turned down a request of C. A. Powell of Hahn-rd to build a drive-in restaurant and truck stop along Harrisburg-pk near Alkire-rd.

Bean Dinner Show At Westmont, Old Trail 5 Nights

Did you make the movies?

The movie news reel taken at the Hilltop Bean Dinner and known as "For The Record" will be shown at the Old Trail Theater tonight, Friday and Saturday nights and at the Westmont Theater on Sunday and Monday.

L. C. Mauble, photographer, mingled with the crowds all afternoon and evening and "shot" several thousands of people in all the characteristic poses of a bean dinner — eating beans, standing in line, waiting for prizes, taking part in the contests and just visiting.

If you were in attendance at the bean dinner at any time there is a good chance your picture may be flashed on the screen as pointed out above.

Jack Sensenbrenner is commentator for the picture and will describe the various scenes and activities at the big party. The movie is produced as a public service feature of The Hilltop Record in cooperation with the Academy Theaters.

Attention is called to the bargain price coupon printed in today's Record, good for adults at the Old Trail Theater during a series of "Community Nights" this summer. The coupon printed in today's and next Tuesday's Record is good for 20c on an admission. The first coupon is good for the Wednesday, Aug. 10 show and subsequent coupons will be good for following Wednesday shows.

Robert Hicks Leads Federation Band

Musical educator and bandsman is Robert W. Hicks, West High graduate, who is conducting the concerts of the Federation of Musicians.

Mr. Hicks, who is the official leader of the 37th Infantry Division Band, quartered at Fort Hayes, is also instructor in instrumental music both at the Roosevelt Junior High School and at the South Side YMCA. He conducts classes twice a week at the "Y" this summer.

HBA Says Bean Dinner Best Yet; New Displays Popular

Another Hilltop Bean Dinner is history!

An estimated 25,000 or more people jammed Westgate Park Wednesday afternoon to eat baked beans and mingle with the thousands, their friends, neighbors and old time acquaintances.

Members of the Hilltop Business Association were in accord that this, the sixth annual Hilltop Bean Dinner, was the best of the lot presented to date and that each year's experience is making it possible to present bigger and better bean dinners.

Early Wednesday morning youngsters of the Westgate area began to make the rounds of the various tents and concessions and the crowd continued to grow until several thousand were on hand by one o'clock, the official opening time. This number continued to mount during the afternoon and the attendance was at a peak about 5 p. m. when the grounds took on a circus lot appearance with standing room only.

This year's bean dinner provided more entertainment than in past years with the addition of the merchants' displays. Some 18 Hilltop firms were present to display their wares and offer many prizes for contests, etc. The free merchandise and literature being handed out at every turn added to the country fair atmosphere.

Joe Goodwin, in charge of public address announcements, began sounding off at 1 p. m. when youngsters of the grounds were called together to take part in the various contests. Winners of these events are listed below.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Columbus Federation of Musicians Band and Carl Hartley's Dance Band and the Crawford brothers, with music for round and square dancing being furnished by Al Bettinger and his orchestra.

Jack Merriman, general chairman of the event, stated Thursday morning, "I'm well pleased with the affair and think everyone had a wonderful time. It was all due to the fine cooperation of my 12 co-chairman and the 175 workers and numerous other persons who helped."

Dick Holycross, 550 S. Oakley-av, was the first one to reach the top of the greased pole, winning the three prizes offered.

West Park Methodist beat the St. Aloysius nine by a score of 6-0 in the softball game, winning a new ball and bat. In the hard ball game Dublin beat the Sullivant Avenue Merchants, 5-2.

Other winners in the games held in the afternoon were:

Catherine Taylor, 518 Ryan-av, kangaroo race.

John Stonelock, 106 Richardson-av, boys' shoe race.

Joyce Wilson, 221 S. Wheatland-av, peanut race.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Ryan, 125 N. Grener-av, egg throwing contest.

Begin Apt. Construction

Construction of a new two-wing brick apartment house has been started at the corner of W. Broad and Lechner.

The building will house 18 apartments when it is completed. Each will be separately heated by gas, and there will be complete laundry facilities in the basement for each apartment. A drive-on ramp will be provided for parking. The building will have fireproof stairways and all hardwood floors.

The total cost of the land and improvements will be nearly $250,000. The building is being constructed by Tonti' Builders, Inc., 2370 W. Broad-st. Harry Roderick is the architect and the building is being financed by the Teachers Life and Annuity Co. of New York.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mrs. Mary L. Sullivan, 140 N. Eureka-av, attended the 48th world-wide Baraca Philathea convention in Alexandria, Va., July 18-24. Ada Johnson joined her on Friday night. Miss Johnson made the trip over Friday night by plane.

The convention closed with a sunrise service on Sunday morning. They spent the rest of the day touring Washington and returned to Columbus by plane that evening.

Miscellaneous Notes On This and That, From Here and There At Hilltop Bean Dinner

A bit of excitement entered the bean dinner activity in mid afternoon when a new type of ticket made its appearance at the concession stands. It seems someone gave out a lot of counterfeit tickets throughout the crowd and it was some time before they were discovered but many of them had been redeemed by that time.

If there was a bean dinner character it must have been Joe Goodwin, who presided at the public address system attired in a strip of felt hat and blazed away at the public all afternoon and evening with announcements of everything from prize winners to finding parents for lost children.

A man came to the Record tent and wanted a copy of the paper that contained the bean dinner bean recipe. He was a collector of recipes. His name was Joe Budnek and he lives at the YMCA.

More than 5000 reduced price birthday party tickets were given away at the Old Trail and Record tents.

First casualty of the afternoon was Clarence Story, who became sick after eating beans and had to go home.

A bit of excitement entered the picture when the operator of the ferris wheel stepped on a live wire, was shocked and the wheel kept going round and round.

Forty-five prizes were awarded in the afternoon and only 10 people who were called were not present.

Old timers like Floyd Green and Walter Ewing out serving beans and hot dogs all afternoon and evening were happy when the last bean had blown its top at 9:45 p. m.

Over 4800 hot dogs were served at the bean tent and every "barkin' dog" was cooked by Gust Roberts who still had time to cut a few buns in his spare moments.

Franklin Sparks estimated that more than 6500 servings of beans were made and the crowd consumed a total of 2800 pounds of the fruit.

Harry W. Briggs, 49 Orel-av, was a happy man. He needed a new refrigerator and after last night he now has one, the Crosley Shelvador given away by Nelson Appliance Store and Better Home Center. Incidentally, he didn't get the little model, attired in briefs, and inside the refrigerator when it was opened in front of the crowd. She, too, was a Hilltopper. Connie Niebel Casey, 19 S. Wheatland-av, now a professional model.

Madge Robbins, 468 S. Warren-av, will be doing her laundry the easy way after having her name called to come up and receive the Westinghouse Laundromat given away by Westgate Electric. Don Rice stated the washer would be delivered to her home today.

All the events were open to everyone and the Hoover sweeper given away by Seiler's was the only major prize that went to an "out of Hilltop limits" resident. It was taken by H. L. Germaine, 352 E. Oakland.

An elderly man with an electric iron that he won in the afternoon was pleased with the way prizes were given this year. "I had $200 worth of tickets, so I'll be back this evening," he smiled.

One of the contestants in the women's softball throwing contest for the "eight to eighty" group admitted being much closer to the maximum limit than the minimum. Her throw was nothing to be ashamed of though—a southpaw too.

• • •

Mrs. John Wesley made the rounds at the bean dinner with daughter Beverly firmly in hand. Beverly, you will recall, is the little girl who likes to run away.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

The Job's Daughters have really been busy this summer. Some of the girls have been vacationing, celebrating birthdays, working and others have been just plain loafing.

To start things off, Martha Hummell and her family were in a very serious accident while on vacation. Let's hope that they all have a quick recovery.

Jean Lockwood has been battling a bad cold for the past week. It must have been caused by the air-conditioning at Lazarus where she is employed.

Now after the worst is over we will bring in some good news. Judy Schulz and her family spent an enjoyable two weeks in Wisconsin at Boote Lake where they did lots of fishing. I understand that Judy caught the biggest Northern Pike that has been caught there in two years. It measured 30 inches long. Mrs. Schulz caught a 13½ inches long and nine inches wide crappie, and Mr. Schulz caught a 22½ inch fish. They said that the fish were plentiful and the weather was wonderful.

Traveling on we find that Shane Swartz and Patty Overmire vacationed a week at Lake Erie. They spent the time swimming, getting tanned, speed boat riding, and they even took an airplane ride. It surely sounded like they had a wonderful time.

Coming back home we find that Geneva Emrich just celebrated her sweet 16th birthday. So a great big "happy birthday" goes to you.

Recovering from the sick list is Joan Stevens who just about a month ago had an appendix operation.

Looking in on the Hardy family we see Sue busily packing her clothes cause she is going to Dayton to spend the week with her relatives. Have fun Sue and hurry back. Nancy is spendin her leisure time swimming and I don't blame her one bit.

Well that just about winds up the news this week.

Don't forget about our picnic Friday the 29th, from 4 to 11 p. m. at shelter house No. 2 along the river.

Before I forget it the Mothers Club is having another special meeting Thursday, so you can suspect that something is cooking.

See you all soon.

Dawna Frey's Engagement to Mr. Ealy Is Announced to Hilltop Friends

Miss Dawna J. Frey

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Frey, 107 S. Westmoor-av, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Dawna Jeanne, to Mr. Reuben Laurel Ealy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ealy, Gahanna, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a graduate of West High School and was formerly employed as a service representative by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. Ealy was graduated from Lincoln High School and is now attending Franklin University. He is associated with the Curtiss-Wright Corporation. He also served two and a half years with the AAF in Europe.

The open church ceremony will take place at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 6, at Peace Lutheran Church in Gahanna.

About Folks You Know

Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Churton and son of Huntington, W. Va., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, 546 Woodbury-av, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. McClain, 280 S. Roys-av, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Denton, 761 S. Hague-av, returned last Thursday from the Shrine Convention in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Engle, 44 S. Wheatland-av, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rucker, 110 Whitethorne-av, are leaving Sunday for a three-week vacation in Canada and the New England states.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrold Walter, 89 Demorest-rd, recently returned from their vacation on Catawba Island on Lake Erie. Last Wednesday they went to St. Mary's, O., to visit with Mrs. Mary Toben, Mrs. Walter's mother. They came back Saturday.

Mrs. R. L. Harlow, 49 S. Richardson-av, and her two daughters are at Camp Lancaster for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sorrells and their two children, 134 S. Harris-av, recently visited his parents in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Price, 361 Letchworth-av, announce the arrival of their first grandchild on Tuesday of this week at Doctor's Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Gill Price, 1880 W. Mound-st, are the parents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Killion (the former Jean McDonald) of Irving, Tex., arrived Friday for a two-week visit with Mrs. Killion's mother, Mrs. Wilma McDonald, 725 W. Broad-st.

The Briggsdale babies really showed 'em at the Grove City Homecoming. Edward Earl Mcnabb, 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNabb, Gantz-rd, was judged the most handsome boy in the nine to 18-month-old class. And then little 14-month-old Connie Shoaf — she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Shoaf, 2952 Alkire-rd—came along and received honorable mention for being one of the prettiest girls there!

James Bowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bowman, Rome-Hilliards-rd, left last Saturday for Camp Hood, Tex., after a two-month furlough here in Columbus with his parents. He expect to stay in Texas until his discharge in the middle of November.

The George Mullers at 227 N. Harris-av, are having quite a time this summer. First their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brown of Buffalo, came to visit them with their two children, Karen and Ronnie. After a three-week stay they left Sunday. That same day Mrs. Muller's sister, Mrs. Emma Anzalone, Astoria, L. I., and her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vogeler of Corona, L. I., arrived here for a visit. They expect to leave a week from Friday, taking Mr. and Mrs. Muller, back with them to New York. There the Mullers will visit another of her sisters, Mrs. Michael Rummo of Liberty, N. Y., then stay a few days in New York City, and later spend a week in Buffalo with their daughter. Then, and not until then, the Mullers will return to good ol' Columbus town.

Mrs. Iva Marsh, 223 N. Wayne-av, had visitors from Hartford, Conn., for dinner last Monday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Peets.

Garry Thompson, 11-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Engle, 44 S. Wheatland-av, is returning to his home in Cincinnati after a long visit in Columbus.

Wheeling, W. Va., has just presented the Hilltop with a charming new nurse, Angela Ebbert. She is now residing at 179 S. Ogden-av, and expects to work at Mt. Carmel.

Volunteers Serve 34,000 Meals in First Half Year

Though the thought of preparing 34,000 meals is a staggering one to the average housewife, that is the number of meals the Volunteers of America has given thu far in 1949, according to Lt. Colonel Susan Thom, head of the Columbus Post of that organization.

In the semi-annual statistical report released to Volunteers of America board members this week, Lt. Colonel Thom points out that more than 24,000 of the meals were given to relief clients and transient men who were staying overnight at the Volunteers of America shelter. The remaining 9000 meals of the total 34,000 went to employees in the Volunteers of America Industrial Department.

Additional items in the report include such figures as 1100 persons visited by the Sunset Club visitor; 10,000 books and magazines distributed in prison libraries; 7500 interviews in prisons; 64 job placements in the Volunteers of America free employment service; 24 recreational meetings for boys and girls and 26 meetings of men's club.

Dick Rasor, Don Rawlings Given Eagle Scout Awards

A father's 12-year wish was fulfilled last week when two Hilltop youths were made Eagle Scouts, scouting's highest rank.

Donald Rawlings, 621 Chestershire-rd, and Richard Rasor, 200 S. Cypress-av, both of West Park Methodist Church Troop 29, were among nine Central Ohio Boy Scouts given eagle awards by Dr. Bland L. Stradley, vice-president of Ohio State University and advancement chairman of the Boy Scout Council, at a colorful court of honor ceremonial at Camp Lazarus.

Cy Rawlings, scoutmaster of Troop 29, is the father of Donald Rawlings. He said that he has planned for the day his son would be an eagle scout since Donald was two years old. Donald went on overnight hikes with the scouts at the age of eight, although he was not permitted to join until he was 12. He is not 14 yet. He is a student at West High School.

Richard Rasor is 16 years old and has been in the scouts since the age of 12. He is now an assistant scoutmaster and a member of the Order of the Arrow, honorary scout fraternity. He graduated from Central High School and plans to enter Ohio State University where he will train to be a vocational arts instructor in mechanical engineering. He is president of the Youth Fellowship Council at the West Park Methodist Church.

Rasor Rawlings

The hobby of both boys is photography and both attended Camp Lazarus during the first period this year.

At the presentation Fred J. Milligan, president of the Boy Scout Council, told those honored, "The Boy Scouts of all nations are one of the most wholesome and significant movements of the world's history and you have been counted worthy of high rank in its membership. All who know you rejoice in your achievement."

COUNTRY ROADS

These roads at cross with lane
Bend out that hills may be,
Or slack with brooks where men
Have walked for company.

Narrow by the hayfields,
They widen under trees,
For they are country roads
By wooded inns of ease.

The weary along the way,
Have fern on which to lie,
Turning their thoughts from field
To pastures for the eye.

Should a traveler discover
Upon the bracken bed,
His sheep will all come home,
And peace be on his head.

Central Ohio Entries Open For Junior Olympics

The City Recreation Department will sponsor participation in the Junior Olympics for Columbus and central Ohio.

The Junior Olympics, the pet hobby of Mayor James A. Rhodes, will be held in Cleveland for the second consecutive year on Aug. 19 and 20.

It is the plan of the Recreation Department to hold the local and central Ohio eliminations on Aug. 12 and 13 at the Ohio State Stadium with the winners going to Cleveland with all expenses paid.

The competition will be divided into the following age groups and into the following events:

Boys 12-13 will compete in:
1. 50-yard dash
2. 200-yard shuttle relay
3. Running broad jump or 3 standing broads
4. Running high jump
5. 12 or 14-inch baseball throw

Boys 14-15 will compete in:
1. 75-yard dash
2. 50-yard low hurdles
3. 200-yard shuttle hurdle relay
4. 440-yard relay (4 men) or half mile relay (8 men)
5. Running high jump
6. Running broad jump
7. 8-pound shot put

Boys 16-17 will compete in:
1. 100-yard dash
2. 220-yard dash
3. 440-yard run
4. 880-yard run
5. Mile run
6. Mile relay
7. 880-yard relay
8. 120-yard high hurdles
9. 200-yard low hurdles or 220-yard (optional)
10. Running high jump
11. Running broad jump
12. 12-pound shot put

All boys of the above ages who may be interested in competing in any of the events may make an official entry at the City Recreation Department, Room 124, City Hall. No individual can enter more than three events and no charge will be made to any participants for this competition. The entries for all events in all classes will close on Tuesday noon, Aug. 9.

Seiller's Window Display Wins Third Prize And $100 Check for Clarence Fuhr In National Contest

A window display at Seiller's Department Store won $100 and a third prize in a national contest for Clarence Fuhr, 1548 W. Broad-st, window designer for the store.

The contest was sponsored by the Merit Clothing Co., Mayfield, Ky. W. F. Foster, president of the company, notified Mr. Fuhr that he had won the prize in the contest which was open to men's clothing stores all over the country.

The prize winning display was an advertisement for Style-Mart men's summer suits. All the props, including the snow-man in the display, were made by Mr. Fuhr.

This honor was the third such prize won by Mr. Fuhr during the four years he has been employed by Seiller's. He won first prize in a contest sponsored by the Wilmington Hosiery Mills, Wilmington, Del., and honorable mention in a national contest on women's apparel display.

Mr. Fuhr has been in the window display business for 22 years. He attended the Columbus Art School where he studied four years of fine art and three years of commercial art.

Mr. Fuhr said that a window display must be built around a focal point of interest and so composed that it is not only attractive to the eye, but also instills in the prospective customer the desire to buy.

He said that on numerous occasions the store had sold out of an article that had been advertised only by a window display.

Scene From 'Outpost In Morroco'

This tender scene is from "Outpost in Morocco," in which George Raft plays a captain in a brigade attached to the French Foreign Legion who falls in love with the daughter of a warring Arab chieftain. Lovely Marie Windsor is the girl. The film opens Sunday at the Westmont Theater, and the second feature will be "Caught", starring James Mason, Robert Ryan and Barbara Bel Geddes.

Meals on a Tray Save Time, Energy In the Hot Weather

By ALICE DENHOFF

ABOUT now the kitchen gets too hot, the table seems too small for the company invited to stay to supper, the stove-to-table steps become tiring.

What to do? Well one way to ease up service is to join the tray-toting society and walk away from your troubles. Load supper on individual trays. Call the family or company to tote them to the most comfortable spot in house or garden. Porch? Game room? That dim, cool living-room couch? Each tray holds a meal, an adequate meal geared to the season with luscious salads, cold cuts, frosty fruit drinks, nice hot coffee and hot breads and rolls quickly whipped up with those wonderful mixes.

Line up the trays on a table. Knives, forks, dishes, napkins in place. Scoop individual servings on to plates from "the chilled-since-morning salad bowl. Here are some suggestions to help along the tray program.

Good Cole Slaw

For a nice slaw to serve on its own or as a side course, cut 4 hard-cooked eggs in lengthwise halves; remove yolks. Mash yolks with tbsp. mayonnaise taken from ⅔ c. mayonnaise, add ¼ tsp. grated onion, ½ tsp. dry mustard, ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Refill egg whites with mixture, press halves together. Chill. Combine remainder of mayonnaise, 4 c. finely shredded cabbage and ½ c. chopped nuts. Slice eggs. Arrange slaw on platter, top with egg slices and garnish with watercress. Serves 4 to 6.

Sandwiches come into their own about now as luncheon or supper fare. For a nice filling combine 2 c. chopped shrimp, ⅓ c. sliced radishes, ¼ c. chopped cucumber, ⅓ c. grated carrot and ½ c. mayonnaise. Butter 12 bread slices, fill, sprinkle with ½ tsp. celery salt.

For an easy-to-handle dessert, prepare gingerbread mix according to recipe. Before baking it, though, spread the top of the prepared mix with a mixture made by beating stiff two egg whites, then gradually adding 2 tbsp. sugar. Fold in ¼ c. tart jelly, well mashed. Then bake as usual. Your friends will find this baked frosted gingerbread a real treat.

By Charles Beschler

Inter-playground tournaments have been occupying first place in the affairs of John Burroughs for the past week. Horseshoes, badminton, checkers, and softball have been the major activities.

In horseshoes, Garland Edwards, John Burroughs senior representative, gave Dana a good bit of competition, but lost his three game match. Eddie Gliebs, junior representative, succeeded in defeating West Broad but lost his second tournament match to Dana.

In checkers, David Brophy, representing John Burroughs, defeated West Broad, and followed this with a victory over Chicago Avenue. He has by these two victories won the Hilltop and West Side matches, and is now ready to take on the South Side winner who will represent Southwood playground. Wilbert Werling, J. B.'s senior representative, first drew a bye and then won his second match from Chicago Avenue. Wilbert is also ready to take on the South Side winner in the semi-finals.

In badminton, Mary Jo McNamee gave Virginia Whiston of Dana two good games, but lost them both. Bevery Pickens, senior representative, had defeated Dorothy Schulze of Dana and Southwood's representative in a three game contest. Beverly's cheering section helped her to come from behind to win the last two of the three matches. She is now set to meet the winner of the Northeast section for the City School Playgrounds senior girl badminton championship.

Wilbert Werling, senior badminton representative of J. B., had a bye at first, and then gave Jack Miller of Dana three fast games; winning the last two by coming up from a 9 to 3 score in Jack's favor. Wilbert is scheduled to play Southwood for the southwest finals—Thursday at 6:00.

In softball John Burroughs drew a bye, but is now set to play West Broad who defeated Dana in the first elimination match. This game is scheduled for Thursday at West Broad diamond at 1:00.

State To Mark 10,000 Miles of Roads; Drivers Warned to Avoid Wet Paint

T. J. Kauer, director of the Ohio Department of Highways, has announced that the stripping of some 10,000 miles of state highways was under way to provide protection and guidance for motorists.

Director Kauer is appealing to motorists to avoid tracking up wet pavement markings which are being placed there for their own safety and protection.

"Defacement of wet pavement markings," he said, "costs the State Highway Department thousands of dollars each year. It also endangers the safety of traffic using the highways."

The Uniform Traffic Act of Ohio prohibits "the driving upon or over any freshly painted centerline, lane line, letter, number or symbol on the surface of the roadway while the paint is still in an undried condition and is marked by flags, markers, signs or other devices intended to protect it." A number of arrests have been made by the State Highway Patrol for the tracking up of freshly painted pavement markings.

Director Kauer pointed out that the highway markings would include center-lines and lane lines to guide motorists preventing collisions, and yellow no-passing zone lines to indicate where overtaking and passing is hazardous.

Approximately 3,000 miles of primary or main state highways throughout the state are being painted before starting on between 7,000 or 9,000 miles of so-called secondary state highways.

Some 198,000 gallons of paint will be applied, enough to paint over 13,000 houses, figuring an average of 15 gallons per house.

Six traffic line stripers, designed by the State Highway Department's Division of Traffic and Safety, are being used in applying the pavement markings. These stripers can paint 50 or more miles of line a day and can apply two colors simultaneously.

Where the yellow no-passing or "barrier" line is painted alongside the white centerline to warn the driver that he should always keep to the right of the yellow line when in his lane, the stripers are capable of applying three lines continuously where passing is restricted in each direction.

Words of the Wise

Look over the whole creation, and you shall see that the hand, or cement, that holds together all the parts of this great and glorious fabric is gratitude.

Odd Fact

A new development in the oyster industry consists of a giant "vacuum cleaner" that sweeps the bottom of the sea, and sucks up about 1,000 bushels of oysters an hour.

Rev. M. E. Allton Vacation Minister At Local Church

Morris E. Allton

Rev. Morris E. Allton, assistant director of legislation and public affairs for the Ohio Farm Bureau, will occupy the pulpit of the Hillcrest Baptist Church as one of the church's vacation ministers on Sundays, Aug. 7 and 21, during the pastor's August leave of absence from the pulpit. His subjects on the respective Sundays will be "Keeping Life In Balance" and "Faith That Faces Tomorrow."

Mr. Allton, who is an ordained minister of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, is a graduate of Otterbein College and Bonebrake Theological Seminary. He has also done graduate work in the fields of psychology and rural sociology at Ohio State University.

Mrs. R. N. Menge will be guest soloist for Sunday, Aug. 7, the time of the service being 10:30 a. m.

Other Hillcrest pulpit guests during August will be Rev. Edwin C. Gordon of Jackson, on Sunday, Aug. 14, and Judge E. J. Millington of Cincinnati, Sunday, Aug. 28.

Late Shows Featured At CCC Auto Show

Late shows are featured seven nights a week at the CCC Auto Theater, out Harrisburg Pike way. The last feature goes on the screen at approximately 11 o'clock nightly. The main feature is shown twice, first time at dusk and then at 11. The accompanying feature is presented between the two features.

"Ma and Pa Kettle", starring Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride is featured Friday and Saturday. Baseball fans who missed "The Babe Ruth Story" will get another chance on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This story of the late Bambino of New York Yankee fame stars William Bendix and has been hailed as one of the better baseball movies. Second features are included on both programs.

Do Record Ads Get Results? Read On - - -

By checking with our advertisers each week, we get a pretty clear picture of the results that are being produced by Hilltop Record want ads; and, we might add, the picture is consistently good.

Here are a few typical examples:

(a) Mason Wolfenbarger, 424 N. Grener-rd, owner of the Daisy Roofing Co., obtained 12 jobs in one day from his regular Record ad; one job amounted to $400.

(b) Wishing to buy a double bed, Mrs. Margaret Morris, 50 N. Warren-av, placed a "Wanted" ad in last Tuesday's Classified Section. She purchased a bed from a Record Reader that same evening.

(c) Mrs. J. Shafer, 667 Wiltshire-rd, sold her automobile on the morning following the appearance of her ad. "I could have sold it six times," she told us.

(d) Not everyone can find a place to live within a few yards of their job, but Mrs. Minnameyer, an employee of the Economy Drug Store at Warren and Broad-sts, did just that. Thanks to her "Wanted To Rent" ad, she was able to locate an apartment on S. Warren-av, just off Broad-st.

(e) If you think rooms can't be rented, ask Bob Limle, 551 S. Eureka-av. He advertised two sleeping rooms. Result: 20 persons called the first day.

We could go on and on citing specific examples of the wonderful "pulling power" of Record Want Ads, but we want YOU to enjoy the benefits derived from this ideal Hilltop medium. And remember — there's no time like the present! Call RA. 1125.

Lutheran Men To Meet Aug. 5

The summer meeting of the Lutheran Men's Club of Columbus will be held at the York Temple Country Club on Friday, Aug. 5. There will be golf for the golfers in the afternoon. Dinner will be served outdoors at 6:30 and then a program of music, movies and an address will follow.

Featured as the speaker of the evening is the Reverend Mr. Valbracht, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church of Zanesville.

All Lutheran men of Franklin County and their friends are invited to this meeting, Andrew J. White, Jr., chairman of the committee on arrangements, announced Monday. He also asks that reservations for the dinner be made by phoning him.

Urge Vacationists To Prevent Fires

Conservation Commissioner H. A. Rider this week joined with state forestry officials in the annual plea to vacationists and tourists to prevent forest fires.

A little extra caution with matches and fires in the heavily wooded sections of the state will prevent the little fires that cause big ones.

Over 900,000 forest, woods and range fires destroy enough trees of saw-timber size to build about 86,000 five-room homes in the United States annually; enough pole-size trees to provide a 12-month supply of newsprint for every newspaper in America. These fires damage watersheds, reducing water supplies for domestic use, irrigation and electrical power. They destroy range, livestock and essential grain.

Practically every business feels the economic loss resulting from fires. Construction, lumber, utilities, agriculture, newspapers, railroads, and so on down the line—all feel the pinch in the form of shortages, higher prices, or actual fire damage to their properties.

There are other tremendous losses that cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Forest fires turn scenic landmarks and beautiful recreational areas into charred waster. Then, too, there is a great loss of wildlife and even human lives.

Facts show that only 10 per cent of all forest, woods and range fires are started by lightning. But 90 per cent are caused by people. If nine out of 10 fires are man-caused, then nine out of 10 can be prevented.

The job is a tough one for two reasons. The average person considers himself above starting a fire. It's always "the other guy" who does the damage. And, even though fire-prevention efforts have been effective, fires still occur so regularly that they appear to be unavoidable. Too many people feel there will always be a great number of fires no matter what is done to prevent them.

A Little Bit Of Everything

By russ lang

This department is very much afraid that not many of us could prove beyond question his lack of "selfish interests" if put to the test before a fact finding board.

With so much else changing in this modern age, is kindness, too, going out of style? Many people seem utterly unable to fathom—let alone cope with—a simple routine gesture of good fellowship.

A fellow we know turned up suddenly with two extra reserved seat passes for the circus. Yours truly agreed to spread himself out over one, and thankfully too. Our experiences with free ticket No. 2 are worth telling.

This man, an old friend, is not the sort of guy who would just up and march over to any old character, thrust the comp on him and go on about his business. First, we had to ransack the crowd for a worthy citizen—preferably one of tender years and of a different race. It is hard to believe but we couldn't locate a solitary party of any variety.

All this sifting of the multitude, understand, was going on in July heat. After more than 30 minutes research, we began to offer it to all comers. This department knows now what it is to be both solvent and in the mood to give away $10 bills at a street corner. The experience would be gruelling enough to demand permanent insolvency henceforth and a complete avoidance of emotional exaltation.

In short, nobody would take the free ticket—even in the fact of considerable eloquence by this bird. Our hero was just about to tear it up in something of a pet when, lo and behold, we encountered a lone man contemplating the side show barker. Our man shouted, "Here is a FREE ticket—it costs nothing—all information is on the FREE ticket." We turned and ran.

Our comrade is a pretty complex character, at that. He was not so all-fired upset as to ignore his stomach but unnerved enough to walk into the menagerie tent crunching a hot dog.

Disaster No. 2 came from an unexpected quarter. When the two of us came to rest, we found ourselves athwart the 50 yard line. For the first time in the longish life of this department, we were right smack in the middle of the stands. We had hardly had a chance to favor our man with the proper looks of respect when a men behind us started to explain each act in advance. He had seen all four performances without a miss.

That this is a mechanized age, is indicated beyond question when two caterpillars snort in to haul away cages of performing animals. It is trying our patience a little too much, if you ask this dept.

SHIPS USED AS FLOATING GRANARIES TO STORE SURPLUS CROPS

Barge-to-elevator-to-ship chain handles bumper grain crop.

Grain shoveled into elevator for "lift" to ship.

WITH STORAGE SPACE at a premium due to a record grain crop, the government is using ships as floating storage bins to ease the farmers' problems. A floating elevator at Jersey City, N. J., speeds the process of storing surplus grain in the ship Benjamin Hawkins, surrounded by heavily laden barges awaiting their turn. The Hawkins is one of 12 ships of the Hudson river reserve fleet turned into a "grain bin" by Uncle Sam to care for the 1949 bumper crop. (International)

Palmer Mansion in Chicago Opened to Public First Time

POTTER PALMER MANSION—Here ruled Chicago's queen of society for many years before turn of century.

By LUCIA PERRIGO
Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO—Proving there is a wide streak of peasant in every city dweller, Chicago's thousands tromped through their "Castle on the Drive," the million dollar, deserted Potter Palmer mansion, the other day, paying a dollar a head to have a holiday of sight-seeing.

It was the first time the public at large had ever seen the inside of the baronial landmark overlooking Lake Michigan and they approached it with all the awe and wonderment of serfs turned loose in a feudal castle.

The gates were opened and the giant doors ajar as $50,000 worth of personal effects of the Palmer estate were put on sale. Within the first few hours of the week's sale, 3,000 persons had purchased and carted away in station wagons, limousines, and even a few tin lizzies, such knick-knacks as gold-leaf wedding chests six feet high, carved, canopy beds, Chinese statuary, silver service.

Rumors ran high that the 67-year-old castle built at a cost of $1,000,000; sold for a reported $5,000,000 to Vincent Bendix in 1938 and returned to the Palmer estate in 1938, was going to be torn down and replaced by an apartment building.

Actually, the great red sandstone structure, weathered almost black, its turrets covered with ivy, is still on the market—for $850,000.

THIS PRICE is a cue to changed times, of an end of an era when the social life of Chicago was centered in its gaslit elegance, ostentatious rooms and salons. Economic readjustment has hurled it into the discard, along with its rival edifices on Prairie avenue; all too enormous for family dwelling and too burdened with taxes.

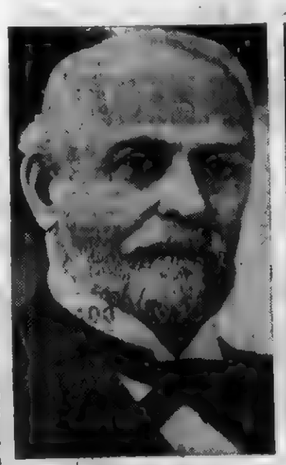
However, for a week, Chicagoans could stroll through the palace and recall the days of their city from a prairie town of crude dwellings to the hey-day of enterprising men like Potter Palmer whose drive and dollars built fame and fine homes and far-flung commercial empires.

Inextricably bound with the romance of the castle is the life of its owners, Palmer and his handsome bride, Bertha Honore, who was to rule Chicago society with the manners of a queen and indeed look like one in her velvet and ermine, pearls and diamond tiara.

The Palmer millions sprang from his vision of making State street the shopping mecca for a nation, of laying the merchandising foundations of Marshall Field and Company, of building the Palmer House as the world's first fireproof hotel.

Palmer was influential enough to begin the exodus of the rich from Prairie avenue northward to the reclaimed land lying north of the present Loop.

Leaving Albany county, N. Y., at 17, he worked as a store clerk and eventually came to Chicago in 1852 at 26 to start a store which, because of ill health, he sold to Field and Levi S. Leiter in 1867.



Upon recovery of his health he went into real estate and purchased a mile of land along State street, which branched off the main thoroughfare of Lake street. Within four years he had erected 32 buildings and widened the street in determination to win the trade away from Lake street, which he did.

ALTHOUGH Palmer refused the portfolio of secretary of the Interior under President Ulysses S. Grant, he and his bride, whom he first had noticed on her frequent shopping trips to his store, entertained Grant, and Presidents Garfield and McKinley as well.

The Prince of Wales (later King Edward VII), and Russian and Spanish royalty were among the impressive list of guests whose carriages stopped under the porte cochere of the castle.

The castle may have been built by Palmer, but it was his young, regal bride who furnished it with murals by Ferrier, Empire chairs,

Potter Palmer

Mrs. Potter Palmer

red velvet walls for the ballroom where the New Year's Eve ball was Chicago's greatest social event each year. Carved paneling, parquet floors, mosaic walls set with cameos all added to stun the beholders.

Bertha Palmer was absolute ruler of society and it is said a message passed through 27 hands before it came to her attention.

PALMER, who was twice his wife's age, shunned large gatherings, preferring his room in the tower, but he adored his beautiful bride and loved to lavish gems and furs upon her to the point where he was once heard to remark with pride:

"There she stands with $200,000 on her!"

Although she was a great favorite on both continents, Bertha Palmer lived quietly after her husband's death and until her own in 1918 returned to Chicago each year from her sumptuous home in Florida to present her annual charity ball.

Upon her passing, her sons Potter II and Honore occupied the house until they sold it to Bendix. However, the social life went out of the palace and returned as a mere wan ghost of the glittering days when nearly 10 years ago Bertha's granddaughter made her debut there. During the war the Red Cross used the castle.

Now, its only hope of life seems to be as a clubhouse or headquarters for an organization. It stands proud, amid its well-kept grounds, deserted but still displaying a grandeur and grace of long ago.

DRAMA ON THE NORTH RIVER

Still struggling, the rescued man is removed to a hospital.

CALLED when an unidentified man jumps into the North river in New York City, and starts to swim away from the dock, fully clothed, police quickly shed their clothes, dive in and rescue him. The man fought his rescuers off for a time but was overpowered, taken aboard police launch, tied up, taken to St. Clair's hospital. (International)

Lower Prices Are Needed To Stimulate New Demands

By John Kelly

Responsible surveys and personal inquiries indicate that lower prices are needed to uncover a fresh, new layer of demand.

The ultimate consumer, as you and all of us are known, has seen prices recede from peak levels. People believe that further downward adjustments will continue. In the meantime, unnecessary buying is being postponed in the hope of lower prices.

No other explanation appears reasonable or logical in the light of our huge national income, bulwarked by the record backlog of cash-equivalent savings and the availability of very easy credit terms. Naturally the will to spend vastly affects demand.

As the standard of living rises far above the level of bare subsistence, more and more purchases become postponable. People are able to time their buying—of durable goods particularly—to suit their pleasure. When the customers' most pressing needs have been taken care of, price becomes a consideration.

It doesn't make any difference whether prices are really too high or if people just think they are—the end result is the same. Although it is not clear what circumstances brought all this about the fact remains that the public's mood has changed.

In all likelihood it will turn out that the most troublesome problem of the current transition from abnormal to normal is the problem of price adjustment. Many industries will think the problem beyond their power to solve.

Nevertheless, declining sales will force lower prices, through the effects of competition. The business which recognizes this and cuts its cloth to fit will contribute most to recovery.

Prices of many raw materials have dropped. Prices of some others will drop further when new crops come in. These declines in basic commodities are being passed along to the consumer in encouraging fashion.

It remains to be seen just how high are the well publicized "high break even points" of industry. Most certainly the point is much higher than in the past. Many of the expenses of doing business are fairly rigid and have increased, as have those of the customers.

The elimination of inefficiencies accumulated during the long period of capacity business will result in further savings. Costs are reduced by inventory cutting, by abundant supplies and prompt delivery of materials. Only the gray and black markets which accompanied the boom enabled many to continue operations. Resort to such sources, naturally, was very expensive.

Industry is making a frantic effort to reduce expenses from top to bottom. With the cooperation of labor, it is hoped that wages can be maintained at present levels. There is evidence that good progress is being made in this direction.

Courtesy pays you when you drive. It pays, says the Safety Council, to dim your lights, even if the other fellow does not dim his. It's safer for you if the other driver can see, even if you are blinded by his lights.

Make Early Entries In Junior State Fair

By Myron T. Seifert

Vacation and education go hand in hand for members of the Columbus Boy and Girl Choir Schools, including many Hilltoppers, who are improving their musical abilities by attending the high school choral camp at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., this summer.

Theory and harmony courses in music are included in the work here, and some time during their stay at the popular resort a public concert is staged.

Forty girls returned last week from an enjoyable itinerary, and the boys, who left July 7, for their training period of five weeks, are already making preparations in the field of music at Lake Chautauqua now.

The musical excellence of the Boychoir has established it as one of the finest singing groups in America. In the third year of the school (spring, 1943) the choir sang its way to fame. The boys had been singing as frequently as possible around Columbus to enlist interest in the school but up to then their reputation was local.

One day Siegfried Hearst, a representative of the National Concerts and Artists Corp., passed through Columbus and dropped in on a rehearsal. He was delighted at the musical excellence of the choir and insisted on an immediate New York debut for the boys.

The choir went—as they went everywhere at the time—wondering how the expenses would be met, and apprehensive of their reception. So, under the direction of Herbert Huffman, the choir made its eastern debut at Town Hall in May. Their singing won immediate acclaim.

From this outstanding success they received a special request from the State Department in Washington to make a series of radio transcriptions for distributing in Latin America, and their laurels became international.

Perhaps the boys' own choice as their most outstanding accomplishment would be the meeting with Albert Einstein. When they discovered that Princeton was on the itinerary, they clamored to see the great scientist in person. Huffman, of course, laughed and said that many Princetonians had never had that opportunity. Refusing to take "no" for an answer, a group of the more adventuresome spirits in the choir revealed their desire to a local minister and by some deed of undercover diplomacy Einstein was persuaded to desert his work for a moment. Their wish granted, the boys showed their appreciation by performing the Sanctus by Chesnehoff.

The Boychoir itinerary included more than 40 concert engagements, traveling as far east as Worcester, Mass., and as far west as Brainerd, Minn., winning the sincere praise of the critics and delighting thousands of music lovers across the country.

The Broad Street Presbyterian Church donated quarters to the school and the future assumed a rosier glow. Columbus, never slow to recognize talent, pledged funds for the maintenance of the school and from other sections of the country came contributions to further the work of the school. Through the generosity of its firm believers, the school, which started on faith and a $6,000 budget, has now embarked on a building campaign and during the past year has received more than $100,000 of the $150,000 needed.

Hilltop boys on the 1948-49 roster of the Boychoir are Frank R. Faistl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Faistl, 31 N. Wayne-av; Richard H. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris, 2275½ W. Broad-st; Jerry E. McLinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLinn, 319 Binns-blvd; Roger Suver, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Suver, 590 Woodbury-av; Roy L. Deemer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vancil F. Deemer, 67 S. Brinker-av; Michael E. Matheny, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Matheny, 179 N. Warren; John A. Steward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Steward, 369 S. Chase-av.

Robert M. Sutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurley E. Sutton, 155 Binns-blvd; James W. Branson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Branson, 53 S. Algonquin-av; James D. Emmitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Emmitt, 84 N. Guilford-av; Joel A. Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin M. Hutchison, 3033 Crescent-dr; Marcus J. Langholz, son of Rev. and Mrs. Christian T. Langholz, 304 S. Huron-av; James M. Skaates, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Skaates, 226 Eldoh-av; David M. Westlake, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Westlake, 3294 W. Broad-st; and David L. Guyton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Guyton, 143 S. Princeton-av.

A Columbus Girls' Choir, counterpart of the celebrated Columbus Boys' Choir, is in the process of organization, under the direction of Herbert Huffman.

A number of West Side and Hilltop girls are listed in the new group, Mr. Huffman's office announced this week, following a competitive try-out of more than 300 girls recently.

And Have Not Love — By Margaret Nichols

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

CECILY was trying to tell her daughter that she was going to die.

Beatrice stammered, "But... not..."

Cecily nodded. "Two years at the most. It's funny, too, because that's just about how long my money will last." She opened her eyes wide. "It does melt so, doesn't it? I had no idea I had spent so much." She added, and there was sweetness in her voice, "I have lived in the only way I could—according to my nature. But now..."

And what Beatrice could not tell her that what astounded her so was that her mother was not taking this according to her nature, for she was making no drama of it, and Cecily had always dramatized everything.

"Yes?" Beatrice asked.

"Well," Cecily drawled, and her eyes were delighted with the quick thoughts that were running around in her mind, "when I knew about it, I came home and went to bed, and poor Elizabeth didn't know what to do. I was so alone, and you know how I've always loved having people around me all the time. I wanted everyone to come to see me, all my friends at my bedside." She sat up straight. "But then all at once it came to me that this hurts other people more than it hurts you when you know it's inevitable. And people have been good to me, darling. You know they have. So wonderfully good. And so I thought that the only thing I could give them was not to hurt them."

Beatrice bit into her lip. Cecily giving at last, she thought, still too astonished to say anything. A strange gift—the gift of her unimpaired gaiety and merry little ways, her extravagance and never being on time. Losing herself at last by continuing to be herself for all her devoted friends. Cecily who had never been courageous had found the courage that made her want to be brave for her friends. The untapped resources in all of us, Beatrice thought.

Beatrice said, "Mother, I think that people have been very good to you because you expected goodness from them. Somehow the least of us rise up to giving what is asked of us. It's curious but if you tell an incorrigible child that she is a good little girl suddenly she is, because you have asked for the goodness that is in her."

"I suppose there are wicked people, but I've never known anyone who was really bad," Cecily said. A memory floating to the surface made her laugh. "The stingiest man I ever knew became a generous one when I told him how generous he was. Isn't it wonderful, darling, that we can be friends like this?"

Beatrice thought, I forgive you for my neglected childhood, forgive and absolve, because in the end it is really you who must pay dearly for my pain in the knowledge that although as women we can be friends, the binding tissue of great love is missing. It is missing because it has to be earned.

"Oh, dear, it's late! It's always later than you think, isn't it?"

It's always later than you think! It was strange that sometimes and without premeditation her mother could say things like that.

"We must dress," Cecily said.

"Dress?"

"I haven't said you have to? We're dining here. Just a few of us, and then we're going to the theater."

"Who?"

"You know them all," Cecily said.

Beatrice went into the deep gloom of the guest room, turned on the lights, and began resolutely to prepare for bathing and dressing. The recent shocks, one following upon another like a chain reaction, had left her now impervious to sensation. She felt like Marianne's beloved rag doll and would, she knew, until she went home be as helplessly engulfed in Cecily's plans for her as would the rag doll.

Later she took the gold taffeta frock from the bag and easily stepped into it. It was severely plain and glitterless, the buttons its only trimming, with long sleeves, a full skirt, and a high small collar. A few deft strokes of the brush, and her hair lay against her head like a smooth and shining cap.

She heard the ringing of the bell while she was putting on lipstick and perfume. A few people were unestimable. There might be four or twelve, total strangers to her though Cecily had said she knew them, or old friends of Cecily's that she had known her whole life, or refugees, or the obscure, or the famous. There was simply no telling.

She sighed deeply, knowing it would be many hours before she would be given the charity of sleep, squared her shoulders, lifted her head that had too often lately felt like a parched and drooping flower, and went back to the living room.

A tall, slender man with smooth fair hair, a man in dinner clothes turned from the window, and Beatrice saw with startled joy that it was David—David whose presence shook her immediately out of numbness and lethargy, who seemed to make the ground solid for her under the frivolous black sandals on her feet. He who by the depth of his concern for her, gave her the answer she had been seeking since that day last October when she had come into another living room, Libby's, and had seen him for the first time. The answer, the only one that could be breaking into her consciousness like a welcoming light on a dark path.

He laughed and said coming toward her, "It's all Cecily's fault, darling, and I feel precisely like the surprise at the bottom of a popcorn box. Hello." He took both her hands and held them. "You are perfectly right. I do spend most of my time on trains and planes. I have the feeling I'm becoming a sort of vanishing pseudo-American. But when Cecily told me you were coming—"

"I remember now. You met her when Libby was here." Libby. Above all, she must not mention Libby again unless he did.

He laughed. "Everything else would have been in vain if I hadn't met Cecily. She's extraordinary. But the most spectacular thing about her is that she is your mother."

And then Cecily was coming in wearing a frock of that particular shade of blue that she liked—a frock of gossamer softness—and Elizabeth was answering the bell again. And then Henry Boarman—big, hulking, bald Henry, a bachelor and Cecily's friend and business counselor, her long suffering and devoted admirer—joined them. And these were the "few" Cecily had said she was expecting. Just these two, her old friend Henry and David. But Cecily did not require quantity to make a party and to scintillate.

Dinner followed cocktails. A superb dinner. The conversation sparkled, because David was at his best, and Henry's observations of the current scene were invariably tinged with subtle humor, and Cecily's golden laughter was as fresh as morning. And Beatrice found herself absorbed in what the men were saying.

And under the candlelight her eyes moved from David's face with its taut muscles and compassionate eyes to the enormous hulk of Henry Boarman. Why, she had often asked herself in the past, were the men that her mother knew so loyal to her? To that, too, she thought, she had the answer now.

They were constant, these men, because despite all Cecily's lacks and faults she was essentially not only a lovable woman, but also a woman who knew not by cultivation but by instinct that men, almost above all, like to be comfortable. Cecily might make them wait an hour for her to finish the ritual of dressing, but they knew that the dinner would be superb. And while Cecily could look perfectly blank about a political problem, she could, on the other hand, make a man feel his power as a man. Granted, Beatrice thought, her mother's prodigal spendings, her frequent marriages, and what was often pure witlessness, she had, nonetheless, never partitioned herself into fragments. She was first and last exquisitely feminine, thoroughly a woman, and men, weary of women who broke themselves into parts, recognized her womanliness, were drawn to it and desired it. There was no mystery why she had not married any of the innumerable men who had been eager to marry her after her divorce from Eddie. It was simply that had she done so, she would have sacrificed the money that Eddie had left her, that being a stipulation of the will. And Cecily, woman-like again, would not gamble her known and treasured security.

And then, because she knew David was looking at her, Beatrice looked at him. They exchanged the reassuring glances of people in whom there are no discordant notes.

They arrived at the theater just as the lights were dimming.

Rea-Bow News

By Jo Ann Kidd

More than 100 people were served at the jitney supper, at Rea-Bow Hall two weeks ago. It will be repeated this Saturday, July 30, by request from some who got in too late to be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Brandenberger of 2025 Whitehead-rd, Carl Brandenberger of Harrisburg-pk and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brandenberger of S. High-st, spent the week-end fishing at Put-in Bay on Lake Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Jackson, 908 Midland-av, attended the funeral of John Shelin in Columbus Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delinger, 2248 Whitehead-rd, have as visitors Mrs. Lara Hammer, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Nora Coffman, Harrisburg, Va. They are sisters of Mrs. Delinger.

Bill Kidd, 2259 Vadis-st, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wedemeyer and Lois of Columbus, visited in Delaware Saturday evening.

A wiener roast was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wolf, 856 Midland-av, for officers of The Constitutional Money League of Columbus. Mr. Wolf was a former officer. They donated 10 dollars to Rea-Bow, to purchase a window for the new hall.

Mrs. Lula Kasper and Mary Lou , Whitehead-rd, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ridings, Columbus, Saturday.

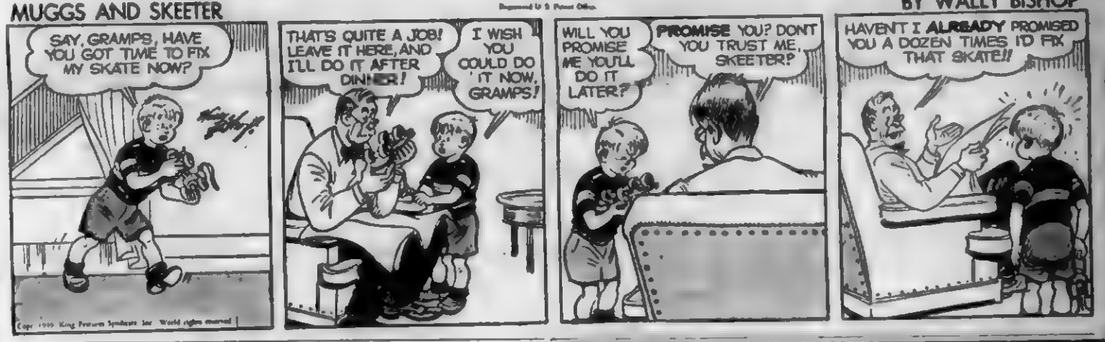
Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barber, 2021 Rea-av, have as visitors this week Mrs. George Lash and sons, Kenny and Bill of Nelsonville.

Mr. and Mrs. French Morris and family, 982 Whitethorne-av, were visited last Friday by Mrs. Garland Gardner and daughter, Barbara of Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Kimberling, 875 Midland-av, Mrs. Frank Higganbotham and Beulah of Grove City and William Higganbotham of Columbus, attended the funeral of a relative, William Brannon of Dunbar, W. Va. last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Jackson and children and Ralph Barnett, 908 Midland-av, went fishing at Osh dam Monday evening.

Mrs. Lulu Kasper is ill at her home on Whitehead-rd with an ear infection.



Mr. and Mrs. Henry Birtcher, 927 Midland-av, were visited all last week by Mrs. Mildred Steadman of Nokomis, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kidd and Mark Jason, Vadis-st and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Runyan, W. Broad-st, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Burrell in West Jefferson.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Psalms 34; 37; 46; 91; 103:8, 9.

I sought the Lord, and He heard me, and delivered me from all my fears. They looked unto Him, and were lightened; and their faces were not ashamed.

This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles. The angel of the Lord encampeth about them that fear Him.

The Lord maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; He breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; He burneth the chariot in the fire.

He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways, They shall bear thee up in their hands.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 37:3.

Busy Diggers Lay Tile At Westgate Church

The Westgate Methodist Diggers got into full swing on Monday evening, July 18, to finish a project of putting tile around the front of the church. Twenty men of the church came with shovels in hand, to do the digging. There were no material rewards offered and none promised in the hereafter. E. F. Cassell superintended the project and the pastor, Rev. Norman Schreiber, was the straw boss.

Pictured above, all ready for work, are: sitting, left to right, Russel Bunting, David Pence, John Bostwick, E. F. Cassell, Rev. Norman Schreiber and Scott Pence. Standing, left to right, Ira Cary Faris, Art Bellar, James Merritt, Royce Huegely, William Schlarel, Charles Hoover, Roy Hall, Carl Spohn, Wilson Hall, Neil Pence, Gerald Hart and Roger Grant. Those who also helped, but were too tired to pose for the photographer were Ray Boord, Emmett Spangler, Harold Recob, Wilbur Wilson, K. L. West and W. A. Harris, Jr.

Tuesday, May 17

A three block hunt this morning brought us to our breakfasting place.

George was wearing new shoes yesterday when we did all that walking so today he did not feel much like walking any distance. We decided to go down to Greenwich Village by daylight to see its noted streets and sights.

Located in Lower New York, Greenwich Village is almost like a village within a city. Its streets are short and run in every direction. Mrs. Roosevelt has a home in the Village. Artists of every description live here. There are studios, art stores, antique shops, artists' supply stores and quaint restaurants.

After an hour or more of zigzag driving through the Village we turned our wheel for Chinatown and the Bowery.

The Bowery was the most astonishing place to go through.

From the Bowery we turned around a few blocks to Chinatown where an American is seldom seen, where Chinese is the language of the town, where stores are labeled with Chinese characters, where dried fish and other strange foods hang in and out of store windows, where smells of a hundred kinds greet your nose.

Beyond the Bowery we went to Essex-av, in the Lower East Side, to see the Pushcart Market.

From the Lower East Side we drove to the East River Drive and followed the river shore all the way up to 101st-st before crossing into Madison-av to return to the hotel. The Madison-av ride took us through Harlem.

Further down Madison-av we noticed that the store signs changed to Spanish names and words. This was the South American section of the Big Town where there are more South Americans than there are in many of the cities of the southern continent.

Lunch at the Hamburger Haven.

One more item for the day which I forgot to mention earlier—dogs in Greenwich Village cannot enjoy a normal life. Signs posted along the sidewalks surrounding Washington Square read "Keep dogs near curb." Poor Fido, when there was so much green grass around.

Wednesday, May 18

Breakfast this morning was in the coffee shop of the Edison Hotel on 47th-st.

We walked over to Fifth-av where we boarded the second story of a Riverside Drive bus. From 50th-st the bus took us for an 11-cent fare all the way along the Hudson River as far as 155th-st.

Lunch at Lindy's.

From the hotel to Pier 90 was only a matter of five blocks.

We went up on the elevator to the embarkation gates. Crowds coming and going, baggage trucks rolling past, uniformed men giving directions of all kinds.

As the crowds thinned out and deck space became available for passengers Violet and I began a little leisurely stroll to find a rail position where we could watch the departure from the pier.

To bed at 10 o'clock ship time (9 o'clock in Columbus). Tomorrow we begin moving our watches ahead three times daily.

Friday, May 20

Calm seas all day and nothing to do but pace up and down the 75 feet of deck space allotted to us. This could be varied by doing the same furlong on the opposite side of the ship. Another variation was to walk up to the prom deck, get our chairs reassigned to this deck, sleep off and on during the day.

The gates to Brook Green Gardens, in the South, open up a vista of such gorgeous beauty as to suggest paradise itself. Imagination can conjure up no more heavenly serenity than that of this scene.

Every man is striving to attain the same goal in life—immortality. Some strive more diligently than others. Some take the wide road, a smaller number the narrow one. What is the key that will open the gates to paradise? Our churches and Sunday Schools teach us that first we must "seek the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

To seek God and to give ourselves unto Him will open the gates to an earthly paradise that will enable us truly to achieve the "peace that passeth understanding." A joyous and serviceable life and assurance of paradise in life hereafter is not an idle dream. It is attainable by man. Many have achieved this state.

Frequently it is necessary to consult the spiritual guidance of one of God's ministers to find the solution to problems that may seem overpowering. Prayer and regular Bible reading are steps in the right direction.

Paradise in this world comes to men who have sought and found God and have the faith to do His will, walking humbly in the performance of their daily tasks. To achieve such a paradise here, is to assure it through the countless ages ahead.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rarey and son, Stephen, 2085 W. Broad-st, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Weber, Darby-rd, are spending their vacation at Carp Lake, Mich. For Mrs. Rarey (Marian Howell) it will be like returning to her old home town. Until seven years ago she had made the trip with her parents for family summer vacation, every year.

When five anniversaries happen in three days, it calls for a family party. Such was the case last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheets, Alton. Their eighth wedding anniversary and birthday of Tim Lamb was July 19; birthday of Mr. Sheets was July 20; the birthday of Mrs. W. G. Lamb (Mr. Sheets' sister) and son Billjean is the same date, July 21. Those attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sheets, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb and sons, Jim, Billjean, Tim, Rex and Tad; and the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheets, David and Dick. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the guests.

St. Paul's Luther League held its July meeting with a picnic along the Scioto River Saturday evening, July 23. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. Rismiller and children, David and Karen, Marilyn West and Paul Toops, Gene and Richard Fisher, Louis Scheiderer and Clarice Scheiderer, Marian Krieger, Bob Edwards and Diane Kasler.

Mrs. Jesse Woolard, Avondale-av, spent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. G. Barnecut, Maple-dr.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Caris, 115 Maple-dr, are spending several weeks in California. They will visit Albert G. Caris, Jr., and family and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Rymer (Elizabeth Caris) and family, who both live an Palo Alto. Mrs. Rymer made her home on Maple-dr with her parents while her husband was in service during World War II.

Mrs. G. T. English had a birthday party July 25 for her son, Tommy, who was seven years old. Those present were Sandra Wallace, Catherine Shaner, Kaye Olson, Rex Lamb, Jimmy and Virginia Whalen and host, Tommy.

Stanley Coss and Mrs. Mina McBride of Detroit, uncle and aunt of Mrs. English, spent several days last week visiting at the English home. Mr. and Mrs. Kent Richey and family, Pasadena-av, are vacationing at Buckeye Lake.

Mrs. Dow Postle, formerly of Rome-Hilliards-rd, Rome, now of Cincinnati, spent Friday visiting Mrs. J. L. Coulter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. John Lyday are spending their vacation in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Coulter visited his brother, John Coulter, Reynoldsburg, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hegwood, 150 Lennox-av, and son, David, have returned home after a two weeks vacation with the John Oslunds, Detroit, Grand Haven, Lake Michigan. Little David spent the time with his grandparents in Marshall, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. John Warner and daughters, Jean Ellen and Julie, spent Saturday evening with the Warners, Pasadena-av.

The Franklin County Implement Dealers met Wednesday evening in Riebel's new implement store, 5580 W. Broad-st.

Mrs. Robert Miller and children of Maple-dr spent Sunday in Washington C. H. while Mr. Miller went on to Marietta and returned.

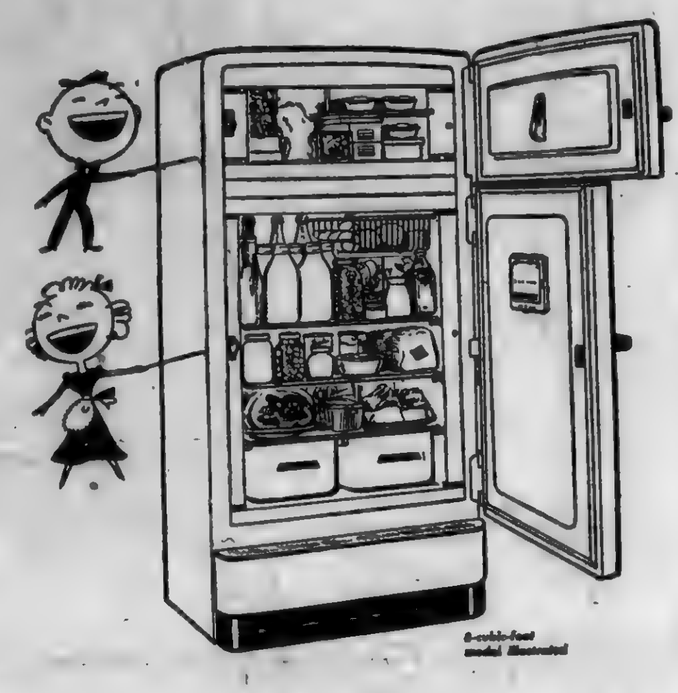
There's a Big Difference In Refrigerators

HERE'S THE PROOF



Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

Look for separate compartments, separate outside doors!
.. Each compartment with individual cold control ..

Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft.-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get.

In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerator. Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
REFRIGERATOR-HOME FREEZER COMBINATION

A SEPARATE REFRIGERATOR

PLUS A SEPARATE HOME FREEZER

You'll never forget . . . never regret . . . the day you buy this General Electric Combination. For the name GENERAL ELECTRIC means dependability . . . dependability based on an unsurpassed record for year-after-year performance.

More than 2,000,000 General Electric Refrigerators have been in service 10 years or longer!

And the chief reason, of course, is the famous General Electric sealed-in refrigerating system. Airtight and oiltight, this dependable system has never been excelled for efficient, economical operation . . . year in, year out.

8- AND 10-CUBIC-FOOT MODELS

The General Electric Combination is available at your retailer's in both 8- and 10-cubic-foot models—one of them just right for your household. We think you'll agree they provide the most that's offered in a home refrigerator today.

Hilltop Bean Dinner Is Editorial Subject

Last week the Hilltop Bean Dinner made considerable news when over 25,000 people flocked to Westgate Park to partake of beans and good fellowship.

We like the expression of the Columbus Dispatch in that paper's editorial columns after the event was over and for the benefit of any who may not have seen it we are passing it along as follows:

Hilltop Bean Dinner

The 22,000 Columbus folk who took time off from their usual activities Wednesday to consume 2300 pounds of baked beans and otherwise celebrate the annual Hilltop Bean Dinner festival gave another impressive demonstration of their fine neighborhood spirit. To a degree most unusual in a metropolitan city, the Hilltoppers have fostered and developed a sense of identity as a community within a community. It is a wholesome solidarity that keeps alive the old rural spirit of neighborliness without sacrificing interest in city-wide affairs. It is in evidenced as well in the annual minstrel shows and in the flourishing state of the many Hilltop clubs, lodges and other community organizations.

This comment would scarcely be complete without taking note of the fact that the choice of baked beans as the symbol of neighborhood merry-making is nothing short of inspired. There is nothing high-hat about the bean. It is a friendly, sturdy, versatile vegetable liked by practically everyone. It has a high nutritive value that has sustained soldiers, pioneers and hard-working men and women for centuries; yet it also has taste appeal that makes it to this day a favorite dish of Boston's Back Bay aristocracy — than which there is nothing more aristocratic extant.

The navy bean, in short, has the common touch. All bean-eaters become kin — which, perhaps, is one thing that makes the Hilltop's yearly festival such a success.

2059 Patients At State School From 31 Counties

Administration Building, Columbus State School

Work On Hilltop Landmark Started In 1865; Land Bought At $35 Acre

By Myron T. Seifert

The 197 acres of land lying west of Central-av and south of Broad-st, extending to Sullivant-av, on which is located the State School for the Feeble Minded, is one of the most beautiful areas in the community, and is said to have been purchased by the state for the paltry sum of $35 per acre.

The legislature, Apr. 17, 1857, passed an act to establish an asylum for the education of idiotic and imbecile youth, and appointed William Bennison, Jr., of Columbus, Asher Cook of Perrysburg and N. S. Townshend of Avon, the first board of trustees.

The trustees appointed Dr. R. J. Patterson superintendent of the institution, and leased a large house belonging to a Mrs. Neville, on Friend-st, opposite the Blind Asylum, for five years. Sixteen pupils were received prior to Nov. 1, 1857, and applications made for more than could be accommodated.

"It has no equal upon this planet," said a contemporary, Dr. I. N. Merlin, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Institution for Feeble Minded Children, referring to the newly established institution.

The first building was located on E. Main-st and there were five pupils. In 1860 the building was enlarged.

By the act of March 28, 1864, $25,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site for the permanent location, and the erection of buildings thereon. Under this act, the trustees purchased from the Franklin Bank of Columbus 130 acres of land at the referred to $35 per acre. Later, in 1878, 67 acres were added. The trustees, in their report for 1864, thus describe the tract purchased

"It is situated on the National Road, two miles west of Columbus. The site selected for the building is near the brink of the elevated plain, on the west side of the Scioto valley. The situation is a beautiful one, overlooking and presenting a fine view of the city, while it is in plain sight of the capitol. A very fine maple grove runs around the entire front of the high ground, and at the same time the principal part of the land is in the Scioto valley, and is easily susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. The site for building, being upon high ground, is easily drained."

In 1865 work on the main building at the new location was started and sufficiently completed three years later to accommodate the transfer of 105 patients from the old quarters.

For more than a quarter of a century as superintendent of the State School, Dr. F. L. Kaiser, 69, has established one of the most remarkable institutions of its kind in the world. There are at present 2,059 patients at the school (not counting those home for summer vacation) drawn from 31 northern Ohio counties.

"His children," as he calls them all, hold the highest respect toward their benefactor and friend, Dr. Kaiser.

His dynamic personality is evident throughout the great training school. He has brought sunshine into the lives of thousands who through no fault of their own, might be among the forgotten, save for the friendship of the grand man who never fails to give them every possible attention and care.

Yes, he loves them all, and that smile which beams from the countenance of a little child by merely a personal token is recompense in itself for his services, he says.

Besides his professional chores, he holds membership in the Hilltop Kiwanis, Aladdin Shrine and various Masonic bodies. He also belongs to the Hilltop Business Men's Association, Columbus Academy of Medicine, Ohio State Medical Society, American Medical Society, Columbus Neuro-Psychiatric Society and Fellow American Association on Mental Deficiency.

Almost 17,000 have been admitted to the school, all of whom receive necessary care and attention.

"Many of my patients who go home to visit want to return," said Dr. Kaiser.

Then, too, the mortality rate is surprisingly low. Last year only 46 deaths were recorded. This longevity can be attributed to hospitalization, when needed, balanced foods and regulation of habits, the doctor assured us.

The youngest patient is 15 months, the oldest in the eighties. Patients are admitted from 31 northern Ohio counties, roughly north of the Lima, Mansfield latitude.

Regularly, qualified teachers instruct large groups of the patients during the regular school year; no lessons in vacation period, and like normal children they revel in play and sports. Many return home for visits until September when they will again see their friends.

Occupational and recreational therapy are carried on extensively here.

Next time you visit the 197 acre plot, note the products on sale in the administration building, all of which are attractive and useful.

The raw material is furnished by the state, and profits are divided equally between industrial and entertainment funds, and the patient who makes the article.

Purpose of the mutual sharing plan, explained by Kaiser, was to enable the boy, for example, engaged in some agricultural occupation, to have some benefit from the sale of the girls' handicraft when a share of the money is turned over to the "I and E" fund. Since the boy can't sell his farm products, he can at least have a part in the entertainment and recreation, made possible by the sale of the girls' hand-made articles.

Hundreds of those girls are adept, and trained to make worthwhile things. Housekeeping chores are taught, cooking, laundry, sewing are offered under competent guidance.

For the boys tailoring, plumbing, tin work, painting, gardening and shoe repair are a part of their curricular life, and many of them learn to do the jobs reasonably well.

Feast your eyes on the vegetable farm, as you motor down town via Broad-st, and you can see the results of these boys' efforts in 85 of the 197 acres under cultivation.

Of the 25 structures on the grounds, 18 are used for housing patients.

At present two full-time physicians, including Dr. Kaiser, are on the staff. There were four at the first of the year, but three of these left for more lucrative jobs.

Two inmates above are shown working in the state school shoe repair shop. Much of the work of the school is done on the premises.

Warren-av Boy Is Class-B Soap Box Derby Champion, Top Prize Winner

Ray Thomen, 511 N. Warren-av, was also the boy to take home the most prizes. He took home a bicycle, portable radio, baseball bat, pocket knife, basketball and football for the heats he won on the way to becoming Class B champion. He also won a tool chest for having the best built can and a traveling clock for having the best upholstered racer.

Very much pleased with his victory, he said that he would be back next year to try for the Class A and grand championships. Of Jim Worster, Class A champion and the boy who beat him in the last race, Ray said, "I hope he'll go on to Akron and win for Columbus."

The whole crowd marveled at Ray's sportsmanship after missing the trip to Akron by such a narrow margin. "Sure I wanted to win," he said, "but I'm glad Jim won. I've got three more years and this was Jim's last year. He wouldn't have another chance."

Ray's mother said she was very proud of her son and that "Ray is too young to go to Akron this year anyway."

Other Hilltoppers competing in the derby were Bob Cox, 198 S. Brinker-av; Don Hings, 293 Demorest-av; Jack Waldo, 712 S. Ogden-av; Jerry Lane, 634 Mt. Calvary-av; Allan Bartholic, 1953 Floral-av; Skip Balthaser, 130 N. Terrace-av; Lowell Carver, 1930 Floral-av; Bob Keeler, 481 S. Harris-av; Fred Lanch, 25 N. Hague-av; and Joe Rumich, 1924 Floral-av.

Snow Strings Up Victory In Hot Contest

How long is a piece of string?

The 7000 guessers in the contest sponsored by Shank and Saunders and Joe Briggs insurance agencies came up with some pretty startling answers. The difference between the longest guess and the shortest guess was over a mile and a half. One person thought the string was 98,850 inches long, one thought it was only 10 inches. Numerous wits said "twice half" or "from one end to the other."

The champion guesser and winner of a table model radio was a little 10-year-old girl who missed the right answer by only one-eighth of an inch. She said 1,825 inches; the right answer, 1824⅞. The winner's name—Dorothy Snow, 37 S. Wheatland-av.

W. Mound-st Repaving Won't Be Started Until Next Year

Racing To Be Feature Of Hilliards Fair

Harness racing, "America's fastest growing sport," will be one of the main attractions when the Franklin County Fair gets under way at Hilliards, Aug. 16.

Races will be run three afternoons and two evenings this year. Afternoon races will be run Aug. 17, 18 and 19, post time being 2 p. m. Evening races will be held on the 18th and 19th under the lights with post time at 8 p. m. Purses will total $10,000 in the three days of racing.

Officials at the races will be Briggs Mercer, starter; Bailey Bradley, presiding judge; and Roy Pavey, Christie Hayes and Ross Forest, timers.

A legalized pari-mutuel betting system will be in effect under close state supervision. The daily double will be the first two races run each day.

Miss Lovewell Cast In Brigadoon

Keith Lovewell of the Keith School of Dancing at 15 N. Westmoor-av, who is studying at the Perry Mansfield School of the Theater in Steamboat Springs, Colo., has been cast for an important dancing role in "Brigadoon" which is the second production of the Perry Mansfield Players for the 1949 season.

In addition to her dancing role, Miss Lovewell is to sing in the chorus and is property mistress for the production. The show is to be presented Aug. 18 at the University of Wyoming at Laramie and in Steamboat Springs on Aug. 22. It will also be produced in Denver, Aug. 24, for the Denver Handicapped Children's Fund.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

One-year-old Frank Haag, 44 S. Yale-av, has been released from Mt. Carmel Hospital following treatment for severe insect bites on legs and ankles.

Funeral Thursday For Lt. John Postle

Funeral service will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in Jerry Spears Funeral Home for 2nd Lt. John W. Postle, 21, of 58 N. Chase-av, who was shot down over Germany Dec. 16, 1944.

Surviving are a brother, Gerald P. Postle, of 2415 Joyce-av, and a grandfather, William P. Oliver, 58 N. Chase-av.

Friends may call at Spears Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon until time of service. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery.

Irving Beltz Takes Over Gas Station At Sullivant and Powell

Irving Beltz, a past Hilltopper for 18 years, has just recently taken over the service station at 2828 Sullivant-av formerly known as Lucky's. His assistant is Don Thompson, 2194 W. Mound-st.

Both Beltz and Thompson have had considerable previous automotive experience. Thompson was a motor mechanic in the navy in World War II while Beltz was a gun and instrument repairman in a civilian capacity for the navy.

The Mobilgas station will specialize in motor analyzing service, using the latest in Sun equipment. They will also carry Mobil-oil lubrication and other Mobil products.

WINS RADIO

Donald Bauman, 425 Columbian-av, won a Zenith portable radio, last Saturday at Sunshine Park in the city recreation department's Atomic-Jet Helicopter contest.

Dedaro represented Columbian-av playground.

MAKES FOUR-POINT

William Harold Ellis, 370 Whitethorne-av, ended spring quarter at Ohio State with a record of all "A" work for the quarter, it was announced today by Frederic Heimberger, dean of the college of arts and sciences.

'Impossible' By Winter Says City Engineer

City Engineer Paul W. Maetzel said today that it would be "impossible" to start work on the repaving and widening of W. Mound-st this year.

He said that it would be too near winter to start work on the section between Central and Whitethorne-avs by the time bids could be taken and a contract awarded. "Plans are not yet complete for the section from Wayne-av to Binns-blvd," Mr. Maetzel added.

Property owners adjacent to Mound-st must be notified of the assessment they would have to pay and then given a two-week period in which to file protests. Three notices must also be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the area.

The Thomas Engineering and Surveying Co. said that the plans for the work between Central and Whitethorne-avs were finished late in April. The city clerk's office reported that notices were served to property owners around July 15. Repaving work would have to be started by Sept. 1, and according to Mr. Maetzel it would be impossible to start work by this date.

The section of Mound-st between Wayne-av and Binns-blvd is one of the three last streets that will be paved under a bond issue passed in 1945. The bond issue was to cover a period of five years. Under the issue the city will pay 65 percent of the costs and the property owners would pay 35 percent.

Mr. Maetzel said that the contract for the improvements between Central and Whitethorne-avs would not be let this fall and work would begin early next spring. Plans call for repaving of the street and widening it to 40 feet.

No tentative time has been set for the work to start on the section from Wayne-av to Binns-blvd, although it is expected that the work will start next spring or summer.

Cotton Ginner, Noble Allen's Champion Stallion, Undefeated This Season

Noble L. Allen, Jr. and Cotton Ginner

Cotton Ginner, world's champion Tennessee Walking Horse Stallion, recently purchased by Noble L. Allen, Jr., has been undefeated so far this season.

The five-year-old gelding stallion has won championships at the Indianapolis, Norwalk, O., Wellston, O., Croton, O., Chillicothe, Lancaster River Ridge and Columbus Ridge Club shows. The horse will compete soon at fairs in Xenia and Jacksville.

Cotton Ginner has already been registered to appear at the Franklin County Fair at Hilliards and in the Ohio State Fair.

Mr. Allen says that credit for the horse's shiny coat, described as "velvety" and "like a mirror" by spectators, should go to the groom, Robert Schlegel, 201 S. Algonquin-av. Mr. Schlegel is a former West High School football player and a classmate of Mr. Allen at Capital University.

Mrs. Allen has also taken many honors at horse shows this season. She is showing Streak-O-Lightning, a five-gaited silver gelding. She has taken first honors in the ladies' division at Wellston, Norwalk, Croton and Chillicothe. Married to Mr. Allen last fall, she is the former Joanna Jane Fisher of Richmond, Ind.

Noble Allen Sr. and Jr. have shown horses from the farm for many years, although they have shown walking horses only during the past four years. Famous walkers they have shown are Queen Esther, Black Velvet and Dress Parade.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Horton and their two daughters, Lourena and Marlene, 462 Garden Heights, just returned Sunday from a motor trip through the Smokies and Lookout Mountain in Tennessee.

Meanwhile their neighbor, Irene Wren, 681 S. Ogden-av, and her cousin, Mrs. Cleo Powers, caught a bus last week-end down to Gatlenburg, Tenn., where they expect to vacation for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Latsche and son, Carl, 211 S. Wheatland-av, returned recently from New Baltimore, O., where they spent a week in a cottage on the Miami River.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Mann—who just moved to the Hilltop last October on 147 N. Wheatland-av—and their two small sons, David and Joel, spent a week in Chicago when the mister's brother was married June 25. Last week the elder Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mann visited them. They also hail from Chicago.

Mrs. Marie Laughlin and daughter, Madeline, 188 S. Eureka-av, left Sunday night for a week's stay in New York City.

Mrs. T. S. Fox, 25 S. Brinker-av, left Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Graham, to visit Mrs. G. A. Paine in Bradenton, Fla.

Little Miss Lynne Dagene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Jackson, 215 N. Harris-av, celebrated her second birthday with a big party at her home Sunday afternoon. Present to wish her good luck were her parents; her great-grandmother, Mrs. John Greene; her brother, Jimmy Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Jackson and daughter, Carol; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bauman and son, Don; Mrs. Arthur Buehler; Elmer Schafer and Ralph Greene, Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colley and son, Mickey, 32 Powhatan-av, are leaving Aug. 22 for Key West, Fla., where they will vacation until Sept. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Moss Williams, 2281 Steele-av, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hartley, 1370 Wilson-rd, returned Monday from a week-end stay in Chicago.

Also celebrating her birthday—her eighth—was Judy Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Henry, 206 N. Burgess-av, Thursday afternoon, July 28. Those present were Mike and Don Andrews, Jimmy Harris, Suzanne Elliott, Connie and Freddy Ryan, Jack Nachman, Billy Hunt, Janeen Shuter, Tommy Jones, Mike Hobbs and Joyce Henry.

Announcing the birth of an eight-pound, 12-ounce grandson are Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Skipper, 143 N. Burgess-av. Named Stephen Paul, he was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Byrum, 138 N. Terrace-av, at White Cross Hospital, July 29. Mrs. Byrum is the former Zoe Skipper.

Youthful Dotted Swiss

Brown and white dress.

By VERA WINSTON

THE WONDERFUL array of cool, pretty frocks, makes summer a dream more wonderful season than ever. Nice for in town or out, is this dress of dotted Swiss in brown with a white dot for the body of the dress, with brown on white for the tucked yoke. This novel design, that cleverly simulates a jumper, is youthful and refreshing.

A whisper can be heard in all parts of a large room in the Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake City.

"Wickedness proceedeth the wicked" is referred to oldest proverb on record.

PAULETTE DAZZLES GABLE AT DESI ARNAZ'S OPENING

HOLLYWOOD — In a form-fitting, split-to-the-knee Parisian gown, Paulette Goddard was dazzling Clark Gable (her date) and everybody else at the Desi Arnaz opening.

But the Mocambo crowd missed one touch of irony. Burgess Meredith bought the gown for Paulette. He brought it back to her from France, then they separated.

Paulette Goddard

Paulette is to be guest of honor at the Fourteenth Air Force banquet in Chicago. From there, she goes to New York and finally to Mexico in time to start her picture, "Inamorata," Aug. 15.

I asked her if she and Burgess will sign that long-delayed property settlement in New York.

"I'll talk to Burgess," replied Paulette smoothly, "about anything he likes."

DESI'S BLACK TIE opening packed the Mocambo despite the hottest night of the year and the crowd went big for his music and for his new Afro-Cuban song, "Simiau."

SUSAN HAYWARD and Jess Barker are pulling a switch. They are selling their present home and will look for another WITHOUT a swimming pool. They are afraid for their twins who now are three years old.

The deal changing Susan's contract from Walter Wanger to Twentieth Century-Fox probably will be signed next week.

I'M STILL TRYING to visualize this but I hear that, in his new 14-room home, Bob Cummings can press a button in his bathroom wall and cause a panel to drop down revealing a machine lathe, electric saws and other gadgets that convert the place into a workshop.

Odd spot for it.

The house has been building for over a year. The Cummingses move in after Bob finishes "Free for All."

I ASKED James Mason's manager, John Monaghan, if James had met Greta Garbo with whom he is about to make a picture in [illegible] for King

VIRGINIA GREY ESCAPES INJURY BY FALLING ARC

Europe. "She dropped over for tea one afternoon," he replied. "She is charming. All the M-G-M adjectives can be applied to her."

Ciro's had big business despite the Desi Arnaz opposition. Eva Gabor's ex, Charles Isaacs, was with Ann Miller. Scott Brady with Carol Brooks, David May with Beverly Tyler. . . . Two of the town's beauties escaped injury in auto accidents. Barbara Lawrence's car was hit broadside and wound up on a front lawn. Gloria de Haven, with Gwen O'Connor as passenger, went up over a curb and stopped inches short of a tree. Only damage was a cut on Gloria's elbow. . . . M-G-M is giving Jane Powell the clothes (20 changes) she wears in "Nancy Goes to Rio." For a trousseau? . . . Jack Carson will have an every week television program in the fall. Possibly with Janis Paige as co-star. Jack has been taking a terrific physical beating in "The Good Humor Man." They've thrown everything at him from soot to pies. . . . Reporters on a local newspaper have a "Ghoul Pool." You pick a name from a list and if your "name" dies first, you win.

THEY ARE LETTING John Barrymore, Jr., have a three-day grace before he leaves for location on "Thunder in the Dust." So he can see his 19-year-old sister. Dede, who is coming home from school in the east. If she looks anything like her pictures, she'll soon be in the movies, too. . . . Don de Fore goes to Cedar Rapids, Ia., in July to be best man at the wedding of Cary McNaughton, his former school teacher. . . . Lon McAllister is consoling the newly separated Nancy Walker in New York. . . . Virginia Grey had a lucky escape on the "Terror" set when an arc fell on the roof of a flimsy shed in which she was working. . . . Despite her patched-up quarrel with Rod Cameron, Marie Windsor was at the Sportsman's Lodge with cartoonist George Baker.

Three hundred employes, including five registered nurses, add to the comfort and treatment of the patients housed here. Charge made by the state is $3.50 weekly per patient, if he or his family can afford it.

The greatest tragedy at the school occurred in November, 1881, when 600 lives of patients were jeopardized, and a half million dollars worth of state property went up in smoke. By a remarkable coincidence the fire occurred on the anniversary of the burning of the Central Lunatic Asylum here Nov. 18 in the year 1868.

When the fire broke out, the regular routine of the institution was proceeding as usual, the majority of the children being at their tasks in the school rooms.

Dr. Doren was at his desk in the front offices when the alarm was given. He rushed from the room and devoted his energies from the first to averting the possibility of appalling loss of life, by superintending the removal of the inmates.

It was obvious that the Columbus Fire Department could not cope with the situation, and flames engulfed the entire central structure. London, O., Fire Department was telegraphed for aid. The fire department from the Madison county seat responded "with the utmost speed, some 15 to 18 men bringing over a steamer and horses."

Chief Trenenrider of the Columbus Fire Department praised the work of the Londoners. Columbus then possessed only three of the old Silsbee Steamers, and the one at the "Flowers Engine House" was the only one working.

The report of the board of trustees for 1857 told how the superintendent traveled at his own expense to New York and Massachusetts to study their systems of physical and mental training and "to secure for all our feeble minded youth the best kind and degree of education of which they are susceptible."

The same spirit of unselfishness and service has continued down to the present day. The state school is not like an ordinary school in that there is no feeling of training men and women as future world leaders. It is not like the ordinary hospital. There are no letters from thankful patients who have been returned to health and are living happy, useful lives on the outside. Many of the inmates at the state school will never get any better. The greatest reward of Dr. Kaiser and his staff is the knowledge that they are helping unfortunate human beings to live as complete and useful lives as they can with the faculties they possess.

It's The Sauce That Does It

Take any garden fresh summer vegetable and cook it with care. Add a tasty sauce and serve the vegetable at its flavor best. The sauce may be simply some melted butter or it may be a cheese sauce, mustard sauce, or any one of the many delicious vegetable sauces.

Make the best of this summer's vegetable crop by trying a variety of sauces, new combinations of vegetables and unusual seasonings. Your family will like this interesting variety, too. For a beginning, try the recipes below:

ONIONS IN CHEESE SAUCE

12 small onions
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup grated American cheese

Peel onions and cook in boiling, salted water until just tender. In the meantime, melt butter, add flour and blend. Add milk and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Add salt and cheese and stir until cheese melts. Pour sauce over drained, cooked onions. Serves 6.

BUTTERED CARROTS AND LIMAS

1½ cups lima beans
1½ cups julienned carrots
Butter

Cook lima beans and carrots separately in boiling, salted water. Drain. Combine and serve with a generous amount of butter. Serves 6.

Glenwood Methodist Wins Over Hilltop Church of God

An enthusiastic crowd of supporters witnessed a fast and furious ball game at Westgate Park last night. Glenwood took the lead in the first, and it was never relinquished. Davies, hit by a pitched ball, advanced to second as Grashel went to first via the same route. Crawford drew a walk, loading the bases. Wise grounded out, short to first, scoring Davies on a fielder's choice. With two away, See attempted to catch Crawford napping off second, but threw wild into center, allowing both Grashel and Crawford to score. Again in the second B. Lamprecht doubled, scoring on Remington's long fly to right. Galloway drew a walk and went to second on B. Grashel's single. Perdue then struck out Davies, but H. Grashel lined a double to right center, scoring Galloway.

The fourth showed plenty of action as, with one on, Fraher hit a triple to left, scoring Plank, but Fraher was tagged out at home through Grashel's quick retrieve. Also in the seventh teams mixed it up for two more runs each the highlight being a long homer to deep left by Achatz, with Anderson aboard. Following is the box score:

Batteries for Glenwood Methodist, Wise and Lamprecht. Batteries for Hilltop Church of God, Perdue and See, Salor (4). Umpire, Higgins.

Other church league games at Westgate Park: West Church League No. One: St. Aloysius 14; Highland Avenue Friends 3. Westgate EUB 3; Hoge Memorial 2.

Thatchers Doings

Saturday, May 20

Parcel post mail comes a day late on the Caronia. Yesterday was the letter mail, today was parcel day.

Our first newspaper arrived under our door this morning. It was "Ocean Times," an eight-page small newspaper which is published on board, or at least part of it is. The front page contains the latest world news in abbreviated form.

Along with the morning paper was the program for the day, listing the concerts, the tea, the movies, the horse races and hour by hour activities with which passengers might while away their time.

Weather this morning was calm and sunny. In the afternoon things began to change. The weather lost its sunniness. What had been a calm sea began to turn to swells which started the ship to rocking sideways. Spray and rain kept us from going outside.

Sunday, May 22

Church of England services were held this morning on the main lounge of the first class section of the ship. The captain and staff captain conducted the services. Music was by a part of the ship's orchestra.

Tea is served each afternoon on board. Tonight after the horse races were ended, there was another dance. The piano player of the orchestra said he would be glad to play for me the piano accompaniment of two of my songs.

Monday, May 23

Late in the afternoon there was a tea dance. Tonight the orchestra is going to play both of my numbers for dancing.

Tonight we played keno in the main lobby.

Soon after dancing started tonight the orchestra vocalist, Leo O'Connell, of Cork, Ireland, announced that they were going to play two dances written by "Mr. Newton Thatcher, one of our passengers."

About midnight the word was passed around that the Queen Mary, which left New York a day later than we did, had caught up with us. Everyone went outside to see her as this would be one of the very rare occasions when two liners would pass within seeing distance of one another. It was an hour and a half before the Queen came abreast of us but the sight was worth waiting up for. She was floodlighted for a quarter of an hour allowing us to see her in detail as she passed by like a white painting on a black background.

Tuesday, May 24

More of the business of wandering about, visiting the increasing number of friends and attending meals today.

Wednesday, May 25

Conversations and activities today have all turned toward disembarkation.

At about 5 o'clock we saw land on the port side. This proved to be the Scilly Isles. An hour later we saw a lighthouse in the distance. Inquiry at this time brought us the information that this was the Cornish coast.

After breakfast this morning we were given printed landing instructions. We are expected to land at Southampton at 2:30. Immigrations and customs will take two hours or thereabouts. A special boat train will be standing by to take us to Waterloo Station in London.

Lt. Col. Ralph Harper

Funeral of Lt. Col. Ralph S. Harper, 33, of 85 N. Terrace-av, was held at 2 p. m. Saturday at Schoedinger Funeral Home. Transferred from Camp Polk, La., to the European Theater in August, 1944, he commanded the 2nd Tank Battalion of the 9th Armored Division there.

First reported missing Dec. 18, 1944, at Bastogne while leading his men against a numerically stronger enemy, he was later identified as being killed upon that date.

A graduate of West High School, Lt. Col. Harper attended Ohio State University and was graduated from West Point in the class of '35. He was commissioned a lieutenant colonel Oct. 20, 1942.

Surviving are two daughters, Sandra and Kay Ellen; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Harper; a sister, Mrs. Wanda Fenton and a brother, Bob U. Harper of Indianapolis, Ind.

Burial was in Union Cemetery.

Joseph Humphrey

Funeral services for Joseph Humphrey, 49, who died unexpectedly Saturday while working in the yard at his home, 3564 Dover-rd, will be at 2 p. m. today at the Floyd Born Funeral Home.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alvira Humphrey; six sons, Melvin, Robert, Jack, Ralph and Jean Paul Humphrey, all of Columbus, and Terry Lee Humphrey, at home; two daughters, Kathryn and Fontilla Humphrey, both of Dayton; his mother, Mrs. Jessie Humphrey of Glouster; five brothers and two sisters.

Burial will be in Green Lawn Cemetery.

Abraham F. Johnson

Abraham Franklin Johnson, 62, of 289 Dana-av, died Friday in Mt. Carmel Hospital. A native of Kentucky, he had resided here 30 years, and before retiring four years ago was in the grocery business at 583 Bellows-av. Surviving are his wife, Grace; five sisters, Mrs. W. P. Lacey of Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. E. W. Jones of Eldora, Iowa, Mrs. W. J. Davis of San Francisco, Calif., Mrs. F. F. Cecil and Mrs. Callie Barker, both of London. Funeral services were held at 8 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Hazelgreen, Ky., Tuesday.

Edwin P. Barnes

AND HAVE NOT LOVE -- by Margaret Nichols

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

THE PLAY was a comedy, fast and brittle. In the spontaneously fresh characterizations there was no evidence of how many hundreds of nights these people had said the same lines to bring laughter and escape.

"Beatrice," Henry Boarman said to her when the first act was ending, "you and David go out to smoke. Cecily and I will stay here."

So she and David stood in the crowded lobby, but only David smoked.

"How long are you going to be in New York, Beatrice?"

It was a question that everyone she knew here would naturally ask. Yet when David asked it, it had a special significance, because indirectly he was telling her that he wanted to see her again.

"I don't quite know," she answered truthfully. "When you visit my mother, you don't plan. But I'm certain I won't be here more than a week." She had not planned to stay that long but she could not tell him that what Cecily had told her today had brought her to the swift decision to stay longer.

"I just want to to know," he said with a forthrightness that was wonderfully warming, "how much time will be mine." He waited a few moments until a knot of garrulous people indiscriminately blowing smoke decided to move before he said in a teasing tone, "I won't ask for any of tomorrow. Women and their shopping. But the day after tomorrow if I can borrow a car, and I think I can, will you ride up the Hudson with me?"

"I'd love to. I haven't done that in years."

"I've never done it at all, and I'm told it's one of the things I should do while I am here." His chuckle seemed to clean the air. "Of course the prime reason for my being here is to buy machinery, and I bring up that mundane little matter only because I can tell you now that that business is finished."

"And you are free for the rest of the time."

His eyes teased again. "Beatrice, as if you didn't know it was April first."

She looked at him more gravely than she realized. "The time is so short now that I don't have to count on my fingers. David, do you want to go back?"

"Very much. Oh, very much," he answered, turning serious to match her mood of the moment. His eyes swept the wall dressed throng, the furs and orchids, the glitter, the brilliant, tempting night outside, intoxicating as only New York can be at night. "I hardly know how to say it, Beatrice, without sounding like a bit of a high-blown fool. To each his own. And I am a patriot."

She was glad that it ended there as they returned to their seats.

When the play was over, they went to a famous place where Henry and Cecily were such old habitues that their customarily reserved table had a meaning for them almost as deep as their respective homes. Cecily looked as always, intent and captivated, as if she had never been to a smart and famous place before, her eyes making pleasurable little journeys from this to that person, her smile given to a few, her uninhibited charm to all.

Henry, sitting with so great a comfort that it was doubtful he would ever wish to rise again, murmured to Beatrice with a sly smile, "Your mother is wonderful, Beatrice."

"Thank you, Henry," Beatrice said. "I know she is."

How fantastic, she thought, that I can say that about her, and mean it with all my heart, and feel relieved as if my heart has been lifted of a burden it has borne my whole life. Yet how intricate would be my explanation if I were called upon to make it as to why I think my mother is wonderful now.

Henry said, "You kids dance. Cecily won't dance with me anymore. I'm too fat."

"Henry, darling, that isn't true," Cecily said. She turned her head so that her piquant profile changed into full face. "Your rhumba is divine, darling. It's just that I like to sit and look. I live with my eyes."

"There's nothing wrong with your rhythm either," Henry told her with warm affection.

But David was rising from the chair, and suddenly the room was filled with music. And presently he and Beatrice merged on the floor in the fluid, colorful mass.

"This is a new experience for us," David said. "We haven't danced before, Beatrice." When he spoke again, it was with his lips touching her hair. "It is not as much dancing as holding you in my arms. Look at me. Now can you tell me that you have not had a hunger for this?"

"No, I cannot. It wouldn't be true. You lifted me up, David, up and out of myself." She unconsciously gave him quite her loveliest smile, incongruously both proud and humble. "Belated growing pains."

"I helped you over them, darling."

"Yes."

"You've never flirted with me, Beatrice. Do you know how much I've liked that?"

And how much, she thought, you've been exposed to married women who've done just that when their husbands were looking the other way.

"I don't know," Beatrice said. "I don't know exactly what I've been with you, David. I've been trying to do justice to all the pieces I've cut myself into."

He smiled very gently. "I know, I know what you've been, and the day after tomorrow I'll tell you. But I won't wait until then to tell you how much I like your hair. Did you think I hadn't noticed?"

"Did you think I had not noticed that you had given your silent approval?"

He laughed and said, "I wish we could go on from here to other places and other music. But you are going to sleep because you've had a long day and a long enough night, and I'll pick you up at eleven the day after tomorrow. I won't telephone you tomorrow. That would be a responsibility for you, and you shouldn't have any while you are here."

They said good-night just outside the apartment door, and David and Henry left together.

Cecily yawned and sighed. "Good night, dear." She stopped still, her little ermine cape sliding off one shoulder. "Beatrice." And when Beatrice looked at her Cecily said, "You were the handsomest couple there tonight. You complement each other."

"Thank you, Mother." Her look held more than she could possibly say of what this night had revealed to her. "Good night, darling."

In no respect had Cecily's life altered. Beatrice was up for hours the next day before Cecily made her appearance, full of plans for the day. Beatrice would come with her, of course, for a fitting. They were meeting friends for lunch, Cecily's women friends, and they were going to have cocktails at Josephine's, and dinner with the MacLeans.

"I'm going to be with David tomorrow," Beatrice told her. "I promised. He's borrowing a car."

"That sounds like fun, dear."

"I wrote to Porter this morning telling him I'm going to stay a week."

Cecily understood. "That was sweet. We'll do all sorts of things. I don't know when I've felt so good." She looked over the flowers she was arranging. "David is an attractive man, my dear, but Porter—"

"I know what David is, Mother."

Cecily wrinkled her nose. "I thought you did."

Again, as frequently in the past, Beatrice was amazed to what lengths people would go to please her mother. Cecily's tailor, for instance, a man of explosive temperament, calmly took it in his stride that the sleeve of Cecily's new suit must come out because Cecily said it was too tight. And at lunch with two other women when they were all settled and Cecily espied a more desirable table, she thought nothing at all of asking the waiter to move, and this he did with a cheer that would have been smouldering rage if anyone else asked him. They were late for dinner at the MacLeans, of course, though Beatrice frequently reminded her mother of the time. It was past one in the morning when they returned to the apartment, and Beatrice fell asleep almost at once.

When she awoke the thought quickly materialized that this was the day she was spending with David. She looked at her watch on the bedside table—there were fewer clocks in her mother's house than in any house in which she had ever been, because Cecily loathed time—and saw that it was ten fifteen. Just time enough to bathe and dress before he came. There was no time for her body to lie in quietude while her mind tried to mold her mood for this day. It would indeed be useless when she knew from the tips of her nerves that the day would end in a climax inevitable.

She was waiting alone when he came. Cecily was still asleep.

Council Investigation Of Accounting Sought

DISPATCH 12-27-48

By ROGER JAECKEL

A sweeping investigation of accounting methods and practices in the city auditor's office may be ordered by City Council, it was learned Friday.

[illegible] being sought by Dr. O. J. Fillinger, chairman of Council's powerful finance committee. Fillinger said he has "lost all faith in accounting practices in the Auditor's office."

The South Side dentist disclosed he already has requested an investigation but that he was not the point. He added, however, he is still convinced that a probe is both warranted and needed.

Fillinger, it was learned, asked an investigation Thursday morning. He said his request, made during a conversation in the mayor's office, was repeated at the noon. He could not say by whom.

It was Dr. Fillinger whose dogged persistence uncovered the amazing half million dollar error at City Hall. This was a predicted deficit of $377,816. Thursday, it was discovered that 1948 operations will be "in the black" by a probable $9,453.51.

The disclosure was made by Chief Accountant Ray Link during an emergency meeting of City Council. It was Link who predicted the $377,816 deficit.

Council met to an "open session" and never adjourned. It was due to a mass of misleading fiscal information on city operations.

Purpose of the meeting was to transfer unspent money back into the general fund. This accomplished.

The situation provoked a charge from Dr. Fillinger that the auditor's office has "deliberately concealed facts on city finances from City Council."

The charge was hurled by Dr. O. J. Fillinger, chairman of Council's Finance Committee. He aimed it at both City Auditor R. P. Bartholow and his chief assistant, Ray Link.

The finance chairman made his charge as an inquest Council gathered in emergency session at 11:30 a. m. He asserted that only [illegible] control of facts on city income and expenditures "has left Council in the dark about the true status of the city's budget."

Council met to avert an impending year-end deficit, found to be unnecessary Wednesday due to an estimated $600,000 in unspent money lodged in various departments. This money will be transferred back to the general fund.

Fillinger charged that the "concealment of facts and figures has been deliberate," he said Council can "place it be said Thursday.

"If local business men kept their books the way the city does, we'd all go to jail."

Fillinger replied: "The situation cannot continue. [illegible] City Auditor Bartholow and his staff are directly responsible to City Council and keep us informed with up-to-date financial information, including the city's day-to-day status."

Council Charges Fiscal Officials Hide Budget Facts

The city's two ranking fiscal officials were charged Thursday with "deliberately concealing facts on city finances from City Council."

The charge was hurled by Dr. O. J. Fillinger, chairman of Council's Finance Committee. He aimed it at both City Auditor R. P. Bartholow and his chief assistant, Ray Link.

Dr. Fillinger to Urge Change in Charter Following Dispute Over Status of Budget

By KENNETH HECHSTROTH

Confusion in City Hall over whether the city will end the year with a balanced budget brought a threat this week of another charter amendment for a city finance director.

Dr. O. J. Fillinger, chairman of the Council Finance Committee, declared he would recommend a charter change which would create the [illegible] functions of the city auditor so a finance director who would be appointed by the mayor.

City Budget Is Illegal, Research Group Warns

DISPATCH Jan 28, 1949

City legislative and fiscal officials were warned Friday that any expenditures from next Monday's annual $6,630,277 general fund appropriation will be illegal.

The warning was sounded by Citizens Research, Inc., 30 E. Broad St., local fact-finding agency. It was sent by letter to offices of the mayor, city auditor, City Council, city attorney and county auditor.

The letter advised these officials that the $6,630,277 appropriation is "null and void and of no effect."

The agency advised that this is due to failure to secure a certificate of estimated income from the county auditor.

Procurement of the certificate is required by Section 5625-31 of the Ohio General Code. The law sets up in detail all information which Council must have before it in order to make its annual appropriations.

Both County Auditor Fred C. Dunn and City Auditor R. P. Bartholow admitted no certificate has been sent the city. Dunn said Bartholow has not yet filed with him a certificate containing information about all sources of city funds available.

Income Tax Fund Setup Advised

JOURNAL [illegible]-48

Approve Two Sites For Engine Houses

By JOHN YOUNG

City Attorney Richard W. Gordon advised City Council last night to set up immediately an "income tax fund," separate from the general fund, and to address rapidly to the purchasers in the city wide [illegible] in regard to how such taxes should be spent.

Gordon told the meeting [illegible] experience, Gordon [illegible] as an assistant to all Attorney General concerning the [illegible] prompt the guardian law and [illegible] estate matters by quasi-inquiries.

Council also adopted an ordinance to establish a Traffic and Transportation Commission and approved the appointment of nine citizens recommended by the mayor to this new body.

It also approved the purchase of two sites for new fire engine houses at a total cost of $9000.

Gordon told Council it had "failed up to date" to do [illegible] research needed during the year to meet expenses incident to collecting the [illegible] tax, to help keep [illegible] collection claims and other [illegible] and report [illegible] up to the tax ordinance.

DELINQUENT COLLECTIONS

Gordon said under the present setup in the auditor's office, it is impossible to keep track of [illegible] delinquencies of income tax payers.

His remedy, he said, is to set up the separate fund, transfer all monies collected from [illegible] levy from the general fund to the special fund, and keep a [illegible] accounting of it. He said approximately $382,000 had been collected up to last week.

He pointed out to Council [illegible] calls for transfer from general fund only such tax as can be left after the other [illegible] obligations are met.

Excess Funds To Put City 'In the Black'

Officials Disagree On Auditor Figures

By ELMER PARKIN

The city will be "on the black" after Council ratifies the figures, according to President Joseph R. Jones.

"We'll have a balanced budget," Jones said. "Link (Ray Link, chief accountant in the auditor's office), says everything is in perfect order."

City Attorney Asks Checkup On Tax Fund

Tells Group Money Must Be Kept Apart

By ELMER PARKIN

City Council was warned Tuesday to "immediately correct alleged loading" of income tax funds. The warning was sounded by City Atty Richard W. Gordon in two letters to Council.

The letters marked "important" by Gordon stated in effect:

1. That money received from the city's anti-hold of one per cent income tax should be kept in a separate fund.

2. That appropriations should be made from such a fund to finance the Nye purposes specified by the ordinance.

The income tax funds have been overdrawn by the general fund, the specific amounts have not been made for the Nye purposes for which the tax was levied.

City Auditor R. P. Bartholow told Council one of the reasons a separate fund is required is for accounting for the income tax money.

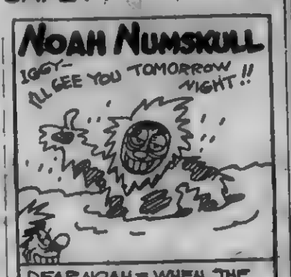
Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF



IT'S ABOUT time for a few more shaggy dog stories and a good one to start with is that of the visiting nurse who asked the young mother, "Why do you put your baby in such a high crib?"

"We're usually in another room," explained the mother, "and we want to be able to hear him when he fails out" . . . Possibly she is the same character who rushed off to Madison Square Garden because her uncle was riding in a six-day bike race. "Ridiculous," said her companion. "That race has been over for two months." "I know," was the answer. "That's what I've got to tell my uncle."

Then there's the lady in Barker, Me., who called up a relative in Miami to report a whopping blizzard in progress. "I'll mail you some snow in a letter," she proposed. "It will be gone long before it gets to Florida," the relative pointed out. "Don't be silly," said the lady. "Who'd be mean enough to steal a little snow out of an envelope?"

There's a Big Difference In Refrigerators

HERE'S THE PROOF

Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

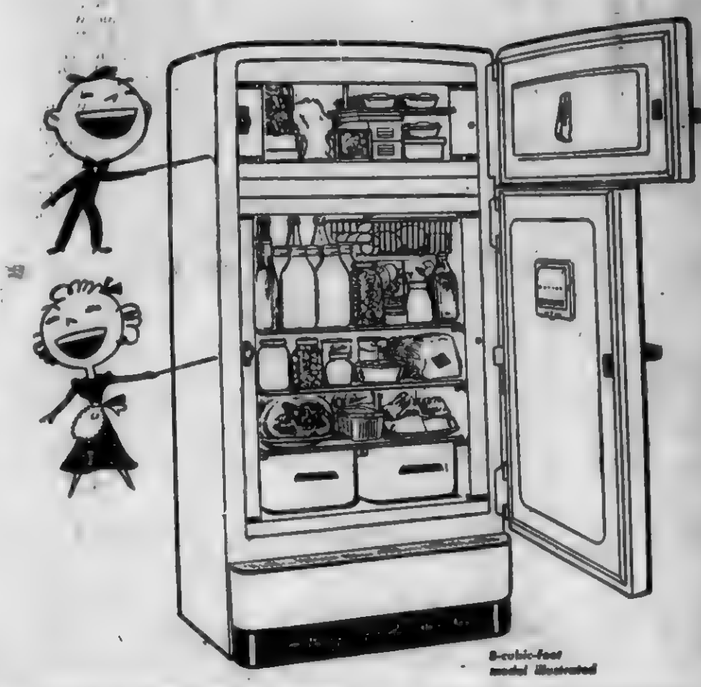
Look for separate compartments, separate outside doors!
.. Each compartment with individual cold control

Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature—for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get,



In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerator. Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
REFRIGERATOR-HOME FREEZER COMBINATION

A SEPARATE REFRIGERATOR
PLUS A SEPARATE HOME FREEZER

You'll never forget . . . never regret . . . the day you buy this General Electric Combination. For the name GENERAL ELECTRIC means dependability . . . dependability based on an unsurpassed record for year-after-year performance.

More than 2,000,000 General Electric Refrigerators have been in service 10 years or longer!

And the chief reason, of course, is the famous General Electric sealed-in refrigerating system. Airtight and oiltight, this dependable system has never been excelled for efficient, economical operation . . . year in, year out.

8- AND 10-CUBIC-FOOT MODELS

The General Electric Combination is available at your retailer's in both 8- and 10-cubic-foot models—one of them just right for your household. We think you'll agree they provide the most that's offered in a home refrigerator today.

'Baseballingo' Contest Won By Hilltop Woman

A woman crippled since birth, who has never seen a baseball game, won first prize of $1,000. Mary Ellen Young, 76 N. Harris-av, said she had expected that she might win a baseball ticket "if I were lucky."

Miss Young said she listens to baseball games on the radio occasionally and that she had seen a game televised last May.

The second prize went to another woman, Mrs. Earl C. Porter, 57 S. Eureka-av. Mrs. Porter had as many correct answers as Miss Young, but had entered more coupons.

Mrs. Esther Green, 3046 Crescent-dr, won third prize of $100. She is the wife of former mayor Floyd F. Green.

Fifth prize went to a Hilltop man, Walter W. Curlis, 300 S. Hague-av. Mrs. Curlis also took home a prize, standing in for her sister, Mrs. Green, who was unable to attend the presentation ceremony.

The contest was sponsored by the Ohio State Journal and the Columbus Red Birds.

CHECKS THAT GIVE PERFECT BALANCE

It's Good Government

It's Good Business

City charter amendment to be voted on August 9 will GIVE Columbus a badly-needed system of financial checks-and-balances.

Today the City Auditor administers, enforces, and collects three million dollars a year in income tax alone, not counting a lot of other licenses and fees, and there's no one in city government to audit the Auditor!

Under proposed amendment, the Finance Director will collect taxes and fees, and the Auditor will audit the Finance Director continuously. That's a REAL system of checks and balances.

VOTE X YES

for the CHARTER AMENDMENT

Walter Hoffman Awarded Scholarship by N. W. Kiwanis

A $150 scholarship was presented to Walter Hoffman of Hilliards by the Northwest Kiwanis Club this week for "excellence in scholarship, sterling character, outstanding leadership and genuine help and interest in building a fine community," Kiwanis president George H. Jarvis announced.

Walter, who is 18, had delivered an address to the club on May 5 this year. He won first prize in a public speaking contest of District 9 of the Future Farmers of America.

This is only one of many achievements of Walter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hoffman, 4487 Roberts-rd, Hilliards. He farms 200 acres and takes care of a dairy herd of registered Guernsey cattle in partnership with his father.

Walter has been trying out for professional baseball at the Red Bird Stadium during the past week. He plays first base on the Rangs Forest team. He graduated from Hilliards High School last May. He was a member of the honor society, participated in dramatics, belonged to the Hi-Y, was vice-president of the Future Farmers of America, and played on the football, basketball and baseball teams. During his third year of high school he was awarded the degree of State Farmer in the F. F. A. At present he is attending the F. F. A. camp as a junior counselor.

Walter has enrolled in the college of agriculture at Ohio State University and will start school there this fall.

Walter has won numerous trophies with his herd of Duroc hogs. At the age of 16 he won the Duroc ton-litter contest for the state of Ohio. His litter was 23rd in the United States.

This year Walter is planning to show his registered Guernsey cattle at several fairs and plans also to have an entry in the state fair.

In 1947 he won a trip to Kansas City for a display of milk products. The Ohio Dairy Products Association made the award.

He has also recently won recognition for his work in poultry showmanship. This display was one of the projects connected with his 4-H Club work. He is president of the Alton Advancers 4-H Club.

Herb Stewart To Be On WTVN Staff

A West High graduate and former Hilltop resident is the first local person named to the staff of WTVN, local television station scheduled to start Labor Day.

Herb Stewart, 1291 Thornwood-pl, has started work at the station's headquarters, 3700 LeVeque Tower, following a week's indoctrination at station WICU in Erie, Pa.

Mr. Stewart graduated from Ohio State University where he majored in Radio-Speech. He was a radio-operator gunner with the air force during the last war. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darl Stewart, 459 S. Richardson-av.

Order of Arrow Initiation Friday

Howard Merriman, Southwest District Chief, Order of the Arrow, has announced that the calling out ceremony of the order will take place this Friday and Saturday at Camp Lazarus for Katinonkwat Lodge No. 93.

The ceremony Friday is open to the public, but Saturday's ceremony is for candidates and members only.

Candidates are asked to report to the camp at 5 p. m. Friday and bring the following equipment: full scout uniform, old clothes, raincoat-poncho or ground cloth, blankets or sleeping bag, and a pocket knife. All members are urged to attend.

Hilltop Residents Injured in Traffic

Several Hilltop residents were injured in traffic over the past week-end.

Robert I. Mayhew, 207 S. Warren-av, suffered a broken right wrist and multiple cuts and bruises when his motorcycle collided with the rear of a truck in the 3700 block of W. Broad-st.

Another motorcyclist, James Flesher, 1765 Sullivant-av, suffered minor injuries when his motorcycle hit a chuckhole in the 1400 block of Oakland Park-av.

Joseph Rentler, former Vidapl resident, was injured in a two-car collision at Bryden-rd and Kelton-av.

Other residents injured, none seriously, in traffic were Jack Wellman, 35 W. Park-av, and Mrs. Vaughn Hill, 296 S. Roys-av.

WELFARE WORK DONE

Ruth Michaelis, 177 N. Terrace-av, reports that the local Dorcas and Welfare Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church has done the following work during the past three months: 60 persons aided, $51.69 spent in local welfare work, 111 garments made and repaired, 269 articles of clothing given away, nine baskets of food given, four bouquets and 30 treatments given to the sick, 20 boxes sent to Europe, and 740 hours of work done in the homes of those ill or in need.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, Briggsdale School Building, Harrisburg Pike, Briggsdale, Franklin County, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk of said School District until 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on August 16, 1949, for the furnishing of materials and the performing of labor necessary to erect a one story elementary school building on the north side of Frank Road east of Briggsdale, Ohio, for the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, all in accordance with the plans and specifications as prepared by Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, Dayton, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are on file as follows:

The office of the Clerk of the Board of Education, Mrs. Clara Ely, 1377 Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio.

The office of Walker, Norwick and Templin, Architects, 1301-4 American Building, Dayton 2, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are open to public inspection during all reasonable business hours, until time fixed herein for closing of bids.

Proposals will be received for the General Construction Work; Plumbing; Electric; and Heating and Ventilating Work, separately. Bidders may submit a combined bid for the Plumbing and Heating and Ventilating Work.

All proposals shall be made and considered by the Board in accordance with the General Code of the State of Ohio, and be on blank forms furnished by the Clerk of the Board of Education or the Architects, and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Clerk of the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, Briggsdale School, Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio, endorsed on the outside of the envelope with the name of the bidder and the branch of the work bid upon.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after the opening thereof. Particular attention is called to the statutory requirements of the State of Ohio relative to the licensing of corporations organized under the laws of any other state.

Each bid must contain the name of every person interested herein, and be accompanied by a certified check or bank draft in favor of said Board of Education upon a solvent bank, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid, or by bond in like sum, executed by an approved surety company, conditioned that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance of it properly secured. Checks submitted by the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the award of the contract is made, and a performance bond in the amount of 50% of the contract has been executed by the successful bidder.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Architects upon the deposit of fifteen dollars ($15.00), which will be refunded to all contractors submitting bids upon the return of plans and specifications. Others will have refund of five dollars ($5.00) upon return of plans and specifications.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularities in bidding.

By order of the Board of Education of the Franklin Township Local School District, Briggsdale, Franklin County, Ohio.

Elbert L. Becker, President
Sarah Ely, Clerk.

Our City Needs A Cure, Not A Remedy

A current trade magazine, The Merchandiser, calls to our attention a Columbus problem, one that has been in the news recently—downtown parking.

The magazine points out: "Improved transit service offers low cost solution to constantly growing traffic congestion . . . Unless public transit is encouraged to develop, our cities will either become vacant or face huge expenditures for street widenings, new throughfares and other costly measures, all paid for by higher taxes."

The article points out that in recent months business has gone to the suburbs—drive-ins, branch stores, etc.

It further points out that everyone has the desire to drive his dr her car to do their shopping, with the result that the average car carries only 1.9 persons. This means that two-thirds of the auto space is not taken and that 29 cars are needed to carry 54 persons. These same people could all be carried in one public transit vehicle.

While we are insisting that public transportation companies provide better service we are making it more attractive for motorists to flood the streets and we are spending public funds to provide competitive facilities which make improved mass transportation impossible.

While the city fathers worry about the problem we see no big improvement in the future. All of which points out that business firms in the neighborhoods, such as the Hilltop, have a big job and a big opportunity ahead of them. As more and more autos flood the streets more and more business is available to merchants in the community stores—if they are prepared to take care of it.

The really progressive Hilltop merchant who has any ability to see into the future is taking immediate steps to better serve our people.

We Pay A Visit To Little Old Chicago

It was our pleasure this past week-end to leave the aroma of Hilltop beans and take off for the wilds of "little old Chicago", just to sandwich in a three day vacation — probably all we will get this year.

High spot of the trip was the stage show "Mister Roberts," a real life enactment of some of the things that went on in the navy during the last war. The show, now running over two years in Chicago, will visit Columbus in the near future we understand, and we highly recommend it to anyone as a comedy delight unlike any you have witnessed in recent years. And if you have served in the navy at one time, then by all means see "Mister Roberts".

A very pleasant several hours was provided through the courtesy of Mrs. Earl Upp of the Butler Furniture Co., Sullivant and Central, who met us and guided us about the many sights of the Merchandise Mart. Mrs. Upp, a gracious guide, has had long contacts with the mart, and sees that no desired detailed bit of information is overlooked.

Incidentally, we met an old friend at the Merchandise Mart, The Gay Philoscpher, and all his family—prints of the famous picture used for the past three years and again in 1950 on The Hilltop Record calendars. And while there we arranged that some extra pictures of the old boy be shipped to us and made available to some of the many persons who have inquired where they might obtain an extra print of their favorite character. But more about him when he arrives.

Big cities are of little interest to this humble soul of the soil. It sure is good to be back—even after three days—to that good old country village, the Hilltop, and to dig into the soil and pitch a little hay out Wilson road way.

Short Takes: Viv Haines came in contact with the atomic end of a wasp recently and the result was a week's layoff from work and penicillin shots . . . Betty and Bud Blatz are hoping the third time will be the charm and their coming event will be a girl . . . The Armour families plan to spend week after next at Buckeye Lake . . . Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Sparks became grandparents this week with the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Deyo . . . That's certainly a nice bright spot in Catherine Murnane's yard among the blooming marigolds.

Ned Hawley Is Traffic Fatality

Ned Roland Hawley, 14-year-old traffic fatality, will be buried at 2:30 p. m. Friday in Greenlawn Cemetery. Jerry Spears Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.

Hawley was struck by a truck while riding his bicycle in the 300 block of Hawkes-av Tuesday. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Mt. Carmel Hospital. He was a 10-B student at Central High School.

He is survived by his mother, Naomi Welker of 953 Bellows-av; two sisters, Patricia and Susan; a brother, John; his stepfather, Robert Welker; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stout; his maternal grandfather, I. J. Werner of 2171 Sullivant-av; and a great-grandmother.

Believe you us, choosing the three prize winners was no easy task, because there were many good entries. Neatness and originality were considered, as specified in the rules. These are the winners:

First prize—One 8x10 portrait by J. Curtis Allen (regular $7 value) plus one case of baked beans: Howard Merriman, 44 S. Sylvan-av.

Second prize—Free cleaning and pressing of man's suit and lady's plain dress by Reliable Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co., plus 12 cans baked beans: Mrs. Walter W. Curlis, 300 S. Hague-av.

Third prize — Five pounds white navy beans: Mrs. C. A. Minor, 277 S. Westgate-av.

The winners may claim their bean-prizes by coming to the Hilltop Record office, 2465 W. Broad-st. The other prizes may be obtained by contacting the advertisers who are donating them.

TWINS BORN

Twins were born to a Hilltop family Tuesday.

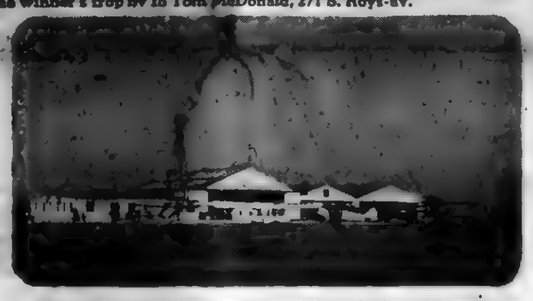
A son and daughter were born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Agriesti, 357 Eldon-av, in Mt. Carmel Hospital. Mother and children are reported doing fine.

LISTED ON HONOR ROLL

George E. Briggs, Jr., Briggsdale, was announced today by Dean Frederic W. Heimberger as listed on the honor roll of Ohio State students who achieved an average of 3.25 or better during the spring quarter in the college of arts and sciences.

Model Flyers Will Compete For $500 In Prizes At Sullivant Avenue Airport

Jack Sarver shows the winner's trop hy to Tom McDonald, 271 S. Roys-av.



Highway Patrol, Navy To Participate

Sullivant Avenue Airport will be the scene of the annual Plymouth Model Airplane Contest Saturday afternoon when more than 100 of Central Ohio's top model flyers will meet to compete for trophies and prizes valued at more than $500.

In addition to the 40 model flying events there will be a display by the U. S. Navy from Port Columbus and an air ground radio demonstration by the State Highway Patrol plane and a cruiser. There is no admission or parking charge to the event and the public is invited to attend.

All the Columbus Plymouth dealers are taking part in the sponsorship of the event with the three West Side agencies included. The three are Earl Sarver, Inc., 550 W. Broad-st; West Side Motors, Inc., 1358 W. Broad-st; and Featherstone Motors, Inc., 500 W. Broad-st.

Don Rice of Westgate Electric, who was a B-17 pilot in the ETO during the war, will serve as chief timer for the flying events. Jack Sarver of Earl Sarver, Inc., is chairman of the Plymouth dealers' committee, directing the event.

Sullivant Avenue Airport, scene of Saturday's model contest.

Special accommodations have been made for spectators parking at the airport and eating facilities will be provided for contestants and guests alike.

Included in the flying contests will be free flight planes, scale model control line, stunt control line, and a special class for miniature jet planes. The little jet models are expected to be one of the outstanding events as they often reach speeds in excess of 125 mph.

Entrants are classed according to age. The youngest class starts with youngsters age 7, and progresses up to the senior division which has a top limit of 25 years.

In addition to the trophies and places in the event the contestants will compete for a trip to Detroit with all expenses paid to take part in the International Finals of the Plymouth Model Plane contest.

The entire event will be held as an open contest with ages and times the determining factor in the awarding of prizes.

Flying will start at 10 a. m. and continue all Saturday afternoon. In the event of rain the contest will take place Sunday.

The annual summer festival of St. Aloysius Church will be held on the school grounds at Midland-av and W. Broad-st on Wednesday, Aug. 17. A buffet lunch will be served at 6 p. m.

Bob O'Shaughnessy is in charge of the affair and is being assisted by John Riepenhoff and Frank Shea.

The ticket committee is under the supervision of Mrs. Helen C. Mack and Mrs. L. B. Ehret.

There will be a grocery stand, cake stand and novelty stand. Added attractions are games and refreshments. Grand awards, 1949 Golden Jubilee Packard with all accessories, and a 12 inch television Philco set are scheduled to be given away at 11 p. m.

Committee members assisting on the various attractions are Mrs. Maurice Walsh, Mrs. Tom Kenney, Cecilia Heitner, Rosemary Siegfried, Mrs. E. S. Ferguson, Mrs. Fred Balthaser, Mrs. J. F. Lawler and Mrs. Carl Claggett, John Laubmeister, Harry L. Hetterschiedt, Joe Gregory, Herman Schmitt, Ray Sapp and Clem Schwendenman.

Old Trail Theater Has Anniversary Celebration

This week the Old Trail Theater is celebrating its first birthday, the highlight of which has been the entertaining of several thousand Hilltop residents who received special guest tickets at the Bean Dinner. These tickets, it is to be recalled, were distributed through the courtesy of The Hilltop Record as part of its salute to the Old Trail, one of the 11 locally owned and operated Academy Theaters.

Actually the birthday "party" has been in advance of the true anniversary, Aug. 8. One year ago this coming Monday the Old Trail Theater was first opened to the public, featuring 1300 push-back auditorium chairs, the unusual spun glass wall coverings, the rubberized carpeting, exceptionally fine parking facilities, scientifically controlled air conditioning and the most modern of sound and projection equipment.

Manager of the Old Trail is Richard Laird, 140 N. Warren-av, Hilltop resident, who graduated from West High Schol in 1941 and who also is a student in the College of Education at Ohio State University.

"Dick" has managed to be quite active in civic affairs, and was responsible for much of the editorial material used in the special movie of the Bean Dinner, "For The Record."

Through special arrangements with the management The Hilltop Record, starting Aug. 10, will present a series of "Community Nights" every Wednesday at the theater. As mentioned in previous editions of the paper there will be reduced admissions for readers who clip the coupons which appear elsewhere in these pages each Tuesday and Thursday.

Although no plans have been made to date for special events on these "Community Nights" it is contemplated that by early fall there will be activity of interest to all Hilltoppers on the stage of the Old Trail, including football rallies, a "Search For Talent," a "Country Store" and other outstanding events.

In discussing future plans, John Hardgrove, supervisor of the local Academy Theaters, stated that all activities will be designed to entertain the patrons who have made operations at the Old Trail so successful during its initial year. Mr. Hardgrove pledged the cooperation of the theater in all community affairs, adding "We'll work with The Hilltop Record in any and all possible ways, striving at all times to make for a better community."

Kiwanis Names New Commitees

Members to three committees have been announced by The Hilltop Kiwanis Club.

Members selected to serve on the Christmas paper sale committee are Phil Stout, chairman, Bob Cramer, Joe Agee, Bill Gunning, Bob Kneisley, Ray McVay, Sam Marrison, John Nippert, Don Rice, Howard Schoof, Howard Tuttle and Jim Van Nostrand.

The committee in charge of tickets on the proposed Kiwanis Night performance at the Miles W. Broad drive-in theater consists of Sam Alford, chairman, Virgil Cline, Eddie Eagan, Dan Storomont and Averille Thorne.

The following members now comprise the Boy Scout Committee, Sam Morrison, chairman, Bob Balzer, Loren Galloway, Joe Goodwin, Gus Johnson, Bob Postle, Curt Roberts and Eddie Eagan.

Edward H. Miller New Owner Of Guard Drug Store

Edward H. Miller is the new owner and operator of the Guard Drug Store at 2828 Sullivant-av.

Mr. Miller graduated from the college of pharmacy at Ohio State University in 1926. He worked for several years in Cleveland, returning to Columbus in 1947 to be with his parents and friends.

He was formerly with the Sloan Drug Co. and Reydur's Pharmacy.

Mrs. E. K. Bennet Dies In California

Mrs. Grover Woodin, 2911 W. Broad-st, received word yesterday of the death of her mother, Mrs. E. Kelsey Bennett, in Merced, Calif., Monday afternoon, where she was visiting another daughter. Mrs. Bennett is formerly of East Liverpool. She is also survived by two grandsons, Robert and Richard Wolfe, of the W. Broad-st address.

Kunzi Is Swiss Picnic Chairman

Herbert F. Kunzi

Herbert F. Kunzi, 3133 Ellispi, has been named general chairman of the Swiss picnic to be held Sunday, Aug. 7, at Catalpa Park in commemoration of Switzerland's independence.

Mr. Kunzi has been a member of the Swiss organization for 10 years and for the past two years has been president of the Franklin County Swiss Societies.

Mr. Kunzi said that the picnic is for those of Swiss descent living in and around Columbus to celebrate the independence of their peace loving fatherland. Switzerland has been an independent republic since 1291 A. D.

Other Hilltop members of the picnic committee are Emil J. Kunzi, Jr., 456 S. Westgate-av, and Frederick Duerler, Jr., 385 S. Roys-av.

Dr. Andre Crotti, Swiss-American surgeon, has been named honorary chairman.

IS CHECKER CHAMPION

David Brophy, 13, of 655 S. Ogden-av, won the junior division city checker championship yesterday in contests held at Central High School. David represented John Burroughs playground.

Twenty-three-year-old Horse To Lead Off In Hilliards Races

H. F. Cunningham and "Betty"

A 23-year-old former race horse will lead the horses to the post in the harness races at the Franklin County Fair at Hilliards this year, Aug. 16-20.

"Betty" a retired trotter, owned by H. F. Cunningham of 4744 Fisher-rd, will also be on exhibit at the fair. The horse, according to Mr. Cunningham, has the appearance and spirit of a three-year-old. She did a mile in 2:18 in 1934 at Powell, O. Twenty-three for a horse is the equivalent of a person about 75 years old.

"Betty" is also expected to have a colt some time next February. She has been bred to "Jerry-M" of the Shangri-La Farms.

Races will be run at the fair this year on three afternoons and two evenings. Purses at the meet will total $10,000.

Horse shows will play a big part in the fair. There will be an English Horse Show on Aug. 18 and 17, and a Western Horse Show and amateur rodeo on Saturday, Aug. 20.

Zeke Palmer and A. E. Bogen have been named to take charge of the English Horse Show.

IN LINE FOR PROMOTION

Detective Lt. Louis J. Capretta, 240 S. Harris-av, will be in line for promotion if recommendations of police physicians in retiring two members of the department are carried out.

Police Chief Frank L. Harrison, 2964 Wicklow-rd, said that suspension orders will be issued and hearings held after the men complete their vacations.

Work Begins On Sullivant-Av. Structure

Construction started today on a new building at 2016 Sullivant-av to be used by the Ohio Plumbing and Fixture Corp.

The building will be a two-story fire-proof concrete building, 40 by 120 feet. Mary E. Bentz, owner of the company, said that the building will be used as a showroom and warehouse for the present. However it is being built so that it may be converted into apartments later.

The building is expected to be finished in about two months. Frank Bentz is the architect.

Joseph Florio To Open Beauty Salon Sept. 1

Joseph Florio has announced that he will open a new, modern beauty salon at 2585 Sullivant-av about Sept. 1.

Mr. Florio has been associated with beauticians in New York, Washington, D. C., and Florida as well as with local shops. He studied under M. Lewis of the American Hair Design Institute in New York City.

The completely modern shop will feature English white oak furnishings, hydraulic chairs and a venetian blind type trellis, decorated with ivy, separating the working rooms and reception room.

The ceiling will be covered with sound-proofing material to cut down noise. Both inverted and spot lighting will be used. Marble sills will be a feature of the Hollywood style show windows and the floor will be entirely of marble.

The color scheme of the salon will be yellow, chartreuse, gray and blue.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Mildred Myers, 97 N. Chase-av, has been appointed chairman of the annual La Marche Departmentale of the Eight et Forty which will be held in the Neil House today and Friday. Her co-chairman is Mrs. Kathleen Lortz.

'On The House'

You can beat the heat and beat the inflation today if you want to.

If you are not particularly opposed to heat and inflation you can just call it "getting one on the house." A coupon printed in today's Record will entitle you to a free large root beer at the Georgiton Candy and Ice Cream stores at Broad-st and Eureka-av and Broad-st and Hague-av.

Community Chest Seeks Women Volunteers Here

An appeal for women to volunteer as solicitors in the coming Community Chest campaign was made this week by Mrs. Benjamin F. Knepper, 2693 W. Broad-st, chairman of the West Residential Division for the drive.

"Our territory is a large one, and we will need many more door-to-door workers than we have enrolled at present," Mrs. Knepper said. "If we are to make our quota and hold our own with other sections of the city in this great annual appeal, we will have to have ample woman power to visit every home on the West Side. A good campaign organization virtually insures a successful campaign."

Goal and quotas for the drive, which will be held the last half of October have not been set.

Women who will contribute time to serving as solicitors are requested to call Mrs. Knepper, RA. 4427, or fill out the accompanying form and mail it to her. An early response is hoped for.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Gilmore

Glenwood Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding which united Miss Jean E. Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Radford, Kansas City, Kan., and Mr. Donald E. Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmore, 364 Whitethorne-av, at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, July 30. Fern and baskets of white gladioli were illuminated by candlelight for the ceremony performed by Rev. H. C. Gunnett, uncle of the bride, who was assisted by Rev. Joseph Shellhaas.

Miss Garnett Menge sang "I Love You Truly," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Clyde Moore played an organ prelude and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore the white satin gown presented her by Mr. Cole of Cole of Columbus, Inc. The bride's gown was styled with a fitted bodice, appliqued with satin flowers and trimmed with pearls and beading. The hoop skirt was caught up in front to reveal rows of lace, and ended in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a shirred bonnet of lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and white carnations.

Mrs. Harold Crawford, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a bouffant hoopskirt gown of French blue taffeta with a tiara of pink roses matching the flowers in her bouquet.

Mrs. Melvin McGaha and Miss Barbara Donavon served as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of sky blue taffeta, fashioned like that of the matron of honor. Their tiaras were of pink carnations, which matched the flowers in their bouquets.

Barbara and Margaret Linscott, twins, were flower girls and wore dresses of sky blue taffeta with pink carnations in their hair and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Dick Gilmore, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Harold Crawford, Mr. Melvin McGaha, Mr. Paul Hegenberger, Mr. John Rityona and Mr. Paul Anderson.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception held in the ball room of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. The four-tier wedding cake was decorated to match the color scheme of the wedding dresses. Pink rosebuds and fern were scattered around the cake. Bouquets of white gladioli decorated the ballroom.

The mother of the bride wore a powder blue chiffon dress with wheat colored accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of West High School and is now associated with the U. S. Department of Labor.

Out of town guests consisted of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Radford, Kansas City, Kan.; Rev. H. C. Gunnett, Barberton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McGaha, Fayetteville, Ark.; Mr. John Rityona, Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. David Edwards, Cleveland; Miss Georgiana Hamilton, Cleveland; and Mrs. Harold Bosse, Detroit.

Seventeen Receive Awards At John Burroughs July 28

Seventeen young Hilltoppers received awards at the garden show held at John Burroughs playground on July 28. Entries for the show included flowers and vegetables direct from home gardens and fruit and vegetables decorated to represent different characters.

The most complete exhibit was brought by Eunice Werling, which included tomatoes, Kentucky wonder beans, a mango and a large summer bouquet from her own garden.

The most artistic bouquet was composed of blue delphiniums, forget-me-nots and yellow dahlias and was arranged by Clare Bailey.

Prize tags were given as awards.

Awards for vegetables were made to Billy Smith, John Yellani, Eunice Werling, Clare Bailey and Shelba Jones.

Prizes for flowers and flower arrangements were given to Mary Ann Dearwater, Eunice Werling, Carol Ann Trigger, Joyce Streckler, Clare Bailey, William Ives, Shelba Jones, Skipper Cunningham, Sharon Amore, Deanna Van Dyke, Bonnie Bauer and Kenneth Carpenter.

Joyce Streckler, president of the Garden Club, and Shelba Jones, secretary, were in charge of receiving and arranging the entries.

Lechner, Jones Bans Are Solemnized July 10 In Ceremony At South End Church

Mrs. Robert E. Jones, Jr.

Palms, ferns and tall vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums banked the altar of the Martin Luther Evangelical Lutheran Church for the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Florence Lechner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lechner, 360 E. Mithoff-st, and Mr. Robert E. Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Jones, Sr., 455 S. Hague-av, at 4:30 July 10.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. L. E. Heuer. Preceding the wedding Mr. William Gallagher, soloist, was accompanied by Mr. Robert Hite, organist of the church, for a half-hour program of music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a marquisette gown styled with an unusual lace ruffled bertha dotted with rhinestones and a peplum of the same lace extending over the full skirt which ended in a circular train. A coronet of orange blossoms held the three-tier veil of illusion and the bride carried a white Bible topped with a purple-throated white orchid and stephanotis tied to the white satin streamers. A white handkerchief trimmed with swiss lace given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Eitel, was also carried by the bride.

Miss Margaret Lechner, maid of honor and sister of the bride, wore an organza gown of summer yellow with a large bertha of chantilly lace and a full-ruffled skirt, a large picture hat of yellow horsehair braid and matching mitts. Her bouquet of lavender gladioli buds and white chrysanthemums was tied with orchid tulle and satin. The flower girl, Miss Jeanie Pratt, cousin of the bridegroom, wore white organza and lace over pale green taffet, a shirred organza hat trimmed with tiny white daisies and carried a basket of rose petals.

James Slager served as best man and the ushers were James Davis and John Lechner, brother of the bride.

At the reception held in the church parlors for 150 guests the following served as hostesses: Mrs. Fred Rosenauer, Grove City, Mrs. Harold Lechner, both aunts of the bride, Mrs. G. Harold Lechner, Jr., cousin of the bride, Miss Donna Beck, and Mrs. Forest Sutton, also of Grove City.

Mrs. Lechner received the guests in a toast sheer crepe and lace dress with matching accessories while Mrs. Jones was dressed in aqua lace with pink accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

The new Mrs. Jones is a graduate of South High School and is now employed in the offices of the F. W. Woolworth Co. The bridegroom was graduated from West High School, attended Ohio State, and is now associated with the International News Service.

Niagara Falls, Scenic French River Enjoyed By Agees On "Honeymoon"

By Rosalie Agee

Twelve years is a long time to wait for a honeymoon—but what better way to enjoy one than to follow the proverbial trip to Niagara Falls with a solid week of fishing, swimming, boating and just plain relaxing, in the French River country of Northern Canada.

Unlike newlyweds, this long postponed trip presented complications in the form of two children who had to be deposited down in the blue grass regions of Kentucky before starting our trip. Our destination the first night called for a stop at Erie, Pa., but being unable to drag friend hubby" away at the proper time we made our first night stop outside Cleveland.

After an early start next morning we continued along the beautiful lakeshore drive into Pennsylvania and New York, noting along the way the abundance of grape vines and orchards which came to a climax at Westfield, N. Y., which boasts the title of the "Grapejuice Capital of the World."

The same afternoon we checked into the Hotel Niagara overlooking the almost unbelievable sight of millions of gallons of water falling hundreds of feet, every minute of every day. During our tour of the Falls area, Joe was completely amazed at the sight of hundreds of pheasants walking around in the parks, apparently oblivious to the fact that one of the most avid hunters in the country was drooling just a few feet from them. The surries with the fringe on top and the hat on old Dobbin, contrasting with the uniformed drivers and their long, sleek limousines as modes of transportation and the breathtaking beauty of the colored lights shining through the mist, combined to make this truly a beautiful setting for a scenic wonderland.

Up early Sunday morning, through customs and on to the Queen Elizabeth Highway for a speedy dash into Toronto, one of Canada's leading industrial cities, whose main street reminded us very much of North High Street in Columbus. Here we were further reminded of home by seeing an RA. telephone exchange listed on several business places.

Going north out of Toronto we hit the Sunday "holiday" traffic which led us to believe that every Canadian with a bicycle, motorcycle, baby carriage and automobile spends every Sunday afternoon on picnics in the lake region. One drive-in along this main route north vividly featured "Hot Dogs and Tea." That is really keeping up with two widely separated traditions. The town of Orillia boasted of many different nationalities. We had Sunday dinner in a Chinese Restaurant, served by a Norwegian girl and flanked by a typical French couple on one side and English on the other while an "old look" Scottish Highlander peered through the front window.

We arrived at North Bay and were welcomed by a sign claiming it to be the "Gateway to the North"—then out Monday morning on the liner "Chief Commanda" for a two hour cruise across Lake Nipissing to Keystone Camp where we were met by Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Miller and taken to their summer home down the French River.

We were expecting to "rough it" during our stay but our first glimpse of their home soon showed we were completely in error. Their home is located at the point of an island which commands a view of the entire width of this vast body of water, the French River. The large living room with a picture window overlooking the river for several miles is a sight which we shall always remember. The fireplace built of natural stone was a welcome necessity during the cool evenings, while we played "rummy" and talked by the fire.

Now to the fish. That story about R. J. having the fish tied up when we arrived is entirely false. On our first evening out we caught six large pickerel and the next day we caught pike, small mouth bass and more pickerel and even a small eel—caught by "friend hubby" again. During the day the sun was hot enough to enable us to boast a wonderful suntan and the evenings cool enough for sweaters. The swimming was wonderful in the fresh water right off the dock. Most of all the week was a very restful one after the hustle and bustle of day to day city living. Blueberries are in abundance throughout the islands and made up an important part of our diet along with the fresh fish and were a welcome diversion to our every day eating habits.

Even in Northern Canada the square dance has become popular. One of the summer residents, Roy Wolfe of Binns-blvd, invited all the Indians in the vicinity to a square dance which 42 persons attended. It was a very unusual sight, old and young, some in Indian dress, others in various styles of Canadian and American dress.

During our stay one complete day was spent with an Indian guide who conducted Joe and R. J. on a trip through the islands for a day of fishing. At noon the guide prepared a shore dinner built around pickerel caught during the morning. After returning from their trip and all day on the water they both somewhat resembled a broiled lobster.

Our "loafing" time was spent on the screened-in front porch with Mrs. R. J. knitting, R. J. rocking back and forth with binoculars in hand, checking traffic up and down the river and being lazy in general. There could be no finer hosts, if one searched a lifetime, than Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Miller, and we shall always remember their graciousness and wonderful hospitality.

On our return trip we were surprised to encounter three other visitors from Columbus while stopping at Barrie, Ontario, overnight. Always remembering the annual bean dinner we made a quick trip back with an overnight stop in Detroit and a tour of the massive Ford plant.

It always seems that the longest miles are those closest to home—especially when that home is a place like the Hilltop.

CHICAGO — A nationwide survey just completed reveals that low everyday prices in IGA Stores from coast to coast substantially aiding housewives faced with food budget problems.
"Economies made possible by lower operating costs of both the wholesale and retail levels are responsible for the lower food prices prevalent in our stores," said a statement issued by IGA Headquarters.
"IGA store owners are fully aware of the problems faced by most housewives as a result of meeting defense budget needs. Consequently, every effort is being made to eliminate every unnecessary expense so the lowest possible prices may be offered to the American home wife."
According to IGA Headquarters, the prices charged in IGA Stores were in many instances even lower at some than most competitors in the very cities where surveys were made.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Gilmore

Glenwood Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding which united Miss Jean E. Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Radford, Kansas City, Kan., and Mr. Donald E. Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmore, 364 Whitethorne-av, at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, July 30. Fern and baskets of white gladioli were illuminated by candlelight for the ceremony performed by Rev. H. C. Gunnett, uncle of the bride, who was assisted by Rev. Joseph Shellhaas.

Miss Garnett Menge, sang "I Love You Truly," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Clyde Moore played an organ prelude and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore the white satin gown presented her by Mr. Cole of Cole of Columbus, Inc. The bride's gown was styled with a fitted bodice, appliqued with satin flowers and trimmed with pearls and beading. The hoop skirt was caught up in front to reveal rows of lace, and ended in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a shirred bonnet of lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and white carnations.

Mrs. Harold Crawford, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a bouffant hoopskirt gown of French blue taffeta with a tiara of pink roses matching the flowers in her bouquet.

Mrs. Melvin McGaha and Miss Barbara Donavon served as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of sky blue taffeta, fashioned like that of the matron of honor. Their tiaras were of pink carnations, which matched the flowers in their bouquets.

Barbara and Margaret Linscott, twins, were flower girls and wore dresses of sky blue taffeta with pink carnations in their hair and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Dick Gilmore, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Harold Crawford, Mr. Melvin McGaha, Mr. Paul Hegenberger, Mr. John Rityona and Mr. Paul Anderson.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception held in the ball room of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. The four-tier wedding cake was decorated to match the color scheme of the wedding dresses. Pink rosebuds and fern were scattered around the cake. Bouquets of white gladioli decorated the ballroom.

The mother of the bride wore a powder blue chiffon dress with wheat colored accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of West High School and is now associated with the U. S. Department of Labor.

Out of town guests consisted of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Radford, Kansas City, Kan.; Rev. H. C. Gunnett, Barberton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McGaha, Fayetteville, Ark.; Mr. John Rityona, Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. David Edwards, Cleveland; Miss Georgiana Hamilton, Cleveland; and Mrs. Harold Bosse, Detroit.

Seventeen Receive Awards At John Burroughs July 28

Seventeen young Hilltoppers received awards at the garden show held at John Burroughs playground on July 28. Entries for the show included flowers and vegetables direct from home gardens and fruit and vegetables decorated to represent different characters.

The most complete exhibit was brought by Eunice Werling, which included tomatoes, Kentucky wonder beans, a mango and a large summer bouquet from her own garden.

The most artistic bouquet was composed of blue delphiniums, forget-me-nots and yellow dahlias and was arranged by Clare Bailey.

Prize tags were given as awards.

Awards for vegetables were made to Billy Smith, John Vellani, Eunice Werling, Clare Bailey and Shelba Jones.

Prizes for flowers and flower arrangements were given to Mary Ann Dearwater, Eunice Werling, Carol Ann Trigger, Joyce Streckler, Clare Bailey, William Ives, Shelba Jones, Skipper Cunningham, Sharon Amore, Deanna Van Dyke, Bonnie Bauer and Kenneth Carpenter.

Joyce Streckler, president of the Garden Club, and Shelba Jones, secretary, were in charge of receiving and arranging the entries.

Mrs. Robert E. Jones, Jr.

Palms, ferns and tall vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums banked the altar of the Martin Luther Evangelical Lutheran Church for the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Florence Lechner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lechner, 360 E. Mitchoff-st, and Mr. Robert E. Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Jones, Sr., 455 S. Hague-av, at 4:30 July 10.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. L. E. Heuer. Preceding the wedding Mr. William Gallagher, soloist, was accompanied by Mr. Robert Hite, organist of the church, for a half-hour program of music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a marquisette gown styled with an unusual lace ruffled bertha dotted with rhinestones and a peplum of the same lace extending over the full skirt which ended in a circular train. A coronet of orange blossoms held the three-tier veil of illusion and the bride carried a white Bible topped with a purple-throated white orchid and stephanotis tied to the white satin streamers. A white handkerchief trimmed with swiss lace given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Eitel, was also carried by the bride.

Miss Margaret Lechner, maid of honor and sister of the bride, wore an organza gown of summer yellow with a large bertha of chantilly lace and a full-ruffled skirt, a large picture hat of yellow horsehair braid and matching mitts. Her bouquet of lavender gladioli buds and white chrysanthemums was tied with orchid tulle and satin. The flower girl, Miss Jeanie Pratt, cousin of the bridegroom, wore white organza and lace over pale green taffet, a shirred organza hat trimmed with tiny white daisies and carried a basket of rose petals.

At the reception held in the church parlors for 150 guests the following served as hostesses: Mrs. Fred Rosenauer, Grove City, Mrs. Harold Lechner, both aunts of the bride, Mrs. G. Harold Lechner, Jr., cousin of the bride, Miss Donna Beck, and Mrs. Forest Sutton, also of Grove City.

Mrs. Lechner received the guests in a toast sheer crepe and lace dress with matching accessories while Mrs. Jones was dressed in aqua lace with pink accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

The new Mrs. Jones is a graduate of South High School and is now employed in the offices of the F. W. Woolworth Co. The bridegroom was graduated from West High School, attended Ohio State, and is now associated with the International News Service.

By Rosalie Agee

Twelve years is a long time to wait for a honeymoon—but what better way to enjoy one than to follow the proverbial trip to Niagara Falls with a solid week of fishing, swimming, boating and just plain relaxing, in the French River country of Northern Canada.

Unlike newlyweds, this long postponed trip presented complications in the form of two children who had to be deposited down in the blue grass regions of Kentucky before starting our trip. Our destination the first night called for a stop at Erie, Pa., but being unable to drag friend hubby" away at the proper time we made our first night stop outside Cleveland.

After an early start next morning we continued along the beautiful lakeshore drive into Pennsylvania and New York, noting along the way the abundance of grape vines and orchards which came to a climax at Westfield, N. Y., which boasts the title of the "Grapejuice Capital of the World."

The same afternoon we checked into the Hotel Niagara overlooking the almost unbelievable sight of millions of gallons of water falling hundreds of feet, every minute of every day. During our tour of the Falls area, Joe was completely amazed at the sight of hundreds of pheasants walking around in the parks, apparently oblivious to the fact that one of the most avid hunters in the country was drooling just a few feet from them. The surries with the fringe on top and the hat on old Dobbin, contrasting with the uniformed drivers and their long, sleek limousines as modes of transportation and the breathtaking beauty of the colored lights shining through the mist, combined to make this truly a beautiful setting for a scenic wonderland.

Up early Sunday morning, through customs and on to the Queen Elizabeth Highway for a speedy dash into Toronto, one of Canada's leading industrial cities, whose main street reminded us very much of North High Street in Columbus. Here we were further reminded of home by seeing an RA. telephone exchange listed on several business places.

Going north out of Toronto we hit the Sunday "holiday" traffic which led us to believe that every Canadian with a bicycle, motorcycle, baby carriage and automobile spends every Sunday afternoon on picnics in the lake region. One drive-in along this main route north vividly featured "Hot Dogs and Tea." That is really keeping up with two widely separated traditions. The town of Orillia boasted of many different nationalities. We had Sunday dinner in a Chinese Restaurant, served by a Norwegian girl and flanked by a typical French couple on one side and English on the other while an "old look" Scottish Highlander peered through the front window.

We arrived at North Bay and were welcomed by a sign claiming it to be the "Gateway to the North"—then out Monday morning on the liner "Chief Commanda" for a two hour cruise across Lake Nipissing to Keystone Camp where we were met by Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Miller and taken to their summer home down the French River.

We were expecting to "rough it" during our stay but our first glimpse of their home soon showed we were completely in error. Their home is located at the point of an island which commands a view of the entire width of this vast body of water, the French River. The large living room with a picture window overlooking the river for several miles is a sight which we shall always remember. The fireplace built of natural stone was a welcome necessity during the cool evenings, while we played "rummy" and talked by the fire.

Now to the fish. That story about R. J. having the fish tied up when we arrived is entirely false. On our first evening out we caught six large pickerel and the next day we caught pike, small mouth bass and more pickerel and even a small eel—caught by "friend hubby" again. During the day the sun was hot enough to enable us to boast a wonderful suntan and the evenings cool enough for sweaters. The swimming was wonderful in the fresh water right off the dock. Most of all the week was a very restful one after the hustle and bustle of day to day city living. Blueberries are in abundance throughout the islands and made up an important part of our diet along with the fresh fish and were a welcome diversion to our every day eating habits.

Even in Northern Canada the square dance has become popular. One of the summer residents, Roy Wolfe of Binns-blvd, invited all the Indians in the vicinity to a square dance which 42 persons attended. It was a very unusual sight, old and young, some in Indian dress, others in various styles of Canadian and American dress.

During our stay one complete day was spent with an Indian guide who conducted Joe and R. J. on a trip through the islands for a day of fishing. At noon the guide prepared a shore dinner built around pickerel caught during the morning. After returning from their trip and all day on the water they both somewhat resembled a broiled lobster.

Our "loafing" time was spent on the screened-in front porch with Mrs. R. J. knitting, R. J. rocking back and forth with binoculars in hand, checking traffic up and down the river and being lazy in general. There could be no finer hosts, if one searched a lifetime, than Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Miller, and we shall always remember their graciousness and wonderful hospitality.

On our return trip we were surprised to encounter three other visitors from Columbus while stopping at Barrie, Ontario, overnight. Always remembering the annual bean dinner we made a quick trip back with an overnight stop in Detroit and a tour of the massive Ford plant.

It always seems that the longest miles are those closest to home—especially when that home is a place like the Hilltop.

IGA Food Stores
LOW PRICES EVERY DAY!
CHICAGO — A nationwide survey just completed reveals that low everyday prices in IGA stores loom ever to combat ever mounting aiding housewives faced with food budget problems.
"Economies made possible by lower operating costs of both the wholesale and retail levels are responsible for the low food prices prevalent in our stores," said a statement issued by IGA Headquarters.
"IGA store owners are fully aware of the problems faced by most housewives as a result of meeting definite budget needs. Consequently, every effort is being made to eliminate every unnecessary expense so the lowest possible prices may be offered to the American housewife."
According to IGA Headquarters, the average shopper who visits IGA stores every week in these districts even lower in price than most competitors in the key cities where surveys were made.

Denim clam-diggers with shirt.

By VERA WINSTON

FOR ROUGHING IT on the beach or for fishing there are sturdy little outfits that aren't without a touch of smartness and a sort of boyish charm. This one goes in for clam-diggers that are of white-striped gray denim. There's a back pocket and two hip pockets. A rope slipped through loops is used for a belt. A black cotton T shirt and a matching hat of the denim complete the outfit.

A child at play near the street is a caution sign for car drivers. Take the advice of the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, "Be EXTRA careful in residential neighborhoods. Help keep the children carefree. Help keep them living."

Preparing Meals in Summer

By ALICE DENHOFF

MADE-IN-THE-MORNING meals keep cook and kitchen clean, cool and comfy. Cool and comfy during the day, and clean and charming at night because there's no last-minute scramble to prepare a meal when one is all fagged out after a hot day.

Well, after that big mouthful, let's get down to cases by setting a morning schedule for summer suppers so that this chore can be out of the way by noon. Come evening and the meal is soon assembled. The "when" in this program must include taking care that vegetables are well prepared, that they don't soak too long and lose their vitamins, and don't prepare for lavish foods.

Do make use of all the wonderful frozen food items, the marvelous mixes and such. Make a molded gelatine salad, let it set. Get your greens washed and crisped, put in waxed paper and pop into the refrigerator. Boil potatoes when the sun is low in the morning, leave them in their jackets for spud salad at night. Or mix up the salad, store it in a tightly covered receptacle in the refrigerator. Set cans of grapefruit juice right in the freezing unit, let them freeze, then open both sides of the can and serve icy slices for a delicious, nutritious, frosty tidbit.

Use canned shrimp for a good salad. Soften tbsp. plain gelatine in ¼ c. cold water; add ¾ c. boiling water, ¾ c. grapefruit juice, ½ tsp. salt and tbsp. sugar. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. When slightly thickened, fold in #1 can shrimp. Drain #2 can grapefruit sections (use juice) and dice. Fold into shrimp mixture with 2 tbsp. chopped green pepper. Turn into qt. mold or 6 individual molds, chill until firm. Serve with mayonnaise.

For a store-well potato salad that makes mighty fine fare for 8, mix 2 c. diced cooked potatoes, one c. diced celery, one c. diced cucumber and 2 diced hard-cooked eggs. Blend ¾ c. mayonnaise, tsp. grated onion, ½ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Add to potato mixture. Toss together lightly with fork. Store in covered container and chill.

Easy to fix and something different by way of cold cuts are slices of cold meat cuts molded in gelatine. For slice appetite-prodders in warm weather, try fresh mint in canned grapefruit juice as a first course or meal beverage. Chives in mayonnaise is a nice topper for cold salmon. Grated cheese on tomatoes before popping them under the broiler is nice, as is a dish of stuffed eggs topped with cooked shrimp on crisp salad greens.

To add that certain something to vanilla or chocolate ice cream, top with crushed, store-bought chocolate peppermints.

DEATHS

Thomas N. Black Funeral Today

Thomas Neilston Black, 68, died Tuesday in his home, 180 S. Eureka-av. A former interior decorator, he retired last March. He was a member of Glenwood Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Edith Black; two daughters, Mrs. C. E. Miller, 178 S. Eureka-av, and Elizabeth Black, at home; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Moore, and a sister, Mrs. Belle Marsh, both of 218 E. Tompkins-st; and four grandchildren.

The Rev. Joseph Shellhaas will conduct funeral services at the Jerry Spears Funeral Home at 1 p. m. today.

Burial will be in Walnut Grove Cemetery.

The colossal statue of the sun-god at Rhodes, 105 feet high, was levelled by an earth quake in 224 B. C., but its remains endured until 656 A. D., when they were sold to an old metal dealer.

In China and Japan, windows are usually covered with paper, cloth or shell.

Marriage Licenses

Helen M. Reese, 34, 162 S. Westgate-av, and Patrick W. Murray, 29, Fort Wayne, Ind., librarian.

Donald L. Bishop, 26, machinist, 48 N. Roys-av; Mary L. Hess, 24, of 65 Gladys-rd.

The only sign of the old time animal power was a chore or two by two elephants when the poles were ready to come down. It was a grand show, though.

'Destroy Old Medicines,' City Warns Parents

Don't throw away old medicines . . . destroy them!

That was the warning issued today by Dr. Ollie M. Goodloe, Columbus Health Commissioner.

"Youngsters like to play doctor and nurse," Dr. Goodloe said. "Bottles of pills or medicines discarded on a trash heap are a constant temptation to them, despite their parents' warnings."

Dr. Goodloe suggested that old medicines be destroyed as soon as their need has passed. Age deteriorates some medicines while it increases the strength of others to the danger point. Either way, stale medicines may be harmful.

"Liquid medicines should be flushed down the drain," Dr. Goodloe suggested. "Pills, salves and ointments should be burned. That way, dangerous medicines will be kept out of reach of youngsters."

Grandmother's Rice Pudding Goes Modern

Grandmother's long-cooked rice pudding filled with plump raisins, has always been a favorite dessert. However, a new variation of this old time favorite combines the rice pudding with apricots instead of raisins. The basic ingredients, rice, milk, and eggs, are the same, but the apricots make it a new taste treat. Serve the pudding with cream.

EMPRESS PUDDING

1 quart milk, scalded
½ cup rice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ to ⅓ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups drained, cooked apricots (sweetened) or,
1 cup apricot jam, or other favorite jam

Scald milk in top of double boiler; add washed, drained rice and salt. Cover and cook over hot water about an hour, until rice is tender and milk is about absorbed. Stir occasionally. Beat eggs; add sugar and blend. Stir some hot rice into egg-sugar mixture and blend; stir into remaining rice mixture. Add vanilla and nutmeg. Put rice into well-buttered casserole in alternate layers with apricots or jam between, reserving a little for top. Bake in a moderate oven, 325° F., about 40 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve with milk or cream. Serves 6.

Plan Drama Contest At Sunshine Park

All contests will start at 2 p. m. and are under the jurisdiction of Mrs. Margaret Blickle of Ohio State University. The finals to decide the ultimate winner will be staged on Wednesday, Aug. 17, at Sunshine Park and will start at 7 p. m.

A good shearer can shear from 100 to 200 sheep in a day.

Milk Strike

By Betty Barclay

MOST homemakers now and then have a milk strike right at their own dining tables. A junior member of the family may occasionally come up with, "Aw, Mom, do I have to drink my milk?" Even a senior member may cast a disdainful look in your direction, together with a remark to the effect that he isn't a baby. Then is the time for strategy — in the form of this Baked Chocolate Custard. It is just as beneficial, you know, to eat milk as to drink it — and eating it in this form is a pleasure. Chocolate gives a custard extra appetite appeal, too. Dollars to doughnuts, Baked Chocolate Custard will prove a quick and easy strike-breaker.

Baked Chocolate Custard

1 square unsweetened chocolate; 2 cups milk; 2 eggs; ¼ cup sugar; ⅛ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler 5 minutes, or until chocolate is melted and bubbles begin to appear around sides of pan. Then beat with rotary egg beater until blended.

Meanwhile, beat eggs with rotary egg beater until foamy. Add sugar, salt, and vanilla. Add hot chocolate mixture gradually, stirring constantly. Pour into 6 custard cups. Place in pan of hot water, having water reach level of custard in cups. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 35 minutes. Serve slightly warm in cups or chill and unmold in serving dishes. Serve with cream, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Yesterday's REFRIGERATION

Is Too Slow and Wasteful For Today's High Priced Perishable Foods

Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

And you can be sure, when you buy the new, dependable General Electric Refrigerator-Home Freezer Combination.

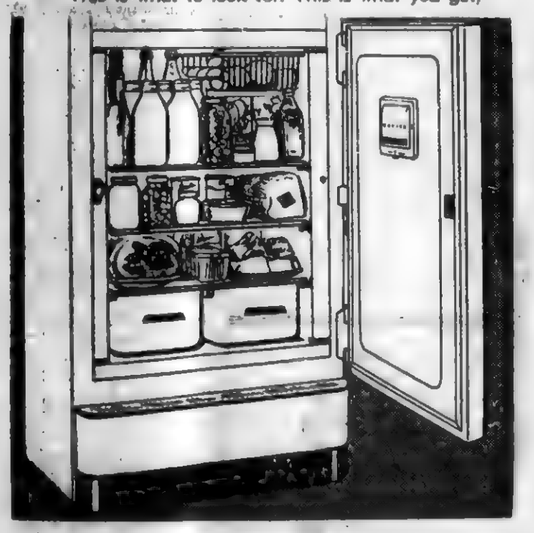
Look for separate compartments, separate outside doors! Each compartment with individual cold control.

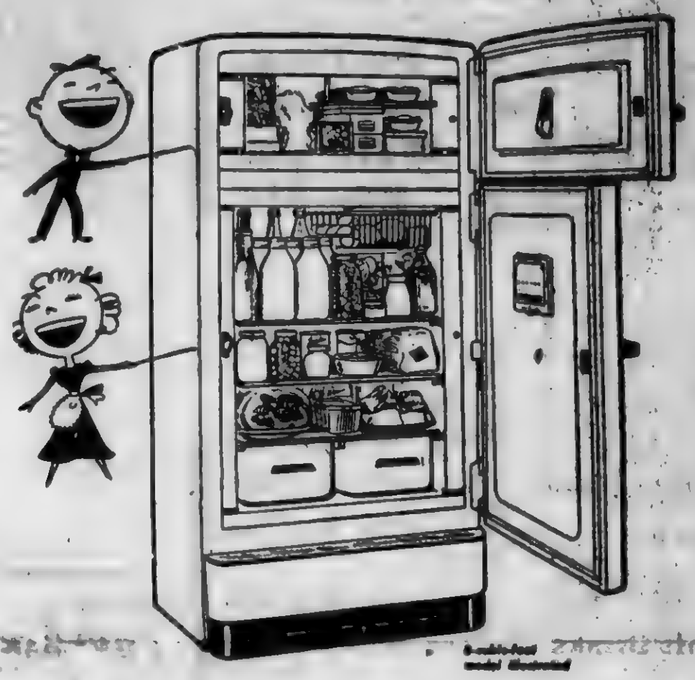


Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get.



In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerato.r Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
REFRIGERATOR - HOME FREEZER COMBINATION

A SEPARATE REFRIGERATOR

PLUS A SEPARATE HOME FREEZER

You'll never forget . . . never regret . . . the day you buy this General Electric Combination. For the name GENERAL ELECTRIC means dependability . . . dependability based on an unsurpassed record for year-after-year performance.

More than 2,000,000 General Electric Refrigerators have been in service 10 years or longer!

And the chief reason, of course, is the famous General Electric sealed-in refrigerating system. Airtight and oiltight, this dependable system has never been excelled for efficient, economical operation . . . year in, year out.

8- AND 10-CUBIC-FOOT MODELS

The General Electric Combination is available at your retailer's in both 8- and 10-cubic-foot models—one of them just right for your household. We think you'll agree they provide the most that's offered in a home refrigerator today.

JOE BRIGGS
Says:
Unlike a child, an egg never gets beaten when it's bad.
During a few short minutes hailstones the size of eggs battered property in Memphis, causing over 25,000 losses. The stones broke windows, splintered frame siding, ruined paint and riddled roofs. Accompanying rain increased damage by soaking floors, plaster and wallpaper. The damage was over $3,000,000. Any such catastrophe is unexpected, and wise is the property owner who is prepared with sufficient insurance. Joe Briggs, 2596 Sullivant Ave. RA. 3194.

Briggsdale And Brown Road

By Mrs. Harry C. Downing

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Nardin and sons, David and Billy, 1029 Brown-rd, spent the third week of July visiting several well known places in Kentucky and Tennessee. Among them were Knoxville, Mammoth Cave, Lincoln's birthplace and Bar Hollow Lake.

John Lockwood, 1691 Harrisburg-pk, a member of the Ohio Air National Guard, was in camp two weeks recently at Dover, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller and son, 978 Midland-av, Billy Hoffman, Whitethorne-av, and Mr. and Mrs. William Coppol and son, Michael, 755 Wiltshire-rd, enjoyed a picnic last Sunday at Old Man's Cave.

Twenty-six children attended the story hour at Briggsdale School library Wednesday afternoon last week. The flannel board demonstration was given by two librarians from the Columbus Public Library.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley O'Day and Mrs. Kathryn King, 2086 Eakin-rd, were among members of the Forty-Six Club who held a picnic at Westgate Park Sunday evening.

Mrs. Doris Cook, 1078 Geneva-av, is in Houston, Tex., visiting her daughter, Wanda Foster, who is a stewardess for Trans-Texas Airways. Mrs. Cook was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Ed Brammer and son, Keith, 1141 Parkwood-av.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Nardin and family, Brown-rd, last Thursday and Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Fitzgerald and daughter, Jerry, and Mrs. Fred Zimmers, all of Hamilton. Sunday the Nardins entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Truitt and Flora Truitt of West Jefferson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lockwood and family, 1691 Harrisburg-pk, had as their guest a week ago Sunday, Milton Watson, principal of Garfield School, East Liverpool. Mr. Watson is enrolled in summer school at Ohio State.

Jack Miller, 978 Midland-av, was in Fredericktown, Pa., Tuesday and Wednesday where he was called on business. While there he visited his brother, Will, who recently underwent surgery in a Fredericktown hospital. Mr. Miller was accompanied east as far as Wheeling, W. Va., by Mrs. William Coppol and son, Wiltshire-rd. They will return home Sunday with Mr. Coppol.

John Burroughs Defeats W. Broad In Junior League

Pitcher Merredith allowed eight hits and gave but four walks. Merredith was also quite hot in the batters' box, getting three for four, a single, a two-bagger and a home run and drove in four runs.

Eddie Gleiba got two for two and walked out two walks of the nine issued by West Broad pitcher Kimball who held J. B. to seven hits.

J. B.	1	0	2	4	0	1	0	—	8
W. B.	1	0	0	4	2	0	0	—	7

Nurses' Aides Sought By Red Cross

The Red Cross is appealing to women of the Hilltop who have time during the day to take the volunteer nurses' aide training course.

A recruitment campaign for all volunteer services is planned by Mrs. Fred L. Donnelly, chairman, for the first week in September with training classes to start after that date. Recruitment for this service is taking place now, in order that applicants can be interviewed and physical examinations returned in time for an early fall class.

Thirty-five hours of classroom work and 46 hours of hospital training are included in the course.

At the regional Blood Center they take the temperature, pulse and weight of donors and assist the staff nurses in the donation room. Nurses' aides in hospitals, working under the supervision of staff nurses, give the patients the added attention to speed recovery and make them more comfortable.

To be a Red Cross volunteer nurses' aide, you must be 20 years of age or over, be a high school graduate and pass a physical examination. Upon completion of the 80-hour ocurse, one must serve a minimum of 150 hours each year. Arrangements for an interview may be made by calling volunteer office at Red Cross headquarters, Fl. 1511, or Mrs. Frank J. Connor, chairman of Volunteer Nurses' Aide Service, at EV. 0868.

PLAN HIKE

Central Ohio Hiking Club of the YMCA will have its next hike at Alum Cliffs on Sunday, Aug. 14. Hikemaster is Irvin Wagner. One meal should be brought along. Chartered buses will leave the "Y", located at 40 W. Long-st, at 1 o'clock sharp. Deadline for reservations, Aug. 10. Everyone over high school age is eligible to participate in these hikes.

Is Return of Ile de France Symbol of French Recovery? | War Cost French More Than 60 Per Cent of Their Vessels

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The return of a French steamship to the Atlantic lanes as a luxury liner is looked upon here with hopeful eyes as a harbinger that Europe may work out its economic crisis. The ship is the Ile de France, which carried 686,000 troops during the war without incident, due chiefly to the liner's speed.

With supreme effort, the French have restored the ship in an artistic manner perhaps never surpassed. Scores of leading French designers and artists were engaged. All to obtain the precious American dollar.

Eiffel Tower, Paris, France

To realize what such an effort means, even as of today, one has to tour France. More than 477,300 buildings were completely wrecked during the war, and 1,363,000 others were badly damaged.

Out of 38,875 miles of railway track merely 11,250 miles could be salvaged. Add 3,130 railroad bridges wrecked, 4,200 locomotives lost and 312,000 freight cars destroyed. Many of France's hotels were demolished—165,000 hotel rooms having been partially or completely destroyed.

However, the greatest blow suffered by the French economy was in shipping. France, with 1,875 miles of coastline, is primarily a maritime nation. Many industries, especially the luxury trades, depend on foreign business.

France lost 44 ships, totaling 222,000 tons, or 62 per cent, of her 1939 tonnage, in the war. Figures, however, cannot depict the tragic toll in personnel, nor the true extent of the economic damage, for the losses included the majority of France's large merchant ships.

The most notable example was the burning of the 83,000-ton Normandie, renamed the Lafayette, at New York after having been taken over by the United States for reconversion as a troop ship.

Surviving vessels, besides the Ile de France, were the smaller liners Colombie and De Grasse. The De Grasse, while immured in a French port under German occupation, was scuttled by the Nazis as defeat neared.

However, the French raised the ship and put her into service in 1947 as the first example of their mettle. The De Grasse is less than half the size of the 43,450-ton Ile de France.

Another, even larger reconditioned vessel will join the French trans-Atlantic fleet next year—the Liberte, of 49,746 tons. The Liberte was the German liner Europa, allotted to the French when the few remaining German liners were parceled out under the armistice terms.

Beyond the loss in shipping, however, was the destruction of ports and facilities. In overcoming this the French have achieved their greatest success. No other nation had such complete port wreckage to face.

Even today, behind the port facilities which have been restored, are the ruins of the waterfront towns. Reconstruction of the Ile de France at St. Nazaire was performed against a background of rubble.

The British did a remarkable job in restoring their great liners and completing new ones following the war, and they had to pull in their belts to do that, but their ports and shipyards were intact.

The American tourist dollar, as lifeblood to dollar-starved countries, remains one of the chief hopes of economic chiefs in Washington and abroad. Thus the advent on July 26 of the Ile de France at New York takes on an international significance.

The Ile, smartly refashioned with two stacks now instead of three, is viewed as a symbol of what can be done, and the much more that must be done.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE RAREST and most irresistible scent in the world, according to perfumers, is musk. The Empress Josephine used it—and fifty years after her death, sightseers noted a distinct fragrance in her boudoir. The world's entire supply of musk, explains Jennie Harris in an article in Natural History, comes from a species of deer in the Himalayas.

The musk deer is less than two feet tall. The perfume—in tiny musk grains—is held in a pouch about the size of a walnut, near the base of his abdomen. When the deer rests on a rock the musk is exposed, and the sun, beating the rock, diffuses the scent, and thus signals the hunters. One grain of musk perfumes millions of cubic feet of air, which is a dubious blessing to the deer, for 100,000 are slain annually.

Musk comes high in cosmetics circles, which will explain a ghastly parody once perpetrated by a Hollywood wag. A stick-up man poked a revolver into the ribs of an aged perfume dealer and whispered, "I'll shoot for your musk, you old grey head."

Legion Conclave Opens Saturday

The Camp Chase Post of the American Legion will have its headquarters at the Neil House during the state convention that opens there Saturday and continues for three days.

The convention this year will be the biggest yet, and Camp Chase Post will play a large part in the activities. Commander Dewey Stout, 80 N. Wayne-av, announced that their post membership is at an all time high.

The three-day convention will feature finals in the Legion junior baseball league, drum corps and band competition, and a big parade on Sunday afternoon. State officer election will be held Monday.

Camp Chase Civil War Prison Was Scene of Torture and Suffering

By Myron T. Seifert

The first institution of any moment on the Hilltop was Camp Chase, the notorious prison camp of Civil War days.

At the time of its construction in 1861, the surrounding territory was barren except for an occasional farm house.

The National Road, constructed years before, struck a lonesome note of modernity for a section which was destined to grow into one of the most modern and enterprising communities in this section of the state.

Named for Salmon P. Chase, then secretary of the treasury of the United States and former governor of Ohio, the camp was constructed in April, 1861, and occupied in June. The first Confederate prisoner was received on June 29.

There are no available records to show how many prisoners were interned during the war, but it is known that there were over 3,400 there at the time of Lee's surrender at Appomatox.

The only remaining vestiges of those days are the officers' headquarters at what is now 57 S. Hague-av and the cemetery on Sullivant-av, where 2260 Confederate soldiers lie buried.

Something is known of the life of the prisoners incarcerated there during those hectic war years. Over their heads hung clouds of suffering and fear. Torture and persecution had a place in the picture.

A contemporary newspaper described conditions as "horrible." In the prison was a detested dungeon. It was an air-tight affair built over a damp mud hole. A series of small holes in the floor permitted enough air to enter to keep the occupant from suffocating.

The health of the prisoners thrown into the dungeon usually was permanently impaired.

Those who attempted escape were suspended for hours at a time by the thumbs or shot in the legs. One prisoner described conditions at camp in no uncertain terms:

"I have no words at my command with which to describe the horrors of the Yankee prison at Camp Chase. One would have to follow Dante in his descent to hell . . . to find an approach to it."

The camp occupied a 165-acre tract of land and, due to the exigencies of war-time, was rapidly built up.

At first, rations were not sufficient for the soldiers, who began plundering the nearby farms of their produce. On occasion the hungry men mutinied. Mutinies were rigorously suppressed.

Columbus newspapers launched vitriolic attacks on conditions at the camp and early in 1863 several reforms were put into effect.

Larger prison quarters were constructed and the camp was given a thorough cleaning from top to bottom.

In March, 1863, a group of prisoners arrived at the camp and among them were several of Morgan's raiders. A cry for blood was raised. The general concensus was that these captives should be treated severely. A local newspaper demanded that they be "shot down like dogs or be made to stretch hemp on the scaffold."

An epidemic broke out in 1863 and prisoners died like flies. Their remains lie in the Confederate cemetery, which is visited each year by hundreds of persons from all sections of the South.

Why do people in cars get killed at railway-grade crossings in spite of the signs and signals? Maybe it's daredevilry . . . maybe it's thoughtlessness . . . maybe it's impatient haste. Whatever it is, the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce reminds motorists that ALL traffic signs are SIGNS OF LIFE — IF you watch for them and obey them!

Coming To Westmont

Laugh-happy Red Skelton and swim star Esther Williams are the ace combination presented in the newest Technicolor musical, "Neptune's Daughter," which is coming Sunday to the Westmont and National Auto Theaters. Skelton plays a hilarious would-be polo player who gets mixed up with Esther's romance with Ricardo Montalban and winds up with bouncing Betty Garrett in his arms! Keenan Wynn and Xavier Cugat and his orchestra are others in the talent-plus cast. The second feature will be "Some of the Best," narrated by Lionel Barrymore.

West Siders Aid In Holden Campaign

West Siders are playing an important part in the Henry Holden campaign for the office of city attorney. Heading up the West Side Committee is Frank Christ, Jr., 450 S. Mr Tarbutton and Mr. Bryant are assistant county prosecutors.

Mr. Holden has served as assistant county prosecutor for the past 18 years during the administrations of Donald J. Hoskins and Ralph J. Bartlett.

Holden, a native of Columbus and a graduate of Ohio State Law School has had experience in all kinds of legal work, both civil and criminal, during his many years of service in the prosecutor's office. The Holdens have four children, three of them having attended Ohio State University. Mr. Holden has long been active in the Charity Newsies and is serving on the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America, Central Ohio area.

Motorists, stick to the straight and narrow! The Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce says a great many traffic accidents are caused by the common carelessness and impatience of motorists who can't seem to stick to the proper lane. The Council urges "Stay in your lane until you have to leave it to pass or to turn—and THEN do not leave the lane till you're SURE it's safe to do so."

Finance Department Top Issue In City Primary

Three Council Candidates, One Attorney Aspirant To Be Eliminated

Interest in the city primary election next Tuesday will be centered on a charter amendment rather than on the candidates. Of the 18 candidates for office only four will be eliminated.

The proposed amendment to the city charter that would create a city department of finance is the most controversial issue presented to the people.

Citizens' Research, Inc., a non-political fact-finding organization, has spearheaded the drive for a city finance department. City council approved legislation to bring the matter before the voters.

If the plan is passed, a finance director would be appointed by the mayor. He would supervise virtually all of the city's fiscal matters, including the treasury. He would also be secretary of the board of purchase.

Nine men are in the non-partisan race for city council. Six of these will be chosen to appear on the ballot in November. Three council incumbents are all running for re-election. Two of the candidates for council are Hilltop residents.

HENRY A. KOONTZ, 485 Hilltonia-av, is seeking his second elective term to council. He was appointed to council June 2, 1944, and elected to a four-year term in November, 1945. He has been 10th Ward Republican committeeman since 1932.

Mr. Koontz is a registered pharmacist and presently engaged in the wholesaling of candy and tobacco. He is married and a member of Masons, Moose, Eagles and Avondale EUB Church. He is chairman of council's service commtitee.

ALFRED E. TONTI, 3336 Wicklow-rd, has been in the real estate and building business on the Hilltop since 1922. He served as a property analyst-examiner-appraiser for seven years with the Federal Home Owners Loan Corp. His candidacy is supported by the Franklin County Democratic Executive Committee.

Incumbents runing for re-election to council other than Mr. Koontz are Dr. O. J. Fillinger and Joseph R. Jones.

JOSEPH R. JONES has served four years in council and has also served three consecutive two-year terms as council president. He is a member of the Buckeye Republican Club.

DR. O. J. FILLINGER is a prominent South Side dentist. He was appointed to council June 2, 1945, and elected to a full four-year term in November of that year. He is chairman of council's finance committee. He is a Republican and a member of the South Gate Lodge F. & A. M., Scioto Consistory, Aladdin Shrine, Elks and Moose.

JOHN S. BOWERS, a faculty member of Ohio State University, is seeking election to council for the first time. He is an assistant instructor of political science and faculty adviser to the OSU Young Democratic Club. A native of Columbus, he graduated from North High School. He is a member of the Plymouth Congregational Church where he is chairman of the church council and secretary of the board of trustees.

WILLIAM H. BROOKS, attorney and former deputy county auditor, is entering the council race for the second time. He won the nomination for council in 1945, but was defeated in the November election. He is a graduate of Ohio State University and a veteran of World War II. He is a Democrat.

WALTER A. SHOTT is making his first try for political office in this election, seeking a council seat. He is a high school teacher and Democratic committeeman of the first ward. He is a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Other candidates for council are Ralph O. Rannebarger and Gordon F. Serrott.

Richard W. Gordon, Henry L. Holden and George E. Tyack are in the race for city engineer. One will be eliminated in Tuesday's election. Gordon, the incumbent, is a Republican. Both of his opponents are Democrats.

R. P. Barthalow and Herbert L. Sifferlin are running for auditor on the municipal ticket. Both are assured of places on the November ballot.

All candidates on the city judicial ballot are unopposed. On the Democratic ticket are Joseph J. Poorman and Walton G. Alcorn. The Republicans are Fred L. Donnally and Wayne Fogle.

Recreation Dept. Sets Harmonica Contest Date

The City Recreation Department announced that it will sponsor a city-wide harmonica contest during the week of Aug. 15 on all of the 51 playgrounds operated by the department.

The contest is open to both boys and girls and will be staged in two divisions covering the ages of 10 and less and between 11 and 15 years of age, both inclusive.

The city champion harmonica player in both divisions will be decided on Saturday, Aug. 20, at Schiller Recreation Center. Each champion will receive a handsome trophy as a reward.

Leo F. Hall, well-known music instructor, will be in charge of the harmonica contest for the Recreation Department.

PUT COLUMBUS FINANCES ON A SOUND BASE!

Columbus today collects more millions, spends more millions, than ever before. Yet the city is doing all this collecting and spending with a 1914 financial set-up, long since discarded by most other progressive U. S. cities. Your vote YES on the Charter Amendment August 9 will give Columbus for the first time a responsible finance department, bringing an end to confusion, neglect, extra expense, and extravagance in city finances.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

The Job's Daughters' picnic last Friday turned out to be a real success. The weather was wonderful and we had a big turnout with 62 attending.

First of all a great big "thanks" goes to all the parents who came. It proves that they are behind us 100 per cent. I think that they all had a good time though.

You've heard of the program, "Qpeen for a Day"; well we had a queen for the evening but we even went further and had a king for the evening. They were none other than Mr. and Mrs. Meservey. Mrs. Meservey is a past president of the Mothers' Club. We also had for the evening a beauty queen and a heart throb. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, our guardian and associate guardian. The four of them made very charming royalty.

Some of the evening's entertainment consisted of playing baseball; dancing; and everyone went "Cruising Down The River" for an enjoyable boat ride.

Another big "thanks" goes to Marjorie Compton, who loaned her record player so we could dance, although she was unable to attend the picnic.

To conclude the evening's activities we spent our time roasting wieners and marshmallows. The picnic then ended about 10:30 with everyone being tired, worn out, and full of plenty of good things to eat. I personally would like to thank Mrs. Cummins because if it hadn't been for her loaning me her pencil I wouldn't have gotten this column written.

To everyone who had anything to do with the picnic I think they deserve a nice round of "applause" because a wonderful time was had by all. This is your inquiring reporter signing off now until the next time.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

"You look fresh and fine," Beatrice said.

"But I couldn't live like this," Beatrice told him gaily. "To sleep away the mornings. By the way, where do you live here?"

"A room at the Waldorf. I've turned into a superior borrower—someone's room, someone's car, and now someone's wife. But no one can say I lack delicacy of taste in my address, my car, or my girl."

They went out together in high spirits.

David said, "See? The sun is shining in February. I ordered it especially." And when they were in the car leaving the city he made a gesture with his hand that included the people, the streets, the sun and the sky. "Nice, isn't it?"

"I feel as though I'm going on a picnic. I was a city bred child, you know. To go to the country, to take off my shoes and socks and run over the grass were rare delights."

"Pagan."

"Aren't you in some degree?"

"Aren't we all? Isn't the veneer very thin? Are you happy, Beatrice?"

"Yes. This is so much better than a table in a smoky restaurant."

"This is better than anything. You bring something inexpressibly precious when you bring yourself."

"Do you mind if I don't talk very much?"

He laughed. "Yesterday? Was it too bad?"

"I didn't buy anything," Beatrice said. "The idea of buying just for the sake of buying, when there's nothing we need sickened me." Somewhere, she thought, the pattern of my life has been broken. Somewhere I've turned a corner into a thoroughfare not new but one from which I have been exiled. And I haven't thought of Mrs. Ramsey for twenty-four hours.

Though both of them fell into silence, it was one of complete amiability. The car engine purred with power and surety. Cool air touched their faces, and the view increased in rugged grandeur with each passing mile.

Without preface David began to speak of South Africa as if the beauty of this recalled the deeply engrained memory of the beauty of his own country—the veldt, the kloof, the rivers, the intoxicating air, the languor and mystery of African nights. His words were less clipped than usual as if he were savoring the names of places unknown to her, but known intimately by him, and loved as a man loves the land on which he is born.

She did not interrupt him until she was certain he had no more to say. Then she turned to him and said, "Ever since I've known you, you've been with people I know and in surroundings familiar to me. I don't think I ever realized until now that you are a foreigner. I wonder why the word 'foreigner' has fallen into such low repute that one feels one has to apologize when using it?"

"But that is what I am—a foreigner. And that is what you would be in my country."

"If I had my way, every child who is born would be immediately presented with a traveling scholarship."

"I'll go along with you on that. And if I had my way, we would eliminate the word 'refugee' with all its tragic implications. And now," he said, his glance lingering briefly upon her face, "now that we have at least expressed a desire to help humanity—and far too many people never even get that far—shall we help ourselves to lunch at the next place that looks good?"

She smiled. "I haven't had any breakfast."

"No breakfast? The pagans wouldn't admit you into their fraternity. They would at least have squeezed a grapefruit."

"I am horribly prim about being on time."

"You could never be horribly anything," he said, his eyes laughing into hers, "and you know it."

They finally found a place to lunch, after rejecting several places. "No juke box atmosphere today," David told her. "The place must be good enough for you."

And though through lunch in an oak-panelled room and through the afternoon they were vibrant with the pleasure of being alive, Beatrice knew how perilously they teetered between the comfortably impersonal and the disquieting personal. Thus she felt a distinct wrench when the ribbon of road led inescapably back to the snarling cabs and the moving masses just as darkness and unexpected rain transformed the buildings into jeweled lights that were reflected on the wet streets.

"There is nothing like it in the whole world," David said of those lights. "Nothing so bewitching, so breath-taking. When you tell people who have never seen it, they listen as if you were telling them a wonderful fairy tale."

She felt his hand searching for hers, and she gave him her hand and sat quietly, knowing it was she who would have to bridge that perilous gap before the day was done.

They dined at a small and inconspicuous restaurant. They dined leisurely as though to stretch time to its limit and thus to postpone the moment that they both knew would surely come. More than once she felt his gaze intent upon her face, his eyes probing hers gently for some clue as to what that moment would be.

Finally he said, "Beatrice, the things you have done with me, harmless though we both know they have been, you have never done with any man since you've been married. I hate the word 'grateful.' It implies obligations. But you know . . ."

His face grew serious. "Once in a great while this happens to people. They meet and feel as if they've known each other for a long time—as if, too, they had found a welcome refuge. They are drawn to each other. If only these things didn't sound so corny. If only a few things had been left unsaid, untouched by time they would be new. Darling . . ." His voice thickened. "Where can we go?"

"To my mother's apartment?"

"But . . ."

"She isn't there."

And relief swept disappointment from his face.

The rain had stopped when they went out to the car.

In a few minutes he followed her into Cecily's apartment. He left his coat and hat and gloves in the foyer while Beatrice went to her room to leave her things.

When she came into the room he was standing and facing the door, and she went to him without hesitancy and held his arms tightly with her hands.

She spoke with passion while her heart felt as if it were being squeezed. "David, listen. We've been progressing to this from the moment we met. I have wondered where it would be, never dreaming that it would be here. I have been pulled this way and that, so that I have felt I was a thing being torn. Yet all the time I knew that in spite of my marriage, my husband, my child, my home, everything I have so carefully erected with my love, that I would have to face you with all barriers down and be human, merely human. Oh, please let me finish and then . . ."

"Yes?"

"Then you may do anything with me that you wish."

If only I can tell him, she thought, through all these rushing feelings that are so poignantly clear to me.

"Darling," David said. "Darling . . ."

She lifted her face, flushed now, and paused for breath. To say it right—to say it exactly right because she knew to what she had committed herself if she did not.

"David . . ."

"I'll believe you. Whatever you say, I'll believe you. Those eyes—I could never doubt the sincerity I see now in those amazing eyes."

Her hands did not relax their tight hold of his arms. "David, the 'other man' doesn't enter into a marriage until that marriage is coming apart at the seams. Mine was. You know it. I was like the little Dutch boy who tried to keep the dike from breaking through when I met you. You knew my panic, my intolerable hunger—you replenished me. You were a man I saw at his best. You spoke of gratitude before—"

"Not that!"

"I could kiss your hands for what you have done for me. Don't you know? As long as I live a part of me will belong to you. There are still things unspoiled, untouched. There always will be. The untouched loveliness, that part of me you can always claim because . . . because you made me feel desirable again. Oh, David, the magnificence of that you cannot possibly know until you have felt yourself undesirable."

Words of the Wise

It is the divine attribute of the imagination, that it is irrepressible, unconfinable; that when the real world is shut out, it can create a world for itself, and with a necromantic power can conjure up glorious shapes and forms, and brilliant visions to make solitude populous, and irradiate the gloom of a dungeon.

Psalms Give Thanks to God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Psalms 92; 103b 136:1-9, 23, 24.

By Alfred J. Buescher

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, upon an instrument of strings, for Thou, O Lord, hast made me glad through Thy work.

Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him. For He knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust.

As for man, his days are as grass, for the wind passeth over it and it is gone; but the mercy of the Lord endureth forever.

O give thanks unto the Lord; to Him that made the moon and stars to shine by night. His mercy endureth forever.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 92:1.

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Wednesday, May 25

Tonight we were going to record a special hour, that of final daylight. Cloudiness and rain after supper has made darkness come on earlier than last night. However, last night we had noted a strange feeling when we looked at our watches at a little past 10:30. It was still clearly daylight.

Tomorrow morning at around 6 o'clock half of our passengers will disembark at Le Havre, France.

Thursday, May 26

At 6 o'clock I got up to watch the passengers disembark at Le Havre. It was raining hard outside. It was interesting to watch the enormous derrick as it reached its long arm from the dock to the topdeck, where it picked up great rope baskets, jammed full of baggage, and swung the load easily down to tiny cars which rolled away to the customs rooms.

Our last meal on the "Coronia" was the luncheon today.

Back on deck to watch our progress toward the desired destination we were absorbed with interest as we passed the Isle of Wight, saw white cliffs in the distance which people said were the Dover Cliffs, gazed at the many vessels of all descriptions which were moving back and forth near us and stared in amazement as we saw battered docks and upturned ships, our first reminder that we were now at Southampton getting our first view of some of the damages of the recent war.

Next came what was to me a real experience — boarding my first English train and settling into a comfortable compartment with labels on the window.

At 5:45 we started toward London. For the next several miles all I could do was to look out the window at strange scenes. First came scattered views of remnants of bomb damages. Next came the sight of a factory building still carrying its painted camouflage which had been designed during the war to prevent visibility from the air. Soon came the open fields with the hedgerows dividing them. There were fleeting glimpses of what to me were strange villages with house styles of a kind which looked strange even though I had seen pictures of them many times. Traveling past the rear of these houses we could get evening views of the family gardens where whole families could be seen bustly at work caring for them.

I have been told that in England everything stops for tea. That was not quite true this afternoon on the train. The train did not stop but soon after we started a steward came through the cars inviting us to tea in one of the rear coaches.

It was 7:45 this evening and still daylight when our train rolled into Waterloo Station and we stepped onto the platform to stand until we could be discovered by the reception committee.

In the gathering darkness we saw London for the first time. Narrow streets, winding streets, low buildings, unfamiliar architecture, everything was so completely new to me that I cannot attempt to really describe how I felt as we wound in and out among all these strange sights. We saw the Bank of England, the Mansions House, the Royal Exchange and St. Paul's Cathedral. Here at the cathedral we got our first real view of the damages of war.

Across Waterloo Bridge and on into what soon became the outlying sections of London, we drove down streets lined with flats, long rows of connected dwellings. Across the Marshes to Leytonstone, skirting Wanstead and then to South Woodford.

Friday, May 27

It was 10 o'clock before we awakened this morning. During the morning we took advantage of the bright sunshine to stroll around the garden looking at the variety of flowers.

Visitors from abroad are entitled to receive the same food rations as are the residents. To exercise this right I went to the neighborhood food office this afternoon to get the necessary coupons. This gave me an opportunity to get around the nearby streets and note at close range the residences and buildings of this little section of town. The food office was located in what was once one of the finer old houses of the community which has now been converted into offices.

This will be shocking news to some of our American readers when they hear that tonight Newton and Violet visited an English 'pub' and when Newton did what he said he was going to do and that was to have a taste of the native beer in each of the countries to be visited.

Saturday, May 27

In London's west side we visited the American Embassy to secure some passport information. The offices were closed, however.

Tonight was spent in the style of one of those famous and familiar "Mason parties."

Sunday, May 29

One of the things which I have wanted to do for a long time has been to see Violet's home-town of Crigwell Row. This morning Tess escorted us to the tube train station of South Woodford. We were too late arriving at the village to attend the church service at All Saints Church.

At the end of the recreation field we saw All Saints Church in which Violet was confirmed, while across the street we saw the Maypole Inn, which local residents claimed to be the scene of the tavern mentioned in Charles Dickens' "Barnaby Rudge."

A very accommodating bank employee answered our inquiry as to a good eating place. It took us ONLY one and three-quarters hours from the time we placed our order until we paid the check.

It had rained while we were at lunch but the sun was shining when we retraced our steps to the bank.

Tonight we have been spending considerable time telephoning and arranging for our activities over the next few days.

BOY WITHOUT LIMBS GETS 'BREAK'

BORN WITHOUT ARMS or legs, 5-year-old Dennis Corbett nevertheless will get a "break" because the Rev. John D. Wolf, a former Navy chaplain, and four other citizens of Evansville, Ind., are working to give it to him. The clergyman is showing Dennis plans of a house a citizen group will build for the boy and his parents. (International)

William Hawes Takes Part In Navy Maneuvers

William M. Hawes, USN, of 230 N. Wayne-av, has just finished participation in amphibious training maneuvers at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

Mr. Hawes is a radar man aboard the U. S. S. Fremont. He enlisted for one year in the navy following his graduation from West High School. He has taken part in Caribbean maneuvers, visiting ports in Panama, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Haiti and Jamaica.

Following his discharge from the navy this fall he will enter the college of arts and sciences at Ohio State University to continue his education. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs H. E. Hawes.

The Little Creek operation was the most extensive amphibious training operation of its kind ever staged by the U. S. Navy.

George Washington's Prayer

Almighty God: We make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large. And, finally, wilt thou graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility, and pacific temper in mind which were the characteristics of the divine Author of our blessed religion and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation.

Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Too many cooks have Columbus finances in a stew!

When Columbus closed its year's business last December, "guesses" of various officials on the city's financial standing ranged all the way from a surplus of $9253 to a deficit of more than $100,000. That's because financial powers today are widely scattered over a lot of officials, who have no responsibility to each other. A vote YES on the charter amendment will give Columbus a finance director whose job it will be to KNOW at all times what's happening in city financial affairs.

FBI Chiefs Concerned By Coplon Trial Disclosures

Now Unsure of Anonimity Informants May Be Wary

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON--FBI officials, from Director J. Edgar Hoover down, are deeply concerned about the impact of the Judith Coplon trial disclosures on the prestige and efficiency of the agency.

Aside from the ridicule to which the contents of some of the secret reports has subjected the G-Men, their disclosure may require a complete reshaping of present investigative techniques.

Until Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves ruled that all FBI reports used in the trial must be made public, the bureau was able to offer complete anonymity to its informants.

Their identity was generally concealed by code numbers but there are devious ways of tracing them. Now, these informants may think several times before giving information which could subject them to courtroom limelight.

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves.

● NEW PROCEDURE?—The Supreme Court's decision reversing the perjury conviction of Milwaukee labor leader Harold Christoffel may bring about some changes in the procedure of congressional committees.

Christoffel was freed on grounds that no quorum of committee members was present when he committed alleged perjury. Court disregarded government claims that a quorum was present when hearing began, but several members had left when he gave the disputed testimony.

Look for committee members to take a little more interest in their hearings. It's a good bet that the committee chairmen will make certain that a majority is present at all times hereafter.

● BRITISH DOLLAR SHORTAGE—In view of Britain's financial situation, United States officials are taking a dim view of the British economic picture. It is felt that Britain, despite the political strain which may be engendered, must take a more realistic view of the world's economy

The demand for British goods has fallen off heavily in recent months, and it is felt that Britain must produce better goods at more economic prices. The remedy it is said, is to gear their productive capacity to greater efficiency and induce the labor unions to accept lower wage rates.

• • • •

● NEW DRAFT?—It seems certain that the Army will start drafting men again by September unless enlistments increase. The draft stopped last January when men were enlisting at the rate of 35,000 a month and the Army was above authorized strength.

Enlistments have dropped considerably since then, and the Army's strength is below required levels. The chief reason is that the war scare has passed and young men who knew they were going to be drafted have stopped enlisting

● ATOMIC BATTLE PREVIEW—The congressional atomic committee has had a preview of the bitter fight that will come when atomic power can be used generally. It came during a committee protest over a 10 million dollar natural gas pipeline for the Oak Ridge, Tenn., plant.

See Future Fight Over Atom Power

Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R), Pennsylvania, said the pipelines would throw Tennessee miners out of work Committee Chairman Brien McMahon (D), Connecticut, took note of this single problem, and added.

"You can imagine what the hearings will be like when and if the time comes that atomic power is ready for general use. That will be, to say the least, an interesting time for Congress."

Finance Director Proposal Is Endorsed By More Groups

A plea for all Columbus voters to take part in the municipal primaries next Tuesday, Aug. 9, has been issued by the Columbus finance director committee.

"We are hopeful, of course, that a majority of the voters will cast their ballots in favor of the charter amendment, to give Columbus a modern, efficient finance department," says Charles V. Schwenker, committee chairman, "but we are just as interested in seeing a greater participation at the polls than is usually the case."

In previous primaries of this kind, little more than 10 per cent of the voters have gone to the polls, records show.

"The various candidacies for city office and the charter amendment are too important to be decided by one-tenth of the people," Schwenker asserts. "Good citizens should place a higher value than that on their right to vote."

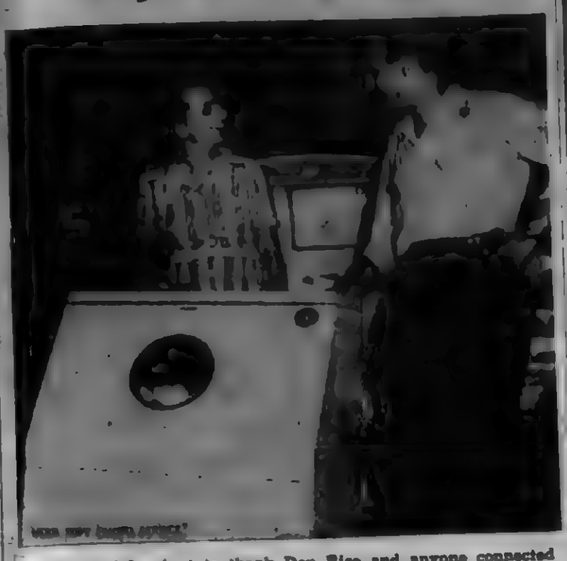
The finance director committee reports two additional endorsements of its proposal this week, from the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Columbus Sales Executives Club.

Both organizations approve the plan of setting up a finance department having a director appointed by the mayor with the approval of council, such as has already been done in six other of Ohio's seven largest cities.

This plan, proponents of the measure assert, would give Columbus at least one official responsible for administration and planning of city finances, replacing the present system which divided financial responsibilities among mayor, council, auditor and various other persons.

Adequate safeguards are provided, it is pointed out, since the finance director must be confirmed and his salary established by council; he may be removed for cause by votes of five members of council; appropriations will continue to be determined and made by council; and the finance director's activities will be subject to continuous examination by the city auditor.

Favorable action by the Junior Chamber board came after a hearing of speakers both for and against the proposal and an independent study by the chamber's governmental affairs committee.



Announcement of the approval by the board of the Sales Executives Club commends the proposed change as "good business and good government—worthy of our support."

Easy Washing Ahead

"I certainly want to thank Don Rice and anyone connected with the Westgate Electric," said Mrs. Madge Robbins, 468 S. Warren-av, as she won the Westinghouse Laundromat given away at the Bean Dinner. She added that she would also like very much to know the name of the little girl who drew the winning ticket. Pictured above is Don Rice making the presentation to Mrs. Robbins.

Dry Sugar Adds To Peach Flavor

For frozen peaches with good color and flavor use dry sugar and ascorbic acid. This is the opinion of a taste panel made up of members of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station Department of Horticulture.

The group found that good flavor was obtained when frozen peaches were packed with dry sugar. When sugar is used there is little dilution of the peach flavor because no water is added where syrup is used.

One pound of sugar is used for four pounds of sliced peaches. The sugar should be mixed in with the peaches until it is completely dissolved and thoroughly spread throughout the peaches. The mixing should be done carefully to avoid breaking the peach slices.

Unsightly browning of the peach tissue can be avoided by using ascorbic acid (vitamin C). One quarter of a teaspoon of the powdered ascorbic acid will protect two pounds of peaches. To obtain an even distribution, the ascorbic acid should be added to the sugar before it is mixed with the peaches.

A Tribute To Grandmothers

In more recent years there has been a fitting observance of "Grandmother's Day", to correspond with the tribute paid to mother on her day and dad on his day.

During the past few weeks we have had an opportunity to realize more and more how fitting it is that grandmothers be so honored. It has been our pleasure to have an 82 year old grandmother visiting at our house and then over the week-end to visit with another 88 year old grandmother.

At less than half the distance they have traveled in this old journey along life's highway we merely hope we can attain the life span of service they have had and can look back over as many accomplishments.

But to them some of their accomplishments are underrated. In terms of present day accomplishments they sometimes give little importance to the many worthwhile attainments in their lives. But we who evaluate their services from from a later vantage point give them full credit.

Grandmother Hartley, now 82, has a most remarkable memory. She remembers every birthday of all the great-grandchildren and never fails to mail them a card. She can also remember back to the minute details of all the many hardships she and her family went through back in West Virginia in the Ohio River valley, the three big floods, how each of them were nearly major catastrophes, how the family financial progress was each time set back.

Like most grandmothers, she is perhaps inclined to say she was born about 50 years too soon—that is, to enjoy modern conveniences like electricity, automatic washers, ironers, etc., that have lightened today's load for the housewife and mother.

Today at 82, she takes great pride in her family of three sons and a daughter and their children and grandchildren. With some of these youngsters she is enjoying some of the things she missed with her own due to the labors of the day.

Grandmother Dickey, 88, for all her life a West Virginian, lives by herself in her own home at Huntington, and is most proud of her independence and ability to get along in her older age.

She, too, went through those early periods of hardships that attend the raising of a large family on a farm. She too has seen misfortune strike time and time again but each time the family came back perhaps the stronger for the experience.

Today she is active and interested in events of the day and likewise takes great pride in her family and their offspring.

Youngsters and oldsters who have not had the pleasure of association with a grandmother have not been so fortunate. Those of us who have had this good fortune and now in adulthood have a chance to throw some pleasure grandmother's way most certainly should avail ourselves of such an opportunity.

To our own two grandmothers, we say, "May the best years of your lives be ahead and may they be many more."

Notes From Here and There: The Jim Skinners have disposed of their "hundred years to a day" buggy and purchased a newer model and are vacationing in Michigan . . . George Schaaf reports catching a 23 pound 44 inch pike at Ten Mile Point Lodge, Manitoulin Island, Canada, the largest catch this year at that spot. County Fair Is Steeped In Tradition

By Myron T. Seifert

Franklin County Fair, at nearby Hilliards, patronized by Hilltoppers, is steeped in tradition and history. Hilltop folks are an integral part of the Franklin County Fair, since many exhibit and visit there.

Since County Fair time is reunion time for many, and the town of Hilliards makes every effort to see that visitors are welcomed. The gracious hospitality of its people knows no bounds.

The first annual fair of Franklin County was held Wednesday, Oct. 22, 1851, 98 years ago. Col. Samuel Medary, editor of the "Statesman," Columbus newspaper, was president of the fair association.

Besides premiums on horses, hogs, cattle, sheep and chickens, prizes were offered for the best bridge on the lattice or town plan; the best plank road and the best turnpike road.

Winners of prizes from Mifflin Township were Charles Heyl, J. H. Wilson and B. Morgan; Tururo Township, David Taylor and A. Baldwin; Franklin Township, William Miner, Owen T. Barbee, J. N. Cherry, S. Stimmel, N. Harris and J. Walcutt; Madison Township, S. D. Elliott and S. Postle; Clinton Township, F. Chenoweth; Montgomery Township, J. H. Earhart; Hamilton Township, J. Peeper, and from Plain Township, B. Pumpherey.

There were also premiums and medals won by residents of Columbus. Among these winners were Hilltop's Michael L. Sullivant, Uriah Stotts, Samuel Brush, E. B. Patterson, A. C. Hancs and Samuel Medary.

The largest exhibitors of stock were William H. Harey and John S. Firey from Madison Township. The fair was well attended and the receipts were very encouraging."

Camp Chase Auxiliary To Meet Friday

The regular meeting of Camp Chase Unit No. 98 American Legion Auxiliary will be held Friday at 10 S. Burgess-av. At the Aug. 12 meeting, delegates will make their report of the business activities which took place at the Ohio Department American Legion Auxiliary Convention held here last week-end.

Delegates were Mrs. Mary Fiscus, 616 S. Terrace-av; Mrs. Helen Jones, 86 S. Ogden-av; Mrs. Lillian McVay, 165 S. Roys-av; Edna Johnson, 91 Belvidere-av; and Mrs. Martha Finneran, 211 S. Eureka-av.

Also at this meeting the report of the nominating committee will be given by the chairman, Mrs. Esther Scales, 603 S. Eureka-av. Serving with her are the following members: Mrs. Esther Weidner, 58 S. Harris-av, Mrs. Edna Bellar, 326 Algonquin-av; Mrs. Mary Thompson, 487 S. Burgess-av; and Mrs. Martha Finneran, 211 S. Eureka-av.

Mrs. Ayers Dies Following Illness

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Alice Ayers, 79, of 1390 Sullivant-av, will be at 2:30 today in the Sullivant Avenue Apostolic Church. She died Friday at 1609 Parsons-av, after an illness of more than a year. She lived with her son, Palmer Ayers.

She is survived also by two daughters, Mrs. Goldie Pieffer, Columbus, and Mrs. Myrtle Blair, Springfield; another son, Harry Ayers, Columbus; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

HILLTOP WOMAN HONORED

Mrs. Ray Hughes, 33 Eldon-av, Junior Graduate Regent, Columbus Chapter No. 206, Women of the Moose, will be a representative to the 61st national convention, Loyal Order of Moose and Women of the Moose, held at San Francisco Aug. 14 to 16.

WESTMONT ROBBED

Burglars took $61 at the Westmont Theater, 2586 W. Broad-st, last week. House manager James J. Yoder of 1593 Manchester-av reported that they ransacked the office, taking the money from a desk drawer.

Two Children From Xenia Orphanage Spend Vacation With Hilltop Families

Little Girls Spend 2 Week Summer Visit On Hilltop

The generosity of two Hilltop women has made possible a vacation for two little girls who otherwise might not have left their orphanage this summer.

Mrs. E. H. Bown, 133 S. Huron-av, and Mrs. William Kennon, 663 Hilltonia-av, took the girls from the Soldiers' and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia to spend two weeks on the Hilltop. The little girls, Carla and Priscilla, enjoyed most having "their own mommy" for two weeks, Mrs. Brown explained that the treatment and care at the orphanage are excellent but that there just aren't enough people to give the children the individual attention that they get in a private home.

Highlights of the girls' visit here were a trip to the zoo, shopping trips in town, and several visits to the Hilltop Swimming Pool. The children also enjoyed playing in the pool and playground in a neighbor's back yard.

The home at Xenia is for dependent children of persons who served in the armed forces in time of war. At present there are 406 children in residence there. Floyd R. Hartpence, director of the school, says that the rate of increase of the number of children there is increasing as a result of World War II.

Children from the ages of 4 to 18 years live at the home. Schooling is provided from the first grade through high school. The training also includes several hours of vocational training. Boys may learn such trades as printer, electrician, auto mechanic, carpenter, sheet metal worker, shoe repair, and animal husbandry. The girls receive training in such fields as beauty culture, cooking, dress making, practical nursing, and stenography.

A full-time director is on hand to direct recreational activities throughout the year and there are scout groups for both boys and girls.

Boys and girls from 10 to 18 live in separate cottages, each with a housemother. Children from 4 to 10 live in units known as Peter Pans. These are built and equipped with furniture of a size suitable for little children. Each has its own kitchen and dining room where food suited to children of this age is prepared and served.

Mr. Hartpence said that, upon investigation by the school, families can take children for summer vacations or for week-end visits during the school year. Requests to do this should be addressed to him at the home in Xenia.

Both Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Kennon say that it has been a source of pleasure to them to offer vacations to the little girls. In fact, they know of some children at the home who have not had vacations in a number of years, and they are planning to take out two more children as soon as they can.

Local Couple To Be Married In California On "Bride and Groom" Program Aug. 17

By Myron T. Seifert

Margene Welker and Byron Baker read the telegram informing them they have been chosen to wed on the "Bride and Groom" program from Hollywood.

All of America will be on the guest list when Hilltopper Byron Baker is married.

A son of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Baker, 133 S. Brinker-av, the 21-year-old local boy will be one of the principals in the "Bride and Groom" radio program emanating from Hollywood, Wednesday, Aug. 17, at 2:30 EST when nuptial rites will be performed by the celebrated Hollywood minister Rev. Hill in the tree-lined garden chapel of the Chapman Park Hotel adjoining the broadcasting station. Lovely Margene Welker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mearl L. Welker, Dresden, O., will become his bride on this coast to coast hook-up.

Selected from a vast number of prospective brides and grooms for the program Mr. Baker and his fiancee were deemed "tops" in the nation for this particular broadcast.

"I don't know yet how and why we were selected," Baker says, "just lucky I guess!"

It is rumored that the odds are 2000 to one that a couple can qualify for this honor. Baker is one of the first from Columbus, and first from the Hilltop to be invited to appear on this unique program.

Theirs is a college romance that began with a blind date—and blind dates were Baker's pet-peeves.

It was at Hilltop's Glenwood Methodist Church, following the annual Thanksgiving dinner, in November, 1946, that Baker began his "blind-date" maneuvering via telephone, which, on the same evening, opened a new avenue of romance for him.

Byron's older brother, Dick, a student at OSU had planned to attend the Pleiades annual dance on this same evening as guest of June Witherspoon, Minerva, O., whom he later married. This was Dick's initial date with June. Earlier June had offered to get Byron a blind date for this dance, to which he emphatically said, "No, I've been stuck with blind dates before."

However, Byron's joke backfired when after some apologetic notes from June she got her friend, Margene Welker, as the "blind" for Byron.

Both Byron and Dick will be married to the girls whom they "dated" for the first time at the Ohio State University Pleiades formal, November, 1946.

Then New Year's eve, 1949, found the four together again. Dick and June in the meantime had married and settled in Cincinnati.

Inviting Byron and Margene to their Cincinnati trailer home New Year's eve, it was another red-letter date for the quartet. This time Byron and Margene became engaged. Johnny Nelson, "Bride and Groom" emcee, may wheedle out of Byron the exact language used in his proposal.

"Never the first misunderstanding" is the way Byron speaks of his friendship and courtship days with Margene, "and we sincerely hope there will never be a first one."

Miss Welker is a graduate of Ohio State, with a major in Home Economics, having taught at neighboring Upper Arlington High School.

For the past two years she has been identified with the Proctor and Gamble Co., Cincinnati, as Market Research Investigator, her work carrying her into all parts of the United States and Canada.

Byron, also a graduate of Ohio State in the college of Commerce in June, 1948, is a salesman with the Burroughs Adding Machine Co.

He graduated from West High School Jan. 28, 1946, and completed his four years' work at Ohio State in two and one-half years.

Active member of Glenwood Methodist Church, Pastor Rev. Jos. Shellhaas, has delegated the music-conducting chores to Byron at mid-week services, where he has been one of Glenwood's faithful workers for many years.

91 Participate In Sullivant Ave. Model Plane Meet

A crowd of 3,600 was on hand Saturday as 91 participants took part in the Columbus Plymouth dealers' model airplane meet at Sullivant Avenue Airport. Four contestants were eliminated by crack-ups before the competition began.

Thirty-two trophies were awarded for the best performance in free flight, control line speed, stunt and jet divisions.

Mike Kalish, 21 E. 16th-av, won top prize when his jet plane averaged 119 miles per hour.

Local boys in the contest who will be sent to Detroit to compete in the international finals are Tom MacDonald of 38 S. Roys-av, Marshall Watson of 713 Sheridan-rd, George Heitz of 1951 Elmore-av and Dick Hale of 2715 Allegheny-av.

PURSE SNATCHED

Two boys snatched the purse containing $35 of Mrs. Paul Greenwood, 641 S. Richardson-av as she walked in front of her home, she told police.

Scaffold Fall Injures Two

Two S. Wayne-av men are in Mt. Carmel Hospital as a result of an accident Saturday. A scaffold on which they were working collapsed causing them to fall 30 feet to the ground.

They were painting the house of Mrs. Alice Williams, 175 Clarendon-av, at the time of the accident.

Weeks Makes All-Star First String

West High grid star Charles Weeks has been listed as tackle on South's first string squad for the annual North-South Ohio All-Star game to be played at Massillno Saturday evening, Aug. 13.

The two teams ran through a brief scrimmage last Saturday and then were excused until yesterday's practice.

The All-Star game will be broadcast in Columbus over WVKO at 7:30 p. m., Aug. 13, through the facilities of the Standard Network.

Bill Lindsay, sportscaster for Station WFAH, Alliance, will give the play by play announcement and announcer Bob Krahling will fill in with side-line color before the game and at half time.

Former West High star, Paul Theisen, was not listed in the tentative starting line-up.

Glenn Ellison, Middletown, and Ray Schick of Newark South are head coaches of the South team. Mack Pemberton, Cowboy mentor, is also on the coaching staff of the South team.

Lt. Moon Placed In Command Of City Patrol District

Lt. C. H. Moon, 148 N. Huron-av, has been placed in command of the Columbus district of the State Highway Patrol, Col. George Mingle, patrol superintendent, announced yesterday.

Lt. Moon had served as head of the patrol's plain clothes division since Mar. 1, 1946. He will be replaced in this job by Sgt. C. H. Baker.

JOINS NAVY

Jack E. Moone, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Mone, 152 S. Eureka-av, left Friday for San Diego, Calif., where he will be in boot training with the navy. In order to meet the weight requirements for his height, Jack was forced to lose nine pounds in one week. So his main dish during the last week he was at home consisted of fruit and eggs! He is a graduate of West High.

CEREUS BLOOMS TWICE

A night-blooming cereus belonging to Mrs. Clark Crouse, 2615 Elliott-av, bloomed twice this year—Friday and Sunday nights. It requires seven years' growth before a cereus blooms and then usually only one of the pure white blossoms will appear each year.

Emergency squadmen answered a call at W. Broad and Mill last week to cut a ring from the finger of Douglas Arnsbarger, 154 S. Ogden-av.

Work Begins On Houses In W. Mound-st.

Ground has been cleared for the construction of 10 double houses on the south side of Mound-st between Townsend and Woodbury-avs.

The houses are being built by Tonti Bros. Builders for Jack Savage, of the Savage Construction Co. They are expected to be completed in about three months.

The houses will be one floor masonry doubles, featuring asphalt tile floors, built-in venetian blinds and tile baths and showers. There will be drive-on ramps for parking.

Space is being left on the lot for construction of a shopping center near the houses. Value of the houses will be about $12,000.

Tonti Bros. will manage and be rental agent for the houses. Henry Malragon is the architect.

Tonti Bros. has also announced that 15 similar doubles being built on Wheatland-av will be ready for occupancy around the middle of September. They also expect to start brick work on the apartment house at W. Broad and Lechner-av within 10 days.

Methodist Church Plans Junior Fair

A Junior Fair, sponsored by the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church, will be held this Thursday and Friday at the church.

For entertainment the youth fellowship group of the church will present two skits, "Grand Baby Show" and "Atomic Energy", under the direction of Robert Hunter.

Prizes and awards will be given in the following contests:

The smallest and largest babies; the youngest and eldest present; the most beautiful and unusual doll; the largest teddy bear; the best decorated tricycle and bicycle; a watermelon eating contest; the most outstanding pieces of needle work; the best cakes and pastries; the most unusual arrangement of flowers; and the best home grown vegetables.

On the committee in charge of the fair are Clarence Troe, chairman, William Harris, secretary, and Elizabeth Shaw, in charge of publicity. The church pastor is Rev. T. L. Tinsley.

Man Injured, 3 Homes Damaged In Westgate Fire

Raymond Bastian, 444 S. Westgate-av, suffered first degree burns on his hands Saturday while fighting a blaze that caused damage to three residences and garages.

Firemen said the blaze of undetermined origin started in the garage of Bastian, and that the man was burned while fighting the blaze.

The fire caused $400 damage to his garage, $50 to the contents, $75 to an auto in the garage and $75 damage to the paint of his house.

The blaze spread to 450 S. Westgate-av, the home of Frank Christ, and 440 S. Westgate-av, the residence of Harry Herrel. The house and garage at the Christ home were damaged to the extent of $100, and $75 damage was caused to paint on the house and garage at the Herrel residence.

Old Trail Theater Community Night To Be Tomorrow

Tomorrow night is community night at the Old Trail Theater.

A coupon found in today's Record will entitle an adult bearer to a 20 cent discount in admission price. "Edward My Son," starring Spencer Tracy, will be the main feature.

This is the first of a series of community nights sponsored by the theater, for which discount tickets will appear in the Record.

Although no special events have been planned for the summer, a series of activities of interest to Hilltop residents will be held by the theater later in the year.

Birthday Party Held For Sylvia Wolfe

Sylvia Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Wolfe, 76 N. Ogden-av, celebrated her 14th birthday with a party at the VFW hall at W. Broad-st and Wayne-av Saturday evening, Aug. 6, with more than 30 guests.

Chaperones for the party were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alford, Mr. and Mrs. Okey Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Erm Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Alford and Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe.

READING CLUB TO CLOSE

The 49er's Reading Club of the Hilltop Library closes Aug. 26. Children who have joined the club have only two weeks to finish the required number of books. The National 49er's Reading Club certificates will be awarded all children who have read 15 books or more since the opening of the club.

MISS BETTY M. GARDNER BECOMES BRIDE OF DONALD MANSON JUNE 4 IN HILLTOP LUTHERAN CHURCH

Mrs. Donald C. Manson

At 2:30 p. m. Saturday, June 4, in the Hilltop Lutheran Church, a double ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Betty Mae Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. Gardner, 156 Powhatan-av, and Donald C. Manson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Bowman, 686 Racine-av.

Rev. Russell Olson officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with seven-branch candelabra, white gladioli and palms.

A half-hour of pre-nuptial music was presented by Miss Phyllis Pennell, organist, and Miss Peggy Jhenson, vocalist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of slipper satin with a chantilly lace yoke, a full skirt ending in a long train, fashioned by the bridegroom's aunt. She wore a fingertip veil of imported illusion which was attached to a net tiara scalloped in pearls. The bride carried a white prayer-book topped with a purple-throated white orchid and white satin streamers entwined with fern.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of spring pastel faille with blending net yokes and matching mitts, each carrying colonial bouquets.

Miss Jeannine Mayhew, maid of honor, was attired in orchid and carried white roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Carolyn Croy and Marianne Brown, wore yellow gowns and carried pink roses while Miss Stella Davis and Mrs. Ernest Fred Ford wore green gowns and carried yellow roses. The flower girl, Miss Carolyn Webb, cousin of the bridegroom, wore white slipper satin styled like the bride's with a picture bonnet and carried a basket of rose petals.

Mr. Theodore F. Manson was best man for his brother. The ushers included Mr. William Gardner, brother of the bride, Mr. Daniel Denny, Mr. Richard DeWitt, cousins of the bridegroom, and Mr. Kenneth Beymer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlor.

Hostesses at the reception were Miss Doris Gardner, Mrs. Homer Curts, Mrs. Norma Dearring and Mrs. Thelma Dearring, aunts of the bride, Miss Judy Jones, Mrs. Vera Jhenson, aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Grover Webb, cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. Mabel Bergman and Mrs. Florence McCreight.

The bride's mother greeted her guests attired in orchid with white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations, while the bridegroom's mother wore a toast-brown dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the reception the bride and bridegroom left for their honeymoon in Indiana. For her honeymoon the bride changed to a royal blue suit with white accessories and pinned the orchid from her bouquet to her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Manson are now at home at 3288 W. Broad-st.

Household Hint

Protect a new carpet by using cups under the feet of furniture. Even chair legs should have small spooled metal domes or gliders so that the sharp wood corners will not damage the surface of rug or carpet.

LILY ADORNED ALTAR IS SETTING FOR CEREMONY WHICH UNITES MISS KAUFMAN AND MR. BROCKINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Brockington

Miss Alice Pauline Kaufmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Kaufmann, 179 S. Ogden-av, and Mr. Ned E. Brockington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Brockington, 417 S. Burgess-av, were married June 18 before an altar set with a screen of huckleberry foliage and white pompoms and decorated with tall vases of white pompoms, lilies, ferns and palms, and lit with two seven-branch candelabra, in Glenwood Methodist Church. Rev. Joseph B. Shellhaas officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown fashioned from white French marquisette, designed with a high neckline and an off-shoulder bertha edged in Chantilly lace. The same lace bordered a peplum over the full skirt which ended in a full circular trail. The over-face veil of English illusion was accented by a seed pearl tiara. Her only jewelry was a cameo necklace, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Carolyn Garne, the maid of honor, wore a dress of blue French marquisette with a square ruffled neckline and a full skirt featured in the back by ruffles in back from the waistline to hem. She also wore a large open-crowned picture hat to match the gown and carried a nosegay of pink roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Iris Kaufmann, Miss Gloria Brockington, Miss Shirley Kaufmann, were matching gowns in summer pastels and carried nosegays and talisman roses.

The best man was Mr. Robert Kimes while the ushers were Dan Roper, Cleveland, Mr. Richard Smith and James Gardiner.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Lawrence Kaufmann, wore a blue crepe dress and a pink rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Warren Brockington, was dressed in a rose crepe dress and wore a corsage of split white carnations. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Beery, wore a blue print dress with a white rose corsage.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The hostesses were Mrs. Bernard Floyd, Mrs. James McCafferty, Mrs. William Pierce and Miss Shirley Lutz. Senior hostesses were Mrs. Ivor Engle and Mrs. Kenneth Watts.

The new Mrs. Brockington was graduated from West High School, attended Capital University and is a graduate of Ohio State. She was formerly associated with the children's division of the Columbus Public Library.

Mr. Brockington, also a graduate of West High and Ohio State, is now associated with the Arthur Young Public Accountants in Chicago.

For their trip through the Smoky Mountains and to Brunswick, Ga., the bride changed to a green crepe dress with white accessories and pinned the white roses from her bridal bouquet to her shoulder.

Following the trip the couple will make their home at 7618 Stewart-av in Chicago.

Neighbors Surprise Mrs. Figlestahler

The neighbors of Mrs. Emma Figlestahler, 441 S. Powell-av, surprised her with a party Thursday on her 79th birthday. Those present were Mrs. Gladys Smith, 463 S. Powell-av; Mrs. Fred Everett, 464 S. Local Couple To Marry In California

Still averse to blind dates, Byron remarked to brother Dick, following the Glenwood dinner, "Think I'll call June up and josh her some more about the blind date.'

Whereupon Prince Charming had his fun over the phone. Since June had made no arrangement to get a date for him, Byron tantilized her, saying he was ready to go and even had a corsage (which he hadn't).

Byron is a trombone player, having played throughout his high school years in the marching band and the concert band.

The Occident, the school year book, lists his other activities as 100% Club; Hi-Y Bowling, Mixed League Bowling, Boys' Bowling, Commando Training, Debate Club, Latin Club, Scholarship Test, Refreshment Committee Senior Mixer, Chemistry Club, "W" Association, Track, Cross Country, Scrap Drive, Paper Drive, and Intramural Basketball.

Incidently, both Byron and Margene are members of the Methodist Church.

Following the wedding in the beautiful chapel adjoining the broadcasting station, where a maximum number of 10 may attend, the couple will return to the broadcast, where they will receive a host of gifts in the name of a legion of sponsors. These will be used in their new home, upon their return, a cozy apartment at 3111 W. Broad-st.

An all-expense honeymoon itinerary of one week duration will be extended the couple by the sponsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker and the bethrothed couple will leave for Los Angeles, Wednesday, Aug. 10, by plane.

When Hollywood's Rev. Hill pronounces you "man and wife," Byron and Margene, Hilltop's best wishes will follow you along with those millions of other listeners throughout the nation.

White pique afternoon dress.

By VERA WINSTON

FABRIC COMBINATIONS add interest, originality and charm to this season's fashions. For example, here we have an afternoon dress of white pique that would be just a pretty dress for a summer afternoon, were it not for the touch of black velvet that makes it an outstanding selection. The ribbon, which is run through the scooped out neckline and hemline, terminates in bows for an extra accent.

And Have Not Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

WHEN her hands went suddenly weak, and David took her in his arms and held her, Beatrice yielded, saying against him, "Whether knowingly or unknowingly, I do not know, but you lifted me up and out, out of myself so that I could see myself, and the unfinished little pieces into which I had broken myself, so that I was no longer a whole woman a man could love."

He held her and said with astonishing calmness for one whose heart was beating so fast, "You are so much finer than you believe for admitting that you have been wrong. I wanted you, Beatrice. I wanted you as a child cries for the moon. Suppose you could give it to him, what would he do with it? I wanted you with no encumbrances, no marriage, no child, no other man. Just you. As if this were the Garden of Eden and not a highly complex modern society. That's how I've wanted you—so strongly you've colored everything I've done and seen but . . . but futilely just like the child crying for the moon."

He felt her stir in his arms when he said, "And I am by my very nature the last man in the world to break up a marriage and to break a child's heart by uprooting her."

Her lashes were wet when she looked at him. He took her face gently between his hands. "I don't love you, Beatrice. Love grows out of sharing passion, laughter, pain, all things human. And we would come to that if you did not so overwhelmingly love your husband."

"Because of all those things I have shared with him—good and bad, mad and sad, the plenty of poverty, the poverty of plenty—David, I am what my love for Porter and the riches of our marriage have made me. There is still a breach, a frightening breach. I could not let you go and not tell you that it is far from right with us. But because a marriage is a human relationship, it can be sick and it can be healed. If you've ever been very ill, you know the joy of convalescence, the slow return to strength, the world washed clean before your welcoming eyes. Oh, my dear . . ."

"And I shall do with you what I wish," he said. "I shall leave you, and I shall not see you again."

Her eyes assented though she said, "Let's not say goodbye."

"No, let's not. That implies a tragic finality and," he smiled at her, "there's nothing tragic about you or us, Beatrice. How could there be when we're both glad it happened, and we wouldn't have missed each other for anything? I'm not sorry that in America I met a beautiful woman; a deliriously desirable woman, and wanted her."

Holding out her hand Beatrice thought, I'm seeing him for the last time. I shall never see him again. It hurts a little because he's a wonderful person, and I am losing a benevolent friend.

She said, "Bless you. You are so nice, David."

His voice was warm and vibrant. "And you, Beatrice, and your husband, and your child, and your home. For all the things you are and will be."

She stood and watched him put on his topcoat and pull on his gloves. This is for memory, too, she thought. And then they looked at each other without any desire that this should be different from the way it was—and he closed the door quietly—and she was quite alone.

Six days later she wired Porter that she was leaving New York that afternoon and would be home by nine that evening. Yet even as the message was being spoken into the telephone she felt cheerless at the thought of leaving her mother. For their relationship, certainly never very good, had changed astoundingly during the week when she had been with Cecily more constantly than she had ever been, and had been witness to her mother's brave determination not to lay the burden of sadness upon her friends. It was incredible that she had come so to respect and admire her mother, and to add to these attributes Cecily's regret that necessity had forced her not to include Beatrice among those who did not know.

And Cecily had given her a knowledge from which there was no escape. She had given her sorrow to do with what she must—to accept it and to live with it until she was strong enough to drive it out—because sorrow was as much a part of life as joy, and until you knew that and accepted it you were still a child.

The elevator man had gone with her bag and Cecily was waiting to say good-bye. They embraced, cheeks touching as women do, and Cecily smiled mischievously.

"You really should have another child, darling. Listen to me, will you, I who always thought the little brats were calamitous blunders."

Which was Cecily's way of telling her that if she, Cecily, had had two children she would be twice as proud as she was now.

The smile that came over Beatrice's face was one that her mother, entirely free now of any self-obsession, understood.

"I hope, too," was all that Beatrice dared to say.

Once, while walking down the long corridor toward the elevator, she stopped and waved cheerily. And Cecily, too, was illumined by that new inner radiance that had come to her through her love of the people who had loved and suffered her these many years, gave her an absurd little salute as her golden laughter floated down the still vaster corridor of time.

Only a few bedraggled travelers got off the train with Beatrice and walked through the old station to the waiting cabs. Beatrice wondered if they felt as she assuredly did an immediate lessening of tension to find themselves in a city where the pace was markedly slower, the cabs smaller, and the electric signs, in comparison with New York, meager and dull.

She gave the cab driver her address and settled back into the seat, and felt at once an unbearable longing for Marianne and Porter, and a renewed affection for the dignity of the old city. In twenty minutes I shall be home, she thought. And she visualized Porter opening the door, their voices quiet lest Marianne awaken. This was real while that which she had left was already somewhat blurred by distance. Hurry, she thought. Drive faster. For everyone in the world there is a door somewhere that opens into a sanctuary where voices are the sounds of love.

Yet when the cab stopped before the house, and she saw no welcoming light, her spirit shrank. Her hands trembled as she searched for money in her purse and her key.

"Don't look like nobody is here," the driver said at the unappealing darkness of the house.

Beatrice paid him, closed the door, picked up her bag, and walked up the crooked stone path.

He must have received my telegram, she thought. Then he knew I was coming home tonight. It is only a few minutes past nine, time for Marianne to be asleep, of course, but too early for Porter to go to bed.

Disappointment came over her in waves as she inserted the key and opened the door. She left the bag in the foyer, and went to the living room and switched on a lamp. The living room bore no sign of recent life. No one had been here tonight to smoke or read a newspaper or make a fire. Beatrice went over to the desk. Perhaps he had left a note. There was no note. There was nothing. Nothing. She turned away, switched off the lamp, went to the hall, picked up the bag and went upstairs in darkness to her room. That, too, failed to reveal the usual signs that Porter had come home and dressed before going out for the evening.

Frances will not hear me, she thought. She sleeps too soundly.

She took off her coat and hat and put them in her closet. She did not know what possessed her to open the door of Porter's closet. She stood there looking at his innumerable suits hanging neatly on their hangers and at the rows of shoes beneath. Her eyes slowly roamed, and then they stopped, settling on a bare corner in the closet in which he usually kept the one piece of luggage he used for short business trips. It was gone. It would not be anywhere else because it was always here. And it was gone. He was gone.

MORE THAN 7351 STACKS OF SILVER DOLLARS...
EACH AS HIGH AS THE EMPIRE STATE BUILDING

That's a Billion Dollars in Revenue Lost by the Federal Treasury Because of Tax-Exempts Engaged in Business

Hard to believe? Well, it's true! An estimated billion dollars is LOST each year to the United States treasury because certain commercial businesses are given special tax exemptions by law and regulations.

CO-OPERATIVE CORPORATIONS, for example, are estimated to avoid close to half a billion dollars in taxes annually. Other tax-exempts, such as government businesses, "trusts," universities, etc. actually owning and operating commercially a wide variety of enterprises for profit are able to escape paying income taxes on the big profits they make.

CO-OPS and other tax-exempts should pay federal income taxes on their profits just like other business. ESPECIALLY, they should pay full federal income tax BEFORE Congress loads any additional tax on present taxpayers. In other words—Congress should TAX THE UNTAXED FIRST!

Tell your Congressman you want him to tax the untaxed first before he asks YOU to pay any more income tax.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of Franklin Township, Local School District, Brigsdale School Building, Harrisburg Pike, Brigsdale, Franklin County, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk of said School District until 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on August 15, 1949, for the furnishing of materials and the performing of labor necessary to erect a one story elementary school building on the north side of Frank Road east of Brigsdale, Ohio, for the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, all in accordance with the plans and specifications now prepared by Walker, Norwick and Tompkins, Architects, Dayton, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are on file as follows:

The office of the Clerk of the Board of Education, Mrs. Sara Ely, 1977 Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio.

The office of Walker, Norwick and Tompkins, Architects, 1201-4 American Building, Dayton 2, Ohio.

Said plans and specifications are open to public inspection during all reasonable business hours, until time fixed herein for closing of bids.

Proposals will be received for the General Construction Work; Plumbing; Electric, and Heating and Ventilating Work separately. Bidders may submit a combined bid for the Plumbing and Heating and Ventilating Work.

All proposals shall be made and considered by the Board in accordance with the General Code of the State of Ohio, and be on blank forms furnished by the Clerk of the Board of Education or the Architects, and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Clerk of the Board of Education of Franklin Township Local School District, Brigsdale School, Harrisburg Pike, Grove City, Ohio endorsed on the outside of the envelope with the name of the bidder and the branch of the work bid upon.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after the opening thereof. Particular attention is called to the statutory requirements of the State of Ohio relative to the licensure of corporations organized under the laws of any other state.

Each bid must contain the name of every person interested therein, and be accompanied by a certified check or bank draft in favor of said Board of Education upon a solvent bank, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid, or by bond in like sum, executed by an approved surety company, conditioned that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into, and the performance of it properly secured. Checks submitted by the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the award of the contract is made, and a performance bond in the amount of 50% of the contract has been executed by the successful bidder.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from the Architects upon the deposit of fifteen dollars ($15.00), which will be refunded to all contractors submitting bids upon the return of plans and specifications. Others will have refund of five dollars ($5.00) upon return of plans and specifications.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularities in bidding.

By order of the Board of Education of the Franklin Township Local School District, Brigsdale, Franklin County, Ohio.

Elbert L. Becker, President
Sarah Ely, Clerk.

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Tuesday, May 31

This morning we took the tube train which carried us through the city on the western suburbs. At Ealing Broadway we disembarked.

After the noon dinner, a sight-seeing trip by car occupied the rest of the afternoon. From Ealing we drove through several little towns such as Brentford, Osterley, Cranford, Slough, Eton (where is located a famous school for boys, just around the corner from there we came to famous Windsor Castle. We skirted the great grey walls until we came to the entrance and, just as we were ready to park the car and start walking into the grounds, a heavy rain started falling which threatened, for a moment, to prevent any further sight-seeing. Luckily, the rain turned out to be one of the English variety which lasts for only a few minutes and then is followed by bright sunshine.

Within the walls many people were doing as we were doing, trying to see all that could be seen. Cliff Hale acted as guide. He took us first into the castle chapel where we saw the tombs and monuments of many of the British kings and queens. This being the chapel where the king and queen worship during their residence here, we saw the seats where they usually sit while attending services. Beyond the rear of the chancel was the Council Hall of the Knights of the Garter.

From the King George V chapel we walked through the courtyard past the quarters of the household staff to the embankment where we could look out over the Thames valley and, at one side, see the wide and private lawns of the royal family. Although we got an exterior view of the state buildings we did not get to see any of the interiors because today the flag was flying to indicate that the King and Queen were in residence. We looked hard but did not succeed in getting any glimpse of personages such as either the King or the Queen.

Leaving the castle, we drove through the narrow streets of Windsor past the White Hart Hotel where we wished we would some time have the opportunity of stopping for a few days and leisurely viewing the daily lives of the residents.

The next step of our tour took us through Bushey Park, along the winding river Thames past the little island of Runnymede where King John signed the Magna Carta, the earliest document granting personal liberties to the people of England. Beyond Runnymede, we came to Hampton Court, an old castle and palace of Tudor times.

From the Palace we passed through several other small towns, through Richmond Park, past Kew Gardens and back to the Hale home for evening tea and another session of words.

Wednesday, June 1

Today we were back in Ealing again.

We covered a portion of yesterday's route as far as Slough when we turned off to Maidenhead and out through the country past a scene which I do not think could be duplicated in America. This was the J. Waterer Nursery Gardens, known as "The Floral Mile". For a mile or more, on both sides of the road and as far as you could see on either side, was a solid mass of flowers in bloom, flowers of a hundred or more varieties. It was a beautiful scene to see.

The afternoon was drawing to a close when we started our return trip. We drove to the little village of Sonning, which was the first place we have seen to bring vividly to us a reminder of pictures we had seen of early English villages. Just off the main road, this village was situated on the banks of a small stream which at one time was the source of power to operate an old watermill. The old mill is still operating. The houses were all of the tiny cottage type with vine-covered and rose-covered painted walls. Our imaginations were again called upon to try to recall the old days when we were told that every house in this community was at least five or six hundred years old.

It was during our homeward trip that we got our first glimpse of something which we never see in America. This was the prevalence of bicycles as a means of transportation. People were just going home from their day's work and along the road were hundreds of cyclists, so many that the motorist became a secondary traveler on the highway.

It was also on this homeward trip that we were told of a place we should visit when we get to Brighton, the "Brighton lanes." These are a group of streets so narrow that vehicular traffic is impossible. In fact, some of them are scarcely more than wide enough for two or three people to walk abreast, yet on them are located many old houses and a number of shops, which are now used as sales rooms for antiques. The story is told that many years ago an exceedingly fat villager made a wager with a less ponderous and more agile citizen that he could defeat the thinner man in a foot-race through the lanes. The betting was all in favor of the thin man, but when the fat man was granted the choice of the running route the race was decided. The fat man chose the narrowest of the lanes. By getting in front of the thinner man the fat man blocked the roadway so that the thin man was prevented from ever getting into the lead.

Thursday, June 2

The trip through this part of Essex was through very rural territory. Although we were only a few miles from London we seemed to be miles from any sort of community. Winding roads lined with trees on either side took us past a few farm houses which looked ancient to us who were so accustomed to seeing comparatively modern farm homes. We went through South Weald, a sleepy little place consisting of two homes, a church, a pub and a side road. From there we went on past Hainault Forest. Once past the forest we were again on Chigwell Row.

Friday, June 3

It was raining hard this morning when we got up and according to the sky it was likely to rain all day.

Our outing today was to Manor Park.

I went for a walk to a nearby chip shop. A line of customers wound through the shop and out to the sidewalk. We joined the group to take our turn for final entry into the shop for our portions of hake and potatoes. Included in our turn at waiting was also a generous portion of fried fish smells.

On our way back from the shop Maudie took me in to see an old church. By old I mean ancient. This church was over 1000 years old. Its thick stone walls and tiny windows gave it a very dark interior but light enough to allow one to see some of the furnishings, the organ and the other items which lent the atmosphere of past ages. The churchyard had many weathered and almost falling stones but in the few moments we were there we could not find many of them with dates to identify them. The gate in the churchyard fence was a curiosity to me. One part of the fence was built in the form of a letter "U". Within this part the open end of the gate would swing so that to enter the grounds one has to walk along the outside of the gate, turn with the U, then walk back along the inside of the gate. Why this awkward entrance, I do not know.

This note is just an observation covering all the days since we have been here: Women always kiss when they meet. I am not sure about this part but it has seemed to me that every time I have been introduced to a member of the opposite sex I have sensed a slight forward leaning on their part. Are men supposed to greet them in the same way? The leaning forward seems to indicate an anticipation.

Saturday, June 4

By 7 o'clock we were on our way for a motor trip to Sussex.

We went through East London where we saw many more places which still showed the effects of the heavy bombing during the war. Through the Blackwall Tunnel we went under the Thames to come out in Kent and from there to Sussex. Through Brumley and a number of other towns we were kept busy watching the changing styles of living. Soon we were into the countryside, passing through more towns which were then beginning to give us more and more views of old houses, inns, etc.

At Tumbridge Wells we stopped at the Pump House to go to the local petrol office. Our hopes of getting the visitors' allowance of gas were dashed for the time being when we found the office was closed until Tuesday because of the Whitsun holidays.

By 10:30 we had dodged around the city of Brighton into the back road through the picturesque village of Telscomb, past the home where Gracie Fields' father and mother live, around the corner onto the main street of Peacehaven, then around another corner to Central Ave.

We used to think that Atlantic City was a big resort town and that it had an enormous number of hotels. Today when we saw Brighton we changed our minds for here there are three or four large waterfront hotels for each one that is on the boardwalk at Atlantic City.

Sunday, June 5

Not to be forgetful of going to church at least once in a while during our travels we attended services this morning at Telscombe.

The church at Telscombe was built, as we were informed, about the year 1100. Not being a judge of architecture or things antique I can only go on information and the appearance of places we look at. This church is located way back on a side road, atop a little knoll that overlooks the village street, and its gray stone walls and weathered churchyard stones give this feeling of past history. King Charles of the Stuarts was either an attendant at services here or was instrumental in building the church.

When the service was over we introduced ourselves to the minister as we passed out. We walked down the street looking at the strange little cottages touching the very edge of the road, the roses climbing over all available garden and house walls. We saw the vicarage too with its history dating back to 1100 and providing reminders of the days when windows used to be taxed. Several of the windows in the vicarage are still blocked up as they were in those old days to avoid the tax. As I understand it the untaxed windows were known as the "free windows."

On the way back to the car we bumped into a most unusual experience. We were going to take a picture looking down on the quiet roadway from up on the church knoll. While we were up there the vicar had finished his duties of greeting the parishion-

Dale Stump Enters Attorney General Race

Dale Stump, prominent Columbus attorney, launched a statewide "grassroots' campaign for Attorney General of Ohio last night. He is the first Republican to enter the race for state office next year.

Mr. Stump announced his candidacy for Attorney General during an address at a rally sponsored by Van Wert and Allen County Republicans. Mr. Stump was born on a farm at Convoy near here and many of his lifelong friends were on hand to hear his announcement.

"I am entering the campaign early because I am going to stump every county in Ohio," Mr. Stump said. "I want to discuss all political issues frankly and fully with the voters. I want everyone to understand my concept of state government."

B-36 Probe May Change Defense Policy of U. S.

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Best Capitol Hill opinion is that the congressional investigation of the B-36 will disclose no major scandals but may greatly affect the national defense.

The probe will be conducted by the House armed services committee which has been directed by the House to make a searching inquiry into the controversy surrounding the Air Force's giant six-engine bomber.

Charges of irregularities in purchase have involved such prominent names as Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and Air Force Secretary Stuart Symington, but there is nothing to indicate that these men acted in other than forthright manner.

Washington

However, the Air Force concept of warfare, its great reliance upon strategic bombing, its belief that war in the air belongs solely to USAF—no part to the Navy—will undergo severe scrutiny by the committee.

If the committee rejects the Air Force thesis then the entire concept of warfare by American military forces may have to be changed.

● NO TV CHANGES—No extensive expansion of the nation's television stations or facilities can be expected for a long time—possibly three years—despite the government's recent proposals to broaden the TV field.

In the first place the government's plans are just proposals—nothing more. A public hearing will be held late in August at which industry officials will be heard to determine if the proposals are practicable.

Secondly, putting the program into effect would make obsolete all the television sets being used unless they are modified.

Thirdly, the Federal Communications Commission's plans for making available 42 new television channels by using the ultra-high frequency band along with the present very high frequency has to be tested extensively.

Eventually the government in co-operation with the television industry may achieve its ambitious goal of bringing television to nearly 2,000 cities and communities, but it will take time.

Television for everyone is not around the corner—it is years away.

● MYSTERIOUS MICHAEL—Who is Michael? That's a question that still has the FBI baffled despite its months of investigation of Judith Coplon and the 10-week trial that resulted in her conviction as a spy for Russia.

"Michael" first came to light in one of the famous "purse papers"—notes found in the ex-government girl's purse the night of her arrest.

The paper described her efforts to secure a "top secret" FBI report on "Soviet and Communist Intelligence Activities in the United States." In it she remarked that she had "described" the report to "Michael."

Judy Coplon's "Michael" Still Puzzles

In her defense, Miss Coplon said first that "Michael" referred to the Archangel Michael in the Bible's Book of Revelations. Later she said it referred to a fictional "Michael Smith" who was to be a character in a book she said she was writing.

The FBI, and apparently the jury, rejected these explanations. Government officials admit privately they have no idea who "Michael" was.

However, others close to the case believe "Michael" was simply a cover name for Valentin Gubitchev, the Russian engineer who the government says was Miss Coplon's Soviet spy contact.

Legion Quiet -- All the Music Inside Church and Wedding Goes As Planned

Don McVay, 166 S. Roys-av, played "Stop the Music" and came away with a pretty new bride.

The story with the happy ending began when Don and his bride-to-be, Miss Joan Zschach of 614 E. Gates-st, learned that their wedding was scheduled to take place just as the American Legion parade passed St. John's Evangelical Reformed Church at 61 E. Mound-st, scene of their marriage ceremony.

Wedding music isn't very good competition for the brass of the military bands and the exchange of wedding vows coudn't very well be heard over the noise of 15,000 legionnaires, so it looked for a while as if the long planned ceremony might be ruined.

However State Highway Patrol Inspector U. C. Felty, parade marshal, came to the rescue, keeping the legionnaires and the bands quiet until the parade, reached High-st.

The church was silent, as a church should be, when the couple exchanged "I do's." None of the 350 guests had trouble hearing as the soloist, Robert Cotner of 1385 S. Sixth-st, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Because," "O Promise Me," "Smilin' Through," and "God Touched a Rose."

Others will remember the American Legion convention for the gayety and noise, but the Don McVays will remember how the Legion was quiet so that they might have "a perfect wedding."

ACTIVITIES ENDED

To celebrate the closing week of activities for the summer, John Burroughs playground is planning a family night program this Thursday. Games, contests, races and novelty stunts will be on the program for anyone who wishes to come and bring a picnic supper.

St. Aloysius Wins 8-6 For First Place Tie

Glenwood Methodist and St. Aloysius are now tied for first place in the Church League, each team having lost two games, as a result of last night's loudly contested fracas on Westgate's No 1 diamond. These teams were supposed to play a doubleheader, but the first game dragged out until it was decided that there was not enough time to play the required five innings of a second game.

Rebholz gave up six hits, but kept them scattered so that they were ineffectual. Dawson only gave up three hits until the sixth inning. Southworth, leading off, got a grounder through to center. Devlin then hit to left, as did Britenelcher. Schlusser got on by fielder's choice, and both scores and decisions came thick and fast, as Davies tried to catch a runner at home plate, then Lamprecht tried to catch a runner at third.

When it finally ended, St. Aloysius had tallied five hits and three runs, a bad inning for Mr. Dawson and Company.

City Harmonica Contest Entry Blanks Available

Much interest has been aroused in the forthcoming city-wide harmonica contest sponsored by the City Recreation Department on 31 of its playgrounds. Entry forms for the contest may be obtained from supervisors on various playgrounds or from the City Recreation Department, Room 124, City Hall.

The contest which will be held during the week of August 15 is open to boys and girls in two age groups; namely, 10 years of age or less and 15 years of age or less. The try-outs will be held on all playgrounds and the winners of the try-outs will compete at Schiller Recreation Center.

After the completion of the contest, it is the plan of the Recreation Department to form a city-wide harmonica band, under a capable director, and that way further the musical talents and ability of those competing in the contest.

With the cooperation of the local music dealers, arrangements are being made for experienced harmonica players to appear on various playgrounds to demonstrate to youngsters the harmonica technique.

ers at the church door. He was on his way down the slope. He was a very short, stocky man who, as his clerical robe fluttered in the winds, looked every bit a reminder of the Friar Tuck we have so often read about and pictured in other days.

The vicar greeted us again on this downward journey. He asked us if we had seen the Club House and, upon our reply that we had not, invited us to come in and join him for a while. The Club House was a stone structure, built only a few years ago but fitting in well with all its ancient surroundings. Inside the Club the parishioners, or a good many of them, had gathered for a little social time before going home to their Sunday dinner. The Vicar asked us what we would like to drink, beer, a shandy or some wine. He did the serving as all five of us sat about one of the tables.

It seems that the old Squire of this Parish, which is quite a horse racing community, did not want his workers to be distracted by constant attendance at a "pub" which was located several miles away. He built this Club House for the members of the Parish with the provision that the Vicar should be the Secretary of the Club and, more or less, the manager. He also provided in his will that no Vicar of this church should ever be a teetotaler, hence the bar on Sunday morning. It can not open until after church services because the woman who runs the bar is the People's Warden of the church and she can not open until after she comes out of church at noon.

We drove from Peacehaven to New Haven, the little port from which the ill-fated raids on Dieppe, France, were carried out during the war. We drove along the high cliffs overlooking the Channel, reminded ourselves that these were part of the oft referred to "white cliffs of Dover" and picked up a few pieces of chalk to take home with us a memento of the place.

Our next town was Lewes. It is now a large city but its streets and buildings still are strong reminders of medieval days. Here we saw some of the narrowest streets we have ever seen. If we had been alone in this journey we would have thought they were either alleys or simply side lanes leading to the rear of the adjoining property. Actually these are knowns as "twittens" in Sussex terminology. They are really streets with houses along either side.

On the way back home we passed through the old village of Rittingdean where we saw, in passing, the house where Rudyard Kipling used to live.

Back home again the evening passed quickly.

Monday, June 6

Today we drove again through New Haven and on to Seaford and Alfriston along the cliffs and over the downs. Jack pointed out something new to me. These were the dew ponds. Small ponds are built at intervals in the fields. The moisture that is in the air is so great and the dew so heavy that the cool night air condenses the mosture in large enough quantities to fill the ponds with water which is then used for the livestock.

At Alfriston we saw the old market place with its remains of a stone cross which were apparently used in olden times as preaching post for the pilgrims who passed through here. We stopped for refreshments at the old Star Inn, a 13th Century inn which was operated by monks for the comfort of the passing pilgrims. I tapped the old oak beams with which the building was constructed and found to my surprise that they felt as hard to the touch as though they were so many pieces of solid rock.

From Alfriston we went back to the high point of the downs between Alfriston and Seaford.

Tuesday, June 7

This morning Violet and I went to Graffham. On our way we passed through Bramber with its many houses of Tudor style, through Steyning, where we saw many houses built of flint from the chalk cliffs. Storington was next, then Pulborough, then Petworth. Beyond this came Midhurst, which was really a medieval town. Its streets are not more than wide enough for one car to traverse. One can almost jump from one doorway into a shop-door across the street. As we walked down the avenue here I felt almost as though I were walking down the street of a doll town, everything was so small, yet this was an ancient town. We located the Spread Eagle Inn, built in the 14th century.

From the Spread Eagle, traveling in two cars, we drove out through woodad, winding roads for a distance of about four miles. We then turned down a long drive which must have been nearly a mile long. This was the rhododendron bordered private drive leading to Graffham Court in its park-like setting of green fields and forest.

Tea was served in the lounge of the gardener's cottage, after which we went for a walk through the grounds around the estate, through the walled-in kitchen garden where every kind of garden vegetable and all kinds of flowers were growing. Also we went through the conservatory and the greenhouses which will keep each room of the big house supplied daily with fresh flowers. The scenery about Graffham Court was so beautiful and the atmosphere so peaceful and quiet we wished that we could have spent a good many restful days here.

While at Graffham Court we were presented with something which is going to create a sensation when we get home. It was a 1905 model Edison gramaphone, complete with horn and two dozen old time cylinder records.

Skill Required In Successful Summer Fishing

With the peak of the summer's heat playing havoc with fishing in general, it takes a lot of experimenting to land a decent stringer of bass or other fresh water battlers. And you can bet your bottom dollar that the boys who come in with the best catches are he ones who have some special tricks for outwitting finny gamesters during the hottest days of summer.

I've learned two things about hot weather fishing. First, you've got to know the water you are fishing like your own living room; and, second, it takes a lot more arm power and work on most fishing jaunts to make a fair catch.

When fishing lakes this time of the year that I also fished early in the season, I go to the same spots that produced well on early trips — certain shore lines, brush piles or other cover —and then move out into deeper water from these areas for heat-of-the-day fishing. Seldom do game fish in lakes move far from their choice hiding spots, but as the water warms they will seek cooler places — and the closest places available. That's why I always fish the deep water that is adjacent to the spots that produced when the water was cooler early in the season.

Frequently early in the morning or late evening you will find the gamesters feeding in the shallows for food most always is more abundant in this water. But you'd better try the deep holes when the sun is high overhead.

I've found, too, the artificial lures that produce early in the season often are a complete bust in hit weather. Why I don't know, but in August I carry a tackle box loaded with new lures and if 10 or 15 minutes of fishing in a good spot fails to offer a fish I switch lures until the right one is found.

Almost every body of water needs special tricks in hot weather. And if you're a wise fisherman you will check with the boys having the best luck and find out their methods. It may take a little spying to do it, but the rewards often are rich.

Get the refrigerator with a real home freezer built in it!

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

And you can be sure, when you buy the new, dependable General Electric Refrigerator-Home Freezer Combination.

Look for separate compartments, separate outside doors! Each compartment with individual cold control

Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get,

In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerato.r Separately refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

5000 Fish In. One Big Haul

There are some skeptics in the crowd who still don't believe that Bill Coon caught over 5000 fish last Sunday evening. Now we will tell you just how he did it.

For a long time we have been figuring on cleaning the acre and a half lake on our place at 1370 Wilson-rd. It had not been cleaned out for some 17 years or more and in the past few winters it has filled up rapidly until the water was only a foot or so deep in many places. Grass was becoming heavy all over it and it was taking on more the appearance of a swamp than that of a lake.

So with the strong arm assistance of Joe Agee and Bill Coon last Friday evening we finally penetrated the concrete "stopper" in the eight-inch drain pipe through the dam and the warter started out with a gush. Needless to say it was quite mucky for some time.

The flow continued until about 8 p. m. Sunday at which time all that was left was a slow stream down through the main channel.

We had no idea what might turn up in the draining process. There were lots of small fish, we were sure. But our luck with big ones had never been good. The largest we had ever caught was an eight-inch catfish. We had seen many turtles and last summer we caught one that weighed in at 17 pounds so we fully expected some large ones again.

As the water went lower and lower we could begin to see schools of small fish and gradually they came down through the drain into the stream below.

This is how Bill caught his 5000 fish. He sat with a dip net over the entrance to the drain and scooped them up by the hundreds as fast as he could reach down and get a load. In turn he emptied them into a large hole below the dam and hundreds of them went merrily on their way down the stream and will eventually wind up in the Scioto.

During the course of the evening the total run of fish was well over the 5000 mark, more nearly 10,000 in our estimation.

But with all this number nothing larger than about 10-inch catfish turned up. There were very few blue gills. Little shiners were present in the thousands. Catfish were the most prominent.

So far we have seen only four small turtles but they, in all probability, are still around buried in the mud. Large frogs made their way down stream to better water. Hundreds of large mussels in shells turned up on the bottom of the lake.

Now, with more of these warm days and a waiting period of about six weeks, we plan to remove some three or four feet of silt and then refill the lake. By next spring we hope to have it looking better than it has appeared in many years.

Petition Filed To End Zoning In Prairie Twp.

A petition asking that rural zoning in Prairie Township be eliminated, was filed with Franklin County Commissioners yesterday.

Prairie Township embraces the area along W. Broad-st between Alton and New Rome.

Wednesday was the final day on which the measure could be placed on the ballot for the coming November election.

The petition contained the necessary 8 percent of the electorate in the township, and was checked by the Board of Elections, county commissioners said.

During the time zoning has been in effect, several businessmen have asked for permits to establish businesses, mostly trailer camps in Prairie Township, but all have been denied.

Prairie Township voted 686-to-639 in favor of rural zoning at the last November election when 16 of the 18 townships accepted the measure.

POLIO CASES REPORTED

Two new polio cases were reported in Franklin County yesterday, bringing this year's total to 41. Throughout Ohio 17 new cases were reported, jumping the total to 360.

N. Chase-av Residents Hold 12th Annual Picnic

"From fried chicken to bubble-gum" is the description given the food at the N. Chase-av Association picnic by Mrs. John Higgins, this year's secretary-treasurer. The twelfth annual outing of the residents on that street was held Saturday, Aug. 6 at Shelter House No. 3 along the river. Other officers for 1949 are: president, R. A. Herbster, 144 N. Chase-av, and vice-president, Ralph Trotter, 32 N. Chase-av.

Starting early in the afternoon, the picnic continued on until 10 p. m. Following the picnic supper to which everyone contributed, games and contests for all ages were featured. In the boys' games, Tommy Herbster and Jack Cannon won prizes for the wheelbarrow races. Both the bubble-gum-blowing contests and scrambling for pennies were won by Cherry Cannon.

Don Best won the men's contest while Mrs. Harry Barker and Mrs. Ralph Trotter were awarded prizes in the women's races.

Door prizes were also given out during the evening. The first three and their winners were: an electric bean pot, Harry Parker; a Cory Coffee Maker, Mrs. Cannon; and five dollars worth of merchandise, donated by the Hilltop Merchants, won by Kenneth Bloom.

A business meeting and election of officers were held. Those chosen to take charge of next year's picnic are: president, Vernon Chute, 142 N. Chase-av; vice-president, Ralph Trotter, 32 N. Chase-av and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harry H. Parker, 173 N. Chase-av.

The yearly event was started in 1938 by Mrs. Jake Looker, the oldest residents to attend the picnic. W. P. Oliver, 58 N. Chase-av, the first to live on the street, was elected first president.

Eighty-five people attended the first picnic. In 1940, the peak year so far, 116 attended.

County Fair Starts Tues. At Hilliards

Thirteen separate departments have been set up to handle exhibits and entertainment when the Franklin County Fair gets under way at Hilliards Tuesday.

Members of this year's fair board are Ray Van Schoyck, president, Arch A. Adler, secretary, and C. H. O'Brien, treasurer.

Midway attractions will include dealers' exhibits, farm produce exhibits, 4-H Club vocational agriculture exhibits, square dancing, and amusement rides.

Harness racing and horse shows will be big attractions at the five-day fair. Races will be held on three afternoons and two evenings. Races will be run on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, post time being 2 p. m. The horses will go to the post on Thursday and Friday at 8 p. m. for racing under the lights.

Racing officials will be Briggs Mercer, starter; Bailey Bradley, presiding judge; and Roy Pavey, Christie Hayes and Ross Forest, timers. Purses will total $10,000.

Both English and Western horse shows will be held at the fair. The English Horse Show is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday. The Western Horse Show and amateur rodeo will be presented on Saturday afternoon and evening.

Anniversary of VJ Day Calls To Mind Hilltop Family Held by Japs

An aniversary of any occasion is likely to make people think back to just what happened to them on that day. Every Pearl Harbor day takes people's thoughts back to what they were doing on that fateful December day.

Next Monday is the fourth anniversary of the end of World War II. Perhaps many people will wonder what has happened to the Howard Schleieths during these past four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schliereth and their two children were the Hilltop residents captured by the Japanese in Manila at the outbreak of the war. For three years they were kept prisoner in the Santa Tomas Internment Camp.

Their rescue came early in 1945 when the 37th Division took Manila. Thin and half-starved, they were among the first liberated civilians to reach this country.

Their daughter, Linda, then only five years old, saw her grandparents for the first time.

Shortly after the war Mr. Schliereth returned to Manila to help in reconstruction work being done by the Standard Oil Co. Later he returned to the United States and took his family to New York to live.

The Schliereth family last visited Columbus last summer. Mr. Schliereth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Schliereth, reside at 247 S. Terrace-av.

The Schliereth family has recovered from the effects of their imprisonment. Son Hewitt is 13 and Linda is nine now, and they are healthy and happy as children should be.

Perhaps when the anniversary of VJ day is celebrated next week their thoughts will return to the days in Santa Tomas prison, but it will be only for an instant, because it is a time of their lives that they would like to forget.

New Library Contract Is Granted

The construction contract for the new Hilltop Branch Library was awarded to College [illegible] Homes, Inc., of 2487 Wellesley-dr, Tuesday.

The Columbus Public Library board of trustees reported that the building firm's bid of $47,653 was the lowest of seven bids made.

Starting date for work on the structure, which will be located on the southeast corner of Brust-st and Binns-blvd, has not yet been decided.

The branch library will be a one-story brick building with a flat roof. A low lined, modern structure, it was designed by Architect Harry T. Roderick. It will consist of one large reading room and several supplementary small office rooms. The frontage of the building will be 72 feet and the depth 48 feet.

The building will replace the old branch library at 31 N. Hague-av. It will be the first branch library to be built and owned by the Columbus Public Library. The old library, in rented quarters, was opened in October, 1928.

Wayne-av Man Injured In Crash

Milton McDonald, 37, of 145 N. Wayne-av, suffered a fractured left arm Tuesday night when his auto figured in a three-car collision in Rt. 3, a mile south of Harrisburg, in which two other persons were injured, the State Highway Patrol reported. McDonald was treated at White Cross Hospital.

The driver of another auto, James Lloyd Crawford, 50, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Crawford, 24, both of Orient, suffered possible skull fractures. They were treated by a physician.

Whitethorne Ave. Church of God Bldg. To be Done in Sept.; Parsonage Finished

Architect's drawing of the new Hilltop Church of God on Whitethorne-av.

New Congregation Buys Old Church At Wayne-Pomola

Rev. O. G. McClure of the Hilltop Church of God announced today that the new church building on Whitethorne-av between Safford and Homewood-avs will probably be completed near the end of September.

The new parsonage, adjoining the church, has already been completed. It is a modern six-room home of stucco construction. Rev. McClure, his wife and two children are occupying the home now.

The new church will be a two-story building with basement. Services will be held in a large room on the first floor. The building will be 31x63 feet and of stucco construction. Plans have been made for the addition of an auditorium at a later date, giving the building an L shape. Upon construction of the auditorium, the rest of the building will be used for meetings and recreational and educational purposes.

George J. Stegmiller was the architect for the new building and construction is being done by the S. Z. Neff Co. Estimated cost of the church is $45,000.

Rev. McClure has been pastor of the local church since May, coming here from Lafayette, Ind. The McClures have two children, Glen Eugene, age seven years and Wilma Esther who is 20 months old.

The old church building at Wayne and Pomola has been sold to the congregation of Rev. Patrick Herd of the Church of God.

Rev. Herd and his wife have their parsonage at 91 S. Oakley-av and have been holding services in a rented building at 3319 Sullivant-av.

Rev. Herd said that he hoped to hold the first services at the new location on the first Sunday in Oct. A rededication program is being planned for that day.

Rev. Herd came to Columbus four years ago from Chicago. He had formerly served here from 1931 until 1936.

D. C. Finneran Is Legion District Head

D. C. Finneran, 211 S. Eureka-av, was installed as commander of District 12 of the American Legion at the recent state convention held in Columbus. Mr. Finneran named as his adjutant, William E. Boothe, 58 Haldy-av.

He also announced that the 1950 membership drive of the Camp Chase Post would officially get under way on Sept. 1. He added that 1950 membership cards were already available at the post for any veterans of World Wars I or II who wish to join the Legion.

The Camp Chase Post was represented by eight delegates and eight alternates at the state convention. Post headquarters during the convention were in the Neil House.

Bruce Henderson, World War II veteran of Warren, was elected state commander.

Winners in the Record misspelled word contest pose above with their prizes of beans. They are from left to right: Mrs. C. A. Miner, 277 S. Westgate-av, third prize winner of five pounds of navy beans; Howard Merriman, 44 S. Sylvan-av, first prize winner of one case of baked beans and an 8x10 portrait by J. Curtis Allen; and Mrs. Walter W. Curlis, 300 S. Hague-av, second prize winner of 12 cans of baked beans and the free cleaning of a suit or dress by the Reliable Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co.

By Myron T. Seifert

A unique hobby among 40,000 Hilltoppers is the activity of Norman C. Line, 188 S. Southampton-av. Cost accountant with the Kinnear Manufacturing Co., Mr. Line, after a day's work of wrestling with dollars and cents marks, eagerly repairs to his basement where he has set up his unusual wood-making laboratory.

Here is carried on the manufacture of a naive yet extraordinary product, used to embellish the attractive front lawn at the Line homestead.

Walt Disney's creations have nothing on Norman Line, since his character interpretations, which adorn his lawn, are highly colorful and attractive, especially to the neighborhood children and motorists who pass by.

His front yard carries the story, in pastel shades, of many cycles of the year. In fact, it is a veritable almanac of seasonal changes.

By observing the colorful figures in Line's yard from time to time, the children learn the various holidays and seasons of the year.

The characters seen are always accompanied by his house number, 188.

"I started the hobby principally for the enjoyment of my children, two years ago," said Mr. Line. Since that time he has made a large number of these miniature character number markers.

With a background of draftsmanship training, Line sets to work mentally blue-printing his objects, processes his lumber, cuts them to the desired shape on his jig-saw, and finally, artist that he is, decorates the wood with pastel shades of outdoor paint.

"Folks comment on the character, as they pass by, and frequently drop in to inquire about them," Line said.

Hours and hours are spent—and well spent—on these decorative objects. If for no other purpose than to amuse the neighborhood children, the project repays Line for his efforts.

Take, for example, his patriotic shield, with red and white stripes, a blue field with stars at the top, and holders for five American silk flags in a fan shape. It probably has no equal in Columbus for simplicity of purpose and originality in house number posts, and can be staked in the Line yard on any patriotic holiday. The flags waving in the breeze, with their colorful designs, attract immediate attention.

For St. Valentine's day a red heart, with peripheral white lace designs, is put out. Come Easter, a bunny, carying a huge basket of colorful eggs, is employed. April showers are delineated on the sign-post by a girl and boy carrying an umbrella.

At mid-winter, a snow man;

Voters Defeat Finance Director Amendment 3-2

A near-record number of voters for a primary election defeated the finance director amendment to the city charter by a substantial majority Tuesday. The number of votes for the amendment was 13,963; 19,651 votes were cast against it.

Charles A. Jones, president of Citizen's Research, sponsors of the bill, said that his group would continue to campaign for acceptance of the plan.

In the city council race the three Republican incumbents polled the largest number of votes. Council President Joseph R. Jones led the race with 16,732 votes. Henry A. Koontz and O. J. Fillinger followed in that order.

Democratic opponents of the three councilmen in November will be Walter A. Shott, Jr., John S. Bowers, and William H. Brooks.

Richard W. Gordon and Henry W. Holden were nominated in the city attorney race. George E. Tyack, receiving the least votes, was eliminated.

None was eliminated in the city auditor and municipal judge races.

Although the city ballot is non-partisan the November race will have a Republican and a Democrat competing for each office to be filled.

New Snack Bar To Open Saturday

The grand opening of Weber's Snack Bar at 780 W. Town-st Saturday will be the beginning of the second Weber Snack Bar near Columbus hospitals.

George Weber, proprietor, said that the new snack bar and the one on State-st near Grant and St. Francis Hospitals provides a handy place for people to drop in who are visiting sick friends or relatives. (He didn't say how many dishes have been broken by expectant fathers.)

The proprietor has lived on the Hilltop for 17 years. He has been employed by the Coca Cola and Schille bottling companies. He served two years in the army, spending 15 months overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber reside at 2255 W. Broad-st.

Charles Self Identified As Train Victim

A man found dead by the B and O siding along Nace-av, was identified yesterday as Charles Self, 55, a barber of 107 Sullivant-av.

Police Capt. Howard Hinton said that Self was apparently struck by a freight train.

Hinton said Self was last seen by his family Tuesday evening when he left the house to get cigarets. He had been in ill health since an operation last December.

The victim's wife said he had returned from locking her beauty shop in Sullivant-av and, said he was going after cigarets. The family said he was not in the habit of walking along the railroad tracks.

The body, severed at the chest, was discovered shortly before 6:30 a. m. by Glen Friley, 407 Nace-av, just south of the Sullivant-av overhead. Sgt. Cecil Stevenson and Patrolman Ray McClain said the victim was dragged about 500 feet.

Funeral services will be completed by the Chamberlain Funeral Home.

Surviving Mr. Self are his wife, Gladys; two sons, Gene and Robert; and two brothers, Harold of Mt. Sterling and Emmett of Columbus.

Hilltop Bowling Alleys Will Open Tonight

The newly decorated bowling alleys at the Hilltop Recreation, 2419 W. Broad-st, will reopen for the coming '49-'50 season tonight. Quite a change has been made in the alleys since July 6 when they closed. To the dimly lighted approaches and alleys there has been added bright and evenly distributed lighting by the installment of fluorescent lights over the alleys themselves and the approaches.

New wood in the approaches, front half of the alleys and around the spots will add to the efficiency of the alleys.

Rev. Shellhaas Officiates At Ceremony Which Unites Wilda Swain, Mr. Leach, July 31

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leach

Miss Wilda Jean Swain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Swain, 689 S. Ogden-av and Mr. Joseph Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Leach, 501 N. Main-st, Sharonville, O., exchanged marriage vows Sunday, July 31, at the Glenwood Methodist Church in a double ring ceremony. Dr. Joseph Shellhaas performed the ceremony at 1:30 p. m. before an altar decorated with ferns, white gladioli and seven-branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bridal dress of chantilly lace. It was fashioned with a snug bodice and small peter pan collar with soft covered buttons extending to the waist line. The full ballerina length skirt was edged in a deep band of nylon net. A halo hat of white misty veiling and white lace mitts completed her ensemble. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and white delphinium.

Maid of honor and only attendant for the bride was Miss Dorothy Ann Spohn, who wore a corresponding ballerina length dress of delphinium blue lace fashioned with a portrait neckline, cap sleeves and soft covered buttons extending to the waist line. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and light blue delphinium.

Mr. Robert Edwards served as best man, and Mr. Maynard Neville and Mr. Larry Samson seated the guests.

The bride will graduate from Ohio State University on Sept. 2. The bridegroom attended Ohio State prior to the war, but upon returning from the service entered the University of Cincinnati Law School. He was elected mayor of Sharonville two years ago.

Miss Patricia Saint Announces Date, Final Plans for Wedding to Mr. Donahue

Miss Patricia A. Saint

The final plans for the wedding of Miss Patricia A. Saint, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson B. Saint, 194 M. Hague-av, to Mr. Richard C. Donahue, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Donahue, 1425 Champion-av, are being announced by the bride-elect's parents.

The open church ceremony will be read Sept. 3 at 10 a. m. mass in Holy Cross Church, with the Rev. Father Linus Dury officiating.

The bride-to-be has asked her three sisters to serve as her attendants. Miss Sue Saint will be maid of honor, with Miss Margaret Saint and Miss Delores Saint as bridesmaids. Miss Clare Jean Inman of Dayton will serve as flower girl.

Mr. William Kaiser will act as best man for the bridegroom, while Mr. Bernard Saint, Mr. Howard Specht and Mr. Richard Albrecht will be ushers.

A wedding breakfast for 30 people will be held at the Southern Hotel immediately following the ceremony.

An evening reception for 200 guests will be held at the home of the bride's parents. Hostesses include Mrs. Dorothy Saint, Miss Linda Shelby and Mrs. Dorothy Glanzman.

Following the reception the couple will leave on a wedding trip, east.

Miss Saint is a graduate of West High School and is now associated with the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Mr. Donahue is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and is also associated with the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snouffer Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary With Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snouffer

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snouffer, 430 Binns-blvd, Hilltoppers for the past 19 years, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, Aug. 7, with open house.

Among the more than 100 guests who attended was Mrs. Snouffer's father, Mr. Albert Outcalt, 163 Southampton-av. The hostesses for the open house were Miss Marguerite Looe, Mrs. Paul Wilcox, Mrs. Walter Bock, all of Columbus, Mrs. Glenn Weygant, Ashand, Ky., and Mrs. Karl Patterson, Akron.

Mr. Snouffer is a salesman at the C. C. Robinson Co. at W. Broad-st and Wayne-av and Mrs. Snouffer has been a teacher at the Highland Avenue School for the past 16 years.

They were married in Third Avenue Church. Mr. Snouffer is originally from Linworth, while Mrs. Snouffer has been a Columbusite all her life. They have no children.

Easy Hospitality

By Betty Barclay

INFORMALITY is the theme for summer entertaining. Chances are, you may not be doing any entertaining at all except for those pleasant little interludes on hot afternoons and evenings when friends just drop in for a chat and to cool off. At such times, it is a very comfortable feeling to know that you can offer refreshment; and a very simple way to do it is always to have a full cooky jar on hand. Cookies are perfect for that "just something" to serve with a beverage. They are easy to make, too; and there is such variety in recipes. Here's one you'll love.

Chocolate Chip Cookies

1 cup sifted flour; ½ teaspoon soda; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ to ½ cup butter or other shortening; ½ cup granulated sugar; ¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed; 1 egg, well beaten; 1 package chocolate chips; ½ cup chopped nut meats; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift again. Cream shortening, add sugars gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 50 cookies.

Children's Party Treat

A shout goes up from the gathered guests. It's a children's party, and they've just discovered the dessert—Candy Ice Cream Cones!

Youngsters of any age will love the novelty of these Candy Cones. Peanut butter and marshmallows coat the puffed rice for a crunchy, yet easy to eat confection.

Mother will be delighted by the ease of preparation. No tricky candy syrup to watch; no long cooking period; just melt the marshmallows, mix the other ingredients and shape in custard cups. She can do this long before it's time for the party. Then just as she serves the cones, she fills them with the children's favorite ice cream and sprinkles shaved chocolate over the top.

Candy Cones

5 cups puffed rice
¼ cup margarine or butter
⅓ cup peanut butter
½ lb. marshmallows (about 32)
Ice Cream

Measure puffed rice into a shallow pan. Heat in a moderate oven (350°F.) 10 minutes. Pour puffed rice into a large greased bowl. Melt margarine, peanut butter and marshmallows in double boiler, stirring occasionally. Pour over puffed rice, stirring until puffed rice is evenly coated. Pack puffed rice mixture in bottom and on sides of greased custard cups leaving center part hollow to make a cone. Cool thoroughly. Remove cones from custard cups. Fill with ice cream. Makes 12 cones.

Have you had a pleasant summer so far? One with plenty of recreation and no recreational accidents? That's fine—keep it that way. Take a happy hint from the Safety Council—exercise common-sense caution in all your summertime activities, and by doing your relaxing without relaxing your safety-sense.

Unique Lawn Decorations Hobby Of Hilltop Man

Christmas, a Santa Claus; and many others.

Pastoral signs also have a part in lawn decorations; an old oaken-bucket, housed in a pagoda, is an example of a rustic figure observed.

A wide variety of plain numerical, colorful signs may also be seen from time to time.

At any rate, Mr. Line is having fun with his hobby, and a great number of folks are enjoying his panoramic changes from time to time.

He is a former student at Ohio State University; plans to return for more work there. He has been much interested in Boy Scout work.

Mr. and Mrs. Line, with their two children, Ronald, 7, and David, 2, are active in church work at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The people of the United States last year wasted 98,000 lives and $7,000,000,000 IN ACCIDENTS, reports the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. That was the cost of carelessness and indifference. Can YOU afford to take chances at work, at home, in public places, or when driving or walking on the roads and streets? Can you afford to have an accident?

Of all sad words in sound or ink,
The most painful are these: "I didn't think."

That's a reminder-rhyme from the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce to help you avoid taking chances or help you avoid taking chances absent-mindedly or impulsively.

All-Year-'Round Fish Treats

By ALICE DENHOFF

OUT of the ocean into the can, that's the story of year-round fish treats. A can or two of sardines, lobster, crabmeat or mackerel on the emergency shelf means the makings of a wonderful, a special seafood treat at any time of year.

Make ready, then, for a superb dish of scalloped lobster, just right for now since it is easily prepared. To serve 4, mix in the order given, 1½ c. cut up, canned lobster meat, one c. soft bread crumbs, one c. top milk, or thin cream, one well beaten egg, 2 tbsp. melted butter or margarine, ½ tsp. prepared mustard, tbsp. lemon juice, few drops onion juice, ½ tsp. salt (pepper, if desired). Place in greased baking dish; cover with buttered crumbs. Bake at 350 F. for 30 min. Nice, too, with canned crabmeat in lieu of lobster. A good Friday dish!

A Fish Loaf

Men who are apt only too often to turn thumbs down on a fish dish, will go for this one, a wonderful fish loaf. Flake one can mackerel; add ¾ c. each milk and bread-crumbs, ¼ c. coarsely chopped gherkins or pickle relish, 2 eggs, 1½ tsp. salt, 1½ tsp. melted butter or margarine. Mix well. Pack into greased loaf pan. Set in shallow pan of hot water; bake at 50 F. about 30 min., or until loaf becomes firm. Turn out onto hot platter. Add tsp. minced onion to 1½ c. medium white sauce and pour over loaf. Slice 2 hard-cooked eggs and arrange slices on top with a stuffed olive slice on each.

Use a can of crabmeat as the main ingredient of a delectable dish. Spanish Crabmeat starts off with 2 tbsp. butter or margarine melted over low heat. Then add one finely-shredded green pepper; saute gently, not browning. Combine 2 tbsp. flour, ½ tsp. [illegible], ¼ tsp. mustard or ¼ tsp. paprika; stir into saucepan, cooking and stirring over low heat until mixture is smooth and well blended. Gradually add ¾ c. scalded milk, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Remove from heat and add a little of the hot mixture to one beaten egg. Stir until well incorporated, then add egg mixture to first mixture, blending well. Stir in one c. grated cheese.

Meantime, heat one can tomato soup in a separate saucepan, and, when just at the boiling point, add to the thickened mixture, with one can crabmeat, flaked. Place the whole mixture over heat just long enough to heat through; do not boil! Serve at once over crackers or toast. Serves 6 to 8. If desired, grated cheese may be sprinkled over each serving, rather than adding ½ to the crabmeat mixture. This way, the quantity of cheese may be adjusted to individual taste.

BILL JACK, WORLD WAR II's LEGENDARY INDUSTRIALIST, LAUNCHES A NEW CAREER

SEE THAT JACK'S BUILDING—At right is new plant being built by William S. Jack at Solana Beach

By HAROLD KEEN
Central Press Correspondent

SOLANA BEACH, Cal.—Is Bill Jack, the retired Cleveland industrialist, on the threshold of a fabulous new career?

They are pondering that question today at this quiet little seashore community a few miles north of San Diego.

After Sept. 1, Solana Beach's solitude may forever be broken by the clangor of industrial machinery. For that is when William S. Jack, the dynamic wartime head of the fabulous Jack & Heintz company, expects his new factory to open.

Right now, Jack is quite secretive about the whole enterprise. All he will admit is that his new plant will do research and build prototypes of instruments to be used in supersonic Air Force and Navy planes. However, details are confidential.

After perfecting the instruments, Jack says he will turn them over to the military for parceling out production contracts elsewhere. He is more interested now in research than in production.

Nevertheless, Jack is going into his new venture on a scale large enough to employ 500 to 600 "associates," including topnotch engineers and toolmakers, at peak operations.

The 68-year-old, white-haired Jack is expected to project into his Solana Beach plant many of the "human engineering" principles which enabled his Cleveland precision instruments factory to set production records through highly unorthodox procedures in World War II.

SO UNORTHODOX were they that Jack was investigated by Washington committees, but came out unscathed.

In his Cleveland factory (where employes were known as "associates," not "workers"), the work week consisted of seven 12-hour days on two shifts. Time and a half was paid for overtime after eight hours.

Fantastic profit-sharing bonuses were paid at the end of the year, so that ordinary "associates" earned more than many high-powered business executives.

Music was piped into the plant. Time clocks were replaced by "wolf calls" from fellow workers to shame tardy employes into promptness. The company paid for lunches. All-expense vacations were provided at a Florida resort.

WILLIAM (BILL) JACK

"When other plants had 50 to 60 per cent absenteeism, I didn't have any," Jack said. "All I did was to treat those folk like people and furnish the leadership. They did the rest."

JACK HIMSELF worked from 16 to 22 hours a day. His health finally gave way. Bill was ordered by his doctor to quit. He sold out and two years ago came to San Diego county, where his brother, George Jack, has been a long-time resident.

In the ocean community of Rancho Santa Fe, near the Del Mar race track, Jack picked the site for his new home, amid picturesque rolling hills.

The house and its method of construction reflect Jack's fervor and sense of bigness. Although it has only two bedrooms and four other rooms, this Spanish ranch-house type of building is 184 feet long, and contains 7,800 square feet. Along its entire south side is a glass-enclosed patio.

A swimming pool is equipped with an electric heater, and water poured on electrically-heated stones in a Swedish bathhouse fills that building with steam. "I took these baths all through the war," Jack says. "I would take them any time of the day or night. I don't think I could have kept going without them."

He put 50 construction workers on the job to get the home finished in time to enjoy Christmas dinner there in 1947. On Thanksgiving, each worker was given a free turkey by Jack. This was unprecedented, but somehow the men took more interest in their jobs and Jack moved in as scheduled.

Despite his doctor's admonitions to lead an easy existence, Jack almost immediately plunged into plans for the research factory he is about to open.

DURING that Christmas of 1947, he received 9,000 cards and letters from former associates.

"They all wanted to come to California," Jack recalled. "They would write, 'For gosh sake, Bill, get going again and we'll make an industrial institution in Southern California that will make Jack and Heintz of Cleveland look sick."

Jack is extremely apprehensive of Russia. He believes war may not be far off. That's one of the reasons he is resuming military work.

If he applies to his Solana Beach plant some of his "human engineering" principles which many termed fantastic during World War II, the taxpayers need not worry, says Jack.

"In Cleveland, although we gave away life insurance and hospitalization policies, provided shoes, dental and medical care, free food, vitamin pills, bonuses, watches for Christmas, and so on, in addition to the prevailing wages, we undersold our competitors through stimulated production," Jack explains.

A former organizer for the International Association of Machinists, Jack insists that what was done in Cleveland could be performed by management anywhere. He also has a word of warning to organized labor.

"Labor has done many things to retard production and if it does not change a course that hasn't the approval of the taxpayers, the government or the employers it is headed for one of the most disastrous depressions it ever had," Jack says.

"If labor organizations try to teach members to give an honest day's work instead of doing as little as they can, they will be helping instead of retarding."

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Four days filled with pleasure in Sussex came to an end this morning when the quartet loaded their belongings into the little Austin and started for London.

Thursday, June 9

This time our route was north and west through Chingford and Enfield to Barnet where we were to see Gladys Rees.

Through the village of Monken Hadley we were constantly expressing surprise at the beautiful homes and large gardens. At the edge of the village we passed through toll-gates, now unused except occasionally when cattle are in the surrounding fields. This was the beginning of Hadley Common, a great tract of land given to the local church several hundred years ago for use by local residents as a place for pasturing their cattle. Beyond the Common we came to Hadley Church and the Rectory.

We were escorted all through this fine old mansion which we thought must be as old as the church, nearly 600 years, but learned later that this house is new, being only a little over 100 years old.

The Rev. Nicholls came in soon after we arrived.

Violet and I were taken for a personally conducted tour of the 600 year old Hadley church with the Rev. Nicholls as the conductor.

The Rectory told us the history of the building and pointed out a stone which showed the building to have been rebuilt in 1343. Evidently it had been partially destroyed during the Reformation. He pointed out the Alms House adjoining the Church and dating back into the centuries where the poor of the parish are cared for, from the proceeds of gifts given to the church hundreds of years ago.

Later we went out ot the gardens for a look around before getting into the car for the homeward drive.

Saturday, June 11

To begin our Irish holiday, we were to leave Euston Station at 8:15. To get to the station, coupled with the fact that we could not book any seats on the crowded Irish Mail, meant that we had to get up at 5:30.

On this train ride we discovered that the wide panorama windows have one drawback. Above each window is a sliding panel to allow for ventilation. It lets in more than enough cool air to chill the thin-blooded Americans. It also lets in all the smoke and soot collected in the frequent tunnels of the route to Holyhead.

The ride to Holyhead brought many new adventures and new scenes. For instance, there was the experience of having 10:00 coffee and cake served to us in our seats. Then there was the adventure of the noon dinner in the restaurant car with the warmed over food served by an aislefull of polite waiters.

On the scenic side were the many streams which seem to stroll along the meadow fields instead of riverbeds. As we were eating our lunch we suddenly saw a large body of water along which we began to travel. Then we saw a railway station sign which stated that this was Rhyl. We realized then that we were in Wales for the first time and that today would be the first time in our lives that we would be in three different countries in one day—England, Wales and Ireland.

As we rode on, twisting our necks to watch the mountains and rural cottages on one side and the widening sea on the other, another sign told us that this beautiful scene was Colwyn Bay.

Having passed through Crewe and Chester, we arrived at the Holyhead pier at 3:30 ready to find out how rough the Irish Sea could be. Passports and British Customs took a considerable time before the boat, the new Cambria, could get on its way. This was the first time we have had to go through customs upon leaving a country.

The remainder of the trip was one of absolutely smooth sailing until at seven o'clock we docked at Kingstown, Ireland.

Had anyone told us our eyes could have been opened any wider by strange sights any more than they have been during the past three weeks, we would not have believed them. First came a more leisurely way of doing things than is evident even in leisurely Britain. Then came the train to Dublin with its compartments extending crosswise of the cars and in which passengers are locked from the time they first get in until they are released at their destination.

The station at Dublin was a smell and a sight to remember as well as was the marvelous view across what we thought was Dublin Bay. Lined up along the platforms to pick up passengers as they left the trains was a complete array of old-fashioned cabs and equally old-fashioned cabbies. They were not there for the tourist trade but were a regular part of the daily business. The smell of horses was far stronger than were the fumes from taxicabs parked in the rear of the horsedrawn vehicles.

The Sherbourne Hotel, opposite St. Stephens Green, was our stopping place for the night. It proved to be an adventure in old-fashioned fine living. Although this is a large and busy hotel, there was no room clerk to take our registrations. Eventually someone came and we were conducted to our rooms via a waterpower elevator which operates by pulling a rope. To get out of the elevator required the opening of swing gates instead of the familiar sliding door. Once in our room we found one of the largest, most completely equipped and most comfortable hotel rooms we have ever been in.

By the time we had all scrubbed the British train soot from our faces we just had time enough to get into the dining-room before the 9:00 closing time. This was a great and stately dining-room, most homelike in its appearance and atmosphere and most formal with its waiters dressed in tailed evening suits. It was most exciting when Tom discovered the steak she had ordered was nearly a foot long and Violet found out that roast duroes are served in partial original feathering.

FIRST OIL WELL DRILLED NINETY YEARS AGO BEGAN INDUSTRY THAT REVOLUTIONIZED LIFE

TANK CARS, 1865 STYLE—Two big vats in the flat car, introduced in 1865, carried a total of 1,000 gallons. Today's big cylindrical tank cars can each carry 10,000 gallons of oil much further and faster.

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Edwin Laurentine Drake successfully drilled the first oil well in the world on August 27, 1859, near western Pennsylvania's backwoods town of Titusville.

Ninety years later you find Americans using 5,907,000 barrels of oil products every single day, and oil production greater than at any time in the nine decades since William A. (Uncle Billy) Smith, a blacksmith, rushed up to Drake and shouted, "You've struck ile, sir!"

Drake's discovery that oil could be obtained in vast quantities by drilling made him the "father" of the world's petroleum industry.

You can judge the importance and scope of that industry when you realize that in 1948 world production of crude oil was 5,414,194,000 barrels. The United States produced 59 per cent, or 2,016,806,000 barrels.

The 2,000,000 persons who work for the 24,000 separate enterprises that are part of the petroleum industry are more than are employed by any other industry except agriculture.

Drake did not discover petroleum, of course, because it had been known since 4,000 B. C. No one had ever drilled a well, however, to tap it in large quantities.

Noah's Ark was supposed to have been covered inside and out with pitch. Asphalt was used to make the cradle of Moses watertight, and as mortar in the famous Tower of Babel, Solomon's Temple, and other ancient structures.

FATHER de la Roche d'Allion, a Franciscan missionary, as early as 1627 mentioned an oil spring near Cuba, N. Y. Indians on this continent used oil in religious ceremonies, in paint, and as a medicine before Columbus. Oil pits found in Pennsylvania near the original Drake well were believed made by some extinct people, perhaps Mound Builders.

A salt well dug in Kentucky in 1829 struck an oil reservoir. The petroleum flowed into the Cumberland river, caught fire, and flamed for 50 miles down the river.

In 1849, Samuel M. Kier, a druggist at Pittsburgh, started selling "Petroleum or Rock Oil." He sold about 1,000 barrels a year at 50 cents a half-pint as a cure-all medicine.

Three teaspoonsful twice daily were supposed to cure rheumatism, consumption, cholera morbus, liver complaint, and other ailments of the time. Oil was skimmed from springs or obtained from salt wells.

One of the urgent needs a century ago was for illuminating oil to replace beeswax and tallow candles and the whale-oil lamps. James Young of Scotland patented a process in 1850 for distilling "coal oil" from oil shale and coal. Four years later Dr. Abraham Gesner patented a similar product he called "Kerosene."

By 1859 when Drake struck oil nearly 60 "coal oil" refineries and distilleries in the United States were producing illuminating oil from coal and oil shale.

When Drake's well proved that oil could be obtained by drilling, the nation realized at once oil's practical value. "Black gold" booms started. Derricks sprang up, and America and the world entered the oil age simultaneously with the outbreak of the Civil war.

IN 1865 Drake's well and others that sprang up in the vicinity produced about 500,000 barrels. They were in a wilderness, however, 30 miles from a railroad. How to get the oil out became a major problem.

A wagon train that at one time had 6,000 two-horse teams and wagons hauled the crude oil from wells to streams where it could be loaded on flat-bottomed barges. That meant 48,000 hoofs and 24,000 wheels to churn dirt roads into mud-pools where horses mired, loads stranded, and wheels and axles broke.

Spring floods raging in creeks and rivers cost numerous lives, and 1,000,000 barrels of oil were lost on Oil Creek and the Allegheny river.

A five-mile pipeline of two-inch wrought iron tubing carried up to 800 barrels of oil a day in 1865—the start of the 150,000 miles of pipeline we have today.

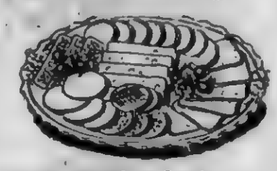
TWO WOODEN VATS on a flat car in 1865 were the first tank cars on railroads. Each car would carry about 1,800 gallons. America's more than 103,000 petroleum tank cars today can each haul from 4,000 to 12,000 gallons, and many of the 147,000 tank trucks and tank trailers can carry 7,000 gallons or more.



Two years after Drake struck oil, the first transoceanic shipment of oil was made; five barrels sent from Philadelphia to London. Today the United States has nearly 900 ocean-going tankers, each capable of carrying at least 2,000 tons of oil. Some carry 200,000 barrels, and others will soon carry 300,000 barrels.

Scientific research has enabled the petroleum industry to produce more than 1,200 petroleum products from the crude oil that 90 years ago yielded only illuminating oil.

The petroleum industry, according to the American Petroleum Institute, spends about $100,000,000 annually on research, employing 15,000 highly skilled workers to discover new things about this fluid from the earth that gives mankind power and enables him to ride in speedy vehicles on land, sea, and air.

Brazil, Here We Come

By HELEN LANGWORTHY

"ISN'T IT just too wonderful?" Jean breathed. She looked the picture of complete young happiness sitting across the dinner table from her family making plans with Petey for their South American honeymoon.

Doris Walters looked at her daughter's smiling face and murmured, "But Jean, don't you remember you were going to college? After all, you're only 17!"

"What if!" Jean turned up an impudent nose at her mother. "We don't need college, do we, Petey?"

"Not you and I—to Brazil," Petey answered. His hand closed over Jean's.

Jean's father spoke for the first time since the news explosion. "Are

"We've going on a cattle boat. I've made inquiries and we'll leave New York four weeks from today."

you doing to fly to Brazil?" he asked, big.

"Nope." Petey throttled their plans. "We're going on a cattle boat. I've made inquiries and we'll leave New York four weeks from today."

"A slow cattle boat! It's so romantic!" Jean leaned forward to flash a bright smile at them.

Jean and Petey had barely clumbed in Petey's jalopy before Doris Walters turned to her husband with outflung hands.

"What will we do to stop them?" She practically implored it.

For answer Mr. Walters laughed. He roared with laughter.

"I don't see anything funny about it, our baby, marrying at 17 . . ."

Doris choked on the words.

"Don't go dramatic on me," Mr. Walters said still chuckling. "A cattle boat—romantic! Wait 'til Jean gets one whiff!"

"You didn't say a solitary thing to stop them," Doris protested.

"I know Jean too well, Mr. Walters took the last piece of cake from the plate. "Tie her up, chain her, put her in prison and Jean would bust the walls to marry Petey."

Doris began washing the dishes with considerable noise. "But what will we do!"

"I'd be willing to bet my life something will stop them," Mr. Walters answered reaching for a dill pickle.

"Then you've a plan?" Doris was eager.

"Not the ghost of an idea!" Mr. Walter's tone was finality itself. "Just a hunch."

"You might write a story," Mr. Walters suggested quietly.

Doris dropped a pan noisily. She had written stories for years and somehow managed to clarify some of Jean's behavior problems in the past with the stories she had "happened" to write. But this situation was beyond stories.

As the days became weeks Doris admitted herself stumped.

Mr. Walters no longer laughed. Doris didn't know whether it made her feel better or worse to see him aware of the situation.

"I still say you could write a story," he said finally.

"All right. I will." Doris said, tight lipped. So that was the stuff he based his hunches on.

She put her heart into that poem. Since it wouldn't do to have the situation entirely parallel, Doris built here around a young fellow taking a cattle boat to Guatemala. Doris pored over her dictionary for words to describe how smelly, how dirty and agonizingly slow that boat travelled. She concentrated on synonyms of smelly. It was quite a tale.

Very casually Doris left the room where Jean would see it. Perhaps—! Jean sandwiched the story between telephone calls to Petey and fittings for her — heaven forbid! — going-away suit.

Afterwards Jean sat very still, her eyes gone glassy. Her comment was a wry, "That wasn't exactly a dream boat."

Petey called them and wanted Jean to go with him down to the drug store for a hamburger. Slander of Whitman! "I—I don't think I could eat a hamburger," Jean protested.

Doris smiled grimly to herself. It might work.

Petey spoiled it all. He drove up in his new convertible carrying a sack of d.-nuts. Petey and food! There was a new man with him. Doris craned her neck for a quick look as eagerly as Jean had before the new era happened. A new hope was already forming in Doris' mind. New man, a new thrill, would it, could it help?

Petey introduced the new boy around as Karl, his cousin.

Two days before the fateful day the hunch had not come off. Mr. Walter's usual grin was wearing a little thin on the corners. Doris was preparing dinner for Jean, Karl and Petey.

When the meal was ready, Doris whispered an angry "Your hunch!" to Jean's father as he went to call the young people. A moment later he was straightening Petey's tie, flicking imaginary dust from Petey's shoulder. Why this great show of palsy-walsy business, Doris wondered.

She was still tossing at midnight when Jean crept upstairs and whispered, "Moth-er," plaintively. There was a quiet urgency in Jean's tone.

Doris hurried down stairs, went to the refrigerator to make cocoa. Something had happened, she knew, it was going to take time for Jean to tell it.

Finally, she said it in a rush of words, "It's all off—Petey and me."

Doris wanted to laugh, dance, clap that it had come about. Jean's woebegone face warned her in time.

"It was this," Jean held out a very rumpled handkerchief to her mother. It was Petey's and in one corner were two very exact lip prints. They were small, the color a vivid scarlet, and somehow suggestive of a petite dark cutie.

"It wouldn't be so bad if he told me about her." Jean swallowed. "But he insisted he doesn't know."

Doris picked up the tattle tale evidence for further inspection. Jean yawned and seemed to look far into the future. "I'm going to the show with Karl tomorrow. Isn't he smooth?" she asked. "Did you notice him looking at me all the time?"

Then Doris saw something that made her eyes widen. It was a laundry mark on the handkerchief. The name was "Walters." She remembered then; his chummy flash over Petey before the meal. He had planted his hunch well.

Jean started up the stairs humming a dance tune. "Don't lose the hank," she called back. "I'll put with my souvenirs."

"O. K." Doris called to her. She knew that before morning she would have "lost" the handkerchief, however.

"I just can't wait 'til tomorrow night," Jean's voice floated down.

Vegetables Are More Unusual If You Serve Them on Toast

By ALICE DENHOFF

VEGETABLES galore are in our markets, a nice consolation for those of us who can't go gardenwards and pluck a few tomatoes, radishes or beet greens, or pull up crisp, green lettuce.

To add even further value to vegetables, combine them with bread or serve them with toast. While green, red and yellow vegetables are rich in vitamins, they are low or lacking entirely in the food elements that supply energy. When you have leftover cooked vegetables you can [illegible] them for another meal by scalloping them with bread crumbs, making for a nice luncheon or supper main course.

Vegetables on Toast

Creamed mixed vegetables, served between rounds of buttered toast, short cake fashion, is a pleasing addition to the menu, and a good way of taking care of folks that won't eat vegetables or salads.

To serve 6, wash 2 bunches each radishes and scallions, remove tops and roots. Cook radishes and scallions separately in boiling salted water until tender—about 15-20 min. Drain. Wipe and slice ½ lb. mushrooms; saute in 2 tbsp. butter for 5 min. Combine mushrooms, scallions and radishes with 2½ c. white sauce; heat. With large biscuit cutter, cut rounds from freshly-made, buttered toast. For each serving, put 2 rounds together, short-cake style, with creamed vegetables between. Sprinkle top very lightly with curry powder or paprika.

A Tomato Dish

For a different tomato dish remove stem ends and cut 3-4 tomatoes crosswise in one-inch thick slices. Dip slices in flour, seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown quickly on both sides in shortening in frying pan. Remove from pan and keep warm. Blend one tbsp. flour with tbsp. brown sugar in shortening left in frying pan. Add ¾ c. milk; cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Pour over slices of freshly-made and buttered toast. Top with hot fried tomato slices and garnish with curls of crisply broiled bacon. Serves 6.

Beet Green Fondue makes use of healthful beet tops, only too often discarded and ignored. To serve 4-6, beat an egg and to it add 1½ c. milk, 1½ c. fine dry bread crumbs, one c. finely chopped, cooked beet greens, 2 tbsp. melted butter, salt and pepper to taste. Mix lightly and transfer to greased baking dish. Dot top with tbsp. butter. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake at 375 F. for 40 min.

Motorists—always drive at such a speed that you will be able to protect yourself from the other guy who is NOT smart enough to observe the limits of carefulness. The Safety Council reminds you:

Speed's a killer Stay alive!
Take it easy when you drive!

Your golf course has hazards—quite a few.

So, why make getting there full of 'em, too?

Bad driving on golf links may lose a few strokes;

On the road it may KILL you—[illegible]

Cutting A Good Figure

By BETTY BARCLAY

How to reduce is an all-important subject of conversation among females young and old. And what you eat is the most important factor in reducing.

But here's one suggestion for reducing that may not have occurred to you. For one of the two main meals of the day sit down to a bowlful of crisp, crunchy cereal with whatever luscious fresh fruit you can find in the market. Enjoy this combination with plenty of milk and a modest amount of brown sugar, with a slice of whole wheat bread or toast. Very little butter. Not too many calories here, but plenty of vitamins! Yet you'll find it satisfying. Good, too. The brown sugar adds a flavor all its own, which is new and different on cereals. Do this for the rest of the warm weather — seriously but with verve — and you will be pleased and amazed at the results. Of course, this does not mean to crowd other meals with fattening foods. Go easy on butter, take no heavy cream, gravy, rich sauces or desserts.

To carry out this plan, have a variety of ready-to-eat cereals on hand. (There is a company which puts out a carton of ten which includes seven popular varieties, all in individual sizes). At this time of the year you can feature the fresh fruits that are in season and find real enjoyment in a tasty Toasties luncheon with fresh berries, or Grape Nuts with sliced fresh peaches.

But best of all, the results will be pleasing — especially to those teen-agers to whom cutting a good figure spells popularity. For a simple but satisfying meal such as this, instead of one of your regular meals containing many calories, will take off weight and add waistline comfort.

One of the best safety features of any car is common courtesy behind the wheel. The Safety Council points out that courtesy doesn't mean tipping your hat to lady drivers. It means tipping your headlight beam to all drivers you meet at night. It also means driving in the proper lane . . . signaling your intention to stop or turn . . . and controlling that urge to grab the right-of-way at intersections. Drive always as you would have the other fellow drive.

THE OLD HOME TOWN — By STANLEY

Traffic Injuries Are Fatal To Mrs. Grace Baker

Mrs. Grace Baker, 68, of 3475 Rosedale-av, died Monday afternoon in Mt. Carmel Hospital of injuries suffered May 26 in a truck-auto collision at Rich-st and Glenwood-av.

Her husband, William Joseph, 66, driver of the truck in which they were riding, died May 28 of injuries from the accident.

According to police, Mr. Baker was attempting to make a left turn when he collided with an auto driven by Raymond C. Evans, 23, of 1090 Sullivant-av. Both Mr. Baker and his wife were thrown from the truck.

Surviving Mrs. Baker are a son, Russell; a brother, Henry Widener of Lancaster and several nieces and nephews.

Frank Smith Funeral Home, Lancaster, is in charge of funeral arrangements.

The Safety Council reminds the strictly summer athlete: Your middle-aged heart, lungs and muscles can't do the super-stunts they did when you were a school champ. Don't try to test your limits. Take your golf, tennis and swimming in reasonable doses. Take it easy on the strenuous heroics in summer ball games and picnic games. Adapt your age to yourself and have a good time for a long time.

August is a peak month for drownings, warns the Safety Council. Don't overestimate your strength and ability . . . Don't take needless chances of any kind in the water. Do teach your children to swim well and safely.

Favorite Chinese Recipes

By ALICE DENHOFF

THERE'S no end to the variety of food stuffs, processed, ready-to-cook, frozen and canned now available at your favorite store.

For instance, favorite Chinese dishes may be made easily and economically at home because so many of the exotic vegetables associated with these recipes are now being canned. The chop suey food industry in this country now has an interesting line of foods that includes: chop suey, chow mein, mixed Chinese vegetables, bean sprouts, bamboo shoots and crisp Chinese noodles. So what with the soy sauce and bead molasses on the market, too, the flavorings so popular in many Chinese dishes are readily available.

Meatless chop suey and chow mein are ready for use straight from the can. The contents need only be heated and served with Chinese noodles or rice.

Own Version

Cooks who prefer their own version of chop suey will still find a big share of the preparation job done for them by purchasing a can of mixed Chinese or chop suey vegetables. To these vegetables, add additional celery, onions, meat or fish and a soy sauce flavoring. Bean sprouts are a sizable can pack these days. The sprouts are grown from mung beans now so widely produced in our own states—Oklahoma being the leading producer. These transparent fiber-free sprouts while best known in Chinese cookery, lend themselves to our own cookery. They go beautifully when mixed raw with fruit or vegetable salads, are good fried as a side dish with steak or hamburger and add something new when used in omelets, scrambled eggs or stews. Besides their unique, delicious flavor, bean sprouts contribute vitamins C, B and A, important minerals and energy food values to the diet.

Tuna Fish Chop Suey or Chow Mein offers something different from the usual fare. To prepare 4 generous servings, cut fine enough onions for one c.; saute in ¼ c. butter or margarine (without browning or burning) for 2 min. Add 1½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 2 c. finely cut celery and ½ c. hot water. Cover and cook for 5 min. Add 7-oz. can tuna fish scalded in hot water drained, and broken into small pieces. Add a Number 2 can bean sprouts (drained) or a Number 2 can mixed chop suey vegetables. Heat thoroughly. Combine and add ¼ c. cold water, one tbsp. cornstarch, tbsp. soy sauce and tsp. sugar. Stir lightly and cook for 5 min. Serve over cooked rice for chop suey or over noodles for chow mein.

Record Want Ad Succeeds Where Other Failed

Mrs. Walter Knapp, 289 Leon-av, has learned—the hard way—that Record want ads are the best medium with which to sell merchandise, after all.

She advertised her upright piano for one week in a daily paper. Cost: $7. Result: No sale.

Belatedly she decided to try the Record ads. Cost: 35c. Result: The piano was sold after one insertion of the ad.

Don't just take our word for it, Hilltoppers: find out for yourself that Record want ads will serve you well—and at lower cost. Then spread the good news to your friends and neighbors. We'll be waiting to hear from you. Just call RA. 1125.

You'll find the best buys in the Record ads every week.

Lectures Planned By Church

Five Day Series To Be Held At Church of Christ

Beginning Monday night, Aug. 15, Hilltop residents are invited to attend a series of lectures at the Church of Christ, 3361 W. Broad-st. According to the local minister, Rev. T. W. Butterfield, hundreds of visitors from Ohio and West Virginia are expected to attend the lectures.

During the last three years the lectures have been held at Marietta, O., Parkersburg, W. Va., and Paden City, W. Va. This year they are being sponsored by four churches of Christ in Columbus.

The program committee is composed of Ted Waller, minister of the Seventh Avenue Church of Christ; Raymond Norris, minister of the Cleveland Avenue Church of Christ; Carl E. Finley, minister of the Oakwood Church of Christ; and T. W. Buterfield of the West Broad Street Church.

The public is urged to attend the lectures and avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing what the Church of Christ believes and teaches. No charge is being made and no collections will be taken at any service. The program follows:

Monday—

7:30 p. m.—"Fifty Years as a Gospel Preacher", H. W. Bankes, Alliance.

Tuesday—

10 a. m. — "The Church and Weak Members" — William Hull,

2:30 p. m.—"Differences Between the Church of Christ and the Christian Church", Edw. Cain, Washington C. H.

7:30 p. m.—"Divine Healing", C. D. Plum, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Wednesday—

10 a. m. — "Advertising the Church", Cecil Allmon, Dayton.

2:30 p. m.—"Personal Purity and Devotion", Lawrence Gardner, Sisterville, W. Va.

7:30 p. m.—"The Divine Plan of Redemption", B. E. Bawcom, Cambridge.

Thursday—

10 a. m. — "Church Government", Clifton Inman, Charleston, W. Va.

2:30 p. m.—Short talks by three elders, George Edgar, Bedford; E. H. Bethel, Chillicothe, and B. B. Thompson, Columbus.

7:30 p. m.—"The Church, the Falling Away, and the Restoration", Kenneth Adams, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Friday—

10 a. m.—"Religious Training in the Home", Oliver Johnson, Mt. Vernon.

2:30 p. m. — "Reaching Lost Souls", Hobart Ashby, Toledo.

7:30 p. m.—"Returning to the Ancient Order", Earl West, Indianapolis, Ind.

Scouts Plan Pot-Luck Outing

On Wednesday evening, Aug. 17, at 6 p. m., Scouters and their families will pack their picnic baskets and gather at Griggs Dam, Shelter House No. 6, for a district-wide pot-luck supper.

Refreshments will be furnished by the camping and activities committee. Evening games will also be included in the program.

There will be a short board meeting for all district officers immediately following supper.

64 Vie for Honors In Beacon Light Golf Tourney

The first round of the annual Beacon Light Golf Tournament for the coveted Seiller's Trophy got under way this week with 64 players contending for honors.

Earl Carper, last year's winner, was defeated 6-4 in the first round by Paul Theisen. Low score in the week's play was John Yauch's 72.

The Seiller Trophy is given for one year with permanent possession going to any three-time winner. Permanent trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in the championship flight and in the consolation flight.

The year's free membership that was originally given to the champion will be discontinued this year, and given as a door prize at the club's annual round-up.

Second round of play is scheduled to be completed Sunday. Complete results of the first round were:

Paul Theisen defeated Earl Carper, 6-4.

John Yauch defeated Russ McLain, 4-3.

Gene Zimmerman defeated Jack Burr, 2-1.

Fred Haines defeated Barney Barnhardt, 5-4.

Carl Dale defeated Dick Jennings, 5-4.

Floyd Baker defeated Byrl Taylor, 5-4.

"Mac" McDermitt defeated Henry Warner, 6-4.

Jack Worthen advanced on a bye.

Red Dolby defeated Mac McFadden, one up.

Dr. Budy defeated Don Quinn, 5-4.

Don Wisenberger defeated Trudy Richards, 5-4.

P. J. Hyatt defeated Carl Schmelzer, 5-4.

Hague Addison defeated Wayne Montague, 2-1.

"And Eat Out Their Substance"

(Manti, Utah, Messenger)

"He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."—Quotation from Declaration of Independence.

During recent weeks, we have become more and more conscious of the many persons in our midst who are drawing salaries that come directly from taxes. Many of these people, we feel, are getting paid for work well done. They work at essential jobs.

But, there are some who make us wonder. We wonder, because we believe our country must soon reach a saturation point as far as federal and state employees are concerned. We understand that about one out of each seven persons in our country is now drawing salary from tax money, and still the National Government is putting on new employees at the rate of 35,000 per month. If that keeps up, woe unto those of us who work for ourselves and pay taxes for the privilege of doing so.

During the past week, we noticed the people about us on a few occasions and it went like this—

Monday—Attended a meeting. Of nine men present, three drew salaries coming directly from taxes collected by our governing bodies.

Tuesday—Enroute home from work, we said "Hello" to seven persons. Two of them draw their pay from tax money.

Friday—Sitting in the local Drug Store, we counted twelve customers. We were staggered when we realized that five of them live on tax money.

In those three instances, a big, juicy 35 per cent of the people involved are employees of taxing organizations. That represents a big cut but the figure on tax-paid persons for our state is now one out of every five.

It all makes one wonder, but it clears up the reason for hidden taxes in almost every purchase made at any store. It clears up the reason for such outlandish prices on many things. A new car, for example, bears a fancy price tag, but we must consider that between 20 per cent and 25 per cent of that price tax is for taxes.

The next time you hear of a group of college graduates going directly from the classroom into government jobs, or hear of a federal or state agency taking on a new group of employees, just take a hitch in your belt and say a fond goodbye to part of your bank account.

If it keeps up, a fifty billion dollar budget won't begin to handle the cost of government, and if the budget gets jacked up to sixty or seventy billion, you're going to help pay it.

Let's assume that each one of these employees of government units performs a useful service. You see all about you useful services you can't afford. Cafes, for example, perform a very useful service. But can you afford to take full advantage of that service by eating all your meals out? Our passenger train performs a useful service, but who can afford to spend every day on the train just to take advantage of the service?

So it is with our government services. Many of them are necessary — let's keep them. Some are very useful — let's support them to the extent we can. Some can be classed as unnecessary luxuries — let's eliminate them and keep more of our money for our own use.

And Have Not Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

BEATRICE stood a few moments, trying to compose herself, reaching for a strength she did not possess with so much sickness and fear and defeat in her.

Then she went out, picking her way quietly through the darkness to Marianne's room. She went to the huge bed and looked down upon the sleeping child. Marianne's rag doll was beside her. Though it was a disreputable looking thing, and Marianne was miserably embarrassed if anyone mentioned it, still she loved it as she had never loved the dolls with beautiful faces and frilly clothes and she could not sleep without it.

Beatrice's eyes filled with tears. She felt such a cascade of emotion that she pressed the back of her hand against her mouth—I, alone, Marianne, can promise you so little. But Porter and I, your father and I, can promise you all things worthwhile. You need both of us. And neither of us can be both. Neither of us can be both mother and father to you. Sleep, darling, sleep in deep content and confidence, the right of children everywhere. Sleep with visions of lollipops and bubblegum, and new shoes, and a hundred in arithmetic. Sleep, Marianne.

As she went into her own room she thought, I will not stoop to the revolting emotion of being sorry for myself.

She slept fitfully and did not fall into deep slumber until dawn began to identify the objects in the room. And then she was sharply called from sleep by Marianne's voice, and her little body bouncing on her bed.

"Oh, Mother, you're home!" Marianne cried, her hair disarranged, her eyes shining. She cuddled close to Beatrice, kissed her cheek spontaneously, and cried, "I'm so glad! When did you come? What did you bring me?"

The bag had to be opened at once, and Marianne dipped her excited hands into it and brought out boxes squealing with delight.

"Oh, this is just what I wanted! How did you know?"

Tissue paper spilled all over the bed.

It was with great effort that Beatrice asked casually, "Where is Daddy, Marianne?"

Marianne shrugged and glanced at his empty bed. "I don't know. You'll have to ask Frances."

"All right. Run along now and get ready for school, darling. We'll have breakfast together."

"It was terrible without you," Marianne cried. "Why did you stay so long? I thought you were never coming home. Golly, it wasn't any fun at all. It was terrible!"

Beatrice found Frances in the kitchen before Marianne came down. It was a pleasure to watch Frances do anything, Beatrice thought. She worked with so much skill and strength and care. Indeed her only idiosyncrasy was that she declared she never slept, when Porter said that the house could burn down and Frances would not hear the engines.

"You sure put one over on me last night," Frances said. Her great strong body quivered with amusement.

"I was very quiet," Beatrice told her. Long experience had taught her that you must never question Frances's avowed insomnia. "And I went right to bed." Her lips felt stiff when she asked, "Did Mr. Farish go away on business?"

Frances held her hands under the tap and washed them very thoroughly.

"To tell you the truth, I don't know. Along about lunch time yesterday when I was shinin' the silver, Mr. Farish comes in and goes up and packs some things. When he comes down he says he won't be home for dinner, and tells me to take good care of Marianne. He was in a big hurry. Then he went out and got in his car and they drove away."

"Was someone with him?"

"Yes'm. There was a young lady in the car with him."

"Really? What did she look like, Frances?"

"Well, I couldn't see her good, to tell you the truth. But the funny thing was she favored Marianne."

"You mean her hair was dark with bangs?"

"I guess it was," Frances said thoughtfully. "I guess it was her hair."

"That was his secretary, Frances. Miss Watson."

Her voice, she knew, when she went to the dining room and took her accustomed place, had grown weak with helplessness, anger, desperation, and the visualization of a situation intolerably ignominious. Her hands felt cold and damp. Be fair, she thought through all the accusing, disgusting thoughts that rattled in her weary brain. She remembered from reading how sane and balanced a woman was supposed to be at a time like this, a paragon. What utter nonsense it was to write stuff like that when sanity and balance were the results of long experience. What experience have I with this, she asked the smooth blue walls and the silver and the trees outside? What experience have I with this? When it happens the first time it's like the first time with anything else. And no woman ever tells another about this until she has lost the capacity to be hurt by it.

Marianne came in, her face scrubbed to shining cleanliness, and hopped up into her chair.

I will stop thinking these hateful things about Porter and Bonnie, Beatrice thought. No one can humiliate me as much as I can humiliate myself.

"Tell me all about New York," Marianne asked. "What is it like, Mother? Is it really so big? How's Granny?"

Questions. Beatrice answered them, pressing down on her own raw thoughts and feelings. I must know, she thought, before Marianne interrogated her again. Whether it's wise or not, I must know because that's the way I am and I can live no other way. I am as incapable of sharing Porter with another woman as I am of having an affair with another man.

"And do you know what, Mother?" Marianne asked. "The ball hit me right in the face. And Miss Mercer came running and asked me if I were hurt. She asked to look in my mouth. Wouldn't it have been horrible if I had had my teeth knocked out?"

Beatrice smiled at her poised little head and lively face. "Especially when we waited so long for them to come and fill all those empty spaces."

"You're not kidding."

Beatrice stood at the window and watched her go down the path to the station wagon. In a few minutes the street was empty, and still she felt powerless to move. Where do I begin, she thought? What shall I do?

When she went upstair to her bedroom, the telephone rang. She picked it up. Porter. Porter.

"Hello," Beatrice said.

"Is this Mrs. Farish?" a heavy feminine voice queried.

"Yes. I am Mrs. Farish."

"I didn't recognise your voice," the voice at the other end of the wire said with a coarse laugh that was meant for apology. "This is Nina. You know, Nina's beauty salon."

"Oh, yes." Immediately she had the image of the dark, heavy-haired woman before her.

"I see by the appointment book that you've got an appointment on Friday," Nina went on. With more honesty than diplomacy she added, "The whole thing's balled up because of the new girl we had here last week. Hilde's not working here anymore."

Beatrice restrained herself from telling her she didn't know why Hilde had not got herself a better job long ago. She said, "I'm sorry to hear that. Where is she now?"

"She's home," Nina said with frank disgust. "She's having another baby."

"Oh!"

"You and me, too," Nina said. "She's had a hard enough time looking after the one she's got. Oh, well, it's her funeral. Now about your appointment . . ."

Beatrice said, "Cancel the one for Friday. It's perfectly all right. I had my hair done in New York just a few days ago. I'll call when I want another appointment."

"Just as you say, Mrs. Farish. Well, good-bye, Mrs. Farish," her voice trailed off on a detestable note of false sweetness.

"Thank you," Beatrice said.

Thank you for giving me something to do today, to make a visit long overdue, to say the things to Hilde I did not know until now, the things that she, out of her infinite wisdom and simplicity, knew long before I because necessity forced her to mold the raw materials of life into a philosophy not merely endurable but enviably beautiful.

We are struggling toward greater strength. Hilde had said those words to her when the girl's pitiful fortunes had been at their lowest.

Beatrice thought, And Porter, almost the cruelest thing a man can do to a woman is to place her in a position where she imagines the worst. Don't you understand? Because if it isn't true, she is flung into self-abasement by the meanness and ugliness of those images in her mind that she is powerless to stop. It's like looking at a revolting movie and not being able not to see it because there is no other place to look.

'Green Promise' To Miles W. Broad

"The Green Promise," the first feature to be produced by Glenn McCarthy, Texas Oil tycoon, will open a four-day run at Miles' West Broad Auto Theater, Sunday, Aug. 14. Walter Brennan and Marguerite Chapman have the leading parts in this feature. "The Judge Steps Out," with Ann Southern, will be the co-feature.

Saturday, Aug. 13, Miles' West Broad will feature a giant fireworks display, including five spectacular ground displays in addition to the usual number of rockets.

About 34 million man-days of labor were lost through strikes in 1948.

Songs Sung at Festivals — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scriptures—Psalms 105-107; 111-118

The Lord sent Joseph into Egypt, and he was sold as a servant and was a prisoner in irons until the word of the Lord tried him.

Israel came also into Egypt: so that Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham; and the Lord increased His people greatly, and made them strong.

They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; These see the works of the Lord and His wonders.

This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it, for He is good

What Are Facts Behind Big Profits, New Wage Boosts

By John Kelly

In the controversy now raging over whether industry can stand a fourth round wage increase, there is a deeply underlying problem which all should understand.

Our material standard of living is not the only issue involved. After all, we could stagger along on fewer automobiles, it is presumed. The fundamental problem is whether we wish to take another step along the temporarily alluring road to something else that would almost certainly alter our freedom, as we know it today.

In as much as the wage earner, due to somewhat lower prices, has already had an increase in real income, the demand for a fourth boost is incomprehensible—unless Labor really is not getting its proper share of profits.

The desirability of pensions and social insurance is questioned by no one. The sole argument is whether corporate earnings can wholly finance the program at this time—or ever should do it all, for that matter.

It doesn't make any difference how much was earned in 1948, or 1944 or 1929. What counts is the amount coming in right now and what may be reasonably expected in the foreseeable future.

Pending revelation of current figures, it is encouraging that all additional expense is regarded as a cost of production. There aren't many "liberal" economists who will admit that every charge connected with doing business should enter into the price of the product. Obviously, every expense—good or bad—has to be paid by the final consumer, if the enterprise is to survive.

It is well to bear in mind that not every company is in the same position — even in boom times. Some units of industry are more ably managed than others, and management pays off. This is true, even in the steel business.

The current uproar about profits in steel is highly misleading. For its inept handling of interim reports, the industry reaped some big, black headlines. Not only were record earnings reported for the first half of this year, but the comparison of second quarter '49 with the same period in 1948, made some bad reading under the circumstances.

In revealing all this information, not a word was breathed about the reason behind the startling comparison — the coal strike in the spring of 1946. The strike began on Mar. 22 and booming steel operations declined steadily.

By mid-April steel output had dropped to about 70 per cent of capacity. But it was not until mid-May that operations returned to about 95 per cent. During the second quarter of this year, as well as the first three months, the industry did 100 per cent capacity business.

No matter how hard you try it is difficult not to coin money under such circumstances. It remains to be seen who can make much, if any, in the immediate future.

More on this subject next week.

More Liberal Hunting Regulations Tentatively Adopted By State

The Ohio Conservation and Natural Resources Commission last week tentatively adopted hunting and trapping regulations for the 1949 season.

Some of the drastic restrictions imposed on sportsmen during the past two years because of game shortages were liberalized in the tentative rules which will be made official when the commission meets on Sept. 9 after nesting and game population surveys have been completed providing accurate information on which regulations are based.

Hunters who have had fewer hunting hours in the field because of the 9 to 4 daily hunting hours of the past two years will welcome the 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. (EST) hours adopted by the commission for rabbit, pheasant and grouse shooting.

In addition to adding an hour to the hunting day, seasons in most cases were increased by several days.

Present game population estimates indicate that hunters might enjoy more liberal regulations this year with no serious damage to the game brood stock in the opinion of commission members generally and members of the advisory council from the seven conservation districts.

The commission concurred in all migratory bird and waterfowl U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Squirrel hunting regulations, adopted officially at the commission's August meeting remain unchanged from last year. The season will be Sept. 15 to Sept. 30, both dates included, with a daily bag limit of four and possession limit, four. Hunting hours will be from daylight to dark.

All other regulations are subject to official adoption in September and all seasons include both the opening and closing dates.

For rabbit the season will be Nov. 15 to Dec. 26, eight more days than last year; daily limit of four and possession limit, four. The pheasant season is scheduled for Nov. 15 to Nov. 25 with a daily limit of two cock birds and a possession limit of two. For grouse the season will be Nov. 15 to Nov. 30, five more days than last year with daily and possession limits the same as for pheasant.

Skunk was returned to open-season status following two years of protection and may be taken during the trapping season, Nov. 15 to Jan. 15. Mink and muskrat in the Lake Erie trapping district may be taken through Mar. 15.

The bag and possession limit on raccoon hunted by dog and gun was changed from two raccoons per hunting party to two for each hunter.

The closed season on woodchucks was changed from the March 1 to June 15 period to March 1 to June 1, giving groundhog hunters 15 days more shooting than last year.

'Y' League To Play Twice Weekly

By Joe Hunt

In the last games that were played in the Hilltop "Y" league the Hilltop "Y" topped the Burgess team by the score of 14 to 5, while the Wildcats were roaring over Highland Avenue by the score of 15 to 3.

Beginning this week there will be a game played on each Wednesday and Thursday night. This comes as a result of "Ol' Brother Sol" not cooperating with us on Thursday. Since the first game scheduled in June we have been able to run off only the first round.

The best performance of the evening last July 29 was turned in by Bob Thatcher in hitting a homerun and two triples. He also made a spectacular catch of Arlowe Bryant's long smash in deep left after the "Y" pitcher, Ron McElwee, walked the first two men in order in the first inning.

Hilltop Y	2	4	1	3	3	1	0	—	14

McElwee and Hutt; Bryant, Martin and Underwood. Umpire: Dick Slager.

On Diamond No. 2, where the Wildcats and Highland were playing, the Wildcats topped Highland by the score of 15 to 3. Hunter, playing shortstop for the Wildcats, made a most spectacular catch of Skip Evan's high fly ball deep behind third base. The Wildcats had their big inning in their half of the fourth while collecting nine runs on two hits, three errors and five walks.

Wildcats	0	2	0	9	2	1	0	—	15

Redman and Chapman; Wilkes, Lantz and Bond. Umpire: Leo Phillips.

There are still several weeks of swimming weather left—still time for enjoyment, but still time for tragedy to strike, also. Take a little time, parents, to impress upon your children the importance of safety rules. The Safety Council urges you to see that they learn to swim, but see that they know the importance of going into water or playing near water only when there is adult protection on hand.

7:45 p. m.—Evangelistic services.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I shall fear no evil; for Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."

THE deep sea diver shown here is a man of courage and faith. His occupation requires such qualities. He walks on the floor of the ocean. He recovers precious sunken cargo. He moves among the strange-looking inhabitants of the waters that ebb and flow around and about him.

The diver depends upon a thin line of oxygen pumped to him from the ship whence he has descended into the sea Should anything happen to the life line which enables him to breathe, his would be a hasty and horrible death. He fears no evil, for his faith is in God.

Whatever our occupation in life may be, our need for the guidance and care of the Almighty is nonetheless a requisite for our confidence and peace of mind. In surrendering ourselves to God's will, all of the things that make life most precious are added unto us.

The faith that makes all things possible, is taught in our churches and Sunday Schools. Go to church regularly. In God's house, one may find the faith that is needed in the performance of his duties throughout the week.

Newsie Picnic A Success

Another Charity Newsie picnic is history. And several hundred Hilltoppers were among those attending at Beulah Park Sunday.

This event, an institution in itself, looked forward to by thousands each year, is always a welcome break in the summer monotony. It provides an opportunity for many to visit with friends they haven't seen since the last outing.

And back of the whole affair is the familiar motive of the Charity Newsies, providing funds to aid needy children of the city and county.

We know of no finer organization than the Newsies. They deserve the continued support of the public on every occasion.

Riddle: Why Is A Woman Like A Newspaper?

Newspapers are just like women—they both have forms, back numbers are not in demand, they always have the last word, they are well worth looking over, they have a good deal of influence, you can't believe all they say, there's small demand for the bold faced type, and every man should have one of his own and not borrow his neighbor's. —Contributed.

FORGOT SOMETHING

A father driving his seven children from Texas to Philadelphia was surprised when Patrolman Victor G. Reeb stopped him just inside the city limits on W. Broad-st. Surprised until he learned the reason, Forest Dougherty, a filling station attendant in New Rome, had notified the patrol when the driver forgot and left one of his children, a 10-year-old girl, at the station. He had stopped to buy some headache pills when the little girl got out of the car.

Floyd Born Dies Of Heart Ailment

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. yesterday in Glenwood Methodist Church for Floyd H. Born, 59, Hilltop funeral director.

Mr. Born died last Friday in Mt. Carmel Hospital of a heart ailment. He had been admitted to the hospital the day before.

Mr. Born had been an undertaker here for 16 years. He resided and conducted his business at 2542 W. Broad-st.

Previously he had served in the ministry for 25 years. Upon graduation from Ohio Wesleyan University he served a church in Terre Haute, Ind. He had also been a minister at Carroll, Chester Hill, and other southern Ohio communities. His last church was at Marietta, where he served five years.

At the time of his death he was teacher of the Baraca Class at Glenwood Methodist Church.

Mr. Born was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Achbar Grotto.

Surviving Mr. Born are his wife; a daughter, Louise Born McKenzie; six grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Mary Born; two sisters, Mrs. Winona Born Yantis and Mrs. Lillian Born Weller and one brother, Harlan F. Born of Hollywood, Calif.

Burial was in Sunset Cemetery.

South Team Wins All-Star Game 20-13

Coach Mack Pemberton's South team won the Ohio North-South All Star game Saturday by a score of 20-13.

Jim Bailey, 195 pound back from Hamilton, was the star of the game. He scored two of the South touchdowns, picking up 167 yards in 15 runs from scrimmage. He added 96 more yards on two punt returns for a total of 263 yards total gain in the game.

Center Glen Sample of Cincinnati scored the third South touchdown, going 22 yards with an intercepted pass for the score.

Ralph Shearer of Zanesville, left footed kicker, converted two extra points for the South team with Paul Theisen, Columbus West star, holding. Theisen played a great game for the South team, catching Skvarka from behind to prevent a North touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The South team built up a lead of 20-0 in the first three quarters of the game. The North team scored twice in the last quarter after its passing attack began clicking. Johnny Colceri of Canton McKinley scored both North touchdowns. Skarvka kicked North's extra point.

Coaching squads of both teams were presented with gold footballs.

Chuck Weeks, former West High all-star tackle and participant in Saturday's all-star game, enrolled at Ohio State University this week, where he will take a pre-dentistry course. He will try out for the freshman football team this fall.

Weeks is the son of Mrs. Margaret Weeks, 186 N. Hague-av.

Four Candidates File Petitions For Franklin Twp. Board of Trustees

Four candidates have filed for the two seats to be filled on the Franklin Twp. board of trustees, the county board of elections said today.

Two incumbents are seeking to retain their places on the board. Otto G. Peoples, 1300 Hart-rd, present president of the board, will be up for reelection at the November election.

The other incumbent seeking election is Harry C. Shonting of 477 Josephine-av. He was recently appointed to the board by Justice of the Peace E. Robert Banks to serve in the place of Bryan McCullough, who died in office. Shonting's appointment is in force until a new member is elected.

William J. Mook of 1968 Harrisburg-pk, Briggsdale, has filed his nominating petitions with the board of elections.

The fourth candidate is George W. Wolfe of 856 Midland-av. In announcing his candidacy Mr. Wolfe said, "I honestly believe that Franklin Township needs a trustee who will show more interest in the township and its people. I think I have shown that interest."

Among the improvements Mr. Wolfe said he would campaign for are flasher lights at the B & O railroad crossing at Eakin-rd; flasher lights on W. Broad-st at the Old Trail, Miles West Broad and National Theaters; a reduction in the speed limit on the 3C highway from Mound-st to the township line; and streetlights in the village of Briggsdale.

"I will work with the people of the township to obtain improvements vital to the public welfare and health. I will go to them wherever and whenever they assemble, to hear their complaints and help them work out their problems," he added.

Mr. Wolfe is married, and a veteran of World War I. He has served as legislative chairman of the National Farmers' Union in Franklin County.

Fighting Blazes Only One of Fireman's Many Jobs

Firemen Prevent Many Fires By Eliminating Causes

By Myron T. Seifert

Housekeeper, cook, janitor, window-washer, mechanic—these are just a few of the jobs that a fireman must do each day aside from his job of being constantly alerted to fight any kind of a fire from a stack of burning rubbish to a raging inferno like last year's gasoline reservoir fire on W. Broad-st.

During his 24-hour day a fireman must do his own cooking, make his own bed, and keep his personal belongings clean and in order as well as taking care of the fire house and cleaning the fire-fighting equipment each day, a job that starts at 8:30 in the morning and lasts until supper, or even later, depending on the number of runs made that day.

Firemen must train constantly. They have periodic drills at the fairgrounds to show that they are prepared to fight any kind of a fire at a moment's notice.

A fireman has to know the location of every fire hydrant in his district, he has to have a daily report on any streets that are closed, and from frequent fire inspections he learns the best ways of getting in and out of any large building in the district where he might be called to fight a fire.

Lt. H. Whittington of fire station No. 17 says that the biggest worry of firemen is traffic. He said that it is common for drivers to fail to yield the right of way to fire trucks on the way to a fire.

Fire protection on the Hilltop is provided by Station 17 at Broad-st and Wheatland-av. The proposed station at Sullivant and Brinker-avs will provide more protection for Hilltop residents and lessen the load of the already over-worked No. 17 station.

When members of the fire fighting force of Hilltop and West Side engine houses retire for the night they make sure that their trousers and boots "are standing" at the bedside ready for immediate use.

When the first alarm sounds the men are out of bed into trousers and boots and down the shiny brass pole into the engine room before the last notes of the alarm die away.

The system of getting away from the fire station to the fire has been so minutely perfected that not a fraction of a second is wasted. According to Captain Thomas Stringer of the local No. 17 unit, a minute lost may mean the difference between a successful and unsuccessful fire extinction or rescue.

The present fire station at Broad-st and Wheatland-av, serving thousands of Hilltop homes and establishments, was erected in 1913. While it was in the process of construction, the building was used as a morgue during the great flood of 1913. Twenty-three dead persons were brought into the station at the time.

For many years before the construction of the present station, around the turn of the century, residents of the community had to depend for fire protection on the chemical unit which was located at the corner of Whitethorne-av (then Hawthorne-av) and W. Broad-st.

The equipment was managed by colored firemen, who won for themselves the reputation of real "smoke eaters." Each day they could be seen pacing their horses up and down Broad, from Highland to Hawthorne.

At present the Hilltop is dotted with fire hydrants, none of them more than 300 feet distant from the next one. There are also 55 fire alarm boxes in the community.

The station equipment includes a triple combination pumper containing a 125 gallon water tank, pump and hose, a service truck which carries 255 feet of ladder.

Though firemen are usually big husky men, capable of handling heavy hose and ladders, they must also be domestically inclined. Living as one big happy family, the men working at the local engine houses must scrub floors, wash windows, cook their meals and make beds.

More than three score firemen are community sentinels stationed at the three locations on the West Side and Hilltop, ever on the alert to respond to the call of duty, frequently at the peril of their own lives.

Present assignments at Hilltop and West Side stations are No. 6 Fire Station. W. Broad and Mill-sts: Capt. Frank Luckshaw, 217 N. Wheatland-av; Lt. Ralph Raike, 250 S. Terrace-av; Lt. Ready for a run at Engine House No. 17 at Broad-st and Wheatland-av: Fireman Vern Smith, 874 Binns-blvd, is shown boarding the pumper.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Rev. W. Howard Schoof will address the Hilltop Kiwanis Club at its weekly meeting Thursday. He will speak on his recent "Youth for Christ Crusade" in Ecuador. Rev. Schoof is pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church.

Broad-st Building Project Hinted

A major real estate development on W. Broad-st, involving the ground that fronts on Broad and extends from the Shell Oil Station at Powell and Broad west approximately 413 feet to the Capital Conservatory of Music building near Roys-av, seemed imminent this week.

This property has been owned by five doctors, Jack Miles, Louis Leaman, Clare Smith, George Mathews and Robin Sharp, for a period of nearly 10 years.

It was a matter of record this week that Drs. Miles, Leaman and Smith have sold their interests to Beatrice C. Haney.

No announcement has been forthcoming as to the type of development that may take place on this frontage but it has been known for a long time that a large retail outlet has been interested in having a building erected in that vicinity.

Charles Butler, Hilltop Insurance Agent, Dies

Charles Butler, Hilltop insurance agent and former city policeman, died last week at his home, 2253 Sullivant-av.

Mr. Butler has had his insurance office at 2334 W. Broad-st since his retirement from the police force.

He made newspaper headlines in April, 1939, when he was stricken while competing in a national pistol shooting event at Tampa, Fla. William Fell, local funeral director, and Capt. Charles Eckstrom of the Fire Department emergency squad, rushed from Columbus to Tampa to bring Mr. Butler back in an ambulance. The patrolman was not expected to survive the long journey.

Highway police and sheriffs along the route opened up heavily-traveled roads to expedite the trip. Mr. Butler recovered, retired from the police force, and became an insurance agent. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Police.

A native of Milford Center, Mr. Butler was a resident of Columbus for 28 years. Surviving are his wife, Helen Grace; two daughters, Mrs. Will Daugherty and Mrs. Clifford Betts; five grandchildren and three brothers, John, Edward and Walter.

Services were held at 2 p. m. Saturday with burial in Union Cemetery.

NEW POLIO CASE

Pamela Mobley, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mobley, 288 S. Powell-av, was among the four new polio cases in Franklin County reported by the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today.

Hilltop 'Y' Plans Overnight Hike Saturday

The members of the Hilltop YMCA Gra-Y Clubs are to take an overnight hike this week-end at the South Side YMCA Park. The first 30 boys who sign up will be allowed to go since the sleeping and cooking facilities at the Y Park are limited. Fathers of the boys are urged to sign up with their sons and make the hike a real father and son affair.

The group will meet at the Hilltop YMCA Saturday, Aug. 20, at 3:00 p. m. and go out to camp from there. They will return home Sunday after the noon meal. Each camper will have to furnish his own bedding and silverware. Each person will bring one of two items for the meals and the cooking will be done for the group. All boys wishing to go to church in town will be brought back in for services and then return to to camp. The rest will participate in morning services in camp.

All reservations have to be in by Thursday morning in order to properly plan the menu for the three meals.

Rain On Schedule As County Fair Opens Today

FAIR LASSES—Easy-on-the-eye attractions at the Franklin County Fair are Jeanne V[illegible] and Doramy Fassig of Hilliards. Jean celebrates her 16th birthday with the opening of the fair. In case you wondered, Doramy is still 15.
(Columbus Citizen Photo)

According to the weather man, rain will be the uninvited guest at the Franklin County Fair in Hilliards today.

The 36th annual fair opened this morning at 10 with fair officials predicting record breaking attendance during the five day show.

Four new buildings have been erected on the grounds since last year's fair, three 30 by 100-foot horse barns and a 30 by 100-foot 4-H Club building.

Premiums have been increased 20 per dent over last year in the 13 divisions of the fair, according to fair secretary Arch Alder.

Harness racing will be one of the main attractions of the fair this year. There will be racing on three afternoons and two evenings of the fair.

Directors of the 16 departments of the fair are:

Cattle, W. W. McKitrick; sheep, Charles High; swine, Joe Smith; poultry, Robert King; farm products, Howard Van Schoick; fruits and vegetables, O. E. Cline; plants and flowers, V. J. Headlee; granges, Reed Bidwell.

Machinery and implements, C. B. Shoemaker and Arch A. Alder; woman's work, Mrs. Margaret Michel and Mrs. Mildred Love; 4-H Club work, Charles F. Roberts; vocational agriculture, Austin Ritchie, and horse show, A. E. Bogen, C. D. Palmer and M. E. McVay.

Officers of the Franklin County Agricultural Society, sponsors of the fair, are Ray Van Schoyck, president; C. H. O'Brien, treasurer; Mr. Bogen, vice-president, and Mr. Alder, secretary.

Let's Talk Things Over

It's funny how a lot of people take a chance when they build a home. They go to all kinds of trouble with the plans. They want everything including a streamlined kitchen, the last word in bathrooms, picture windows, and a landscaped garden. The money arrangements are perfect. In ten, fifteen or twenty years, the home will be really theirs. Just regular payments, somewhat like rent, only better, because they get something more for their money than just the privilege of living in a house.

But what is this chance they take? It's this: If death comes to the money-earner, the home may no longer be a place of refuge for the family, but a source of debt and despair.

And yet, by a perfectly simple Sun Life Mortgage Protection plan—only a slight addition to the monthly cost of paying for the house—the total balance of the mortgage would be wiped out in the event of death. Here's my advice, Mr. Homeowner: "Don't take a chance."

Let's talk things over—today!

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Vass, Mr. Larry Martin Saturday, July 30

Mr. and Mrs. Larry E. Martin, walking down the aisle following their wedding ceremony. (Courtesy J. Curtis Allen)

Miss Ethel Viola Vass, 1706 Little-av, daughter of Mr. Steve Vass, Sr., Cleveland, and the late Mrs. Steve Vass, became the bride of Mr. Larry Eugene Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Martin, 517 Mix-av, at 1:30 Saturday, July 30, in West Fourth Avenue Church of Christ. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Kermit Traylor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin with an unusual sawtooth neckline emphasized by lace and a fitted bodice styled with lace inserts. The full skirt ended in a four and one-half yard train. A fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. The bride wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white prayer book topped with a purple-throated white orchid and stephanotis tied to the white satin streamers. She also carried a white handkerchief trimmed with handsome lace given to her by a friend, Mrs. Don Coch, Cleveland, sister of the bride and matron of honor, wore a taffeta gown of powder blue with the hoop skirt caught up in front to reveal rows of lace and a headpiece of real flowers matching her bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas. Miss Diana Boggs, flower girl and niece of the bride, wore a gown of yellow net over a pale yellow taffeta skirt and trimmed with a light blue sash and bows. Her headpiece was a shirred blue satin with dainty yellow flowers. She carried a basket of assorted flowers trimmed with blue ribbon.

Mr. Clinton Robert Martin served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Pete Rogers and Mr. Joe Martin, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception at the home of the bride was at 1 p. m. Mrs. B. P. Boggs, sister of the bride, with whom she resided, received the guests in a green silk print dress with matching accessories while the mother of the bridegroom was dressed in a white silk dress with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of pink glamelias.

For their trip to Buckeye Lake the bride changed to a light blue two-piece dress with white accessories and pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet to her shoulder.

The new Mrs. Martin attended Central High School and is now employed at the F. W. Woolworth Co. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hilliards High School and is associated with the Fisher Body Ternstedt Division.

The couple is now residing at 348 Mix-av.

Hilltop Couple Marks Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bing, 268 N. Eureka-av, are celebrating 50 years of married life together, today, Aug. 16. They were married in Kanauga, O., and came to the Hilltop in 1913 where they have lived ever since. Mr. Bing was a guard at Ohio Penitentiary from 1926 to 1946, when he retired.

They have two sons, D. L. Bing, 196 Eldon-av, and N. W. Bing, 196 N. Westmoor-av, two grandchildren, Mrs. Eugene Jewel, 786 W. Ninth-av, and Richard Bing of the Westmoor address, and one great-granddaughter.

A celebration dinner was held for them Sunday by the members of their family at Wardell's Restaurant, near Circleville.

He was the 26th polio victim in Franklin County this year, the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said.

And Have Not Love

By MARGARET NICHOLS

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

BEATRICE began to dress, putting on without deliberation her favorite suit of dark red wool. She sat down at her dressing table and looked at the image of a young woman with deep blue eyes. Questing eyes, eyes questing the deep recesses of her own being for unalterable truths that had been unsought until now. Porter, if I am guilty that my love is also possessively passionate, I cannot help it. I cannot share you. I know that some people would call that hopeless naivete, but I cannot help it. It would kill me as it killed Clara. She was burnt out inside, and I should be burnt out inside too. And what is love? A compelling necessity. When you love you assume the burden of responsibility to protect it. And all these things Marianne must wring from the deep experiences of her own life. I cannot give them to her. No one can give them to her. She must live them.

She arose from the dressing table just as the bell sounded downstairs. She heard voices, and then light steps running up the stairs. At this time of the morning who—

Jane stood on the threshold of the room, her hair windblown, her young eyes in which there had been no delusion, imploring Beatrice to forgive her and love her.

"May I come in, Bea?"

"Why, Jane! Of course, come in. The room's a sight..."

"I know it's awfully early," Jane said, coming toward her. She stopped and shifted her books from one arm to the other. "I was given special permission to come out during study period, and I thought that I would find you home so early. I just had to see you, Bea. I....I was so, so terrible that day. I've thought about you so much, how awful it must have been for you."

"I'd much rather hear how it is with you. Please sit down."

"Thanks, but I can't." She laughed. "I might be so comfortable I'd forget the time." Her face sobered instantly. "Bea, it wouldn't be true if I said I was happy, really happy. But I am happier than I've ever been before, as happy as I can be under the... the circumstances. I can't be with both of them. I would be if I could, if they hadn't made it impossible."

"But you do like it with Helen and your father as much as you thought you would, don't you, Jane?"

"Oh, yes. I like the way they live, informally, taking things as they come, not getting excited about anything. When the girls at school talk about getting married, it scares me, Bea. I think I'm going to be afraid to get married because I'm so afraid of divorce. I'd never, never want a child who didn't know whether her place was with her mother or her father. I'm not ever going to get married, Bea."

Beatrice said, "Jane, I think we all understand your distress and your uncertainty more than you realize." She smiled faintly. "What about those glasses?"

"Oh! Oh, my glasses. Golly!" She looked down among her books and then up again at Beatrice. "I left them at school. I remember where. I'm glad you reminded me of them. I only have to wear them when I'm reading and studying. They're not so bad. I really shouldn't have made such an issue over them. It was just that..."

"There were so many issues and obstacles at one time."

Jane nodded, and warmth colored her face. "Helen's letting me have—I shouldn't say 'letting' because she's getting a bang out of it, too—but I'm having a dinner party Saturday night. Oh, just a little one. Daddy's been dancing with me, and he says all I need is confidence."

"What about the dress, and the boys?"

The girl's laughter rippled. "I was coming to them! The dress is dreamy and well, you know how I used to like Paul Mather next door. Golly, I hope I'm not fickle but I don't like him any more. There's a boy at the place next to ours. He's sort of shy, but he has the nicest smile, and he likes music. Tom. Tom Berry." When she looked at Beatrice again, Beatrice saw the charm and beauty which Libby's daughter would grow into. "I can hardly wait for Saturday night."

"It sounds wonderful, dear."

"I didn't mean just to talk about myself, Bea. Mother said you were in New York, and I couldn't come any sooner." Her fine radiance clouded slightly. "In two years I'm going away to college, and then there won't be this... this division the way it is now. Then I'll have my holidays and summer vacation, and I'll divide my time between them. So you see, Bea, the break had to come some time."

Beatrice nodded. "I think you've made the best compromise of an almost impossible situation. And your mother agrees. You are dearer to her than anyone in the world, Jane."

"I know. I was out to see her last weekend, and she was fine. I don't think she was putting on for my benefit. We gave her little house a name—Five by Five. She helped me with my French. She ...well, she never had time before, but she's different out there. We talked about different colleges. But Daddy needs me, too, Bea, and Helen says that if she had ten children she knows they'd all be boys, and she's always wanted a girl. I'm doing my best, my very best between them."

Beatrice went to her and put her arm around her. "I know you are."

"And I'll always tell you everything. I'm an awful nuisance to you. And now I've got to run. When I asked for the time off I said it was urgent. I didn't want to come when Porter and Marianne were here, and I just couldn't let it go on any longer, not seeing you. I asked Helen what I should do, and she said to ask off during study period and to tell them it was urgent. She's wonderful and the boys don't resent me because I'm a girl. I guess it could be lots worse, Bea. When most people say they have a fine family, I can say I have a fine two families. Daddy might have married someone awful. That happened to a girl in my class and Sally, oh, poor Sally. I've really got to run now."

"And I've lost my best sitter."

"That's what you think. Just ask me."

"You're going to be far too popular."

Her burst of healthy laughter held the delight of hope. "I'll always come here. Aren't you and Porter and Marianne my best friends? How I boast about you. You should hear me, Bye!" And then she was running down the steps. "Bye, Bea, thanks."

The house was quiet again, too quiet.

'Thatchers' Daily Doings'

Sunday, June 12

When we came out of our room this morning we saw a bit of old-fashioned housekeeping. The maid had scattered bits of wet newspaper like snowflakes on the carpet which were to prevent dust from flying when she swept with a broom instead of a vacuum cleaner.

When we paid our bill for our night's lodging and a complete breakfast, the total was only a little over eight dollars for the night, less than we had paid for a room only in New York.

At 10:00 a pick-up car stopped for us and then made the rounds of several other hotels to get additional members of the party.

In a most comfortable modern bus we were soon out of Dublin into a country that looked very strange. All along the road we began to see squatty little one-floor and one-room cottages with thatched roofs. Cow sheds were right beside the cottages. We saw goats and chickens running in and out of the houses. As we drove along our guide began naming the places we passed through. The names were familiar, such as County Kildare, the River Shannon and the town of Athlone. This town was the birthplace or home of John McCormack, the former tenor. Donkies came into the picture when we saw them on many of the farms where we ordinarily would have expected to see horses. The countryside grew rather monotonous after a time because it was flat, treeless and more or less void of crops. There were cattle and a great many sheep, the latter being so numerous that they were branded by painted letters to identify their owners.

For our midday meal we were taken about seven miles off the main route to the Hudson Bay Hotel which was a very restful place on the shore of a beautiful lake, Lough Ree.

Sunday afternoon in this part of the country is indeed quiet. Every town we passed through seemed to have pulled in the sidewalks for the weekend.

Ballenslough was one of these sleeping villages where we stopped for tea.

In this section of the country we were told there is considerable moonshine making, which goes by another name. Just outside the town where we had tea there is a wayside cross which was erected many years ago to remind the natives of their promise not to engage in further illicit distillings. The cross remains and so does the moonshine.

Evening brought us to our stopping place for the night in Galway, a city of about 20,000. As we came into the town, we knew we were in strange surroundings for the narrow streets were lined with thatched cottages although our hotel proved to be a rather large building.

After dinner we went out for a stroll which finished up as a three mile hike. We walked along Galway Bay for a while but an earlier rain during the afternoon still lingered in a cloudy sky to prevent seeing the sunset. For beauty of scenery today was not one for special remembrance but in an educational way it has been well worth while.

Monday, June 13

The tour yesterday had ended with considerable grumbling about poor scenery and poor country. Maybe it was the afternoon rain or the fact that many of the passengers had lost sleep the night before on their trip from

Thanks --

I wish to thank my many friends on the Hilltop for their wonderful vote of confidence in last Tuesday's Primary election. Having been nominated by a large complimentary vote, I will go on to win in the November election. Please be assured that, if elected, I will serve you well in City Council.

FROZEN FOODS FOR COOLING MEALS
Get The Refrigertor With a Real Home Freezer Built In It!

Get This ← and This →

THE VERY LATEST . . . the very finest . . . of today's refrigerators offer you the advantage of having both a refrigerator and a home freezer in one cabinet.

But—when you decide on that type of refrigerator—you want to be sure that the freezer is a real home freezer . . . one that can maintain zero temperature at all times.

And you can be sure, when you buy the new, dependable General Electric Refrigerator-Home Freezer Combination.

Look for separate compartments, separate outside doors! Each compartment with individual cold control

Top compartment is a real home freezer, because it's separately refrigerated, insulated all around, and has its own outside door.

A real home freezer, because it maintains zero temperature — for quick-freezing foods and ice cubes and for storing up to 70 pounds of frozen foods (ten-cu-ft-model) or 53 pounds (eight-cu-ft model).

A real home freezer, because its zero temperature keeps frozen foods in prime condition for as long as 12 months—four full seasons!

This is what to look for. This is what you get.

In lower compartment alone (either 8- or 10-cu-ft. model) there is fresh-food storage space equivalent to that in the conventional 8- or 10-cu-ft. refrigerator.

It is the very last word in a spacious fresh-food refrigerator. Separately, refrigerated, separately insulated, and with its own outside door!

It never needs defrosting! Dishes need not be covered! Cold is moisture-conditioned. Big, deep drawers keep fruits and vegetables just right! The butter conditioner, easily accessible in door, keeps butter at proper temperature for easy, wasteless spreading.

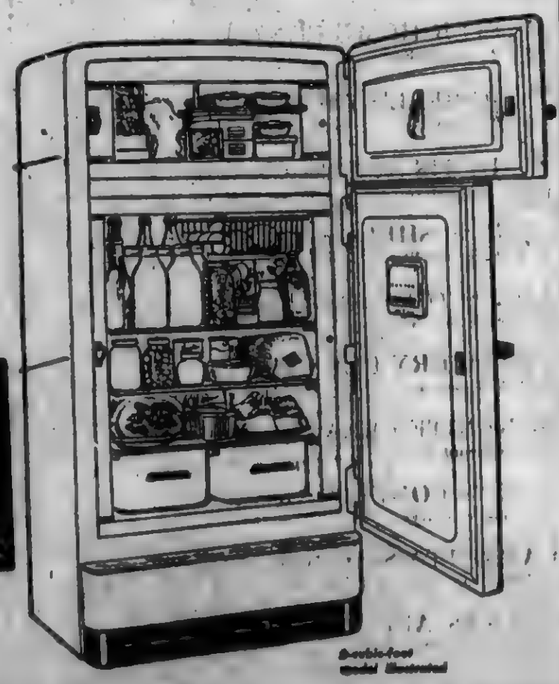
GENERAL ELECTRIC
REFRIGERATOR-HOME FREEZER COMBINATION

A SEPARATE REFRIGERATOR
PLUS A SEPARATE HOME FREEZER

You'll never forget . . . never regret . . . the day you buy this General Electric Combination. For the name GENERAL ELECTRIC means dependability . . . dependability based on an unsurpassed record for year-after-year performance.



More than 2,000,000 General Electric Refrigerators have been in service 10 years or longer!

And the chief reason, of course, is the famous General Electric sealed-in refrigerating system. Airtight and oiltight, this dependable system has never been excelled for efficient, economical operation . . . year in, year out.

8- AND 10-CUBIC-FOOT MODELS

The General Electric Combination is available at your retailer's in both 8- and 10-cubic-foot models—one of them just right for your household. We think you'll agree they provide the most that's offered in a home refrigerator today.

How not to miss the boat

This message is addressed to the home owners of the Hilltop . . . thousands of you who have found this to be a fine place in which to live and have made a big investment in this community when you built or purchased a home here.

The money you spent or are spending yet, in making monthly home payments amounts to a large figure. It is perhaps the biggest single investment you ever made, and without a doubt the most important one.

You are naturally interested in seeing that your investment is protected . . . that it grows in value from year to year. In other words, you are the captain of this ship and you certainly want to sail along together for a long time.

Sometimes people just naturally do things that indirectly are against their own best interests. That's the case of the Hilltop home owner who does his buying elsewhere than in the locally owned Hilltop individual stores.

Just reflect how important it is that the Hilltop gets community-wide civic improvements such as better schools, better transportation, b e t t e r city services, sponsors events that provide this community with a close knit community spirit . . . the kind that gets things done for the Hillop.

And while you thus reflect . . . remember that the active leadership that gets these things for the Hilltop is made up of Hilltop individual business people . . . not chain store operators or people who live hundreds of miles away and return nothing of their time and effort to the building of your community.

Yes sir, it is pretty important that you find out right now that it will pay you dividends to buy wherever possible from your individual Hilltop business firms. Let's not miss the boat!

[illegible] sweet to "shoot off" a recession thriller . . . tell him this story of the man who sold hot dogs . . .

The Man Who Sold Hot Dogs

THERE WAS A MAN who lived by the side of the road and he sold hot dogs.

He was hard of hearing so he had no radio.

He had trouble with his eyes so he read no newspapers.

But he sold good hot dogs. He put signs up on the highway, telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried, "Buy a hot dog, mister?" And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him.

But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio? Haven't you been reading the newspapers? There's a big depression on. The European situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Everything's going to pot."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he reads the papers and he listens to the radio, and he ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs, and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son," the father said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

The fable above appeared originally in "Tracie Talks," house magazine of The Tracie Engineering Co., Cleveland, O. Written by President George T. Tracie, Jr. The Reporter reprinted it in January, 1949. Recently we were asked to "steal" it in the present "situation." George Tracie says: "Okay. Be it recession" lovers are worrying you, tell them the Hot Dog story.
ARE YOU going to sell your property? We need 50 homes, 100 homes, little homes for the working man, the man who wants to earn and for the man who wants to retire. What have you? Call us for prompt service. No appraisals.

FIRST IN LONG TIME? . . . By Alan Mover

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Judy Schulz, 13, Takes A Great Northern Hook, Line, Sinker . . . But Read Story Below

Now thirteen-year-old Judy Schulz can knock off some fish stories with the best of 'em.

Judy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schulz, 164 S. Terrace-av, wasn't doing so well fishing on their vacation at Eagle River, Wis. Second day, right off, her father hooked a Great Northern, all of 25 inches long. Then her mother came along with a 23-incher.

Judy couldn't complain—she was catching lots of nice pen-size ones, but nothing spectacular, you understand. But it was a little disappointing, though, to see her father coming in with crappies, 14 inches long and nine inches wide (which set a record for crappies, by the way).

Thursday of their vacation week looked like it was going to be just another ordinary day, especially so when Judy caught a couple more Great Northerns and three walleyes. But that evening the worm turned, so to speak. She was sitting calmly on the dock fishing as usual. All of a sudden something tugged on her line. Judy fought trying to keep the upper hand, but she hadn't had any experience reeling in. So the resort owner came to her rescue and together they hauled in, not a measly 23-inch, nor even a 25-inch Great Northern, but a 30-inch one! The largest Northern to be caught around those parts in two years. And this was done with the fish breaking water four times, with it having three times too much slack and the dock being five feet above water!

This record was made at Boot Lake, six miles northwest of Eagle River.

Hilltop 'Y' Loses Two, Drops to 3rd

By Joe Hutt

The Hilltop "Y" was dropped from a first place tie among Highland and the Wildcats as they lost both games they played. The Highland Friends and the Wildcats came out victorious as they won both games they played. Burgess lost another set of games.

Highland crushed a spirited "Y" attempt to get back into the game as the "Y's" last inning fell short by one run. Jim Bond, playing shortstop for Highland, made two fine catches, one off the bat of Joe Hutt as he smashed the ball into the shortstop position, which would have gone for a hit and brought in the tying run of the game. Vincent, shortstop for the "Y", also played a fine game as he knocked down several would-be hits and threw them out at first.

Highland ..... 1 1 3 1 0 0 1—7
Hilltop ..... 0 1 1 0 0 0 3—5
Lantz and Beard; McElwee, McCoy and Hutt. Umpire: Ralph Watts.

The Wildcats were toppling Burgess by the score of 15 to 9 as Highland dunked the "Y". W. Potts, playing third for the Wildcats, collected the most hits of the evening as he got three hits for four times at bat.

Burgess ..... 2 0 0 2 1 1 2— 9
Wildcats ..... 2 1 3 2 0 2 5—15
Martin and Grant; Burton and Ealy. Umpire: Dick Slager.

The "Y" got itself in the same position again the next night. They let the Wildcats get ahead and they couldn't get into the lead. Morgan, third baseman for the "Y", collected three for three as he smacked out one homerun and two singles. Kershaw knocked a triple for the Wildcats and also hit two for three. The "Y" collected 12 hits while the Wildcats were getting only nine but still they couldn't get them at the right time.

Wildcats ..... 2 0 0 0 2 6 0—10
McCoy, Collins and Koch; Redman and Ealy.

Highland took the game between them and Burgess. At the end of the sixth inning the game was called on account of rain.

Highland had run up a big enough score that they didn't have to worry about Burgess at any point of the game. Herbie Brown of the Friends collected four for four, one of his hits being a smashing homerun in center field.

Baker of Burgess hit a long triple but no one was able to score him.

Highland ..... 2 2 0 5 3 1—13
Burgess ..... 0 2 3 2 0 —7
Wilkes and Meredith; Grant and Devillars. Umpire, Ralph Watts.

Flaming Arrows, Blackhawks Vie For Gra-Y Lead

The Flaming Arrows of West Broad Street School and the Blackhawks from the John Burroughs School are awaiting the playoff for the championship of the Hilltop YMCA Gra-Y League. The playoff will consist of series of two out of three games. The games will be played at 6 o'clock in the evening, in the hope that the parents will turn out to see the boys in action. These games will be played at Westgate Park, Diamond No. 4. Game 1 will be played between the Flaming Arrows and the Blackhawks on Wednesday and the second game between the Blackhawks and the Flaming Arrows, Thursday. In case of each team winning one game the final game will be played Aug. 24.

The Blackhawks lineup: Jim Wilson, John Giannikos, Don Brown, Don Spradling, Don Reeb, Norman Buckingham, Danny Grant, Jerry Swindler, Danny Deshler, William Gue, Paul Sipe, Jerry Osborne, Robert Reep and Graham Gibson.

League standing at the end of Round Two:

	W.	L.
Blackhawks (co-champs)	5	1
Flam. Arrows (co-champs)	5	1
Wildcats	4	2
Scarlet Buckeyes	3	3
Wolverines	3	4
Beagle Boys	1	5
Cobra Leaders

The All Star team will play the champions of the playoff. One game only, which will be played at Westgate Park Diamond No. 4. Game time, 6 p. m. Thursday, Aug. 25.

Thatchers Doings

Liverpool to Dublin. This morning the party spirit was much more evident when we left the flat country to enter the rugged, rocky and mountainous territory beyond Galway.

A suburb of Galway is called Salt Hill. It was in this section that the famous Lord Haw Haw lived as a boy and young man. Our guide told us a little of the history of these parts and the tribes of Galway who originally settled here and maintained separate kingdoms. Some of the houses around here date back to the year 1200.

Gypsies were to be seen frequently along the road.

Midmorning refreshments were obtained in the little town of Spiddle—this is fishing village. Earlier we had seen sailpowered fishing smacks on the Bay. In this town, as in most of the others, women seemed to dress in black shawls covering their head and shoulders. We saw some walking the streets in black shawls and bare feet. Also along the road we had seen a primitive means of transportation — donkeys with wicker baskets suspended over their sides. Two wheeled donkey carts were frequent and the driver usually walked beside the animal instead of riding in the cart.

At a crossroads point which was called the village of Costello we saw an old country animal fair. This was in the mountains. Here on the roadway where the animals blocked our travel, the farmers offered their stock for sale or traded them with other farmers.

Our travel this morning took us through the Connemara mountains, of which the 12 Bens were outstanding as individual high hills stretching for several miles almost as far as one could see.

At Leenan in these mountains we had lunch at a mountain hotel and spent an enjoyable two hours walking about the adjoining grounds and admiring the combination of mountains and fiord. In this one fiord the entire British Navy could be safely harbored although the water is less than a half mile wide.

Tea this afternoon was at Clifton, a modern town in the midst of the mountains and lakes of Galway country.

Between Clifton and Galway we stopped to inspect a peat bog which was being cut to provide Ireland's fuel supply. While the ground underfoot was solid, it was a strange feeling we had when we walked on it. It bounced just like walking on a very stiff mattress. We saw here also some of the raw material used for making thatched roofs and we also saw what is known as peat cotton, a white down flower which looks and feels almost exactly like a cotton bowl.

In another village on our return we saw a native village funeral. There were no cars and no hearse. Preceding the walking mourners, four pallbearers carried a brightly painted coffin on their shoulders to the local church. Our guide told us that hearses are often used but that it is an extra mark of respect to the deceased to have the body carried to the church on the shoulders of the mourners.

Tonight I took another stroll through the side streets of Galway.

Tuesday, June 14

When we started out this morning we went only a few blocks to the church of St. Nicholas. This is now a Protestant church, although when it was first built in the early part of the 13th Century it was Catholic. Christopher Columbus is supposed to have prayed here before he set sail to discover America. The church shows every evidence of its age but it is still a very impressive building which can last for many more centuries. Inside the church are many reminders of the past. The tomb of one of the Crusaders is in one corner. Cromwell, who set out to destroy Catholic churches during the Reformation, stabled his horses in one of the chapels here and the hoof marks of his horses may be seen on some of the stonework. There is a stone grill work in one of the chapels which is almost like the fancy Wrought iron balconies of New Orleans.

Resuming our trip we were soon in County Clare. This section seemed to be more fertile than the areas we were in the past few days. We passed another castle ruin similar to others we have recently seen. There are so many ruins of old cottages and other buildings which have been left standing after their thatched roofs and interiors have burned out that it is hard to tell whether looking at relics of the past or the present.

Horses in this section are still scared of automobiles. On a narrow road our bus was crawling along to get past a horse and cart. A farmer boy was walking beside the horse when suddenly the horse took fright. He banged the cart against the bus, upset the cart, broke his traces and ran off. In doing so, the boy was caught beneath the horse's hoofs and was cut on the face. For a moment we thought he was going to be more seriously hurt. He was taken to a nearby farmhouse until a doctor could arrive. There being no telephone, a messenger had to be sent to the nearest village which was about three miles away. We had to wait about two hours for the doctor and the police to arrive.

Because of the accident our lunch hour was delayed until nearly three thirty. Following the lunch we roamed up and down the only street and shopped for sweets in the local grocery. We also enjoyed our first glimpse of an Irish jaunting car which was parked on the corner.

At Ennistymon we saw a real old world market. Hundreds of donkey carts were in the streets. The farmers had come from 15 miles around to sell their goods. Some had brought a pig, a lamb, a calf or some chickens.

A well-dressed Londoner joined our party to point out interesting spots. One was the original home of the head of the McNamara clan. Our informant was Mr. McDonough. One of his ancestors was the General McDonough who played such a prominent part in the Battle of Lake Champlain which took place over 100 years ago.

Our last scene of the day came after we had climbed up some grassy slopes to the edge of a cliff overlooking the Atlantic. From this point we saw the very impressive cliffs of Moher. They rise 668 feet of sheer rock out of the water.

Wednesday, June 15

Upon leaving Galway this morning we saw another native custom. On a street corner two women dressed in the usual black shawl sat leaning against a building. On the curbstone in front of them each had two baskets of fish which they were selling to anyone who cared to buy them.

As we passed into County Mayo I asked our guide where the schools were because we never seemed to see any. He said there were not very many and that most children had to walk six or seven miles to get to school.

We passed Lough Mask where our guide pointed out the former domain of a wealthy landlord by the name of Boycott. This man was so cruel and exacting in his treatment of tenants that they eventually refused to do his bidding or to have any dealings with him. From this affair we get our usage of the word "boycott".

We passed Croagh Patrick. This was the mountain on which St. Patrick worshipped in the year 441. Thousands of people make pilgrimages each year up this mountain.

Thursday, June 16

Last night and tonight we are stopping at Sligo. It is a much more modern and cleaner town than Galway although it is not much more than half the size. The shops, however, are still tiny. Most of them are not more than 15 feet square.

On our ride today we stopped at Holy Well of St. Patrick where he is supposed to have quenched his thirst during his wanderings of the year 441. A shrine has been built here. We had a drink of the cold spring water.

As we drove along the shores of Lough Gill we saw Yeat's Rock. It was upon this rock that the poet Yeats used to sit while writing his works, especially the famous "The Isle of Inistree".

Lough Gill is known as the "Killarney of the North". It is a beautiful lake surrounded by wooded mountains. In our drive we made a complete circle of the lake and wound up by stopping on the side of a hill way out in nowhere. Our guide told us we would have to walk "some distance" to get to the Dowd Hill Hotel where we might get some refreshments. We got exercise when we walked up and down hill for nearly two miles to reach the hotel. The scene on the lakeshore was worth the twenty-five minute hike down the stoney road.

The afternoon was spent in a carefree manner on the beach at Rosses Point about five miles from Sligo on the bay. Unlike most beaches there were no board walks or amusements. There was nothing but a bare sandy beach. Late in the evening the entire party gathered before a peat fire in the lounge for a farewell party during which everyone was called upon to do his or her stunt.

Friday, June 17

This is the last day of our tour. As most of the sight seeing was already done, today's journey has been mainly riding. We passed through County Roscommon and County Teetram. The Shannon River was again crossed as we went through the town of Carrick-on-Shannon.

At Longford we stopped for lunch at Longford Arms Hotel. The town itself was dirty and smelly. The food was equal to what might be expected in a Bowery Cafe.

Tonight we are again in Dublin at the Hotel Shelbourne.

Saturday, June 18

After a late breakfast this morning we started for a walk about town.

We walked through the Dublin market where Saturday shoppers crowded the sidewalks to buy meats, vegetables or clothing from the sidewalk stalls.

A complete dinner from soup to nuts, served by high hatted chefs, was our delight at the Hotel Gresholm this noon. It was the finest dinner we have had in Ireland and the cost was only a little over one dollar each.

Having had one good experience eating at the hotel we returned there for our evening dinner. By the time we had finished our meal and walked through the Saturday night crowds to the hotel it was 10:30.

Sunday, June 19

Breakfast in the hotel and then the packing of bags kept us busy this forenoon except for a short walk through St. Stephen's Green where we were allowed to sit on chairs by paying 2d. each.

We then went to the Gresham for our last meal in Dublin.

We walked from the Gresham back to the Shelbourne. An afternoon of loafing followed the walk after which we hired a taxi to take us sightseeing on the way down to Kingstown and the boat.

Tonight we are crossing the Irish Sea to arrive in Wales about midnight.

Monday, June 20

Our train did not leave Holyhead until 1:00 a. m. By 6:30 we were in London.

Less than 10 per cent of the population of Arizona was engaged in manufacturing in 1948.

West Alumni Plan Stage Show Sept. 8

An all alumni musical stage show entitled "Do You Remember?" will be presented Thursday, Sept. 8, at the West High auditorium and will mark the opening of the new year for the West High Alumni Association.

Although this type of show has been talked of before it is the first one to be attempted by the alumni group. The show will feature an all alumni cast, including such outstanding talent as Frank Ongaro and his magic accordion, Guy Celli at the piano, "Ziggy" Coyle with his trumpet, and many others. Directing the show will be George Hardy and Bill Woolson, a radio advertising student at Ohio State.

Main attraction of the show will be an all star band under the supervision of Coyle and Tom Dale, both graduates of OSU. John Glass will head an all star quartet similar to the one that gave forth with such fine music at last year's Band Variety Show.

The show will have an all alumni stage crew to handle the props, also alumni will take over the ushering, selling of tickets and anything else to do with the presentation of the show.

Tickets will go on sale Sept. 1 and Joan Heischman will be in charge. General admission will be 40c while reserve seats will sell for 60c apiece. Tickets will be on sale at some of the neighborhood places of business which will be announced next week.

Rites Held For Father Of Hilltop Pastor

Funeral services for Fred Lutz, 80, of Whisler, O., father of Rev. Clayton Lutz, pastor of Burgess Avenue EUB Church, were held at 2 p. m. yesterday in Whisler Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi, by Defenbaugh Funeral Home, Circleville. Mr. Lutz, who died Sunday, is also survived by one other son, two daughters, four sisters and two grandchildren.

WINS SALES AWARD

Fred R. Truax of 590 Larcomb-av, representative of the Columbus branch of Remington Rand's calculating and bookkeeping machine division at 58 E. Gay-st, has won national sales leader recognition for the second consecutive year as one of the company's top 25 salesmen, J. P. Neills, branch manager, announced yesterday. Truax and other sales leaders will receive a week of entertainment at Colorado Springs starting Sept. 4.

Help Can Be Had With a Record Ad

They advertised the position in a 3-line Record "Help Wanted" ad in last Thursday's edition.

Did that ad do the trick? You betcha — and they received "about a dozen" calls in response to it.

No matter what your want or need, your best bet to fulfill it is in the Classified pages of The Hilltop Record. You'll never know until you've tried. All you do is simply dial RA. 1125.

Ziggy Coyle Is New East High Music Director

Ziggy Coyle

William "Ziggy" Coyle, well known Hilltop musician and band leader, has been named instrumental music director at East High School this year.

Coyle, whose trumpet playing and band leading have proven popular at Columbus dance spots, is a graduate of West High School and Ohio State University. He played in the marching band at Ohio State and was popular at the undergraduate dances.

Upon his graduation from Ohio State last December, Ziggy became music director at Starling Junior High School. He says that he prefers his present job because he will not have to teach vocal music at East High.

Ziggy lives at 251 Nashoba-av.

West Side Day Nursery Is City's Largest, Oldest

Began When Two Mothers Brought Children In 1887

By Myron T. Seibert

A happy tradition lies in the history of the West Side Day Nursery, licensed by the state of Ohio, and used by children of Hilltop mothers, at 40 N. Grubb-st. It is not only the largest of all the five day nurseries made possible by the Community Fund but also is the oldest, according to Dorothy Clinger, welfare executive there.

Formerly the Oak Street Nursery, the present West Side Day Nursery has been caring for the children of mothers who work since 1887, when it came into being with two mothers bringing their four children to be enrolled.

The day nursery is just what the name implies—a nursery and a school with a definite, constructive, social, educational and health program for children between the ages of two and 11 years whose mothers cannot care for them during the day. The West Side Day Nursery daily takes care of 85 pre-school and school children of this number.

At 6 a. m. the doors open to receive the children. Mothers bring them on their way to work, or sometimes fathers will bring them children and call for them later in the day.

The West Side Day Nursery at 40 N. Grubb-st.

The school age children are furnished with school clothes, newly laundered and ironed at the nursery. These must be put on the first thing in the morning and after a "cleaning-up process" and a glass of milk the children are sent off to neighboring Franklinton school, to return for a hot dinner at noon and a light lunch after school in the afternoon. Then they change into their own clothes and play in the enclosed yard or, in inclement weather, in the recreation room, until their parents call for them. Showers, individual tooth brushes, combs, face cloths and towels are provided for each little boy and girl.

Children of pre-school age spend their entire day at the nursery, and their activities begin just as soon as they arrive in the morning. Weighing and measuring are included in the daily inspection and physical development is given skilled attention.

If a child is ill he is placed in an isolation room where he is cared for by a trained nurse until his mother is notified and can call for him.

At 10 o'clock, a mid-morning collation of tomato or orange juice and cod liver oil is served with no complaints registered. This really is not unpleasant and delivers vitamins A and C.

Free play continues from 10 to 11, always outdoors when weather permits.

After lunch the children who do not go to school are bathed and put in bed to sleep until 3 o'clock. Another play period follows the nap and supper is served at 4:30 when the mothers begin to call for them.

Nurseryland is an attractive place. Every ledge and table and chair is built for the convenience of little folk. Bright, cheery curtains and colorful china and napkins lend a glamor to the nursery.

The philosophy of this vital agency in our society is best expressed in the organization's Diamond Jubilee publication and reads:

"We believe that under present economic conditions, scarcely ideal, day nurseries are an imperative need in some sections of our city.

"We believe that the family is the strategic point for economic efficiency.

"We believe that the greatest function of the nursery is to preserve the home.

"We believe the highest function of a nursery can be conserved by raising the standard of the home through the education of the members of the family.

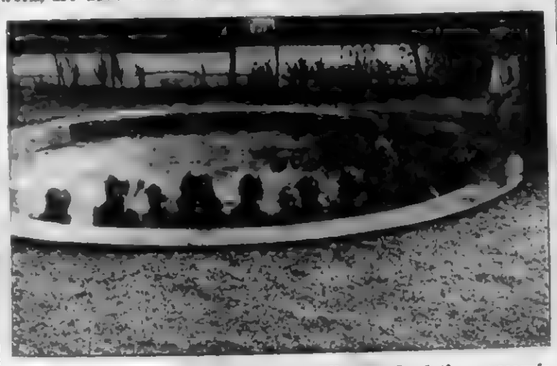
"We believe the nursery can cooperate with the school by caring for small children who would otherwise be in charge of older children, also of school age, but required to absent themselves to act as "little mothers."

"We believe that day nurseries will preserve home, improve home standards of living, lessen child morbidity and mortality, improve the economic efficiency of the parents, lessen the need for orphan asylums, baby hospitals, reformatories, and homes for the delinquents.

"Education work in all lines is important in the nurseries. School records are watched; kindergarten and pre-school work is advanced; social and economic education is carefully planned and carried out."

The pre-entrance examinations, as well as much of the corrective work, are done at the Children's Hospital. Dr. J. D. Richardson, Dr. W. D. Bower and Dr. W. K. Allen, the City Board of Health, the District Nurses, and several hospitals care for all the other medical work.

Camp Greenwood Lake and Camp Rogers Lake are hosts to a number of day nursery children during the summer months.



The Court of Domestic Relations, City Division of Charities, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Urban League, Family Bureau and others render assistance cheerfully.

The Shriners, Charity Newsies, Automobile Club, Needle Work Guild, and many individuals give help and pleasure to the children and mothers.

The active board dictates the policies of the nurseries and has the general supervision and management in charge.

The associate board is a group of women interested in day nursery work who were reorganized in 1940 and are now functioning as a valued asset to the active board.

The Junior Board, composed of young women and matrons, organized several years ago by the late Mrs. H. P. Wolfe. They render many services to the children and give generously for special projects in both nurseries. The progress of the juniors has been very rapid and today they stand as a valuable auxiliary to the active board.

Field Narrowed To 16 In Beacon Light Tourney

The field was narrowed down to 16 contestants as the second round of the annual Beacon Light golf tourney finished this week.

Barney McLain turned in the best score in the championship match with a two above par. Best score of the week was Earl Carper's 71 in a consolation match. Red Dolby turned in a 36 on nine holes in his match with Chet Brady.

Results of the second round were:

Jack Fox, def., Paul Theisen, 4-3.

"Red" Dolby, def., Chet Brady, 4-3.

Cal Richards, def., Gene Tatman, 3-2.

Lucy E. Dean To Open New Real Estate Agency

Miss Lucy E. Bean, 2335 Glenview-av, announced today that she will open a real estate agency on the Hilltop. Offices of the agency will be in her home.

Miss Dean is a member of the Women's Real Estate Association of Columbus. She was recently associated with James M. Stevens, realtor, of 1434 W. State-st.

She served as an accountant with the state for 13 years and worked an additional 10 years in local accounting work.

Hilltop Beats Morningside 26-22 In Swim Meet

Coach Bill Peterfy's Hilltop swimming team beat Morningside last week 26-22 in a meet at the north-end pool.

Ronnie Bolin led in scoring with two firsts and also swam in a relay race won by the Hilltoppers.

Eddie Whitehead won the 50-yard freestyle for the local team. Larry Gosset then finished third in the 50-yard breast-stroke for a point. He also finished third in the 50-yard backstroke. Bolin took first in this event. Bolin then took another first, his second in the meet, in the 100-yard free style.

Paul Navin took first in the diving contest, adding four points to the Hilltop score.

The Hilltop team won both relay races in the meet. Gosset, Bolin and Whitehead took the 150-yard medley relay. Dave Armour, Ronnie Dean, Navin and Whitehead teamed up to win the 100-yard free style relay.

Following this victory, Coach Peterfy hopes to arrange meets with other city pool teams.

- RAINED OUT -

Because of last night's rain, the annual St. Aloysius summer festival has been postponed until tonight. The festival will be held on the school ground at Broad-st and Midland-av.

CONVALESCING

Mrs. Donald Malone, 325 S. Roys-av, is in Mt. Carmel Hospital recovering from her second major operation this summer. She is reported doing nicely and expects to be home soon.

Racing Under Lights At Fair Tonight

Top Pacers, Trotters, Vie For $10,000 Prize Money At Hilliards

Racing under the lights will be the big attraction at the Franklin County Fair in Hilliards tonight.

Post time will be at 8 o'clock for the evening harness races today and tomorrow. Leading trotters and pacers from all over Ohio will vie for part of the $10,000 purse money being given in the five racing sessions.

The 36th annual fair, which opened Tuesday, is now in full swing. Attendance figures to date indicate that this will be a record year in fair attendance.

Future Farmer of America and 4-H boys and girls topped the bill on opening day as they took part in the showing of their stock.

Prizes were given to girls for their displays of home-grown vegetables in the FFA building. Other awards given to the young folk were prizes for cattle, sheep, hogs and truck crops.

Premiums at the fair this year have been increased by 20 per cent over last year, and the buzz of activity as exhibitors put the final touches on their exhibits and brushed and curried their stock indicated that the judges' task will be a hard one.

Thirteen separate departments have been set up to handle the displays and entertainment at the fair.

The fair ground improvements this year cost $50,000 and included the erection of four completely new buildings.

Paving the way for these improvements was the money taken in on VJ Day (Aug. 15, 1945) when 21,000 people jammed the fair grounds.

"Of course, we don't expect anything like that madhouse," fair secretary Arch A. Alder said. "It was Sunday and people had no place to celebrate, so they came to the fair. There wasn't enough food to go around—people were buying pieces of bread."

Entries in tonight's races are:

First race—Class 18 trot; purse $600: Gabille Hanover (McMillen); Jack High (Keller); J. E. W. (Wall); He's It (Battles); Gene's Boy (Shilling); Professor Frisco (Van Matre); Dixie Merridell (Dispanette); Lee Wyann (Hayworth).

Second—21 pace; $600: Connie Marie Counsel (Snyder); Flo Counsel (Shilling); Nellson (D. Butt); Atom Bomb (Smith); Selkawyn (Coder); Ronnie Spencer (Paige); Western Counsel (Battles).

County Wide Registration Dates Set

Franklin County Board of Elections officials announced today that a county-wide registration of electors will be held in September.

The registration will include all parts of the county except Columbus and territories under permanent registration.

Reason given for the registrations were the large increase in population during the past 20 years, "to prevent fraud, to reduce the cost of ballots and other election supplies, and to expedite and increase efficiency in the conduct of elections."

Days of registration will be Sept. 22, 24 and 28, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. and from 4 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Voters must register at this time to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 general election.

Laymen To Speak At Westgate Church Sunday

At Westgate Methodist Church Sunday, the worship service will feature four laymen of the church who will speak of the general topic, "The Layman and His Church."

The speakers will be Belford Lane, 149 S. Sylvan-av, Ray Boord, 604 Salisbury-rd, Royce Huegely, 254 Demorest-av, who will treat the topic from the young person's point of view. Harry Graham, 822 Wiltshire-blvd, will introduce the speakers.

The pastor, Rev. Norman L. Schreiber, will be out of the city on vacation, visiting a minister friend in Garnett, Kan. He will be back in the puplit on Aug. 28 to speak on the topic, "A Fall—In Three Acts."

Plenty High School Teachers

Dr. Clyde Hissong, state director of education, has announced that for the first time in more than a decade there will be an ample supply of high school teachers in Ohio when school opens this fall. Certification has been completed on 3280 new high school teachers this year, most of them recent graduates.

BRIGGSDALE MAN FOUND

Neal L. Price, 2135 Frank-rd, Briggsdale, has been located in Dallas, Tex. Price had disappeared after quitting his job at the Seagrave Corp. last week. He is married and the father of three children. No reason was given for his disappearance.

Camp Chase Post Meeting Tomorrow

Commander Dewey A. Stout of Camp Post 98, American Legion, has announced a change in the place of tomorrow night's meeting.

Originally scheduled to be held outdoors, the meeting will take place in the post club rooms at 8:15 p. m.

Plans for the motorcycle races to be held on Sunday, Oct. 9, will be presented for approval at the meeting.

Light Poles Erected At Race Track

New light poles erected for night racing can be seen in this picture of the grandstand at the Franklin County Fairgrounds at Hilliards. Racing on the half-mile track is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight.

Liverpool to Dublin. This morning the party spirit was much more evident when we left the flat country to enter the rugged, rocky and mountainous territory beyond Galway.

A suburb of Galway is called Salt Hill. It was in this section that the famous Lord Haw Haw lived as a boy and young man. Our guide told us a little of the history of these parts and the tribes of Galway who originally settled here and maintained separate kingdoms. Some of the houses around here date back to the year 1200.

Gypsies were to be seen frequently along the road.

Midmorning refreshments were obtained in the little town of Spiddle—this is fishing village. Earlier we had seen sailpowered fishing smacks on the Bay. In this town, as in most of the others, women seemed to dress in black shawls covering their head and shoulders. We saw some walking the streets in black shawls and bare feet. Also along the road we had seen a primitive means of transportation — donkeys with wicker baskets suspended over their sides. Two wheeled donkey carts were frequent and the driver usually walked beside the animal instead of riding in the cart.

At a crossroads point which was called the village of Costello we saw an old country animal fair. This was in the mountains. Here on the roadway where the animals blocked our travel, the farmers offered their stock for sale or traded them with other farmers.

Our travel this morning took us through the Connemara mountains, of which the 12 Bens were outstanding as individual high hills stretching for several miles almost as far as one could see.

At Leenan in these mountains we had lunch at a mountain hotel and spent an enjoyable two hours walking about the adjoining grounds and admiring the combination of mountains and fiord. In this one fiord the entire British Navy could be safely harboured although the water is less than a half mile wide.

Tea this afternoon was at Clifton, a modern town in the midst of the mountains and lakes of Galway country.

Between Clifton and Galway we stopped to inspect a peat bog which was being cut to provide Ireland's fuel supply. While the ground underfoot was solid, it was a strange feeling we had when we walked on it. It bounced just like walking on a very stiff mattress. We saw here also some of the raw material used for making thatched roofs and we also saw what is known as peat cotton, a white down flower which looks and feels almost exactly like a cotton bowl.

In another village on our return we saw a native village funeral. There were no cars and no hearse. Preceding the walking mourners, four pallbearers carried a brightly painted coffin on their shoulders to the local church. Our guide told us that hearses are often used but that it is an extra mark of respect to the deceased to have the body carried to the church on the shoulders of the mourners.

Tonight I took another stroll through the side streets of Galway.

Tuesday, June 14

When we started out this morning we went only a few blocks to the church of St. Nicholas. This is now a Protestant church, although when it was first built in the early part of the 13th Century it was Catholic. Christopher Columbus is supposed to have prayed here before he set sail to discover America. The church shows every evidence of its age but it is still a very impressive building which can last for many more centuries. Inside the church are many reminders of the past. The tomb of one of the Crusaders is in one corner. Cromwell, who set out to destroy Catholic churches during the Reformation, stabled his horses in one of the chapels here and the hoof marks of his horses may be seen on some of the stonework. There is a stone grill work in one of the chapels which is almost like the fancy Wrought iron balconies of New Orleans.

Resuming our trip we were soon in County Clare. This section seemed to be more fertile than the areas we were in the past few days. We passed another castle ruin similar to others we have recently seen. There are so many ruins of old cottages and other buildings which have been left standing after their thatched roofs and interiors have burned out that it is hard to tell whether looking at relics of the past or the present.

Horses in this section are still scared of automobiles. On a narrow road our bus was crawling along to get past a horse and cart. A farmer boy was walking beside the horse when suddenly the horse took fright. He banged the cart against the bus, upset the cart, broke his traces and ran off. In doing so, the boy was caught beneath the horse's hoofs and was cut on the face. For a moment we thought he was going to be more seriously hurt. He was taken to a nearby farmhouse until a doctor could arrive. There being no telephone, a messenger had to be sent to the nearest village which was about three miles away. We had to wait about two hours for the doctor and the police to arrive.

Because of the accident our lunch hour was delayed until nearly three thirty. Following the lunch we roamed up and down the only street and shopped for sweets in the local grocery. We also enjoyed our first glimpse of an Irish jaunting car which was parked on the corner.

At Ennistymon we saw a real old world market. Hundreds of donkey carts were in the streets. The farmers had come from 15 miles around to sell their goods. Some had brought a pig, a lamb, a calf or some chickens.

A well-dressed Londoner joined our party to point out interesting spots. One was the original home of the head of the McNamara clan. Our informant was Mr. McDonough. One of his ancestors was the General McDonough who played such a prominent part in the Battle of Lake Champlain which took place over 100 years ago.

Our last scene of the day came after we had climbed up some grassy slopes to the edge of a cliff overlooking the Atlantic. From this point we saw the very impressive cliffs of Moher. They rise 668 feet of sheer rock out of the water.

Wednesday, June 15

Upon leaving Galway this morning we saw another native custom. On a street corner two women dressed in the usual black shawl sat leaning against a building. On the curbstone in front of them each had two baskets of fish which they were selling to anyone who cares to buy them.

As we passed into County Mayo I asked our guide where the schools were because we never seemed to see any. He said there were not very many and that most children had to walk six or seven miles to get to school.

We passed Lough Mask where our guide pointed out the former domain of a wealthy landlord by the name of Boycott. This man was so cruel and exacting in his treatment of tenants that they eventually refused to do his bidding or to have any dealings with him. From this affair we got our usage of the word "boycott".

We passed Croagh Patrick. This was the mountain on which St. Patrick worshipped in the year 441. Thousands of people make pilgrimages each year up this mountain.

Thursday, June 16

Last night and tonight we are stopping at Sligo. It is a much more modern and cleaner town than Galway although it is not much more than half the size. The shops, however, are still tiny. Most of them are not more than 15 feet square.

On our ride today we stopped at Holy Well of St. Patrick where he is supposed to have quenched his thirst during his wanderings of the year 441. A shrine has been built here. We had a drink of the cold spring water.

As we drove along the shores of Lough Gill we saw Yeat's Rock. It was upon this rock that the poet Yeats used to sit while writing his works, especially the famous "The Isle of Inistree".

Lough Gill is known as the "Killarney of the North". It is a beautiful lake surrounded by wooded mountains. In our drive we made a complete circle of the lake and wound up by stopping on the side of a hill way out in nowhere. Our guide told us we would have to walk "some distance" to get to the Down Hill Hotel where we might get some refreshments. We got exercise when we walked up and down hill for nearly two miles to reach the hotel. The scene on the lakeshore was worth the twenty-five minute hike down the stoney road.

The afternoon was spent in a carefree manner on the beach at Rosses Point about five miles from Sligo on the bay. Unlike most beaches there were no board walks or amusements. There was nothing but a bare sandy beach. Late in the evening the entire party gathered before a peat fire in the lounge for a farewell party during which everyone was called upon to do his or her stunt.

Friday, June 17

This is the last day of our tour. As most of the sight seeing was already done, today's journey has been mainly riding. We passed through County Roscommon and County Teatram. The Shimnon River was again crossed as we went through the town of Carrick-on-Shannon.

At Longford we stopped for lunch at Longford Arms Hotel. The town itself was dirty and smelly. The food was equal to what might be expected in a Bowery Cafe.

Tonight we are again in Dublin at the Hotel Shelbourne.

Saturday, June 18

After a late breakfast this morning we started for a walk about town.

We walked through the Dublin market where Saturday shoppers crowded the sidewalks to buy meats, vegetables or clothing from the sidewalk stalls.

A complete dinner from soup to nuts, served by high hatted chefs, was our delight at the Hotel Gresholm this noon. It was the finest dinner we have had in Ireland and the cost was only a little over one dollar each.

Having had one good experience eating at the hotel we returned there for our evening dinner. By the time we had finished our meal and walked through the Saturday night crowds to the hotel it was 10:30.

Sunday, June 19

Breakfast in the hotel and then the packing of bags kept us busy this forenoon except for a short walk through St. Stephen's Green where we were allowed to sit on chairs by paying 2d. each.

We then went to the Gresham for our last meal in Dublin.

We walked from the Gresham back to the Shelbourne. An afternoon of loafing followed the walk after which we hired a taxi to take us sightseeing on the way down to Kingstown and the boat.

Tonight we are crossing the Irish Sea to arrive in Wales about midnight.

Monday, June 20

Our train did not leave Holyhead until 1:00 a. m. By 6:30 we were in London.

Less than 10 per cent of the population of Arizona was engaged in manufacturing in 1948.

West Alumni Plan Stage Show Sept. 8

An all alumni musical stage show entitled "Do You Remember?" will be presented Thursday, Sept. 8, at the West High auditorium and will mark the opening of the new year for the West High Alumni Association.

Although this type of show has been talked of before it is the first one to be attempted by the alumni group. The show will feature an all alumni cast, including such outstanding talent as Frank Ongaro and his magic accordion, Guy Celli at the piano, "Ziggy" Coyle with his trumpet, and many others. Directing the show will be George Hardy and Bill Woolson, a radio advertising student at Ohio State.

Main attraction of the show will be an all star band under the supervision of Coyle and Tom Dale, both graduates of OSU. John Glass will head an all star quartet similar to the one that gave forth with such fine music at last year's Band Variety Show.

The show will have an all alumni stage crew to handle the props, also alumni will take over the ushering, selling of tickets and anything else to do with the presentation of the show.

Tickets will go on sale Sept. 1 and Joan Heischman will be in charge. General admission will be 40c while reserve seats will sell for 60c apiece. Tickets will be on sale at some of the neighborhood places of business which will be announced next week.

Rites Held For Father Of Hilltop Pastor

Help Can Be Had With a Record Ad

They advertised the position in a 3-line Record "Help Wanted" ad in last Thursday's edition.

Did that ad do the trick? You betcha — and they received "about a dozen" calls in response to it.

No matter what your want or need, your best bet to fulfill it is in the Classified pages of The Hilltop Record. You'll never know until you've tried. All you do is simply dial RA. 1125.

Ziggy Coyle Is New East High Music Director

Ziggy Coyle

William "Ziggy" Coyle, well known Hilltop musician and band leader, has been named instrumental music director at East High School this year.

Coyle, whose trumpet playing and band leading have proven popular at Columbus dance spots, is a graduate of West High School and Ohio State University. He played in the marching band at Ohio State and was popular at the undergraduate dances.

Upon his graduation from Ohio State last December, Ziggy became music director at Starling Junior High School. He says that he prefers his present job because he will not have to teach vocal music at East High.

Ziggy lives at 251 Nashoba-av.

West Side Day Nursery Is City's Largest, Oldest

Began When Two Mothers Brought Children In 1887

By Myron T. Seifert

A happy tradition lies in the history of the West Side Day Nursery, licensed by the state of Ohio, and used by children of Hilltop mothers, at 40 N. Grubb-st. It is not only the largest of all the five day nurseries made possible by the Community Fund but also is the oldest, according to Dorothy Clinger, welfare executive there.

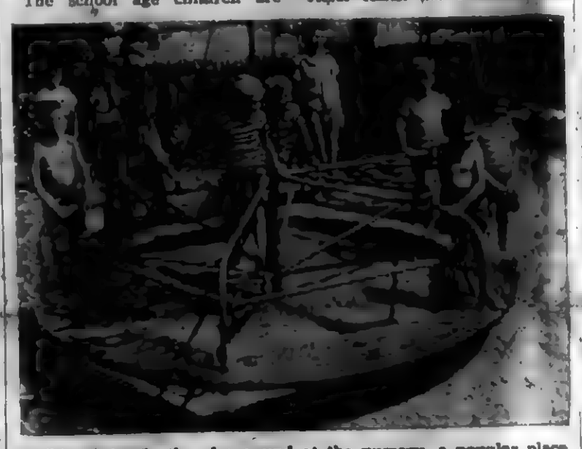
Formerly the Oak Street Nursery, the present West Side Day Nursery has been caring for the children of mothers who work since 1887, when it came into being with two mothers bringing their four children to be enrolled.

The day nursery is just what the name implies—a nursery and a school with a definite, constructive, social, educational and health program for children between the ages of two and 10 years whose mothers cannot care for them during the day. The West Side Day Nursery daily takes care of 65 pre-school and school children of this number.

At 6 a. m. the doors open to receive the children. Mothers bring them on their way to work, or sometimes fathers will bring their children and call for them later in the day.

The West Side Day Nursery at 40 N. Grubb-st.

The school age children are furnished with school clothes, newly laundered and ironed at the nursery. These must be put on the first thing in the morning and after a "cleaning-up process" and a glass of milk the children are sent off to neighboring Franklinton school, to return for a hot dinner at noon and a light lunch after school in the afternoon. Then they change into their own clothes and play in the enclosed yard or, in inclement weather, in the recreation room, until their parents call for them. Showers, individual tooth brushes, combs, face cloths and towels are provided for each little boy and girl.



Children of pre-school age spend their entire day at the nursery, and their activities begin just as soon as they arrive in the morning. Weighing and measuring are included in the daily inspection and physical development is given skilled attention.

If a child is ill he is placed in an isolation room where he is cared for by a trained nurse until his mother is notified and can call for him.

At 10 o'clock, a mid-morning collation of tomato or orange juice and cod liver oil is served with no complaints registered. This reason is not unpleasant and delicious vitamins A and C.

Free play continues from 10 to 11, always outdoors when weather permits.

After lunch the children who do not go to school are bathed and put in bed to sleep until 3 o'clock. Another play period follows the nap and supper is served at 4:30 when the mothers begin to call for them.

Nurseryland is an attractive place. Every ledge and table and chair is built for the convenience of little folk. Bright, cheery curtains and colorful china and napkins lend a glamor to the nursery.

The dental clinic at the West Side Day Nursery takes care of all the dental work of all the day nursery children in Columbus and any neighborhood children recommended by the District Nurses' Association.

The philosophy of this vital agency in our society is best expressed in the organization's Diamond Jubilee publication and reads:

"We believe that under present economic conditions, scarcely ideal, day nurseries are an imperative need in some sections of our city.

"We believe that the family is the strategic point for economic efficiency.

"We believe that the greatest function of a nursery can be conserved by raising the standard of the home through the education of the members of the family.

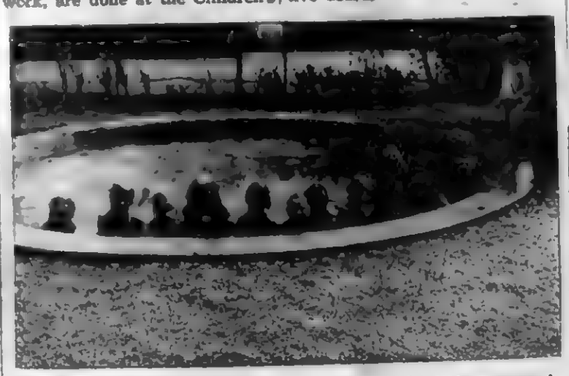
"We believe the nursery can cooperate with the school by caring for small children who would otherwise be in charge of older children, also of school age, but required to absent themselves to act as 'little mothers.'

"We believe that day nurseries will preserve home, improve home standards of living, lessen child morbidity and mortality, improve the economic efficiency of the parents, lessen the need for orphan asylums, baby hospitals, reformatories, and homes for the delinquents.

"Education work in all lines is important in the nurseries. School records are watched; kindergarten and pre-school work is advanced; social and economic education is carefully planned and carired out."

The pre-entrance examinations, as well as much of the corrective work, are done at the Children's Hospital. Dr. J. D. Richardson, Dr. W. D. Bower and Dr. W. K. Allen, the City Board of Health, the District Nurses, and several hospitals care for all the other medical work.

Camp Greenwood Lake and Camp Rogers Lake are hosts to a number of day nursery children during the summer months.



The Court of Domestic Relations, City Division of Charities, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Urban League, Family Bureau and others render assistance cheerfully.

The Shriners, Charity Newsies, Automobile Club, Needle Work Guild, and many individuals give help and pleasure to the children and mothers.

The active board dictates the policies of the nurseries and has the general supervision and management in charge.

The associate board is a group of women interested in day nursery work who were reorganized in 1940 and are now functioning as a valued asset to the active board.

The junior board is composed of young women and matrons, organized several years ago by the late Mrs. H. P. Wolfe. They render many services to the children and give generously for special projects in both nurseries. The progress of the juniors has been very rapid and today they stand as a valuable auxiliary to the active board.

Children splash and romp in the wading pool of the nursery's playground.

Lucy E. Dean To Open New Real Estate Agency

Miss Lucy E. Dean, 2335 Glenview-av, announced today that she will open a real estate agency on the Hilltop. Offices of the agency will be in her home.

Miss Dean is a member of the Women's Real Estate Association of Columbus. She was recently associated with James M. Stevens, realtor, of 1484 W. State-st.

She served as an accountant with the state for 13 years and worked an additional 10 years in local accounting work.

Hilltop Beats Morningside 26-22 In Swim Meet

Coach Bill Peterfy's Hilltop swimming team beat Morningside last week 26-22 in a meet at the north-end pool.

Ronnie Bolin led in scoring with two firsts and also swam in a relay race won by the Hilltoppers.

Eddie Whitehead won the 50-yard freestyle for the local team. Larry Gosset then finished third in the 50-yard breast-stroke for a point. He also finished third in the 50-yard backstroke. Bolin took first in this event. Bolin then took another first, his second in the meet, in the 100-yard free style.

Paul Navin took first in the diving contest, adding four points to the Hilltop score.

The Hilltop team won both relay races in the meet. Gosset, Bolin and Whitehead took the 150-yard medley relay. Dave Armour, Ronnie Dean, Navin and Whitehead teamed up to win the 160-yard free style relay.

Following this victory, Coach Peterfy hopes to arrange meets with other city pool teams.

— RAINED OUT

Because of last night's rain, the annual St. Aloysius summer festival has been postponed until tonight. The festival will be held on the school ground at Broad-st and Midland-av.

CONVALESCING

Mrs. Donald Malone, 325 S. Roys-av, is in Mt. Carmel Hospital recovering from her second major operation this summer. She is reported doing nicely and expects to be home soon.

Racing Under Lights At Fair Tonight

Top Pacers, Trotters, Vie For $10,000 Prize Money At Hilliards

Racing under the lights will be the big attraction at the Franklin County Fair in Hilliards tonight.

Post time will be at 8 o'clock for the evening harness races today and tomorrow. Leading trotters and pacers from all over Ohio will vie for part of the $10,000 purse money being given in the five racing sessions.

County Wide Registration Dates Set

Franklin County Board of Elections officials announced today that a county-wide registration of electors will be held in September.

The registration will include all parts of the county except Columbus and territories under permanent registration.

Reason given for the registrations were the large increase in population during the past 20 years, "to prevent fraud, to reduce the cost of ballots and other election supplies, and to expedite and increase efficiency in the conduct of elections."

Days of registration will be Sept. 22, 24 and 28, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. and from 4 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Voters must register at this time to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 general election.

Laymen To Speak At Westgate Church Sunday

At Westgate Methodist Church Sunday, the worship service will feature four laymen of the church who will speak of the general topic, "The Layman and His Church."

The speakers will be Belford Lane, 149 S. Sylvan-av, Ray Boord, 604 Salisbury-rd, Royce Huegely, 254 Demorest-av, who will treat the topic from the young person's point of view. Harry Graham, 822 Wiltshire-blvd, will introduce the speakers.

The pastor, Rev. Norman L. Schreiber, will be out of the city on vacation, visiting a minister friend in Garnett, Kan. He will be back in the puplit on Aug. 28 to speak on the topic, "A Fall—In Three Acts."

Plenty High School Teachers

Dr. Clyde Hissong, state director of education, has announced that for the first time in more than a decade there will be an ample supply of high school teachers in Ohio when school opens this fall. Certification has been completed on 3280 new high school teachers this year, most of them recent graduates.

BRIGGSDALE MAN FOUND

Neal L. Price, 2135 Frank-rd, Briggsdale, has been located in Dallas, Tex. Price had disappeared after quitting his job at the Seagrave Corp. last week. He is married and the father of three children. No reason was given for his disappearance.

The 36th annual fair, which opened Tuesday, is now in full swing. Attendance figures to date indicate that this will be a record year in fair attendance.

Future Farmer of America and 4-H boys and girls topped the bill on opening day as they took part in the showing of their stock.

Prizes were given to girls for their displays of home-grown vegetables in the FFA building. Other awards given to the young folk were prizes for cattle, sheep, hogs and truck crops.

Premiums at the fair this year have been increased by 20 per cent over last year, and the buzz of activity as exhibitors put the final touches on their exhibits and brushed and curried their stock indicated that the judges' task will be a hard one.

Thirteen separate departments have been set up to handle the displays and entertainment at the fair.

The fair ground improvements this year cost $50,000 and included the erection of four completely new buildings.

Paving the way for these improvements was the money taken in on VJ Day (Aug. 15, 1945) when 21,000 people jammed the fair grounds.

"Of course, we don't expect anything like that madhouse," fair secretary Arch A. Alder said. "It was Sunday and people had no place to celebrate, so they came to the fair. There wasn't enough food to go around—people were buying pieces of bread."

Entries in tonight's races are:

First race—Class 18 trot; purse $600: Sabilla Hanover (McMillen); Jack High (Keller); J. E. W. (Wall); He's It (Battles); Gene's Boy (Shilling); Professor Frisco (Van Matre); Dixie Merridell Dispanette); Lee Wyann (Hayworth).

Second—21 pace; $600: Connie Marie Counsel (Snyder); Flo Counsel (Shilling); Nellson (D. Butt); Atom Bomb (Smith); Selkawyn (Coder); Bonnie Spencer (Paige); Western Counsel (Battles).

Camp Chase Post Meeting Tomorrow

Commander Dewey A. Stout of Camp Post 98, American Legion, has announced a change in the place of tomorrow night's meeting.

Originally scheduled to be held outdoors, the meeting will take place in the post club rooms at 8:15 p. m.

Plans for the motorcycle races to be held on Sunday, Oct. 9, will be presented for approval at the meeting.

Light Poles Erected At Race Track

New Officers Plan Spaghetti Dinner

Newly-elected officers of the Clover Leaf Clubs of St. Anthony's Hospital are pictured from left to right: Mrs. C. J. McDonald, 251 S. Westgate-av, first vice-president; Mrs. Paul Jones, organizer; and Mrs. Anthony Froehlich, 404 S. Roys-av, corresponding secretary. Also from the Hilltop but not pictured is Mrs. Robert Doughty, 180 N. Chase-av, who was elected treasurer.

The new officers of St. Anthony's Cloverleaf Clubs have planned a spaghetti dinner for their first big event of their term. It will be served from 1 to 8 p. m. Sunday, Sept. 18, at Ryan Hall.

In November every leaf of the organization will make up a Thanksgiving basket for the members of the hospital. The month of December will feature a program of entertainment for the hospitalized. And in January the organization holds its annual card party. (Engraving courtesy Columbus Citizen)

Lamberts Celebrate 56th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert

Their fifty-sixth year of married life reached and successfully passed Aug. 10, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lambert, 81 S. Harris-av, stated that "our honeymoon isn't over yet, otherwise we wouldn't be married 56 years." A dinner was held in celebration Sunday, Aug. 7, at the home of one of their sons, Rev. Harry Lambert, West Bedford, O.

They have another son, John, in Borger, Tex., two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Roberts, 2911 Olive-st, Mrs. Dwight Poulson, 160 S. Warren-av; several grandchildren, two from the Hilltop, Mrs. Clarence Snyder, Jr., 339 S. Warren-av, and Mrs. Ralph Briggs, 2736 Sutton-av, and four great grandchildren.

Still agile enough to work in their garden and do all their housework (Mr. Lambert is 77, Mrs. Lambert, 80), they go to Florida every winter and are looking forward to the trip this year.

The couple met in Columbus in 1892 and were married in Winterset, O., in 1893. They immediately set up housekeeping in the north end of Columbus, but later moved to Whitethorne-av. Since then they have lived at 27 Broadlawn-av and 93 S. Harris-av. They came to their present address five years ago and all in all have spent 68 years on the Hilltop.

Mr. Lambert commented on the "phenomenal growth" of the Hilltop, saying that when they moved to Whitethorne-av it was still almost a "wilderness."

He was an express messenger, for the railroad until he retired 12 years ago.

And Have Not Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

BEATRICE looked at the telephone. Why wouldn't it ring? Why wouldn't it ring, and when she picked it up it would be Porter's voice washing away her despair? The pensive face of Bessie Watson with its undertones of tragedy rose up before her. He fair, Beatrice thought. If you are the angry wife slashed by jealousy you will have no reason, no dignity, no hope to win a victory in your marriage. I don't want weapons. I don't want to stand on my record, whatever it is. I don't want to be remembered for the entertaining I have done for his friends, for the good house I keep, for the quality of food and drink that is served here, or even that I am the mother of his child. I simply want to be the woman he wants more than any woman in the world. And all of these things that surround us are only meaningless possessions—shackles—unless Porter and I feel that we have voluntarily selected each other. Anything less than that would be a bitter, intolerable compromise that would make emotional cripples of both of us and Marianne would grow up to be a bag of uncertainty between mountains in ruin.

Excitement ran through her nerves as the telephone rang. She let it ring several times as she stared at it with a hope so profound it was akin to prayer.

"Hello," Beatrice said finally.

"This is Libby, Bee."

"Oh. How are you?"

"Swell," Libby said. "I am. Really. I'm not kidding. Welcome home, darling."

"Thanks. I came home last night."

"I thought it was about time. How is Cecily?"

"Never better." Never better, her thoughts echoed. Never better. "Jane stopped in to see me this morning."

"She did? What—I hope—"

"No," Beatrice assured her. "She had me on her mind, and she hasn't been here for weeks. Nothing is wrong at all. She's come through beautifully."

"She has," Libby said with obvious pride. "And Dick and Helen are doing a splendid job with her. They seem to know more than I did what was good for her. Never mind. I know. I can take it." Her voice halted and then she said, "Bee."

"Yes, Libby."

"David found me."

"David?"

"Yes. I was feeding the birds, and when I turned around, there he was."

"You said that the people who served would find you. Remember?"

Libby laughed. "Did I say that really? He came all the way out here on the bus that day, and every day since. And I can't... I mean I'm not doing anything to make him fall in love with me. I tried so hard before, and failed so wretchedly." She laughed again. "We don't do anything. We take a walk, and sit by the lake, and say how nice it would be if there were some fish in it to catch, and one afternoon he fell asleep in the living room."

"You don't have to try."

"I'm not. I don't. It's funny, but it's just as though we had just met and there hadn't been any of that other terrible business. I've sold everything in the apartment and arranged for Bessie's income. I'm free. Unfettered and free, Bee!"

"And there's still time."

"Yes, there's lots of time because there's more of it here in the country. That's all there is to say now—that David found me, and it's like a shelter that has depth and warmth. I was so cold, so isolated from feeling and didn't know it. My feelings are on the surface, and maybe I'm wearing my heart on my sleeve, but I'd rather feel and give and believe even if I don't make the grade with him. But I am loving, Bee, loving him and not denying it to myself any more."

"You know how I wish all good things for you, Libby."

"The best is to come. I believe that sincerely because no matter what it is, I can take it and live with it. I can even be lonely." She paused a moment and then she said, "Maybe I should have written you a letter instead of talking your ear off when you probably have a thousand things to do today."

"Nothing more important than to learn that David found you."

"Thanks, darling. Good-bye for now."

"Good-bye, Libby."

And that is how it is, Beatrice thought. She felt like laughing and crying at once. She could not tell Libby how much she had sounded like Clara, her mother, today, and that for her—for Beatrice—the sound of Clara's voice would always be the sound of love. And it was to that that David was going, that was making him ride miles by bus to take a walk, and to sit by a lake, and to fall asleep in the living room in which everything had been mellowed by good living. He would not recognize it at once probably. He wouldn't know what it was exactly that compelled him toward a woman for whom so recently he had felt a mixture of pity and disgust, that had sent him away determined not to see her again, and convinced as only a man can be that he had been wasting his time. Doubtless boredom and loneliness had made him search for Libby in a city in which he did not know many people and he had probably been curious to discover the reason for her change of address. In any event he had found her, and there was no reason for him to go to a great deal of inconvenience to see her again unless he had wanted almost profoundly to do so. And when some weeks hence the first of April came, David would find that he had drifted into a relationship so surprisingly dear to him that he would want it enhanced and enriched by marriage.

For a few minutes Beatrice let herself be enveloped in the warm refuge of dreaming that for which she fervently hoped for both of them, her dearest friends. Cecily had been wrong, she thought, when she had said that she, Beatrice, and David complemented each other. It was rather David and Libby who did. The blending of these two rich dramatic personalities, both spectacularly handsome, could mean a union of extraordinary depth and beauty and loyalty.

It must have been quite a long time that she sat there in a state of complete physical inertia. She did not know. She did not care. Time was nothing now, and she had for so long lived by the authority of the clock and the notes in her engagement book that told her where she was going whether she wanted to go or not.

She picked up the engagement book, opened it and then with quiet deliberation tore out every page on which there was writing. Then she tore those pages into fine bits and got up and walked across the room and dropped the pieces into a basket.

Unfettered, Libby had said. Unfettered and free. That for time, Beatrice thought. That for commitments not of my own choosing.

She took a sports coat from her closet and put it on, and picked up her gloves and purse. Her foot was upon the stairs when the telephone rang again. This time she hesitated so long that it stopped, and she knew that Frances had answered it in the kitchen. Beatrice went back to her room and picked it up.

"Hello. It's all right, Frances. I have it."

The click told her that Frances had hung up.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

South of Union-st, below Sullivant-av is a new section which extends to Mound-st from Butler to Hilltonia-av. Drive down there some evening and watch these homes going up.

The brick one-floor plan jobs already built on Butler-av (between Whitethorne and Belvidere)) are brought out into the open, as it were, with different color schemes. Some are trimmed in green, some in yellow, burnt orange and quite a few in white and in cream color.

This section is so clean they use their vacuum cleaners outdoors. Well, they do—honestly. I saw it with my four eyes. I've seen them use them for spraying flowers and shrubs, cleaning cars and blowing spider-webs off porches. They use vacuum cleaners to spray paint on their outdoor furniture. It't be a good idea to install electric plugs in sidewalks as they build. More convenient, though, to steal some of the electricity from the street lights.

Did I say street lights? Well, I mean if we all had street lights. We'll get them, though. When the High Ridge Civic Association reconvenes this fall we're going to pull hard to get lamp lighters or something.

These short short streets are really filled with the "shorts." Shorts are pushing lawnmowers and baby buggies. Shorts are hanging clothes in the back yard. Shorts are sprinkling lawns and washing cars.

See you next week.

Rea-Bow News

By Jo Ann Kidd

Twelve birthdays were observed at a dinner given for relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Kimberling at 875 Midland-av. Those who took part were Mr. and Mrs. Okey Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Holland and son, Richard, Mrs. Ona Hesson, Gerald and Arnold Myers of Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., Mrs. Esther Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Caulos Huffman and three children, Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers and four children of Washington C. H., Mrs. Lena Higginbotham, daughter Beulah, and son, William, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knapp and Melba of Grove City, Glen Myers and Bill Gray of Pt. Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kidd and two children of Huntsv, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Jackson and three children of Midland-av, Mr. and Mrs Norman Kimberling of Midland-av and Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Kidd and Jimmie of Vadis-st.

Those who had birthdays during August were Mrs. Okay Myers, Mrs. Ona Hesson, Mrs. Esther Gray, Mrs. John Rodgers, Sharron Huffman, Mrs. Hobert Kidd, Roy Lee Jackson, Norman Kimberling, Clara M. Kidd, Mrs. Higganbotham and son, William Higganbotham.

Other visitors during the day were Ralph Barnett, Louise McGrew, Jim Hickman and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Edwards and son of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brokamp and family of Clarendon-av and Mr. and Mrs. George Wolfe of Midland-av attended a picnic Aug. 10 given by the Franklin County Engineer employes at Camp Mary Orton.

Mrs. Lula Kasper of Whitehead-rd were visited last week by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Baugh of Ashland, Ky. The Baughs were also visitors at Rea-Bow social Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Kidd and family of 2259 Vadis-st were visited last Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Raney and Virginia Ann of Galloway.

Mrs. Roscoe Thompson of 2400 Eakin-rd is much improved after a serious operation two months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dellinger of 2252 Whitehead-rd were visited Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Buster Harding and son of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson Miller and son, Kenneth, 962 Whitethorne-av, went to Akron Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morris at the Soap Box Derby.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Jackson of 908 Midland-av were visited all last week by Betty Rechter of Columbus.

Mrs. Ada Corbin of 907 Clarendon-av is spending this week with Mrs. Bertha Irvin at Waverly.

The Rea-Bow Rangers enjoyed an outing and wiener roast last Sunday at Camp Clime. Capt. Walters and Lt. and Mrs. Brandenberger accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Irvin and family, 937 Midland-av, were visited Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wheeler, Jr., and daughter, Ebba Jane, and Mrs. Arthur Wheeler, Sr., Chillicothe, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Wheeler and children of Darbydale.

The Rea-Bow Improvement Association will sponsor its third jitney supper Saturday, Aug. 20, at the hall at the corner of Whitehead-rd and Clarendon-av, from 5:30 until 7:30. Following the supper will be a Saturday evening social, with the usual music, dancing and singing and ice cream will be served. Proceeds will go to the building of the new hall now under construction, supervised by George W. Wolfe, founder of the organization.

MOVIES' LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

Film Studio Children, Too, Can't Escape 'Readin', 'Ritin', Ect.

TEACHER KLAMPT (right) welcomes her oriented pupils to studio schoolhouse, complete with bell (arrow).

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — While thousands of school teachers all over the nation are taking a well-deserved rest, thirty very special instructors in Hollywood are also bracing themselves for the fall. These instructors are the ones who teach the "child stars."

In September, when children will be going back to school, in Movieville, where things must be different, school will be going to the children.

Just in case your kiddies are preparing to run off to the cinema capital to avoid going to school, dad, you can tell them things are just as bad there. They will have to attend school.

What's worse, they are hounded to all corners of the earth if they happen to be movie children. The State of California insists they get regular instruction regardless of where they are working.

Had your kiddies been movie children a few years back, however, they might have enjoyed such classmates as Betty Grable, Lana Turner, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Deanna Durbin, Claude Jarman, Anne Baxter, June Haver or Linda Darnell.

(And though there were plenty of us who would have loved to help a gal like Lana in her studies, she happened to have been a star student, a fact which disappointed many boys, I am sure).

STUDIO SCHOOLS are, for the most part, temporary arrangements. There are two exceptions. At one studio an impressive stucco hacienda was especially built for the roster of child stars which this studio usually boasts. At another, in addition to a permanent room utilized as a schoolroom, a portable "little red schoolhouse" is towed to sets where moppets are working.

Although the studies are orthodox, the routine, as you can well imagine, is not. Law requires the kiddies to attend a minimum of three hours' schooling while they are working. Pity the poor teacher who faces kids who often earn as much in one week as she does in an entire year!

The teachers are first to admit that these children are not overbright. However, they have talent and sufficient gray matter to assure graduation. I have yet to hear of one of them flunking a subject.

Classroom activities are often interrupted by jokes. For example, this story is reportedly attributed to Mickey Rooney: the teacher had just asked who was the leader of Imperial Russia.

"The Czar," said Mickey. His wife? "The Czarina," he once more answered correctly. And their children? "Czardines!" Well, that's the way the story goes, anyhow.

PEGGY ANN GARNER goes over lesson with teacher, Frances Klampt.

Although these kids have a small bond of camaraderie in studio schools, they never can know what real school spirit means. To help in this psychological effort, the school board permits these youngsters to graduate with the school of their district. Very few have gone on to college, unless, of course, their options were dropped.

Elizabeth Taylor recently told me how disappointed she was when she received notice that a schoolteacher was accompanying her to England. Liz was being shipped abroad to make a film with Robert Taylor. No shennanigans for her.

THE INSTRUCTOR was with her on the voyage, and as soon as she stepped out of love scenes with Bob—right to school. That is now in the past, for Elizabeth has been graduated.

The stars are not the only ones who must receive schooling while working in films. Even juvenile extras must be tutored. However, it is noted that when a youngster achieves star status, he usually has a teacher all to himself.

The reason, say the studios, is because the star moves around so much from set to set and locations, that a single instructor is necessary to assure the required instruction.

Back in 1936 one studio found itself with a sensational child star, Shirley Temple, by name. They had no tutor for her. The studio appealed to the Los Angeles board of education and they dispatched Miss Frances Klampt, a substitute teacher, to the rescue.

MISS KLAMPT is still there. This might sound like an ideal job to most school teachers—but pity her. She has to answer to the board of education, the state labor commission and Darryl Zanuck!

When hundreds of children are working in a scene, such as one that perhaps reads innocently like this in the script, "urchins playing in the street," a hurry call goes to the board of education.

One teacher is required for every 10 youngsters at work. They must be rounded up after each scene and dragged into a temporary room where they are supposed to keep up with the studies they would be doing at school.

The studio school teacher is thus required to know just about everything from the ABC's to French, algebra and pottery-making.

A strange assignment greeted one of these hearty souls when she was assigned to Freddie Bartholomew when he arrived in this country. Her assignment: don't let him lose his British accent!

As most teachers, some of the star-teachers are often tempted to spank some expansive hides. But they cannot—it's against the law!

Hot Day Magic

By BETTY BARCLAY

Some days it's just too hot to think up any new ideas in food for the family, and yet it's just at these times that the family's appetites need encouragement with something a little different and tasty.

Mother will be pleased to have some suggestions for making meals more attractive on hot days. Here then are recipes she will wish to keep on hand in order to try their magic on the family soon. Two are appetising main dishes — either of them excellent with a green salad and a fruit dessert. The first one, Baked Deviled Eggs, calls for only ten minutes baking time. The other combines salmon with the new quick-cooking rice. And for a dessert which features the most popular seasonal fruit — peaches — try this so-easy "Crisp".

Baked Deviled Eggs

6 hard-cooked eggs, cut in halves lengthwise
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ to 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
½ teaspoon chopped chives or onion
2 tablespoons butter or other fat
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup 40% bran flakes, slightly crushed

Remove egg yolks, mash with a fork, add salt, pepper, mustard, mayonnaise, and chives. Fill whites with mixture. Arrange in greased shallow baking dish. Melt butter, add flour, and stir until smooth. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly until thickened. Add salt and pepper. Pour sauce around eggs and sprinkle with bran flakes. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes, or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

Rice and Salmon Patties

½ package (¾ cup) pre-cooked rice
1 cup water
2 cups (1-pound can) salmon, drained and flaked
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon minced onion
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup finely crushed cereal

Combine pre-cooked rice and water in saucepan. Bring to a full rolling boil. Remove from heat, cover, and let stand 10 minutes. Add salmon, mayonnaise, lemon juice, onion, salt, and pepper and mix until well blended. Let stand 5 minutes. Shape into 8 or 10 patties and roll in cereal flaked. Arrange on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes, or until browned. Serve with chili sauce. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Wheat flakes, corn flakes, or 40% bran flakes may be used.

Fresh Peach Crisp

8 cups sliced fresh peaches
½ teaspoon lemon juice
½ to 1 tablespoons sugar or honey
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1½ cups raisin bran, 40% bran flakes, or wheat flakes, crushed

Mix together peaches, lemon juice, sugar, melted butter, salt, and cinnamon. Turn into deep 8 inch baking dish.

Cream butter; add sugar and flour and mix well. Add cereal and crumble together. Spread over peaches. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking 10 minutes longer, or until peaches are tender. Serve warm with cream. Makes 4 servings.

X-RAY SURVEY REACHES UP TO CHARLEY LUPICA

CHARLEY LUPICA, Cleveland store operator who has been flagpole sitting over his store since May 31—he's gonna stay there till the Cleveland Indians get in first place—gets an X-ray in Greater Cleveland's survey. The survey, under way many weeks now, has a goal of 300,000 tuberculosis X-rays. Charley says he feels fine. X-ray technician Norman Davis (left) "shoots" picture. (International)

SHE PRIMPS CHIMPS FOR STAGE

BEATRICE DANTE'S job is an odd one, but Maggie, a 6-year-old chimpanzee, is a well-mannered little ape as she allows her trainer to put finishing touches to her makeup before swinging into her stage acrobatics with Miss Dante who appears quite appropriately attired for simian shenanigans. (International)

With A Difference

By Betty Barclay

PRACTICALLY everybody likes ice cream — it is probably the Blue Ribbon favorite of American desserts. It never gets in a rut either, for the ways in which ice cream can be given that "different" touch are legion. Take, for example, Chocolate Marshmallow Ice Cream. Serve it to the family and let them try to describe what makes it so superior — and so different. One thing they may not notice, but which you will appreciate in making this recipe, is the short-cut to success that packaged pudding provides.

Chocolate Marshmallow Ice Cream

1 package prepared chocolate pudding; ¼ cup sugar; 2 cups milk; 1 cup cream, whipped; 1 cup (8 or 9) cut marshmallows.

Combine pudding powder and sugar in saucepan. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Add marshmallows. Cool slightly. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator, setting control for coldest freezing temperature. Chill about ½ hour. Remove to bowl and add whipped cream gradually, mixing well. Freeze 1 hour longer. Then return to bowl and beat with fork until smooth, but not melted. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Freezing time: 3 to 4 hours. Makes 1 quart.

It's Salad Time

By Betty Barclay

"ANY time is salad time," you are probably thinking. And you are quite right, because at least one salad belongs in each day's well-balanced menu plan throughout the year. However, salads are especially appealing in hot weather. It is refreshing just to look at a pretty, crisp, appetizing salad. When you use a gelatin base, there are many salads that can be made in the cool of the morning, set away in the refrigerator, and brought out ready to serve at luncheon or dinner in all their freshness and goodness. Neopolitan Vegetable Mold is one of these.

Neopolitan Vegetable Mold

2 packages lemon-flavored gelatin; 4 cups hot water; 3 tablespoons vinegar; 3 teaspoons salt; 1½ cups finely chopped raw carrots; 1½ cups finely chopped raw cabbage; 1 teaspoon finely chopped chives, scallions, or onion; 1½ cups finely chopped raw spinach.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add vinegar and salt. Divide gelatin into three parts and chill each part until slightly thickened. To first part, fold in carrots and turn into loaf pan, about 9 x 5 x 3 inches; chill until firm. To second part, fold in cabbage and turn over firm layer in pan; chill until firm. To third part, fold in chives and spinach and turn over firm gelatin in loaf pan; chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with crisp lettuce. Cut in slices and serve with mayonnaise. Makes 12 servings.

Russians Have Speedy Jets—Question Is: How Many? | Await Pole Envoy's Views On Vatican-Communist War

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Top defense planners are not too concerned about recent headline reports of Russian air might. Air Force leaders, supplied with intelligence reports on "jets so fast they could hardly be seen" at the recent Moscow air show say: "May be, but how many can they have?"

Their reasoning is that, with the aid of captured German scientists, the Soviets could and doubtless have produced a few outstanding aircraft types. However, United States leaders do not think the Russians have the "know how" to produce fast new planes in impressive numbers.

They point out that the United States has at least a dozen new jets coming along which will far out-perform the types familiar to civilians now.

It is known that United States aeronautic research agencies are working on a series of supersonic planes which will culminate with one capable of as much as 1,900 miles per hour.

Archbishop Joseph Winiewicz

● POLISH DIPLOMAT—COMMUNIST OR CATHOLIC?—Diplomatic circles in Washington are watching closely Polish Ambassador Joseph Winiewicz, as devout Catholic, for some inkling of his views in the Communist-Vatican war.

The diplomatic corps wants to see whether Winiewicz will stick by his church or go along with the Communist-dominated Polish government. The question came to the front when Pope Pius XII decreed excommunication for all members of the Communist party.

Whether this applies to the Polish envoy depends on whether he is a Communist. He has never admitted party membership, although he represents a government under the Kremlin's thumb.

Catholic authorities in Washington say that the Church will take no action against anyone unless he is an admitted or proved Communist. However, they point out, it is a matter for the individual Catholic's conscience.

Should he admit party membership, Winiewicz undoubtedly would suffer excommunication. Chances are he will keep quiet and keep on going to church every Sunday.

● PACT DELAY HURT ARMS BILL—Senate delay of Atlantic Pact ratification appears to have jeopardized enactment of an arms implementation bill this session. There were even some indications that opponents of arms for Europe delayed the pact voting with this in mind.

Ratification first was expected in the week of July 10, with arms hearings to start immediately afterward in the House foreign affairs committee.

However, the Senate debate dragged on until the July 21 deadline finally was set.

So the House hearings had to be postponed, and doubt has arisen that action on the arms bill now can be completed at this session. Congress tentatively is scheduled to adjourn about Labor Day.

● PREDICTION GALLUPED—The freely-voiced prediction that senators would do less talking in the absence of spectators has not stood up.

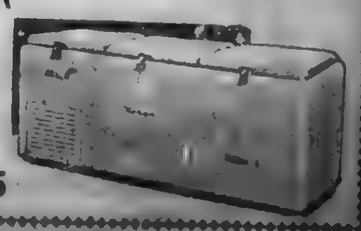
Debate on the North Atlantic Pact brought forth just as long—if not longer—speeches, even though the Senate is crowded into the old Supreme Court room in the Capitol, with no galleries to hold appreciative spectators.

Senator William Langer (R), North Dakota, opposed the Pact with a 70-page speech, and William E. Jenner (R), Indiana, spoke against the treaty for three and one-half hours.

There were, however, two notable exceptions. Not All Senators Garrulous

Senator Chan Gurney (R), South Dakota, ranking minority member of the armed services committee, didn't even read his brief. He inserted it in the Congressional Record and gave copies to newsmen.

Senator William F. Knowland (R), California, spoke for the Pact for 10 minutes and then sat down.



All the sound and the fury had little effect. Most of the senators knew how they were going to vote before debate started, and the result was just about what was expected weeks ago.

FENCES

Now that the kiddies are spending a lot of time out in the yard, you'll feel much safer if they're protected by a GRAVES CHAIN-LINK FENCE. These high-quality fences are an excellent safeguard against trespassers, as well as an improvement to the appearance of your property. They can be purchased on easy terms and we're prepared to erect one for you immediately.

Thatchers Doings

Thursday, June 21

We celebrated our tenth wedding anniversary today by taking long walks around London.

Before we could get started, however, we had to wait over an hour trying to get our Continental tour arrangements finally completed.

To get to the Blue Car Tour office we had quite a long walk which took us through Soho, the International section of London.

Then followed another long walk which brought us to Swann and Edgars department store where we had lunch. Meanwhile because all sight seeing tours were fully booked, we decided to do the town on foot. What direction we walked, how far we walked, or the sequence of places I have already forgotten. We visited Leicester Square, Piccadilly Circus and Hyde Park. One soap box orator was the only one talking in the park as we walked by. He was speaking on religion.

Near Hyde Park we saw the Marble Arch and in another sprint we came to Grosvenor House, one of the finest hotels of the city. Here we rested our weary bones in expensive upholstery and bought tickets for a tour tomorrow morning.

We walked through the Mayfair district where we marvelled at the luxurious shops and show windows. Berkeley Square was called to our attention with its bomb wrecked buildings and the reminder of the nightingale singing the square.

Another walk brought us to the park which is now the Roosevelt memorial. At one side of this well kept green square is the statue of President Roosevelt standing in a pose familiar to all Americans. The statue was paid from the citizens of Britain. As the late President stands on this marble pedestal overlooking the green lawns he is looking toward America, the country he served to his last breath. Around the base of the monument is a marble terrace which is bordered by marble railings on each side, each one representing the four freedoms—freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom from fear and freedom from want.

We continued on through Green Park, another one of the succession of parks runing through the center of London. Once through this park we came to the place which every tourist looks for, Buckingham Palace. The hour was such that we knew we would not see the changing of the guard. However, sentries in brightly colored uniforms are always on guard along the front of the palace grounds and we were able to see them as they paced back and forth along short stretches of pavement which were worn into ruts by their constant footsteps. At the end of each short march the sentries would go through a very precise stomping of feet, a similarly precise execution of the manual of arms until they came to "attention" in which position they would stand motionless for several minutes. Many of the lookers-on tried their best by wisecracks and side remarks to make the sentries smile or show some sign of life during this attention period, but as long as we were there we saw no one who was successful.

A considerable crowd had lined up along each side of the drive leading into the Palace. There was a rumor around that the Queen and Princess Margaret would be coming in shortly then we heard that they had already arrived so we walked on to the next driveway where not so many people were gathered. Here we heard that the Queen Mother was coming in soon but when she did not appear after we had waited for several minutes we went on.

Very, very tired and warm after all our walking, we still had to go, according to our guide, "just a little way" more to get to Victoria Station to start our homeward trip. It was just a little further than that.

At Victoria station we decided that we could see more of London from the top deck of a motor bus than we could in the darkness of a subway tunnel. A number 10 bus was close at hand. We boarded it and rode the whole distance of several miles to our London home. During this ride we got our first continuous view of the terrible damage suffered by London's East Side during the war.

HITS CLARK SUPREME COURT CHOICE

JOHN ROGGE, ex-assistant attorney general who was fired by Tom Clark in 1946, charges before Senate judiciary committee that Clark has "neither the stature, integrity, nor ability" to be a Supreme Court justice. Left of Rogge is Senator J. Howard McGrath, named to succeed Clark as attorney general. (International)

BEHIND THE SCENES in Hollywood

(Harrison Carroll is on vacation)

"KILLER" TRACY'S SHARP STRATEGY WINS A POINT

HOLLYWOOD—"All right, Tracy, drop the gun!" That's the first thought that strikes me as I come on the "Adam's Rib" set and see Spencer Tracy, revolver in hand, acting like Humphrey Bogart.

Tracy

This is supposed to be a comedy, but right now things don't look so hilarious. Tracy has just caught his film wife, Katharine Hepburn, in the arms of actor David Wayne. Sam Spade couldn't look more menacing than Spence.

But something is wrong! We can't see the gun. The barrel is black, as is the background of the scene and the camera fails to differentiate. "Hold it," cries an assistant, "while we figure out how to make it shine."

Hepburn shouts, "Paint it with butter." Her suggestion meets with hurrahs from the crew. "Make sure it isn't salted butter," echoes Tracy. This, too, brings laughs from the set

I figure they are just kidding. But they aren't. The revolver is quickly daubed with butter!

Continuing, Wayne grabs Hepburn in his arms and bends her back for a kiss. The Hepburn spine is at the breaking point when the irate husband, "Killer" Tracy, enters, gun poised. His words are ominous: "Don't anybody make a move." Hepburn is convinced, So is Wayne—he runs behind her.

"What are you going to do?" she quivers as only she can.

"I'm gonna plug ya both."

The interrupted lovers are impressed by this Academy award performance for they drop their champagne glasses and cringe into the scenery. Katie is evidently terrified. In the film, as an attorney, she has just defeated her husband in court. She was defending a killer.

"Wait," Hepburn shouts to Tracy. "No one has a right to take another's life!"

"Aha," says Tracy, "that's what I wanted to hear."

Tracy relaxes, raises the gun, opens his once-taut jaws and places the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth. Now Hepburn is really terrified. Tracy's teeth clamp down on the gun and he begins to chew it, smiling as he devours the licorice (flavored with butter) revolver.

I guess it is a comedy after all.

ROONEY, LINA ROMAY AD LIB "STAGGERING" DANCE ROUTINE

ON ANOTHER SET I find Mickey Rooney having the time of his life working in "The Big Wheel."

Although the film deals with midget racing cars, this is a night club scene. The set is crowded with extras and this makes Mickey happy. He loves an audience and he has one today. In addition to the paid audience, many visitors are on the set.

(Believe it or not, but I heard one of these visitors ask, "Can't they move the camera over a little—I can't see Rooney.")

Cameras roll and Mickey enters the club. He is stopped at the entrance by a head waiter's familiar words, "What is the name, please?"

Mickey looks up, then calmly pulls a ten-dollar bill from his wallet and says, "Alexander Hamilton."

"Of [redacted] Mr. Hamilton," smiles the maitre dee.

"Just call me Alex," says Mick and he saunters in, grinning from ear to ear.

He spots his gal friend, Lina Romay, who is the club singer, and rushes her to the dance floor. The band is peppering out a samba and the tempo defies description. But Rooney loves it. He grabs Lina and twirls, re-twirls and untwirls her. The tempo gets faster and the couple go into routines not included in the standard Arthur Murray routine. "WHO?" gasps Mickey. "That was ad lib."

The music finally stops and Lina and Mickey stagger toward me. I ask who devised their routine.

And that's the way it's going on film.

Local Theaters To Present Musical Premier

The Academy Theaters of greater Columbus will present another first run premier of a major Hollywood film with the showing of Universal-International's Technicolor musical, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," at the Old Trail and four other Academy Theaters. The motion picture is scheduled for a one week engagement beginning Thursday, Aug. 25.

Co-starring Donald O'Connor, Charles Coburn and Gloria De Haven, the film concerns the troubles of a young war veteran and his wife who live with their baby on a college campus while completing their education.

At the world premiere showing of the film in Chicago, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby" was tabbed as one of the best comedies of the year.

Everyone can look back on post-war headaches that have a chuckle in retrospect, O'Connor and Miss De Haven, as the young couple, stumble on just about every trial and tribulation in the book before bringing the picture to a happy ending.

Besides the laugh-provoking situations offered by the film, there also are three new song hits done by Donald and Gloria. These are "Just Look At Me", "They Never Figured Out a Woman", and "Men Are Little Children". Also, Donald, Gloria and Coburn team up for a rendition of the film's theme song, the popular "Yes Sir, That's My Baby."

The theaters showing "Yes Sir, That's My Baby" will open daily at 6 p. m. From 6 p. m. to 6:45 daily, and at the specially scheduled Saturday matinee, regular prices will prevail. Evenings starting at 6:45 p. m., and Sunday prices will be 65 cents for adults, 20 cents for children, including tax.

Results Are Rapid In The Record

We're always pleased to learn that the Record want ads are doing a good job of selling various items, but we take special pride in the speed with which many of the results are obtained. For example:

DAVENPORT, cut-velour covered, large and comfortable. Good condition. RA. 3855.

The above ad was inserted by Mrs. L. A. Prior, 611 S. Roys-av. She sold her davenport to the first caller at 3 p. m. the same day her ad appeared in the Record.

PIANO, small upright, apartment size. $35. JO. 1703.

Mrs. E. M. Grady, 575 Chestershire-rd, sold the piano at 6:15 p. m. on the day her ad was published. She received 16 calls.

Now's the time to "cash in" on surplus articles. There's a good chance someone else needs the very thing you have to offer. It's so easy to place—and charge—a Record want ad. Simply dial RA. 1125.

Free Kiwanis Movies Play To Full House

"Standing Room Only" has been the situation at the free movies sponsored by the Ritz and Rivoli Theaters and the Hilltop Kiwanis Club this summer.

Nearly 1000 Hilltop youngsters crowded into the Ritz Theater at last week's movie. Seating capacity of the theater is 850.

Tickets for the free movies are given out each week by the supervisors of the five Hilltop playgrounds. Children must have tickets to be admitted.

The final show will be held this Saturday at 1:30 at the Rivoli Theater. "Frontier Agent", starring Johnny Mack Brown, will be the main attraction. Three cartoon features will also be shown.

"Sorrowful Jones" At Old Trail

BOB HOPE BRINGS A HORSE TO THE HOSPITAL to visit a sick friend in this hilarious scene from "Sorrowful Jones," due Sunday at the Old Trail Theater. Hope is shown here with Bruce Cabot, Thomas Gomez and Tom Pedi, all of whom have an interest in the horse. The twin bill will be "The Hunted", starring Belita and Preston Foster.

MOWREY IN HOSPITAL

Mark L. Mowrey, 2935 Crescent-dr, is recovering at home from an emergency operation for removal of his appendix, late last Wednesday night, in Mt. Carmel Hospital.

He was stricken two days after his return from YMCA Camp Campbell Gard, Hamilton, where he'd been camp counselor for two months. Mowrey, son of Captain and Mrs. H. Mowrey, and a student at Ohio State University, was a February, 1948, graduate of West High School and a member of its champion 1947-48 swimming team.

Five Years Ago

Jim McClintock, manager of the Hilltop Merchants baseball team, has announced that the team has been invited to participate in the Junior Amateur Baseball Tournament in Pittsburgh.

Hilltop stores will close in the afternoon as members of the Hilltop Business Men's Association, their employees and families have an old-fashioned basket picnic at Westgate Park. Games, stunts and other entertainment are planned.

The Hilltop Record has to discontinue accepting pictures for the service page due to the large backlog of pictures on hand. Casualty lists for the week show one Hilltopper killed in action, five missing and five wounded.

Ten Years Ago

Janitors are getting the public schools ready for the fall opening. John Bostic is beginning his 21st year as janitor at West Broad Elementary School. New principal at the school will be Matilda Stuart.

Advertisements in today's Record included eggs for 23c a dozen, roosters at 15c a pound, fries at 25c a pound, butter at 25c a pound, 10 pounds of sugar for 49c, watermelons at 25c each and sirloin steak for 33c a pound.

Billy Born is convalescing from a fractured knee he received in a fall. His friends are invited to visit him.

It is a goofy world. The very same folks who, in the summertime, go to Dude Ranches and become "dudes" to all hands take great offense at the monicker come winter. Out in the sun country of the Southwest there are only guest ranches and the people who pay the freight insist on being "guests".

Bob Strope of Strope's Garage believes in beginning young when training children. He has taught his six-year-old son, Bobby, to drive the family Crosley. Bobby can guide and shift gears like an expert, Mr. Strope reports.

It was just about four years ago that the first and second atomic bombs wiped out Hiroshima and Nagasaki and took more than 100,000 lives. That ended the war and opened what is sometimes called the Atomic Age. But since the first atom bomb exploded, 400,000 American people have been killed by plain old fashioned accidents that could have been prevented. Yes, the atom bomb brought peace—but accidents bring pain and sorrow—and the war against them must still go on. YOUR weapon and YOUR defense in this war is the carefulness habit.

God's Gift To Man

In the story of Creation in the Book of Genesis, God provided that "the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life." He directed every living creature which the waters brought forth to be fruitful and multiply, filling the waters of the sea.

Thus was man provided with a source of food and livelihood which has nourished and prospered succeeding generations of His people. The oysters shells shown at this tidewater shucking plant number in the millions. The extraction of the oysters from them has furnished a source of livelihood and nourishment to hundreds, perhaps thousands of families. This is one of many similar plants to be seen along our coastal waters.

In the Creation of the world, God overlooked nothing in making provisions for human welfare and prosperity. Has man been as diligent in discharging his duty toward God, and in expressing each day their thanks for His bounteousness?

Every Sunday the House of God is open to those who would go within to commune with their Creator. During the week, various church services are held for the benefit of those who fervently seek to discharge their religious responsibilities to the fullest possible degree. Let us remember that Sunday is God's day and may we keep it holy by going into His house to give thanks for all of our blessings.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Psalms 92; 103; 136:1-9, 25, 26.

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, upon an instrument of strings, for Thou, O Lord, hast made me glad through Thy work.

Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him. For He knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust.

As for man, his days are as grass, for the wind passeth over it and it is gone; but the mercy of the Lord endureth forever.

O give thanks unto the Lord; to Him that made the moon and stars to shine by night; His mercy endureth forever.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 92:1.

Admiral Steps Up Production

An increase of more than a third in Admiral Corporation's production of television receivers —from 10,000 to 13,500 a week— was announced today by J. B. Huarisa, executive vice-president of Admiral. The increase has been made possible by the development, at Admiral's Cortland Street plant in Chicago, of the longest straight production line in the television industry, and by the installation at Admiral's Harvard, Ill., plant of facilities to manufacture 500 television receivers per day.

"Admiral," states Mr. Huarisa, started manufacture of television receivers only in February, 1948. Almost immediately it became a principal factor in the industry's development. And almost from its beginning as a television manufacturer, Admiral has developed a long list of improvements both in television sets themselves and in the methods used to build them. These improvements have been a significant contribution to the television industry, as well as to the buyer, for whom they make possible a better product at less cost.

"The importance of these improvements in television receivers and their manufacture is clearly attested by Admiral's growth, a consequence of the rate at which buyers have purchased Admiral products. So strong has been the buyer's preference, that during the first six months of this year more than 60 per cent of all television console-combinations sold by the industry were Admiral," he said.

Words of the Wise

Liberty will not descend to a people, a people must raise themselves to liberty; it is a blessing that must be earned before it can be enjoyed. —(Colton)

Wife Preservers

If you want to get an extremely high luster on a piece of furniture, try the type of hard wax used for automobiles. Also use the same cleaning preparation used on autos before applying the wax.

Household Hint

Always give curtains a lukewarm rinse—or several of them if they are quite soiled—before washing. Most curtains can safely be washed in the machine, but older ones should be slipped into a pillowcase or cotton bag for washing.

CONVALESCING AFTER PLANE CRASH

ACTRESS KAREN MARSH brushes up on a script while convalescing from injuries received when a big transport plane in which she was traveling crashed in mountains near Chatsworth, Cal., killing 36 persons. Karen's feet were crushed in the wreck and she will not be able to walk until the end of September. (International)

PUBLIC NOTICE

Common Pleas Court.
Franklin County, Ohio
No. 178004—In the Matter of The St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Rome

Notice is hereby given that, on July 18, 1949, The St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Rome, filed a petition in Cause No. 178004 in the Common Pleas Court, Franklin County, Ohio, alleging that it is a corporation not for profit, under the laws of Ohio, organized for religious purposes; that it is the owner of the following described real estate, situated in the County of Franklin, State of Ohio, and in the Township of Prairie:

Being lots numbers two hundred and seventy (270), two hundred and seventy one (271), and two hundred and seventy two (272) of the National Pike Little Farms Addition, as the same are numbered and delineated upon the recorded plat thereof of record in plat book 12, pages 7 and 8 of the Recorder's Office of Franklin County, Ohio; that the Board of Trustees of said petitioner has been authorized to borrow $15,000.00 and to encumber the above described real estate by a mortgage for said sum; and that, therefore, petitioner prays that the Court authorize its Board of Trustees to encumber the above described real estate for $15,000.00.

Notice is further given that said cause will be for hearing on or after August 26, 1949.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

Here's your reporter back again. This week has really been lucky for me because I caught about everyone just returning from their vacation.

To get things under way, GLORIA WHIPPLE and her family just got back from some wonderful places they visited. First of all they went to Michigan, came back home and then left for Tulsa, Okla., and St. Louis where they visited relatives. They got back Sunday.

GINNY COCHERILL and MARILYN CRAMER spent two weeks at Chautauqua Lake, N. Y., going to music school.

THELMA LOU MUGRAGE and her family are leaving this month to go to Lake Placid, N. Y., to spend their vacation. Here's hoping that they have a good time.

We have another birthday celebrator this month, and we caught her from her ironing long enough to tell us about it. Her name is SANDY ROSS and she will celebrate her sixteenth birthday the 26th. So an early happy birthday to you, Sandy.

JOAN BERGMAN and her family returned Thursday from their vacation. First of all they went to West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Atlantic City, Washington, D. C., and Maryland. Some of the points of interest that they visited were Valley Forge, Gettysburg, to visit the home of Francis Scott Key. They went on the famous boardwalk in Atlantic City, and in Pennsylvania they stopped at the Hershey factory.

I'm just about running out of time and space so in closing I'd like to give you the weather report of Mexico where the weather will be chili today and hot tamale.

Household Hint

If you want to dye a pair of silver slippers, better let a professional do it. It will be cheaper in the end. The silver must first be removed, and then the slippers may be dyed any color.

No person is so strong that he shall never need help, and those of us who are vexed by many of life's realities may easily appropriate efficient direction.

Record Carriers Now Serve Entire Hilltop

Last March an important link was forged in the chain of events that ties together the happening of a news story and its appearance in the Record in your home.

From this beginning we now have carriers serving the entire Hilltop. Forty-five boys and two girls, ranging in age from 10 to 14 years, leave twice each week to carry routes of from 60 to 144 customers. Besides the Record office, papers are picked up at three service stations on the Hilltop—Bill's Texaco Station at Sullivant and Warren-avs, Al Bretz' Sinclair Station at Sullivant and Woodbury-avs, and Wills Texaco Station at Broad-st and Brinker-

These carriers all work on the junior merchant, or independent contractor, plan, buying their papers wholesale and selling them retail. But they have proven to be more than just carriers, they have been advertising salesmen, reporters, and publicity agents for the paper. A week very seldom passes that one of them doesn't bring back a classified ad or a bit of material for the news columns that has been given him by a customer.

Here at the Record we are proud of our carriers. We are happy to see them developing character and business ability and fitting themselves better for any future work they may undertake.

Just a few weeks ago one of our carriers, Don Barber, 2021 Rea-av, was bitten on the ankle by a bee. The ankle was badly swollen and painful, but he reported on time to carry his route.

This display of loyalty convinced us that the experiment started last March has been highly successful in many ways.

Westgate Tennis Club Wins Match 8-1

George M. Ward, Former Safety Director, Succumbs

George M. Ward, 685 S. Roys-av, died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon near Broad and High-sts. He was 56, and had been ill since 1943.

Ward was a former Columbus safety director and has been executive secretary of the board of trustees of the Franklin County War Veterans' Memorial to be erected on W. Broad-st near the civic center. Appointed in 1946, he was the first to hold the post.

He has directed the work of selecting and obtaining a building site for the new memorial. Litigation to facilitate purchase of the land for the memorial was pending at the time of Ward's death.

Ward collapsed in front of 33 N. High-st while talking with a close friend, Patrolman V. M. Mayberry. He was dead upon arrival of the fire department emergency squad. He had just left Franklin Post No. 1 American Legion, where he had attended a weekly luncheon of former members of 166th Infantry Regiment in World War I, in which he had served. He also served in World War II as a lieutenant colonel.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lottie Ward, and a son, Earl B. (Jim) Ward, 589 Midgard-rd, a major on the staff of the 37th Infantry Division, Ohio National Guard, now at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

The Wards have lived on the Hilltop since 1922.

In February, 1930, Ward was employed by the Ohio Civil Service Commission as chief clerk and later an efficiency examiner. He left the latter post to become safety director under former Mayor Floyd Green in 1941.

Ward's principal hobby was the Ohio National Guard. He served with it on the Mexican border in 1916 as a member of the Old Fourth Ohio and went with the regiment overseas after it became the 166th Infantry in the 42nd (Rainbow) Division.

He took part in the engagements at Champaigne, Chateau Thierry, the Argonne and St. Mihiel and was with the army of occupation.

Ward was called to active duty in October, 1940, and remained at Camp Shelby, Miss., until February, 1942, as an infantry commander. He resigned as safety director to re-enter the army.

He then was assigned to the Southern Defense Command as a battalion commander and in March, 1943, was transferred to Camp Stewart, Ga., as commanding officer of the recreational area at Savannah.

Upon leaving Camp Stewart, he was made chief of staff of the Ohio National Guard with the rank of colonel, a post he held until his retirement from military life in December, 1945.

Ward was past commander of Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, and past chairman of the Legion's Franklin County Council. He was a member of the Exchange Club, the West Gate Lodge No. 623, F&AM, the Scottish Rite, and the Aladdin Temple of the Shrine. He was a past president of the Ohio Rainbow Veterans Association.

Rev. Frederick Kirker, pastor of the Miami Avenue Presbyterian Church and former chaplain of the 37th Division, will officiate at the funeral services to be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday in the Carroll Weir Funeral Home.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 6 p. m. today. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery.

'Roseanna McCoy' To Be Kiwanis Night Movie

"Roseanna McCoy," the movie depicting the story of the famous Hatfield and McCoy feud, will be the feature attraction on Kiwanis benefit nights at the Old Trail Theater, it was announced today.

The showing will take place Sept. 26, 27 and 28. Tickets are on sale now by Kiwanis members, at The Hilltop Record, and at several other Hilltop business places for 50c each. Proceeds from the sale will go to the Kiwanis Youth Service Committee.

Members of the committee in charge of ticket sales are Sam Alford, chairman, Virgil Cline, Eddie Eagan, Dan Storomont and Averille Thorn.

West High Registration Begins Thurs.

New students who have moved into the district since June should register at the school Aug. 31 or Sept. 1 or 2, West High Principal Irvin F. Young said today.

First day of school for West's 2200 students will be Sept. 6. Books will be distributed and classes started on the first day, Mr. Young said.

Final plans for opening of school will be made at a teachers' meeting on Labor Day, Sept. 5.

Bill McPherson Enters Navy

William D. McPherson, 237 Eldon-av, left Monday, Aug. 8, for basic training with the U. S. Navy in San Diego, Calif.

Upon completion of basic training he will attend a navy service school, where he plans to study electronics.

Bill is a June graduate of West High School.

WINS REFRIGERATOR

By giving the correct answer to the question, "Which of the following towers leans: the Tower of London, the Tower of Babel or the Tower of Pisa?", Mrs. Helen S. Carroll, 381 S. Ogden-av, won a refrigerator. The contest was sponsored by the Folger's Coffee Co.

Hilltop Youngsters Flock To Free Kiwanis Movies At Ritz and Rivoli

The Hilltop Kiwanis Club reports that all of its free summer movies played to a full house.

Beginning in July and running through August, the program included movies on five successive Saturday afternoons at the Rivoli and Ritz Theaters. George Pekras, proprietor of the two theaters, collaborated with the Kiwanis Club in presenting the program.

There was plenty of excitement at all of the shows, since the movies were the wild-western type that appeal to youngsters. Each showing also included three animated cartoons as well as the main feature.

Bob Cramer, chairman of the committee sponsoring the movies, said that all tickets were given out for the showings and that many youngsters without tickets were also admitted. Nearly 6,000 tickets were distributed.

Tickets were distributed by the supervisors of the six Hilltop playgrounds, Glenwood, John Burroughs, Holton, West Broad Street, Westgate and Highland Avenue.

Contracts Let On New Elementary Twp. School Building Near Briggsdale

Architect's drawing of the proposed new Franklin Twp. Elementary School.

21-Room Building To Be Built At Cost of $468,225

Contracts have been let and work will start soon on the construction of a new Franklin Twp. Elementary School on the north side of Frank-rd, east of Briggsdale.

Cost of the structure is estimated at $468,225, with an additional $80,000 for equipment and furnishings.

Contracts were let to the following bidders:

Knowlton Construction Co., Bellefontaine, $389,100.

Jamison Plumbing and Heating Co., Springfield, $77,225.

F. and J. Electric Co., Columbus, $21,800.

The building will be a 21-room one-floor structure of brick and concrete construction. The walls above the windows in the wings of the building will be of Vitrolite, a translucent building material. It will accommodate approximately 750 pupils.

The one-floor plan will eliminate steps and stairways, making the building safer and evacuation quicker in case of fire. There are exits on all four sides of the building and 17 of the class rooms open directly on play yards outside.

The lower grades will be together in a front wing of the new building, with one of the black topped play courts devoted exclusively to the use of the younger children. Separate toilet facilities and project rooms will also be provided for the smaller children.

In addition to the classrooms there will be an administrative office, a community library, a kitchen, and a large room that can be used as an auditorium, gymnasium or lunch room. This room will have special lunch tables that fold against the wall when not in use.

Features in the school kitchen will include a dish washer, potato peeler, and separate refrigeration room.

The floors in the building will be of a mastic tile covered concrete. The only wood in the building will be the furniture.

"Blackboards" will be of the new approved green color and of plastic or glass-based material. The lighting fixtures will be modern, some fluorescent.

The heating and ventilating system will occupy the basement and provide radiant heating throughout the building. It will also be used to heat the three outside play courts in the winter.

Water and sewage disposal facilities are expected to be available when the building is completed.

Walker, Norwick and Templin, Dayton, were architects for the building with Roy Wilson the engineer in charge.

The building is part of an extensive building program started by the Franklin Twp. Board of Education in 1944. Scarcity of building materials and high prices were cited as causes for delay in the building program.

The program included the addition of four rooms to the Skidmore School on N. Hague-av, the modernization of that school and the modernization of the Wilson Road and Briggsdale Schools.

Members of the township board of education participating in the projects are Elbert Becker, president, C. Joy Winters, vice-president, Sara Ely, clerk, Robert Jahn, Edward Clime and Lawrence Wells.

At the time of the beginning of the building program there were 1,272 children in the township school district. At present there are 1,685. There are 36 teachers in the district. Franklin Twp. has the third largest enrollment in the county, being surpassed only by Marion and Jackson.

Franklin Twp. High School students attend Starling Junior High, West Junior and Senior High and Central High in Columbus, and Grove City High School.

Frank Kirwin Suffers Heart Attack Yesterday

Frank Kirwin is reported in "only fair" condition in Mt. Carmel Hospital today following a heart attack last night. Kirwin was stricken at about 7 o'clock last night and was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

He is proprietor of Kirwin's Restaurant at 2449 W. Broad-st.

Glenwood Wins Over Hoge In Double-Header

Monday evening, on Westgate's No. 4 diamond, Glenwood Methodist won two fast games from Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Glenwood's Dawson and Hoge's Fulton went the full route in both five-inning games, and both were [illegible] the first game and none in the second, while Fulton walked two in the first and none in the second.

In the first game Hoge got their single tally in the first inning, when Hutchison scored on McFarland's double to center. In the fourth, Davies' unassisted double play helped Dawson out of a bad situation. With runners on second and third and no outs, Jones lined to Davies, who, making a shoestring catch, stepped on second catching Deinst off the bag. Glenwood's scoring came in the second, as H. Grashel doubled to left, scoring D. Lamprecht. Later, with Maxwell on third, Remington struck out, but Snider dropped the ball and made the play to catch Remington at first, allowing Maxwell to score Glenwood's second run. Again, in the fourth Bob Lamprecht scored on Miller's double to center.

The second game was equally interesting and replete with all the thrills of the game, from Remington picking his way through the crowd to stab Hutchinson's foul, to Dawson beating out a bunt down the first base line, scoring Dick Lamprecht in what proved to be the winning run.

Following are the box scores:

First Game

Glenwood Meth.	3	2	0	1	0	3	5	3
Hoge Memorial	1	0	0	0	0	1	3	3

Second Game

Hoge Memorial	0	0	0	0	2	2	4	2

Sesler Twins Leave For Meeting Sept. 3

John and George Sesler, 59 S. Oakley-av, will be in attendance when the International Twin Association holds its annual meeting in Indianapolis, Sept. 3, 4 and 5.

Among features at the convention will be an all-twin floor show, and various contests to find the most similar twins, the twins least alike, most sets of twins in one family, oldest set of twins, and the twin club with the largest representation.

Any Columbus twins wishing to go can make arrangements by calling Mrs. Maude Clark at L.A. 5592. The bus for the convention will leave Saturday morning.

Football Practice Begins

Mac Pemberton, West High grid coach, was greeted by some 150 prospects for the 1949 football team at the first practice of the season last Saturday. Most of the boys have been working out the past month in an unofficial practice at Westgate Park.

Last Saturday he had the boys all come out and took the names to know who his gridders were to be this season. Skull sessions will be held shortly with the coaches running through different plays with the boys before any ball playing begins.

Uniforms were presented yesterday and from then on the work begins. From last year's city champs Pemberton has five returning lettermen. They are end, Jim Rudolph; tackle, Cliff Wenz; center, Bob Epps; guard, Bill Orcutt, and halfback, Gene Brown. Rudolph is out for a while with an injury and Orcutt and Brown are out through ineligibility. The Cowboys' first game will be September 16 with Marion Harding invading the home field.

Herbert Davis Is In White Cross Hospital

Herbert Davis, 73 S. Burgess-av, was flown in by plane from Put-In-Bay on Lake Erie Sunday evening following a short illness and is now at White Cross Hospital where his condition is reported as being good. Mrs. Davis stated Tuesday morning that he is anxious to get out of the hospital as soon as possible and get back to the lake where the bass were hitting.

Wick Leonard, 3309 Sullivant-av, animal trainer and painter, is making the rounds of the county fairs displaying his painting ability. This week he is at the Madison County Fair in London.

Legion To Aid In Filing For NSLI Dividends

The Camp Chase Post of the American Legion, 10 S. Burgess-av, announced today that they will be open to assist veterans of World War II in filing applications for National Service Life Insurance dividend payments.

Members of the post will be on duty from 6:30 until 11 p. m. on Monday, Aug. 29, Wednesday, Aug. 31, and Thursday, Sept. 1, to aid in filling out the applications.

The applications will be available on Aug. 29. They will be distributed at veterans' organizations, the American Red Cross, post offices, and at the Columbus Veterans' Administration offices at 209 S. High-st.

E. C. Strickland, of the local VA office, announced that the forms will be comparatively simple, requiring only the veteran's name, address, service serial number and insurance policy number. He pointed out that the application can go forward without the policy number, but that processing these applications will require an indexing operation in Washington and will involve more time than an application which is completely filled out.

Veterans were advised to search all old papers from the VA pertaining to insurance in an effort to have the insurance policy number available when the application is completed. During the war years, Mr. Strickland said, wives mothers, fathers and other relatives who had been designated as beneficiaries by servicemen often received notification of the action, and in many cases the insurance number of the veteran may be secured from those old forms if they are still available. Inasmuch as the insurance number will expedite the processing of the forms, Mr. Strickland urged all veterans to make an earnest search for the number.

Paul Wichterman To Head Scout Nominating Group

Paul Wichterman was named district advancement chairman to head the nominating committee to select a candidate for Southwest District Scouting chairman, at the business meeting following the district pot luck dinner at Shelter House No. 6 last week.

Ray Eyerman, district finance chairman, was also appointed to serve on the nominating committee by Chairman Jack Sensenbrenner.

Announcement of the national roll call and uniform inspection for the last week of September was made by district scout executive Cliff Matthews. A round-table meeting, to acquaint members with the procedure to be followed in the roll call and inspection, will be held Sept. 7 at the council office.

The dinner preceding the meeting offered an evening of fellowship and home-cooked food to district scouters and their families.

Light showers in the evening hampered the entertainment somewhat, but the scout motto is "Be Prepared" and the show went on. Highlight of the program, arranged by camping and activities chairman V. A. Barbee, was the singing of "Songs of Yesterday and Today" by members of Troop 219.

Attending the dinner and meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sensenbrenner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chesser, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Klein, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spohn, Wellman Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Koehler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Blackie Aufderheide and family, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Northrop and family, Dr. and Mrs. [illegible] O. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. [illegible]den, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon D. [illegible]ford and family, Joe Goodman, Willard Meyer, John Stamer.

Paul Wichterman

Paul Wichterman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Harty Ventola and family, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brink, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Barbee and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Matthews and family.

PURSE STOLEN

Mrs. Pauline MacLam, 672 S. Eureka-av, reported to police last week that someone took a black purse from beneath a mattress at her home. In addition to $270, it contained several old coins and bills. Among them was an old Flying Eagle cent, one of the large-type $5 bills, three old silver dollars, and an undetermined amount of Indian head pennies. The old coins were valued at $10.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS NEWS NOTES

By Patti Holycross

Well, vacation time is just about over and that means that it's time to go back to school and also that we will be holding our meetings again.

I forgot to mention one of the girls who had gone on vacation so we'll start off with her right now.

JEAN MERSERVEY and her family (plus the dog) took a vacation to Canada and on the way over they visited Niagara Falls. Their destination in Canada was Honey Harbour where they stayed for about 10 days.

CAROL ECHOLS and her family have been vacationing here and there. I understand that Carol's little sister celebrated her first birthday so they took her to visit her grandmother who lives at East Liverpool and from there they went to Aspinwall, Pa., to visit relatives there. Their last stop was in Toronto, O. They are back home now and Carol has a cold to start back to school with.

BARBARA BRADFUTE has a new brother.

I was talking to RUTH HOELCHER the other morning on the bus and she told me that her dad was leaving soon to go to Cleveland for an eye operation. Let's hope that it is successful. Ruth was all smiles when she told me that a certain J. L. was coming home soon. Marilyn is working at the telephone company.

JOAN McFarland is leaving soon to spend two weeks in Cleveland with some of her relatives.

That is about all for now. If any of you girls in our bethel have taken a vacation recently I'll be very glad to hear from you, or if you have had something interesting happen to you, be sure to let me know about it.

Call RA. 1125 when you have a news story.

First row, from left to right, are Mrs. Ronald Churtz, bridesmaid, Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Overturf, Mrs. Jack Snyder, matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Morris, bridesmaid. Second row, Mr. Ronald Churtz, best man, Mr. Jack Snyder and Mr. Wayne Rittenhouse, ushers.

The Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Ellen Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Snyder, 570 Belvidere-av, to Mr. Rowan Overturf, 935 W. Rich-st, on July 10.

Preceding the ceremony, a half hour of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Richard Weinhart, solcist, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Grant.

The Reverend Clayton Lutz officiated at the double-ring service at 2:30 p. m. before an altar decorated with ferns, palms, white gladioli and seven-branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candle light duchess satin, designed with a sheer off-the-shoulder yoke, trimmed with seed pearls, fitted bodice and long sleeves ending in points over each hand. The full skirt extended in a cathedral train.

A five-strand seed pearl headdress held in place her fingertip veil of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a purple-throated white orchid.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jack Snyder, who wore a dress of blue moire taffeta, matching long gauntlets, braid headdress, and carried pink daisy type pompoms.

and Mrs. Ronald Churtz, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical dresses of pink moire taffeta, matching long gauntlets, braid headdress and carried blue daisy type pompoms.

Ronald Churtz, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Jack Snyder, brother of the bride, and Wayne Rittenhouse, cousin of the bride.

Miss Lela Snyder, Mrs. Wayne Rittenhouse, Mrs. Harold Haughton and Miss Ruth Ann Seufer were hostesses at the reception held at the home of the bride's parents.

Before departing for a two weeks motor trip to Salt Lake City, the bride changed to a light blue suit with which she wore beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

The former Miss Snyder is a graduate of West High School, attended Ohio State University and was graduated from Grant Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. Overturf is a veteran of World War II and served three years in the ETO. He is associated with the Snyder Trucking Company.

The couple are making their home at 570 Belvidere-av.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stauffer, Short Hills, New Jersey, Mrs. Paul Auerbacher and daughter, Christine, Madison, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Hard y Shuttleworth and daughter, Harriet Nan, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrison, Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Garrison, daughter, Bea, and son, Gene, of Ashland, James P. Shumate of Miami, Fla., and James Garrison, Mansfield.

CALENDAR

The Bethany Bible Class will meet at the home of Mrs. Ethel Worthen, 2567 W. Broad-st, at 1:30 p. m., Thursday, Aug. 25. The Bible study will be Matthew, Chapter 23.

Wollermans Take Trip Through Canada

By Hazel L. Wollerman

Holidays should be hey-days, hour upon hour of carefree enjoyment as you planned in your day-dreams. So when our turn came to wink at care for 17 precious days, we set out to visit new and strange places, meet new people, see their places of interest and share some of their everyday pleasurs.

The trek from Columbus to Cleveland, to Rochester, N. Y., was, as always delightful because of the vast acres of vineyards and miles of orchards.

At Rochester we went aboard the Canadian Steamship "The Kingston". After an all-night trip diagonally across Lake Ontario, the ship enters the St. Lawrence River.

The waters of the Upper St. Lawrence, between the rapids and Lake Ontario, are silent and majestic, quiet-flowing and dotted with the most peaceful of friendly isles. Rich in history, famous as an international playground, they have their romantic interludes. Such a one surrounds what is known as Heart Island, the site of the famous Bolt's Castle, built by an American millionaire as a gift to his wife. She died before it was completed and the castle was never occupied. Tiny Alster Tower, on the shore, was erected to be a playhouse for their children, but it has never known the sound of children's voices.

At Prescott, transfer to the rapids boat S. S. Rapids Prince is made and now the voyage to and through the rapids really begins. A nine-hour journey from Prescott to Montreal, where excitement mounts as the wild whitecaps of the famous Long Sault (pronounced Soo) Rapids come into sight.

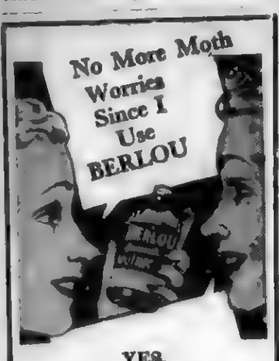
The long Sault extends for a full nine miles and throughout the first mile treacherous reefs and whirlpools and flying spray provide the most exciting stage of the entire journey. The engines of the steamer are shut off and she drifts faster and faster, carried by the rushing waters toward the long stretch of white-topped river. Carried along by the force of the current alone at more than 20 miles an hour, sometimes almost 30, the cruise ship finally shoots the main rapids.

In the specially-constructed rapids steamer today's passengers have cruised in complete safety along a thrilling waterway. They have followed the route of the old fir brigades, have a glimpse of some of Canada's historic sights and have seen a section of 20th century Canada built on its great facilities for power. Leading from the sea into the heart of the continent, the St. Lawrence is a river of history. All that and more is contained in the rapids of the St. Lawrence.

At Montreal the trip through the St. Lawrence Rapids ends. Montreal, the largest city in Canada, is also one of the most interesting historically. Docking in the harbor, we found it a place of great activity.

Seeing this harbor and dock, teeming with activity, was time well spent, while we waited for our car to be driven from the Rapids Prince. Montreal, the third largest French speaking city of the world is both of the old world and the new. In tiers, the metropolis rises from the river bank to mountain flank, miles of docks, freighters and tugs, a great world port. A huge tree-clad mass of earth rises from the plain, atop, a great cross which gleams through the night, blazoning the story of Christianity brought to the Iriquois over three hundred years ago. This is La Mont-Royal, shell of a long dead volcano, which has given its name to Montreal.

Mountain and metropolis of well over a million people, sit astride an island, set beside the blue St. Lawrence, which flows eight hundred miles down to the sea, after pouring through "Les Rapides de La Chine". The French explorer La Salle thought this the water route to China—hence La Chine. The 1600's and 1900's jostle one another, yet harmonize and lend to life a tang you will never forget.



Rested and refreshed from our over-night stay in Montreal, Monday found us motoring on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, to our destination for that day, the world famous old city of Quebec.

Amid the upheavals of modern times, we found that there they have been able to retain the tempo, the true atmosphere of old France, in America. We enjoyed the relaxation, the gracious living in the historic and lovely old province of Quebec. True they do have cities and towns as up-to-the-minute as today's newspaper! But there also we found quaint and colorful villages with peaked roofed houses, narrow streets and many venerable and sparkling church spires which took us to another world.

The river lies before you, the road runs high above the water, then turns inland for short distances and drops into a gorge. Then a climb high again and on through many picturesque towns and villages with two choices for entering the walled city of Quebec, founded three hundred years ago. Above, beneath and around a rocky promontory that juts high over the now-narrower St. Lawrence, spreads the ancient city.

Dominating the river is Le Citadelle, a nerve center of the fortifications which make Quebec the only walled city in North America. Stemming from the fort are walls that run for two miles around the old city. Ever since 1608 when Samuel de Champlain founded the city. Quebec has stood as a symbol of defensive might. Three picturesque gates still pierce the fortification. Part of the fort is now being used as headquarters of certain divisions of the Canadian army.

Marvelously beautiful churches with rich stained-glass windows; hospitals which are tributes to generations of sacrificing nurses; the narrowest street in North America; the Convent deUrsulines, where we were told a sanctuary lamp has burned since 1717, all this and more makes history. Everywhere history! We visited La Basilique de Notre Dame, built in 1647, now within the very heart of down-town Quebec. It was a weekday, the church was empty save for a few like ourselves who had gone in to see its beauty. The architecture, the beautiful windows of stained glass, the rare artistry of the Divine figures throughout the structure, the blending of the rich colors and the gold used so extensively all added much to the atmosphere, quietly beautiful.

And of course there is the stately Chateau Frontenac that great massive hotel structure, most prominent and beautiful building in Quebec, built highest above the St. Lawrence. High inland stands the massive pile of Parliament buildings and governmental offices, for Quebec is the capital of the province; universities, schools and civic buildings, all beautiful architecture.

Amid the architecture of Normandy, narrow streets scale the heights of the Rock, and one finds smart shops offering both fine domestic goods and imported rarities, in this city divided in two parts — the Upper and Lower towns. There are humming industrial sections, for Quebec's industrial development is important and diversified; it is the largest producer of shoe-leather and shoes in America.

We drove up to Kent House, once the residence of the Duke of Kent. It is Quebec's garden paradise, six miles from the down-town city and is now a very popular, luxuriant hotel, built up on the edge of a beautiful, deep, rocky, tree-lined gorge into which the magnificent Montmorency Falls roars to a bottomless lake and thence on to the sea. Montmorency Falls—higher still than Niagara, is one of the wonders of nature characteristic of the province. You stand on the brink of the gorge, you ride in a cable-car, just like stepping into an automatic elevator, the door closes and slowly you descend deep into the gorge where the door opens and you step out at the very bottom. You see the tracks and cables which operate the elevator and you marvel at the ingenuity of man. The power of this magnificent water falls is converted to use for the city by a hydro-electric plant.

We were loath to leave Quebec City but we were still only started down river towards the sea and La Gaspesie or the Gaspe Peninsula, a thousand miles of motoring grandeur was still ahead. Just what is this place called Gaspe? To begin with it is an enormous peninsula located at the eastern extremity of the Province of Quebec—jutting out proudly into the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic Ocean. It was on this eastern shore that Jacques Cartier erected a huge wooden cross on July 24, 1534, and took possession of Canada in the name of Christianity and for the king of France.

Read this column next week for the thrilling story of the landing of the Wollermans in Gaspe—just 415 years later!

Rats Cited As Cause Of Dog Disease

Dog owners were warned today that strict rat control is the only answer to a disease that has stricken hundreds of dogs in Columbus and Franklin County this summer.

The disease was identified as leptospirosis, known in humans as infectious jaundice. It is found in the waste matter of rats and is picked up by dogs that kill rats or eat food contaminated by rats. It is thought dogs also may catch the disease from following rat trails.

By contaminating food and water supplies, rats can also give the disease to humans. There is no record of humans contracting the disease from dogs.

Dr. Joseph Drayer, deputy Columbus Health Commissioner, explained that the disease can be eliminated by common sense sanitation precautions that will rid a neighborhood of rats.

These precautions include tight covering of garbage cans, elimination of rubbish piles and other possible nesting places of rats.

Symptoms of leptospircsis in dogs are similar to distemper. Warning signs are coughing, diarrhea, reddened eyes and loss of appetite. Dogs showing such symptoms should be given immediate medical attention, Dr. Drayer said.

Dr. Draver warned that rat control depends upon the full cooperation of everyone in the neighborhood.

"One person who fails to cooperate in removing rat nesting places will be responsible for the infestation of the entire neighborhood. It has been proved by statistics that for every rat you see, there probably are 100 more lurking in the vicinity," he said.

Let's Talk Things Over

I was at a party the other night—just a neighbourly get-together—and I overheard one lady say: "I don't know much about my husband's business. I've a full-time job looking after the home and the children."

And it's quite a job, too. Hundreds of thousands of women are doing the same thing. And the mother carries most of the load in keeping her husband and family in good health, in shaping the character of the children, in organizing the home life, and so on.

But there's one important part of her husband's business that she should know about. It's important because it affects her life, and the future of the children. It might even mean all the difference between security and despair. It's the matter of life insurance. If the unexpected should happen—and it does — every housewife and mother should have the protection which only life insurance can give.

Yes, that part of her husband's business is really important, and every housewife and mother should know about it. What life insurance has he, and is it enough to give the family a reasonable chance to carry on if the wage-earner died?

I'd like to step in sometime and talk over this important business before it's too late.

Let's talk things over—today!

Labor Must Cooperate In Lower Price Adjustment

By John Kelly

It is the intention of these columns—insofar as ability permits—to discuss everything we know about employe-employer relationships and the problems of the American economy. There is no bias either way; certainly no anti-union complex, as you will see as we proceed.

Regardless of labor's due share of profits and whether labor is getting it, too little importance is being attached to the value of lower prices. The goods one can buy with the pay check—real income—is the vital consideration.

It is agreed that people not only expect but now demand lower prices. No other conclusion appears reasonable in the face of further substantial additions to savings and the maintenance of sales at a high level of consumer goods, other than durables.

The latest department of commerce report revealed that total personal incomes in May were at an annual rate of $212 billion. This figure is only two per cent below the all-time peak last December.

June sales of all retail establishments were estimated by the same source at barely two per cent under June, 1948. With allowance for lower prices, this means actually a larger volume of goods and services.

In the meantime, overall production has gone down 13 per cent from 1948's peak, according to the Federal Reserve Board index. Our high and sustained rate of income and consumption can set the stage for recovery provided unfavorable developments are avoided.

The most disturbing domestic element is the demand for another round of wage advances. Such increases would raise production costs and make the necessary adjustments in industrial prices impossible.

Advances in wage rates heretofore have had an inflationary effect. They came at a time when everybody was in desperate need of goods, when incomes of farmers were steadily increasing, and when higher costs and prices could be readily passed on to the final consumer.

Now the daily reports of business show that the markets for both goods and labor have changed, and farm incomes are declining. Increases in wages, costs and prices under current conditions could have only one result. Fewer customers would buy less goods and less production and more unemployment would result.

Industrial workers generally and farmers as well have had the highest money wages in our history. They have also enjoyed the highest real standards of living ever known in this or any other country.

The job of business is to adjust to lower price levels to reach an entirely new level of demand. More competitive conditions will force greater attention to turning out products better and cheaper.

Letters to Editor

OUR COURTIN' VICE PRESIDENT

Alban W. Barkley, of political fame,
Escorted a St. Louis widow to the baseball game.
Mr. Barkley used pretty sweet language in the past campaign
And most of us wonder if he's figgerin' on poppin' the question "again".

I'll wager most of the crowd at Sportsmen's Park
Got a big kick out of watchin' the vice-president spark,
The Widow Hadley isn't sayin' a word,
Barkley might be old, but he's a gay old bird.

The election is over, he don't have to run,
Now he's struttin' his stuff at seventy-one.
Alban's in love, we all think madly
With a gay young widow, named Mrs. Hadley.

The entire nation is making predictions, but we'll wait and see,
If the widow gallops up the aisle with A. W. B.
It makes no difference about her being a Democrat.
She's a fine looking gal, Barkley can still see that.

Now the vice-president is getting a lot of notoriety,
But I think what the widow wants most is Washington society.
If she sues him for breech of promise, he still won't be in Dutch
For an old man of his age can't promise very much.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

"BEATRICE! Beatrice?" Mrs. Ramey asked. Her voice was irritable. Waiting annoyed her extremely. No one should keep her waiting.

"Yes, Mrs. Ramey."

"Thank goodness you're home. I've called every day. Didn't Frances tell you? You certainly were not in a great hurry to come home. I called every day, and no one knew when you were coming back. It isn't like you to run off like that."

"It was exceremly good for me for many reasons."

"Very well, my dear. Have your little joke."

"I'm not joking, Mrs. Ramey."

"New York must have been very interesting indeed. Usually you stay only a few days. But, after all, you do have a family, and a home, and . . . and me."

No, Beatrice thought, you have me, Mrs. Ramey.

Mrs. Ramey went on speaking rapidly. "You didn't tell me a thing about your friend Libby's moving to the country. Really, Beatrice, your loyalty to that woman and her whims. Someone who went out to see her said that she has stopped wearing all those jewels. She probably pawned them. The person also said that she was living in some perfectly horrible little house that belongs to an impossibly eccentric woman and that that man—that foreigner—is always there."

"I'm afraid you've been badly misinformed, Mrs. Ramey. Really, it's very different than that."

"You would say that if she were living openly with that man. What's the matter with you?"

"Nothing. I'm quite all right."

"Are you sure you're not keeping something from me? You sound—I've missed you, Beatrice. I've missed you dreadfully."

Beatrice was touched. "Have you, Mrs. Ramey?"

"Of course. I haven't been anywhere, and I've had nothing done for me."

"Oh." What a fool I was to believe for a split second that she had missed me for my own sake and not for what I do for her as her errand girl and chauffeur.

"If you had stayed a day longer I was going to write you to come home, and I'd have felt entirely within my rights to do so. I've never known you to be so selfish. And here I have been literally stuck to this house. You know I won't ride in cabs. I'm afraid of them, and the drivers are all rude and foul-mouthed."

I like cab drivers, Beatrice thought. I always talk to them. Once one told me about his canary. You wouldn't believe that, would you, Mrs. Ramey? You wouldn't believe that once a cab driver told me how bad he felt when his canary died. He said he'd had him for 16 years. That's the trouble with you and your kind and the fixed rigid pattern of your lives. You don't think that anyone out of your own narrow orbit is human. You don't think he has anything worth preserving. Oh, how you miss the rich little dramas of life because you won't ride in cabs, and you think it's degrading to go into a grocery store and buy your own fruits and vegetables and meats and talk to the people who sell them.

"Are you there, Beatrice?" Mrs. Ramey asked.

"Yes." But I'm not listening. "What do you want me to do for you today?"

"Ah," Mrs. Ramey said.

She has me in line, Beatrice thought. That's why she's purring. She has the rope around my neck again because she thinks I love the luxury of servants, and I adore wearing beautiful clothes on my body, and I revel in my prominence and dream every night of how rich I'm going to be when she dies. That's what she thinks!

Mrs. Ramey said, "I want you to come out and help me with my guest list. I want to talk to you about picking up the things I'll need, and making the necessary telephone calls. How soon can you get here?"

"After lunch. Not before. I'm afraid. I have a call to make first."

"So soon after being away so long?"

You'd think I'd been gone a year, Beatrice thought. And it doesn't occur to you, Mrs. Ramey, to inquire about my mother whom I went to see.

"So soon," Beatrice said flatly.

"Surely that person could be put off for me, and you could come at once."

"I've put it off too long now."

"You can be most irritating at times, Beatrice, most irritating. Very well. Come after lunch. Of course if you don't want to do these small favors for me I shall get someone else and pay her. My dear child, it is not I who should be grateful. Everyone knows what I have done for you, and your husband, and your child; and I shall continue to remind you of my benevolence as long as you act this way. Are you coming or not?"

"I shall be there after lunch," Beatrice said. "Believe me, Mrs. Ramey, it is not my intention to be irritating to anyone."

"You see?" Her tone was pleased. "You always come around. Really, Beatrice, I am so glad to have you back, that I shall be most generous and say no more about it. I'll look for you after lunch. Good-bye, my dear."

"Good-bye, Mrs. Ramey."

Beatrice arose, thinking, I am as close to violence as I have ever been in my life. Her benevolence. My gratitude. My soul and body. Purring, cooing, wrapping me around her finger, commanding me, ordering me, dictating to me, owning me—I hate her!

She picked up her purse and gloves again, and went downstairs. She spoke to Frances and then left the house. Outside she tried to breathe deeply of the cold air, but her breast hurt as if there was a weight in her heart, a stone. Porter, I need you. I've always needed you even before I knew you. And that's why I had the sense to know when I met you that my need had been met. That was the feeling of permanence I had, the sensation that I had reached the top of the hill. Porter, where have you gone with that girl?

Burgess Wins First Game In 'Y' League

By Joe Hutt

In Wednesday's games Burgess took a close one over the Hilltop "Y" by the score of 10-9, their first win of the season. Van Huse of Burgess knocked a double and then scored on an overthrow at first of Jack Martin's hit to third. Huse also collected two for four. George McCoy, "Y" third baseman, hit a long homerun in the top half of the third.

Burgess	0	2	3	4	0	0	1	—	10

McElwee and Koch; Martin and Grant. Umpire: Ralph Watts.

The Friends topped the Wildcats by the score of 6 to 4. It was a nip and tuck battle all the way. Beard and Lantz of the Friends each collected two hits for three times at bat. Potts, shortstop for the 'cats, knocked a home run in the fifth inning, which didn't help them enough to win the game. Ealy, also of the 'cats, hit two for three times at bat.

The "Y" was "on" to Highland in Thursday's game, after being defeated by them for two times. Ted Collins, pitcher for the "Y", pitched a nice game, the first one he had pitched for the "Y". Dick Wray, Y" centerfielder, slammed a triple and hit two for four times at bat. Left-fielder Meredith for Highland also hit a triple and hit two for four. Wilkes, who came into pitch for the Friends, pitched a no-hitter from then on in.

Collins and Hutt; Lantz, Wilkes and Beard, Bond. Umpire: Dick Slager.

The Wildcats played a one-sided game with Burgess in which the 'cats won by the score of 13 to 0. The 'cats' pitcher, Burton, limited Burgess to two hits, both by the opposing pitcher, Holt, the 'cat rightfielder, collected two for three. Only one other Burgess man reached first base and that was via a hit by pitcher.

Letter, Postcards From Keith Lovewell Describe Stay At Colorado Theater School

Keith Lovewell (of Keith's School of Dancing, 15 N. Westmoor-av, says she's "enjoying every minute" of her stay at the Perry-Mansfield School of the Theatre in Steamboat Springs, Colo. With her are Mrs. Harold Gillivan, daughters Claire and Mary Ann. The Record just received a letter from her in which she describes her interesting (but busy!) schedule at the camp, plus a stack of postcards which display some of the scenic wonders in the vicinity of the camp.

One postcard shows the "Sleeping Giant" mountain, a great mass of earth in the shape of a huge reclining man. This mountain is northeast of the town of Steamboat Springs. Another gives the complete area of the town and surrounding area. Keith quotes some of the points of interest, including Copper Ridge, Strawberry Park and Yampa River.

Another card presents a beautiful view of Gilpin Lake in the Roult National Forest which Keith and the Gillivans visited Aug. 15. And then there was also a picture of the famous Berthoud Pass Road which they traveled on their way to camp. The Mount of the Holy Cross, also shown, was given its name because of two transverse canyons of immense depth which are filled with eternal snow. It can be seen from miles away.

Keith tells in her letter that their trip out also was quite interesting and included a tour of Denver, sightseeing and shopping in other cities, and a climb of 11,713 feet through snow-capped mountains.

Her classes keep her busy most of the time. She quotes her schedule: 7 a. m., rising bell; 7:30 to 8 a. m., breakfast; 8:15 to 9, acting technique; 9 to 9:30, body mechanics; 9:30 to 10:30, beginners, modern dance; 10:30 to 11:30, drama; 11:30 to 12:30, advanced modern; 1 p. m., lunch; 2 to 3, rest hour; 3 to 4, dance composition; 4 to 5, stage production; 5 to 7, rehearsals; 7 p. m., supper; 8:15 on, rehearsal. Riding, swimming, fencing, memorizing, etc., fill up her spare time.

Keith is in charge of properties for "Brigadoon," a production which they gave in Loramie, Colo., on Aug. 18, in camp Aug. 22, and are planning to give in Denver tomorrow, Aug. 24. She also has a part in the chorus and has a "grand dancing part a little on the comedy side."

As property manager she has had to saw wood for swords for the men's sword dance, make fish for the fishmonger's dance, help keep costumes in shape, cut out milk pails from nail kegs, make imitation candy kisses and money, and build booths and trunks for selling plaids, milk and candy for the McConnachy Square dance.

And then, too, she tells that she has been memorizing a scene from "Merchant of Venice" for her drama class and is also rehearsing a comedy for a Saturday night production.

The camp closes Aug. 27 with a barbecue and awarding of honors. Claire Gillivan will receive awards and Mary Ann will be given a certificate in dance while Keith is working for credits in connection with the University of Wyoming.

With her school opening Sept. 12, Keith is already making plans for it. She will add two new departments this year, body mechanics for men and women and square dancing.

Mary Ann Gillivan will be taken on as her full-time assistant.

Short Cut to Variety

By Betty Barclay

ANYTHING that will do a double job for us during the summer months is pretty apt to have a strong appeal for the homemaker.

Well, here's a short-cut to a grand dessert that can be varied almost endlessly. Double-acting baking powder gives it the first advantage — it gets you off to a good start in making this light-textured sponge cake.

When the cakes are finished, you have the base for a nice variety of desserts — just serve the squares with a different topping each time. In addition to those suggestions in the recipe, you might give a thought to how good the sponge squares would be served a la mode plus a velvety chocolate sauce. Deluxe, don't you think?

Sponge Squares with Toppings
(3 eggs)

1 cup sifted cake flour; 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; 3 eggs; 1 cup sugar; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; 6 tablespoons hot milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Beat eggs with rotary egg beater until very thick and light (about 5 minutes). Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add lemon juice. Fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Add hot milk and stir quickly until thoroughly blended. Turn at once into two 8 x 8 x 2-inch pans which have been lined on bottoms with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven, invert pans on rack, and let stand 1 hour, or until cakes are cool. Cut in squares and serve with Fresh Berry Topping, Raspberry Jam Topping, or Apricot Topping.

FAIR SETS RECORD

Latest estimates set the attendance at the Franklin County Fair at Hilliards at more than 30,000, a new attendance record for the five-day show. Previous crowd record was 28,000.

If you smoke, the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce urges you to add to your cigar, cigarette or pipe the quality without which no smoke is a good smoke—common-sense carefulness. Have a smoke if you will—but don't have a fire!

Wife Preservers

You can safely sterilize a cellulose sponge in boiling water when necessary. Wash the sponge after each use in warm suds, rinse thoroughly and squeeze dry; don't twist.

Labor Day Raiders

By BETTY BARCLAY

Do you have little refrigerator raiders in your home? Or big ones? If so, better stock the ice box well for Labor Day, because after the parade is "hunger time" and Dad as well as the children might be peeking around for some in-between bites.

Here are a few recipes, suggested for Labor Day — and after:

Fluffy Orange Coconut Tapioca

1 package prepared orange coconut tapioca pudding
2 cups milk
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 egg white

Turn pudding mixture into saucepan. Mix milk and egg yolk, add to pudding, and mix well. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. (Mixture will be thin. Do not overcook.) Remove from heat. Beat egg white until it will hold up in peaks, but is not dry. Stir in hot pudding. Cool, stirring once after 15 to 20 minutes—mixture thickens as it cools. Chill. Serve plain or with whipped cream. Makes 5 servings.

Chocolate Icebox Cookies

1¾ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup softened butter or other shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup broken walnut meats

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Combine shortening, sugar, egg, chocolate and vanilla, beating with spoon until blended; add nuts. Add flour gradually, mixing well after each addition. Divide dough in two parts; shape in rolls 2 inches in diameter, rolling each in waxed paper. Chill or store in refrigerator until firm.

Before slicing, let rolls stand at room temperature ½ hour or until soft enough to dent when pressed with finger. Cut in ⅛-inch slices, using very sharp knife. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Applesauce Rennet Desserts

½ cup thick applesauce
½ rennet tablet
½ tablespoon cold water
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk (not canned)

Divide applesauce among 2 or 3 custard cups. Dissolve rennet tablet in cold water. Add sugar and vanilla to milk. Warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM, (110° F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, over applesauce in individual custard cups. Do not move until set — about 10 minutes. Then chill.

When School Starts

With school soon to begin again, Mrs. America goes back to an old menu problem. When the children come home at recess, hungry for their midday meal, it's up to you to serve an appetizing, nourishing luncheon that's always ready on time. But, of course, you can't spend the morning getting it ready. The best way to handle the problem is to list a lot of quick-and-easy meals that answer all requirements. One that the hungry youngsters will greet with joy, even if you serve it often, is a packaged spaghetti dinner. It takes you only a few minutes to cook the spaghetti, open the 8-ounce can of spaghetti sauce, heat it and pour it over the spaghetti; and to take it all, with a can of grated Parmesan-style cheese, to the table, piping hot and delicious. Milk and fruit round off a luscious luncheon. To serve the deliciously flavored chef's sauce at its best, heat it slowly, over a low flame, while cooking the spaghetti. Then dilute it as desired, adding perhaps half as much water, and stir until it bubbles.

Hilltop Accommodated Visitors To Second Ohio State Fair Nearly 100 Years Ago

By Myron T. Seifert

Comes state fair, and Hilltoppers, along with a quarter of a million of fair goers, will jam the state fair grounds.

History has it that almost 100 years ago (1851) the Hilltop and West Side accommodated fair-going folks, who came to attend the second great Ohio State Fair in Franklinton.

Yes, Hilltop's neighboring Franklinton-made a successful bid for the second Ohio State Fair. (Cincinnati was first.) It (Franklinton) was located "one mile west of Columbus (probably on site of present Mt. Carmel Hospital) south of the National Road and west of the turnpike from Franklinton to Washington on a 35 acre tract, well enclosed with strong fence 10 feet high, containing forest trees." Two spacious tents and four large buildings housed the second great state exhibitions. It was touted to be the "largest exhibition ever held in the state." The remarkable stride made in the premium list is almost unbelievable—almost a 450 per cent increase over the first fair at Cincinnati. The list advertised premiums in excess of $4000. Single admission to the exposition was advanced from 20 to 25 cents. This crowd proved to be more than the town could comfortably entertain, consequently, after boarding houses and hotels were overcrowded multitudes resorted to camping out as far west as Sullivant Hill (now Hilltop).

Senator Stephen A. Douglas, one of the speaker of the day, had just returned from the New York State Fair. His address, therefore, was a comparative account of the two fairs. Douglas did not spare words in acclaiming the Columbus Franklinton Fair far superior to the one he had just visited. He was then reputed to be one of the greatest speakers of the time, and the most eloquent debater without a peer. Lincoln's reputation as a debater was not universally known until some years later.

A huge poster, advertising the great fair of 1851 adorns the walls of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Museum at Ohio State University. Eminent men of the state served on the board of agriculture. The advertisement listed the following Hilltoppers: M. L. Sullivant, Sam Medary, J. C. Gest, Allen Trimble, F. B. Elliott, Jacob Pugsley, J. M. Edin, C. Spring, Smith Halloway and Arthur Watts. The following men served on the executive committee: Michael Sullivant of Columbus, Arthur Watts of Chillicothe and Jacob Pugsley of Fayette County.

The poster failed to note any entertainment features; so we assume they were tabooed on the fair grounds. However, street fakirs and museums of every sort lined present W. Broad-st. Fortune tellers even plied their trade here at that early date and several business houses of the town leased their buildings for minstrel shows and musicals.

Among the agricultural implements that attracted most attention were the reapers, mowers, sowing machines and grain drills. Farmers skeptically observed these new-fangled inventions and ridiculed, in many instances, their claims. Lightning rods, pewter products, plaster of Paris statuary, sketches and paintings provided novelties for the transients.

At the board of agriculture meeting in 1864 a motion was made that "all subsequent fairs be held at Columbus, because Columbus pays a greater bonus," to which a Mr. Gates added, "If Columbus will give more than any other city in the next two years the fair may, with propriety, be held there but I would not locate the state fair permanently in any Copperhead County."

A Delicate Air

By Betty Barclay

LET the poet sing the praises of "the lass with a delicate air," we sing of a summer dessert with a delicate air. We do not have to tell you that it takes a bit of doing to accomplish meals that require a minimum of work for you and a maximum of appetite appeal for the family. However, this maple-flavored cream mold is one dish that fits into that classification. It is quick and easy to make; it provides a light, but delicious, finish for the meal; and a surprise feature is its delicacy of flavor. It will delight you.

Log Cabin Mold.

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin; ¼ cup cold water; ⅛ cup maple-blended syrup; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1½ cups milk; 2 egg yolks; 2 egg whites.

Combine gelatin and cold water in mixing bowl; mix well. Mix together syrup and salt in saucepan. Add milk and egg yolks; stir to blend. Cook over low heat until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Pour over gelatin mixture and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool slightly. Beat egg whites until soft peaks are formed; fold into mixture. Then turn into sherbet glasses or individual molds. Chill until firm. Serve with jam, marmalade, or any desired sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Gillivan Sisters Attend Theater School In West

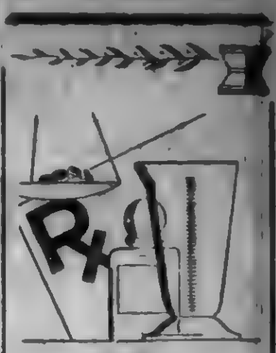
Mary Ann Gillivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gillivan of 77 S. Brinker-av, is studying ballet, modern dance, drama; and art at the Perry Mansfield School of the Theater in Steamboat Springs, Colo. Her talent has won her the position of understudy to the lead "Jean" in the musical hit, "Brigadoon." This is the first time "Brigadoon" has been presented by a non-professional group. Mary Ann also sings in the chorus and is in six of the nine dances in the production. Robin Gregory, the head of the modern dance department, has said that she is a great asset to the group.

Mary Ann's sister, Clara Jane, is also at Perry Mansfield this summer studying dance and drama, and recently had a part in "Stop Flight," a play by Charlotte Perry, director of the Theater School. Besides their intellectual studies, both girls participate in swimming, tennis, riding, and have been on pack trips into the wild Colorado mountains. Clara Jane is a member of the Explorers Club and has gone on many long hikes and overnight trips with them. In June she graduated from St. Mary Magdalene's and will start high school at St. Joseph's in the fall. Mary Ann graduated from St. Joseph's and will be assistant dance instructor at the Keith School of Dancing when she returns from Colorado.

Square dancing is popular at Perry Mansfield, and boys from the nearby Lowell Whiteman Ranch camp often visit for these occasions. Mary and Claire made a hit with a tap-dancing act at one of these square dance parties.

Keith Lovewell, their teacher for 10 years, is with them at Perry Mansfield this summer, where she was once a student.

At Old Trail Thursday



The football coach, Charles Coburn, and the psychology professor, Barbara Brown, pitch in when Baby Scopkins needs a diaper change during a dinner party in Universal-International's technicolor comedy, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," which opens Thursday at the Old Trail and four other Academy Theaters for one week only.

Impatience kills many pedestrians. Yes, and the pedestrian's own impatience is often the killer! Most people know the rules for safe walking. Yet they scurry across the street in a race with automobiles. They cut across the street in mid-block. They step off the curb or out of a safety zone with scarcely a look. The Safety Council urges all pedestrians to take it easy and take care—Don't let your own impatience kill you!

One of history's greatest underwater demolitions was the blasting of the nine-acre Flood Rock, near Long Island Sound, in 1858.

Parents, the Safety Council says, don't wait for a drowning tragedy to teach you a safety lesson. Teach your youngsters to swim properly; train them not to swim alone or in unfamiliar water; not to try swimming long distances, and not to stay in the water after becoming tired or cold.

Aaron Burr challenged Alexander Hamilton to a duel because the latter said he had a "despicable" opinion of Burr.

600,000 Hunting, Trapping Licenses On Sale In Ohio

Approximately 600,000 hunting and trapping licenses for the 1949-50 season are now on sale throughout the state. The new license becomes affective Sept. 1.

Any owner of lands within the state who has been a resident of Ohio for one year, also the tenant or children of the tenant, or manager, if having resided within the state for one year, residing on such lands, may hunt or trap thereon without a hunting and trapping license. All others are required to purchase and carry a license and display identification tag on middle of back while hunting or trapping.

Squirrel hunters will have the most immediate need for the new license. The season opens Sept. 15 and runs through Sept. 30, both dates inclusive. The daily bag limit will be, four and possession limit four, no change from last year. Hunting hours will be from daylight to dark.

Again this year the hunting and trapping digest of rules and regulations will not be available until late in October.

The Wildlife Council will delay official adoption of hunting and trapping laws until Sept. 9, following the completion of nesting and population surveys to determine as accurately as possible just how liberal the rules can be without killing off the brood stock.

Kids Are Smarter Than You Think

A father sent for his younger child, age five, and explained that early in the morning the gardener had found a lovely little baby sister among the cabbages.

"Now write to your brother Jack (his older brother at boarding school) and tell him."

The child, all innocence, wrote the letter and later handed it to his father for posting. The father, a bit curious, thought he would see what the child had said. The message was terse and illuminating. It read: "Dear Jack. You owe me a buck. It's a girl."

Joseph C. Nailor Succumbs At 71 Following Illness

Joseph Nailor

Joseph C. Nailor, 71, former member of the Ohio House of Representatives for five terms and an ex-city councilman, died Wednesday morning in St. Anthony's Hospital after a long illness. He formerly resided at 109 N. Burgess-av.

An attorney here for many years, Mr. Nailor had law offices at 63 S. High-st. He formerly practiced at 20 E. Broad-st and 44 E. Broad-st.

A native of Columbus, Mr. Nailor was orphaned when he was a year old, and received his elementary education at the Franklin County Children's Home and the Douglas School. He was graduated from East High School in 1903, and from the law School at Ohio State University in 1909.

He served on the City Council from 1912 to 1923, and was president of the Council in 1920 and 1921. In 1929 he was elected to his first term as a state legislator. He was a member and past president of the Buckeye Republican Club for many years.

Mr. Nailor belonged to the Glenwood Methodist Church, Aladdin Shrine, Scottish Rite, Magnolia Lodge of Masons, Knights of Pythias, Knights of Khorassan, Woodmen of the World, Nomads, White Shrine and Order of the Eastern Star.

A widower, he had no immediate survivors.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Floyd Born Funeral Home. Burial will be in Green Lawn Cemetery.

POLLEN COUNT AT 130

The pollen count was 130 in Columbus yesterday, the Department of Health reported.

Eight Deputy Treasurers Appointed

Eight new deputy treasurers, residents of the Hilltop and West Side, were named today by County Treasurer-elect Newton A. Thatcher. The appointees will assume their positions on Sept. 5 when Mr. Thatcher takes office. Three of those named are from the Eleventh Ward, two each from the Ninth and Tenth Wards and one from Franklin Twp.

Otto F. Nuetzel, 2930 Clime Road, is to be office manager. His appointment was announced earlier this year.

The others named were: Freda W. Barnes, 48 N. Huron-av; John W. Brown, 84 N. Powell-av; Genevieve Burr, 31 N. Wayne-av; W. Herbert Dailey, 615 Belvidere-av; George H. Gallagher, 700 Bellows-av; Kathleen McCord, 1675 Sullivant-av; and Thomas B. Williams, 870 W. State-st.

Joseph A. Stevens Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services for Joseph Aaron Stevens, 59, a Hilltop resident for many years, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in the Jerry Spears Funeral Home.

He died Tuesday in his home, 6355 Morse-rd, after a four-week illness.

A foreman for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., he was a native of Vinton County. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jemimah K. Stevens; a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Eilene Clark; five sons, Joseph Leslie, 2614 Eakin-rd; Carl Ivan, 932 Binns-blvd; Robert Franklin, Marvin Lee and Walter Edward Stevens; two brothers, Claude and Lester Stevens, 2000 Floral-av; six sisters, Mrs. Daisy Bell, 21 S. Wheatland-av; Mrs. Myrtle A. Moldren, 245 S. Terrace-av; Mrs. Mable B. Murray, 629 S. Burgess-av; Mrs. Cordelia Ryan, 462 S. Harris-av; Mrs. Mary Taylor, 106 S. Richardson-av, and Mrs. Hazel Strawser of Gahanna; 10 grandchildren, and his mother, Mrs. Jeretta Graves Stevens, 106 S. Richardson-av.

Friends may call at the funeral home. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery.

ATTEND EUB CONVENTION

Rev. Harold Dutt, pastor of the Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church, and Dr. Eldred Heisel, lay delegate, attended the Ohio Conference of the EUB Church which convened at Canton Wednesday.

Church appointments for the new year will be read by presiding Bishop George Epp on Sunday afternoon.

Boosters Plan First Meeting For Sept. 9

The first meeting of the West High Boosters for the 1949-50 season will be held at West High School, Friday, Sept. 9, at 8 p. m., booster president Lee Weigand announced today.

The annual membership drive will also start at this time. Membership cards will be sold by booster members at one dollar each.

Anyone interested in joining the boosters is urged to attend the meeting. Installing an electric scoreboard, improving the girls' athletic field and moving the baseball bleachers are a few of the accomplishments of the boosters.

NSLI Dividend Forms Available At VFW Office

Alva O. Boystel, commander of the Westway Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced today that application blanks for National Service Life Insurance dividends will be available at the post headquarters at 2393½ W. Broad-st, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday until 9 p. m.

Camp Chase Post of the American Legion will also distribute the forms to veterans of World War II on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday next week. Members will be on duty from 6:30 to 11 p. m. at post headquarters, 30 S. Burgess-av.

In filling out the forms, veterans must list their name, address, service serial number and insurance policy number, if possible. Veterans Administration officials said that forms will be accepted without the policy number, but that inclusion of the number would expedite processing of the forms.

The thirty-eighth case of polio for Columbus and Franklin County was reported yesterday by Sid R. Phillips, chairman of the Franklin County Chapter National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Final Plans Announced For Opening Of All Columbus Schools Tuesday, Sept. 6

Hurd and Thomas Make Change, Not Changes, As 'Baby' Arrives On Hilltop

Sure and you've never seen the likes of the new baby that will be shown to Hilltoppers tomorrow. Jerry Davis is so proud of "her" that he'll probably be right around your neighborhood to give everyone a little peek into the youngster's pram.

Big for its age, the baby takes its special formula through a hose, 9,000 gallons at a feeding. It's powerful stuff too, noted for its anti-rust qualities.

God-fathers and directors of the youngster's future are Bob Hurd and Bob Thomas who have named the baby, Hurd and Thomas Sinclair Service Station.

The grand opening of the station will be celebrated this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The location is Sullivant-av and Binns-blvd, but if you forget the address, you can find the station by following the searchlight beam that will light the sky for the opening.

On hand to act as hostesses for the occasion will be West High School drum majorettes Joanne Grisab, Betty Rader and "Pat" Culbertson.

A lustro-ware basket will be given away free with every purchase at the station during the grand opening.

At the open house Friday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock roses will be given to the first 100 ladies and cigars to the first 100 men. Cool refreshments will also be served.

On Saturday there will be free pony rides for the kiddies from 1 to 5 p. m. One thousand balloons and police whistles will be given away at this time. Since the clown will be on hand to entertain.

Bob Hurd, co-manager of the station, graduated from West High School in 1941. He played on the basketball team and was drum major for the school band. He also attended Ohio State University two years, where he played basketball. He lists his height as 5'17". He lives at 351 Binns-blvd.

Working with Hurd is Bob Thomas, a newcomer to the Hilltop. Thomas was wounded while serving with the 1st Tank Group in the army. He served in the army "four years, 10 months, and one day".

Jerry Davis of the Sinclair Refining Co. said that the Hurd and Thomas station is the first of three new stations being built in the residential sections of Columbus, and part of a $150 million expansion program of the company.

The Sinclair Refining Co. has recently moved into a new location in Worthington. Pipe lines direct from Chicago and Marcus Hook, Pa., go to the local refinery. The refinery is located on a 117 acre plot, about two-thirds of which is being used by the Ohio State University for agricultural experimental purposes.

Coupons for money-saving bargains at the three-day opening will be found in the Hurd and Thomas ad in the Record today.

"Yes, sir, that's my baby," says Sinclair's Jerry Davis.

Buildings Open For Registration Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2

Another summer vacation will be over as school bells call Columbus pupils back to school Tuesday, Sept. 6. Final plans for the opening of the schools were announced by Superintendent of Schools N. G. Fawcett this week.

All junior and senior high school pupils are to report to their respective buildings by 8:45 and all elementary pupils will report at 9:00 a. m. All schools in the city will be open on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings, Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2, for registration of pupils transferring to the school and for conferences with pupils requiring changes in assignments.

School bus drivers are meeting in the Administration Building with Stanley Gingery, assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs, on Saturday, Aug. 27, at 10:30 a. m. At this meeting plans will be made for buses to make trial runs next week through the areas where transportation is furnished by the Board of Education. Frequent stops will be made and the people will be notified where their children should board the bus.

All principals will meet at the Administration Building on Friday, Sept. 2, at 8:30 p. m. Each principal will meet his respective staff on Saturday, Sept. 3, at 9:00 a. m.

All operating employees will meet in the music room at Central High School on Saturday, Sept. 3, at 10:30 a. m. This meeting is designed to help operating employees plan their work for the year.

Flesher, Coffman Families Return From 4600 Mile Northern Vacation

Mrs. Flesher and Mrs. Coffman, just outside Lunenburg, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrell J. Flesher, 1765 Sullivant-av, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coffman, 326 S. Ogden-av, have returned from a 4600 mile tour through the New England states, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island. Some of the places of interest visited on this trip were Bar Harbor, Me.; St. John, New Brunswick; Halifax; Lunenburg and the land of Evangeline, in Nova Scotia. On Cape Breton Island, the party took the Cabot Trail to Cape North, visited the burial spot and memorial of Alexander Graham Bell at Baddeck, visited Sidney and Bras d'Or.

Across New Brunswick along the St. John's River to Riviere-de-Loup down the St. Lawrence to Quebec and Montreal. In Vermont the party visited Bund Loaf College in the Green Mounts near Middlebury and were dinner guests of Charles Moritz, a friend of the Coffmans. Then along Lake Champlain, Lake Champlain Lake George, the Hudson River to New York City and home via the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Community Chest Volunteers Still Needed Here

Mrs. Benjamin F. Knepper, chairman for the West Residential District in the forthcoming Community Chest campaign, announced today that volunteer solicitors are still needed in this area.

Enough volunteers to visit every home in the area is the goal set by Mrs. Knepper. Quotas for the drive, which will be held in the last half of October, have not been set, but a large number of door-to-door workers will be needed if the West Side is to compare favorably with other areas, Mrs. Knepper pointed out.

Anyone wishing to contribute their time in the campaign is requested to call Mrs. Knepper at RA. 4427 or fill out the accompanying form and mail it to her.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Knepper
2693 W. Broad St.
Columbus 4, Ohio

I will help West Side do its part for local health and welfare needs by working as a volunteer solicitor in the coming Community Chest drive.

Eight Remain In Beacon Light Golf Tourney

Eight contestants remain in the annual Beacon Light golf tourney this week with completion of the quarter finals.

Benny Huffman, who was doing well in the tournament, was forced to drop out by default, when he was taken to the hospital suffering from pneumonia and an eye infection.

Low score in this week's play was John Yauch's 74.

Results of the quarter-finals were:

Jack Fox defeated "Red" Dolby, 1 up.

Don Wisenburger defeated Hague Addison, 6-5.

John Yauch defeated Gene Zimmerman, 4-3.

Carl Dale defeated Mac McDermott, 3-2.

Marv Reilly defeated John Basista, 4-3.

Harry Wisenberger defeated Benny Huffman by default.

Barney McLain defeated Emmett Martin, 6-5.

Carl Richards defeated Howard Fox, 2-1.

CAPRETTA PROMOTED

Police Lt. Louis J. Capretta, 240 S. Harris-av, was appointed a captain Wednesday by Safety Director C. C. Cole, effective today. He succeeds Capt. Joseph Tibe, who was retired last week.

Bathtub Bargain Didn't Go 'A-Beggin'

Joe Gregory, 112 N. Wayne-av, believed two insertions of the following Record ad would be required to sell his bathtub:

BATHTUB, complete with fixtures. $15. RA. 9288.

His presumption proved wrong, we're happy to say—the tub sold quickly. In fact, four or five persons called about it.

Maybe you don't want to sell your bathtub, but quite likely you have other articles around the house which are no longer useful to you — items which some Record reader may be in need of. Call now to place your ad. RA. 1125.

Two Cruisers Assigned To Hilltop Duty

Two police radio cruisers will be on duty on the Hilltop under a recent department change increasing the number of cruisers from 15 to 21.

District four will extend from Yale-av west to Ogden and Richardson-avs. District 20 will include the area from this line, west to the city limits.

The new plan will put outlying districts, incorporated into the city during the past few years, under a centralized system of coverage, and will eliminate split responsibility in certain posts, precincts and districts. It will go into effect Sept. 1.

THIEVES GET $400

The home of Warren McDaniel, 602 S. Warren-av, was broken into last Sunday evening and thieves took $400. Mr. McDaniel, proprietor of Mac's Super Market, 2099 Sullivant-av, was away at the time of the robbery.

'Blitzi', Seeing-Eye Dog Is Dead

"Blitzi", the first seeing-eye dog in Columbus and familiar figure on the Hilltop, died last Tuesday.

The dog had served her blind master, Kenneth Clark of 619 Hilltonia-av, for 16 years. Burial of the dog was in Brown's Pet Cemetery near Port Columbus.

"Blitzi" came to Columbus from Seeing Eye, Morristown, N. J. Until a change was made in the state law in 1937, she needed a special dispensation to get on trolley coaches with her master. Mr. Clark is a dictaphone operator at the State Welfare office at Ninth and Oak-sts.

"Blitzi" stopped working a year ago when her eyesight began to fail. "She let me run into people. I knew she wasn't careless—she didn't see them," Mr. Clark said.

Mr. Clark has no plans to replace "Blitzi". He uses a cane now over the routes made familiar to him under "Blitzi's" guidance. And perhaps he feels that no other dog could take "Blitzi's" place.

Rev. Schreiber Dons Chef's Topper To "Sling Hash" At Ohio State Fair

By Myron T. Seifert

The only Hilltop Church to maintain an eating concession at the Ohio State Fair for its patrons is the Westgate Methodist Church.

Serving food "fit for a king" is the reputation established by this aggressive flock. Hilltoppers of all faiths patronize the popular eating place.

"I like to eat here" commented one perennial customer who always looks up the "Westgaters" each year come State Fair time, "because of its good food, its clean atmosphere, and the friendly manner and fellowship found at this spot."

Pastor Norman Schreiber, 2965 Olive-st, serves in a dual role—as spiritual leader of his Westgate folks, and as top chef at the State Fair tent, bearing the name "Westgate Methodist."

Donning his white "topper" and coat, Rev. Schreiber, not only looks the part, but pitches in to serve soups, sandwiches, coffee and pie, in a manner befitting the most discriminating epicurean. Home-made for the most part, the food is tops in the culinary field.

The church congregation is comprised of people who cooperate on any enterprise—and this is but one of the methods used in helping to finance the beautiful Westgate structure, which when completed, will be one of the most impressive church edifices in the city.

Parishioners who will assist "Chef" Schreiber at State Fair include Mrs. Walter Cochran, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service, and Mrs. D. Myers, whose reputation as a cook is well known on the Hilltop.

Rev. Norman Schreiber is not mixing a batch of doughnut holes in the perforated bowl in the above picture, as you may have thought. He's merely demonstrating how he could whip up a tasty treat if the photographer had brought along a leak-proof container and a few ingredients. For a real view of Rev. Schreiber in action you'll have to visit the Westgate Church's eating concession at the State Fair.

These will be assisted by scores of other Westgate Methodist members.

Car Demolished, Driver Unhurt

Claude Chase, 2321 Floral-av, escaped injury when his car, pictured above, ran off the road four miles south of Harrisburg recently. The car came to a stop "a full city block from the road." Bob Strope of Strope's Auto Service, 1432 W. Broad-st, said the car was damaged beyond repair.

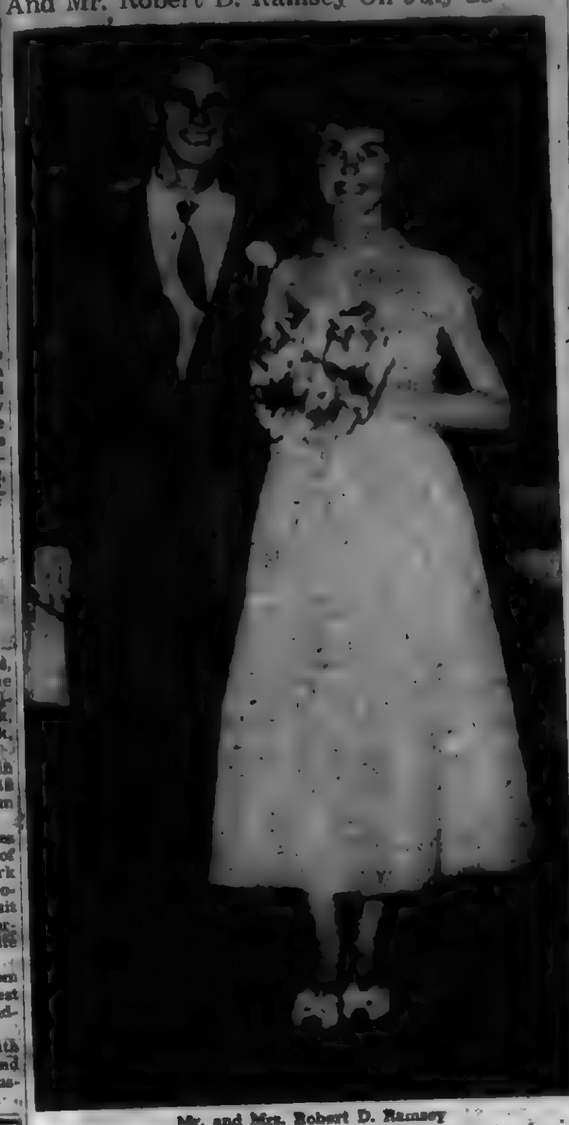
Kees-Clark Bans In West Methodist Church Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kees, Grove City, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Thelma Louise, to Mr. Glen E. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clark, 552 S. Oakley-av.



The marriage took place in West Methodist Church, June 18 at 1:30 p. m., with Rev. William M. George officiating.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Charles E. Bellamy, served as matron of honor and Mr. Leslie W. Clark served as best man for his brother. The bride wore a white suit with white accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds and white carnations.

Mrs. Clark was graduated from East Bank High School in West Virginia and Mr. Clark is a graduate of West High School.

Mr. Clark is associated with Retail Merchants Delivery and Mrs. Clark with Surface Combustion Corp.

Rev. Lutz Officiates At Candlelit Ceremony Which Unites Miss Violet Anne Ward And Mr. Robert D. Ramsey On July 28

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Ramsey

Tall urns filled with clusters of white gladioli and fernery adorned the altar of the Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church at 7:30 p. m. July 28 for the wedding of Miss Violet Anne Ward and Mr. Robert Dale Ramsey, with Rev. Clayton F. Lutz officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Burns, 382 S. Burgess-av, and Mr. Ralph L. Ward, 94 S. Harris-av. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Paul Kuder, 3315 Fisher-rd, and Mr. Robert N. Ramsey, 2128½ Sullivant-av.

Preceding the double-ring candlelight ceremony, a half hour of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ruth Grant, organist, and Mr. Glenn Furman, soloist.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a white organdy hand-embroidered ballerina length dress styled with a peter-pan collar and self-covered buttons to the waistline. She wore a picture hat of white horse hair braid with a white velvet bow forming long streamers in the back. Her colonial bouquet was of white roses intermingled with blue delphinium.

The maid of honor and the bride's only attendant was Miss Charlene Gilmore. She wore a pink organdy ballerina-length dress with a portrait neckline, a pink picture hat styled like the bride's and carried a colonial bouquet of pink pompoms and blue delphinium.

Mr. Charles A. Kuder, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man for Mr. Ramsey, and his ushers were Mr. John R. Ward and Mr. William R. Ward, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church, with Misses Ruth Ansley, Cornelia Calhoun, Jo Ann Hertenstein, Carolyn Peel, Audrey Pickens and Donna Sprague serving as hostesses. The bride's and bridegroom's mothers received the guests in navy blue, with corsages of red roses and asters.

When departing for the wedding trip through Michigan, the bride wore a pink bemberg sheer dress with navy blue accessories.

The new Mrs. Ramsey is associated with the Glens Falls Insurance Co. and Mr. Ramsey is serving in the U. S. Navy, where he is now stationed at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Wollermans Take Trip Through Canada

By Hazel L. Wollerman

Going on to Gaspe, a ferry takes you across the St. Lawrence to Levis, and now the highway sweeps up to open country with once again a glimpse of the silvery sheet of Montmorency Falls.

We found a fine cabin and good food at Riviere-du-Loup. We did no night driving and thus had a well-deserved rest and missed seeing none of nature's grandeur. As Freddie remarked, "we had to push our eyes back." We had looked so hard that our eyes were all but popping out. The pier of La Pointe-Au-Pere is the first contact with the land for ocean liners. Here they pick up pilots necessary for the guidance of steamers into the St. Lawrence and on the outward journey they are set ashore here.

The Gaspe is the northern end of the Appalachian Mountains which begin more than three thousand miles away near the border of Mexico. On the northern shore you drive for miles over a road—an engineering feat—the very "instep" of the mountain for his feet are deep in the rolling surf. This road is wide enough for cars to pass with sheer rock walls on one side and on the other edge of the road, the ceaseless pounding of the sea.

At dusk we rounded one of the curves in this road and the sight which we beheld was one of the most beautiful of the entire trip—Mount St. Pierre. Twilight on the beach was wonderful and this tiny seacoast settlement provided food and comfortable accommodations.

We were a tiny world apart in that bay at St. Pierre between the dark and the daylight, walls of mountains behind us, 1800 to 4000 feet high, whose arms reached out on either side toward the horizon and the rolling ocean before us, out to where the sky came down to dip its cloud fingers into the whitecaps and be cradled into the sea.

Ninety miles more of mountainous driving brought us to Perce where stands the famous Perce rock and Bonaventure Island. The portion of rock exposed above water is estimated to weigh four million tons. It is almost three

'CLOUD ANALYZER,' NAVY'S NEW WEATHER WEAPON

"Cloud Analyzer" radios weather data to ground. It weighs 8 pounds.

This device receives radioed data, records it on paper strips.

"Analyzer" hangs from balloon.

NEW WEAPON in Navy's constant "war" against weather is the "Cloud Analyzer," an instrument-filled cardboard box about the size of an overnight bag. Sent aloft by helium-filled balloon, it radios information on density, height, temperature, air pressure, relative humidity of clouds. Built by General Electric, basic part is a string saturated with salt solution. Electricity is sent through the string. Amount of the string's electrical resistance varies with amount of moisture it picks up. This resistance, automatically recorded, is radioed to ship or ground 120 times a minute and translated into weather data. When the balloon reaches 75,000 feet it bursts and instruments come down by parachute. Radar keeps track of the whole assembly when it is out of sight. (International)

News of Rome

By Mrs E. C. Sheets

Bob Courtwright of New York City, nephew of Mrs. Henry Warner, and his sister, Florence Courtwright of Peoria, Ill., have returned home after spending several days at the Warner home.

L. W. Johnson, Lawrence-av, had quite an accident Saturday noon, when he fell through the register space in a new house on the street back of his home. He was taken to the hospital immediately and found that he had dislocated his shoulder and broken some bones near his hip joint. He is home now, improving but at the time suffers considerable.

Gerald Ball, formerly of 103 Evergreen Terrace, now of Columbus, is recovering nicely from an appendicitis operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Renon White, cousins of Mr. Ball of Nelsonville, visited Sunday with the W. H. Ball family.

Joe Lamb and his nephews, Billjean and Jim, spent Sunday in the hills around Chillicothe, visiting Old Man's Cave and other scenic spots.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Barnecut Maple-dr, are on a vacation that will take them to New Orleans over to Panama City, Fla., up the coast to Washington, D. C., and Atlantic City, N. J., before their return home.

Mrs. Robert Brackett and daughter, Tammy, of Lima, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Russell Brooks, Maple-dr.

Mrs. Dow Postle, formerly of the Circleville Camp Meeting this week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Adkins of 198-Rea-av are the parents of a daughter born Aug. 22.

Everybody's Business

Economic System Must Attract Capital To Expand

By John Kelly

We Americans would be Americans in name only if we were without the freedom that we take for granted. In relation to liberty, our high material standard of living is of no importance.

With both at issue, not next month but probably sooner than you think, it is of vital importance that we consider the problems confronting the nation.

The writer does not feel that powerful interests are deliberately pushing the country toward Communism. It is possible, however, to back ourselves into some form of regimentation which—however mild—would make us Americans a sorry lot.

The leaders of the Labor movement would be as unhappy as the rest of us under regimentation. It is recommended that they devote more time to the study of history.

It is conceded that labor must have its proper split of profits. At the same time, it must be admitted that capital needs a proper share. In this connection, management would be a better term because capital—in the form of the shareholder—has been the forgotten man all through the inflation.

The maintenance of merely a "reasonable" (whatever that might be) level of earnings is not enough under current conditions. An abnormally large percentage of reported "net income" has had to be retained for re-investment in plant and equipment.

The question of corporate "ability to pay" is not answered adequately by charges of "profiteering" and "corporate rapacity and greed."

There can, of course, be no disagreement with the president's statement that "economic expansion requires constantly rising living standards of our people." Also, "the life and spirit of the American economy is progress and expansion."

Over the years, unparalleled progress has been made in raising the American standard of living. It has been achieved by the expansion of production and lowered costs of production.

Only an economic system that has constantly attracted a stream of new capital could make it possible. The new money has gone into power equipment for making work easier and more productive—in factories and public utility plants, on farms and railroads, in offices and in homes.

Not only is new capital needed for supplying the wants of the people, but the very security of the nation depends upon it, as was demonstrated so effectively during the last war.

These studies will be continued next week.

Mrs. Coss is making a week visit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Warren of Erie, Pa., spent Monday afternoon visiting his father, who makes his home with Mrs. E. C. Sheets Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman and family attended the Whiteside reunion at the Fayette County Children's Home, where Mr. Denman's uncle and aunt are in charge.

KIRWIN "ONLY FAIR"

Frank Kirwin, owner of Kirwin's Restaurant, 2449 W. Broad-st, is still in "only fair" condition, Mt. Carmel Hospital officials reported Thursday. Mr. Kirwin suffered a heart attack last Monday evening.

Wollerman's Trip

times greater than the Lincoln-Leveque Towers were it laid down. Near one end is an arch through which one can see a passing ocean liner.

Bonaventure Island is three miles off shore and looms up like a giant petrified whale. The island is three miles long and almost as wide, and like the pierced rock of Perce is a bird sanctuary. Swarms of Puffins, Gulls, Gannets and other sea birds make their nests there, roosting in and on the nooks and crevices of the cliff facing the north shore.

These birds vary in color as well as kind, some are all white, some grey, some black and white, resembling little penguins, others soft tan and gleaming white, some dark brown and others jet black. This unique spectacle, accompanied as it is by cries of all kinds as the birds give voice to their displeasure, must really be witnessed to be appreciated.

The air at times looked like some great giant atop the cliffs had cut open his feather pillow and had shaken the feathers down upon us as the launch circled the island.

Leaving Perce, having traveled three-fourths of the distance around Gaspe, we followed the sea to the south shore, still mountainous but less rugged and the breezes more gentle. We saw tons and tons of cod fish from 12 inches to 40 pounds. They sell the tuna to a cannery for six to six and one-half cents a pound. cod fish at four cents per pound—sometimes only three cents.

The part of New Brunswick we crossed on the way to Nova Scotia was very beautiful, more rolling farm land and vast areas of timber. Rich and romantic is the history of New Brunswick, offering with its scenic beauty, beaches, boating, fishing, hunting, many oddities and accommodations to suit every taste. We noted a striking difference in country and peoples, since all of the Gaspe is French and New Brunswick decidedly English. Here we remember wonderful lobster dinners and saw some of the most beautiful beaches of the Atlantic seacoast.

One of the oddities was Magnetic Hill near Moncton, N. B. To appreciate this phenomenon you proceed in your car downhill to a spot indicated by a white post, turn off the motor, release the brakes, and your car immediately runs backward up the hill. Strange? But a brook beside the road flows that way too! We put a tennis ball and a softball in the middle of the road and they too, rolled away from us, up hill!

Probably no other city on the North American continent can offer the visitor so varied a stay. All roads lead to Halifax, at the present time commemorating the 200th anniversary of its founding. We saw Halifax from lofty Citadel Hill, the panorama from there displays a marvelous view of ocean and earth. In the Halifax shipyards three beautiful merchant ships were under construction for the Argentine government. We were privileged to enter the shipyards and se these three sister-ships in the last stages of construction. We were also in Halifax the very morning of the arrival of yachts, from Marblehead (Boston) to Halifax, participating in the annual handicap races and were proud that an American won again!

One of the never-to-be-forgotten experiences was a drive out to Peggy's Cove. This village stands on solid rock, strewn with huge boulders, many even larger than the few dwellings and fish houses, hat squat upon them. Sheer granite, like steps or platforms, rise up in rugged, irregular formations, washed smooth by centuries of waves and winds. We learned that some adults had never been farther than 25 miles from home. One hadn't been to town in 19 years—so he couldn't say how the road was back into Halifax! One told us of the fish, brought in that morning, "just a very small catch —" ten tuna fish weighing 300 pounds each or three thousand pounds!

At Moncton, we learned of the tidal wave or "Bore," a wall of water ranging in height from three to six feet, stretching from bank to bank, that rushes up river from the Bay of Fundy. The Bore is said to be caused by the shape of Fundy Bay and the river channel.

At St. John, N. B. there is one of the wonders of the world, the remarkable Reversing Falls at the mouth of the St. John River. Half of the time the river empties naturally into the sea, the other half it reverses its flow and rushes back inland. This strange and abnormal activity is caused by the tremendous tides of the Bay of Fundy, the highest in the world. At low tide, the river waters, suddenly compressed into a narrow, rocky gorge at the outlet of the river, foam and swirl angrily out to sea. At half-tide, because there is an average tide of 28 feet in the harbor, the waters balance each other for a brief period—about eight minutes there is a lull or calm, like unto a mirror. At high tide the ocean waters have won and race inland up over the rapids as fiercely as they raced sea-ward at low tide.

At Calais, Maine, we passed the O. K. of the customs officials and were once again back in the good ol' U. S. A.

Since we had found it almost too cool elsewhere, we now had a yen for a dip in the ocean, which we really enjoyed at Old Orchard Beach, later that afternoon and evening.

However, at Freeport, Maine, we enjoyed the morning at the famous Desert of Maine, which 30 years ago was a 500-acre fertile farm, now an actual desert of hot burning sands. mysterious still, after much scientific conjecture.

Beginning with a small patch in a garden-plot, the desert has gradually spread, covering acres, lowering the land from its original level, in some places as much as 30 feet; and in other places lofty dunes reach a height of 75 feet. Giant trees are buried to within scant feet of their tops. Every effort has been made to keep this phenomenon of nature in its natural state. None of the trees or shrubs were ever removed and only tops of many remain uncovered. Because of the mysterious pushing-up of sand, fences, buildings and houses have likewise been wholly or partially lost to view and the old barn is the last remaining evidence that a fertile farm once lay beneath its rolling dunes.

Having been down river towards the sea, reluctantly now we turned our attention to a homeward journey. This was made over scenic routes familiar to many, from Portland, Maine, westward through New Hampshire and the White Mountains with their Bretton Woods and Mount Washington. Westward still, through Vermont and its golden-domed capital building and the Green Mountains. Thence across Lake Champlain, amid a storm, a bit of fury, beautiful too! New York State, its lakes and Adirondack Mountain roads, brought us back into the Keystone State, then Ohio and home. Scenic splendors we had seen, all of which go into our memory-book of beauty spots—but it was the lilting song of the lovely mocking-bird outside our kitchen window next morning that reassured us that we were indeed happy for Home Sweet Home.

Parents know that for children this is a world of big dreams, many adventures and unlimited exploration. But all parents should realize, too, that it is a world of many dangers for children—many of them big dangers. The Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, in its Back-to-School Safety Campaign this month, is asking you parents to teach your youngsters the GOOD REASONS for safe habits. Teach them they need not be afraid of life—but that they can have as much fun and have it longer if they don't take reckless chances. Show them by example how to avoid traffic dangers and other hazards they encounter. Remember, YOUR experience is THEIR best teacher.

September often means wet weather. And this means car owners should take extra care to keep lights, windshield and windows clear of spattered muddy water. The Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce reminds motorists: You have to see danger to avoid it.

'MID-HUSBAND' SAYS HE COULDN'T DO IT AGAIN

SOMEWHAT COMPOSED is Francis Morrisey, Everet:, Mass., baker, as he poses with his new daughter, Ramona; his wife, Hazel, and other daughter, Sarah, 60 minutes after he delivered the baby in the bedroom of their home. When the doctor arrived and congratulated Morrissey, the latter swooned. Later he said, "I never could go through it a second time." (International Soundphoto)

Greet the fall season with a gay new hat. Typical of the new crop is the close-fitting bonnet of sapphire blue felt designed by Harryton. It is trimmed with upswinging bands of self felt and richly draped with taupe mesh veiling.

A pagoda beret to take you back to school in style. It has a tiered crown in a variety of brilliant colors.

To highlight fall fashions—washable, doeskin long gloves by Kislav, are worn with a short sleeved topper.

FENCES

Now that the kiddies are spending a lot of time out in the yard, you'll feel much safer if they're protected by a GRAVES CHAIN-LINK FENCE. These high-quality fences are an excellent safeguard against trespassers, as well as an improvement to the appearance of your property. They can be purchased on easy terms and we're prepared to erect one for you immediately.

JOE BRIGGS
Says:
Women are criticized for wearing furs in summer, though they are merely following the fashion of the original owners.
Furs cost real money to buy—cost real money to replace. Enjoy them without fear of loss. See Joe Briggs for insurance that provides protection and peace of mind at a low rate. 2596 Sullivant Ave. RA. 3194.

When you're pleasure driving, do you feel the urge to pass everything on the road? If you do, the Safety Council urges you to put the brakes on that impulse. Speed is a highway killer. Take it easy—especially on hills and curves, at intersections and railroad crossings, on approaching bridges and underpasses — and whenever you feel that pass-'em-all impulse. When you're driving measure your pleasure by miles and hours—NOT miles PER hour.

It is our duty to obey the laws of our country, and to be careful that prejudice or passion be not mistaken for conscience. It is not enough that the conscience be taught by nature; but it must be taught by God, conducted by reason, made operative by discourse, assisted by choice, instructed by laws and solemn principles.

Wheatland Fair Winners Named

The Wheatland Methodist Church's Fair, conducted Aug. 11-12, had the following organizations sponsoring a booth: the trustee board, Vallie Davidson, chairman; the steward board, Mrs. Velma Andersch, chairman; the Methodist Youth Fellowship, Robert Hunter, president; the WSCS, Mrs. T. L. Tinsley, president; the Hilltop Parents' Association, Mrs. Elizabeth Shaw, president; the JOY Wesleyan Service Guild, Lillian Mann, president. Les Jeune Fille of the WSCS, Jean Nelson, president; the Senior Choir, Mrs. Alice Young, president; and the church school, Clarence Free, superintendent.

Winners of the awards and prizes were as follows: William Prillerman, Jr., the youngest baby, eight weeks old; Denise Fox, the youngest baby walking, 11 months old; Ronda Cheeck, the largest baby; Debbie Brown, the second largest; Mrs. Alice Young, the eldest lady; Oliver Beatty, the eldest gentleman; Patricia Shelton, the largest teddy bear; Dorothy Campbell, the most unusual bear; Mrs. Anna Margaret Beatty, the best cake; Mrs. Edith Gentry, the best cupcakes; Mrs. Elizabeth Shaw, the best pies; Thursday night: first winner of the best decorated tricycle, La Verne Goolsby; bicycles, Charles Cook and Sherril Singer; most beautiful doll, Beverly Cook; most unusual dolls, Patricia Carr; Friday night: first winner of the best decorated bicycle, Brenda Colwell, second winner, Howard Harris; most unusual doll, Betty Hill, and most beautiful, Phyllis Hill.

Among those who served as judges were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ryan, Virginia Davidson, Edith Gentry, Rev. Tinsley, Virginia Harris, George Griffin, James Burke and William Harris.

A Little Bit Of Everything

By russ lang

It doesn't seem possible but here it is again time to warm up for our annual fall madness.

* * *

If all the oldsters who once tried not to miss a single one of those bargain matinees will turn out, there won't be any room for the kids to make the acquaintance of vaudeville.

Sort of a World Series atmosphere accompanied its rebirth in New York. When the box office opened for business, the first client claimed that he had queued up at 3:30 a. m. When our man came by at 11, there was a line well around the block and they had been selling tickets for an hour.

The entire house was sold out; our operative should know because he was in line 4 of standees, and he claims that there was at least one row behind him. Even the street was packed — people who couldn't get in, hawkers, mounted police, and all the fixins, complete with loud speakers.

Even if it is unlikely, it is possible that everybody in the theater was "show business". But that is beside the point; there was certainly an out-size percentage of real and might-have-been vaudevillians in the audience.

You can imagine what happened when the inevitable trailer flashed on the screen with the pit band playing softly "There's No Business Like Show business." When the trailer exhorted, "Strike up the band" the musicians gave their all to the immortal Gershwin tune—with not a dry eye in the house.

At the close of the formal show —the regulation eight acts—they took the place apart and started from there.

Parents, don't wait for a drowning tragedy to teach you a safety lesson. The Safety Council urges you to teach your youngsters to swim properly . . . Train them not to swim alone or in unfamiliar water . . . not to try swimming long distances . . . and not to stay in the water after becoming tired or cold.

Clara M. Kidd Is Twp. School Board Candidate

Mrs. Clara M. Kidd, 1950 Huntav, today announced her candidacy for the Franklin Twp. School Board. Nominating petitions have been filed with the county board of elections.

Concerning the building program under way in the township, Mrs. Kidd said, "Shortages supposedly made it impossible to commence work until the election year, but is that the reason our present schools should be left in such an unsanitary condition?"

"If I am elected I will work more closely with the parents and teachers for the betterment of the entire school system of Franklin Twp. I believe a woman and mother has the executive and mathematical background to cope with today's demands."

Charles Coburn Turns Hoofer In Old Trail Movie

Probably the most unbelievable song-and-dance team in film history has been brought together for Universal-International's Technicolor comedy, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," which has its Columbus premiere tonight at the Old Trail and four other Academy Theaters.

The team is comprised of Donald O'Connor, Gloria De Haven and Charles Coburn, and the movie marks the first time Coburn has ever turned song-and-dance man in his Hollywood career.

The three stars get together for a rendition of the production's famous theme song, "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," which was written shortly after the first World War and is enjoying a revival in the new U-I movie.

Besides the theme song, the picture also introduces three original numbers, "They've Never Figured Out A Woman," "Men Are Little Children," and "Just Look At Me."

Back to school go Tommy and Sue—and they have a lot to think about besides traffic danger. Don't let your car turn their bright future into a tragic past for some happy family. The Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce reminds you that children do not always think for themselves. Will you think for them? Drive cautiously and watchfully—and give Tommy and Sue the right-of-way to long life.

We think, at the age of 20, that life is much too long for that which we have to learn and do; and that there is almost fabulous distance between our age and that of our grandfather. But when, at the age of 60, we halt and look back along the way we have come, we acknowledge, with a sigh, that we could have learned and done, in half a score of years well spent, more than we have done in all of our forty years of manhood.

Be satisfied, and pleased with what thou art,
Act cheerfully and well the allotted part,
Enjoy the present hour, be thankful for the past
And neither fear nor wish the approaches of the last.
—Abraham Cowley.

FIRE FIGHTERS FROM THE SKY

They Risk Their Lives to Save Our Forests

By ALLAN PALMER
Written for Central Press and This Newspaper

THE RECENT GATES of the Mountains forest fire northeast of Helena, Mont., for the first time turned the full glare of the public attention spotlight on a daring and valuable band of young men—the "smoke jumpers."

However, it was a doubly tragic turn of events. The worst fire in the northwest in 40 years took 13 lives and burned over thousands of acres of wilderness beauty before it was controlled.

Twelve of the men who died were smoke jumpers, the name given to the small group of fire fighters who descend on a small blaze on the wings of a parachute at the first sign of smoke. It was the first real accident in the 10-year history of the Forest Service organization.

The Gates of the Mountains fire graphically emphasized the hazards these flying firemen have met and overcome since smoke jumping started in 1939. In the background is a record of hundreds of successful jumps and thousands of dollars of valuable timber land saved.

Most of the smoke jumpers are college students finding both a thrill and practical experience in the summertime occupation.

About 175 are on duty, hired under civil service, in the western forest area. Their bases are at Missoula, Mont., and McCall and Idaho City in Idaho.

• • •

THE JUMPERS are busiest in August, when the summer heat has turned the forest into a tinderbox to burst aflame at the first flash of lightning. Fifteen minutes from the time a wisp of smoke is spotted, a pair of jumpers are in the air and on the way.

Garbed in special suits, including a football type helmet with a heavy wire face-guard for protection from branches, and armed with a shovel, ax and saw, the jumper leaps as near as possible to the fire.

By setting back fires and clearing swaths in the underbrush, he usually controls it before it can spread and allows it to burn itself out.

Forest Service officials declared that "smoke jumping" in the inaccessible areas is one of the greatest advances made in many years. F. W. Godden, fire control chief for the Idaho-Utah area, explains that "two men on the scene within a couple of hours after a fire starts can do more good than an army of men the next day."

Only the larger fires gain public attention, but blazes from lightning, or carelessness with cigaret or campfire, are almost an everyday occurrence in August.

In a dry year as many as 400 to 500 individual jumps may be made. During 1948 the savings by smoke jumpers in Idaho alone was estimated at $37,000.

Sometimes the toughest part of the job is getting back to civilization after the fire is controlled. Sometimes it may mean a hike of many miles to an emergency landing field or highway. Sometimes it means just a wait of several days until a pack train comes in to take out the equipment.

SINCE the program was inaugurated, the Forest Service has sought to improve its effectiveness. Equipment dropped along with fire fighters often includes special lights, ropes, two-way radios and other apparatus according to needs of the situation.

Training for recruits is rigorous. They must be in excellent physical condition, in addition to having the skills of the firefighter, the woodsman—and the parachutist.

Despite the hardships, the jobs are filled. Many of the jumpers are forestry students, some of them former parachutists. All are young men. Ages of the 12 ill-fated jumpers at Gates of the Mountains ranged from 19 to 28.

For them a trick of fate turned a routine assignment into a death trap. They were cornered against a canyon wall as a shifting wind drove the holocaust down upon them.

In all, 16 were dropped to the scene. Three of them lived to testify that smoke jumpers even meet death trying to save America's forests.

Hilliards Schools Scheduled To Open Sept. 6

To make the change from vacation to school days less abrupt, the first school session will terminate at noon in Hilliards on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

However school will get under way in earnest on Wednesday. Both lunch rooms will be open on that day. Bus routes to the schools will be the same as last year, but may be changed if there have been shifts in school population, Superintendent M. D. Harisook announced.

Pupils entering the first grade are required to furnish birth certificate or other evidence of age, vaccination certificate and proof of immunization against diphtheria. Children who will be six years old by Jan. 15 are eligible to enter school this year.

The Hilliards teaching staff for the year is as follows:

High School

V. F. Patterson, principal; R. M. Barton, math, bookkeeping; Vincent DeFelice, English, French; Everett Fahrenholz, boys' physical education, social science, football; C. B. Hune, science, math; Paul Kindinger, music; Mary Kohler, home economics; Kathryn Mock, girls' physical education; Mildred Mitchell, commercial; Charles Pickens, industrial arts; Mary G. Roberts, world history, English, Latin; Austin Ritchie, vocational agriculture; Faythe Sheehan, English; Mildred W. Smith, English, school paper; Tom H. West High School Triangle Club Pioneers In State Fair Drafting Exhibitions

It is a well known fact and tradition, that West High draftsmen take most of the blue ribbons at the Ohio State Fair (Aug. 27 to Sept. 2 this year) but it is not generally known that this group of students, members of the West High Triangle Club, under the direction of C. S. Kennedy, pioneered the movement back in "depression days," to make this a vital part of State Fair exhibitons in succeeding years.

Back in the early 1930's, Mr. Kennedy recalls, the local Triangle Chapter had set up its own exhibit of 600 entries in the draftsmen's room No. 217 at the Hilltop school, invited three competent judges to pass on the pencil drawings, and award prizes.

So intrigued were the judges with the exhibit, that they told State Fair officials of what was going on at West High in the blue-print department.

Fair officials, with a little checking, learned about the work of Mr. Kennedy's students and immediately incorporated many of the ideas already worked out by Mr. Kennedy in the State Fair exhibition. In fact, they invited Mr. Kennedy to set up the draftsmen program and classifications plan, now an important part of State Fair exhibitions.

Come Aug. 10, deadline for entries, and 63 West High students will again vie for state honors. Trophies and ribbons galore, will augment the already crowded trophy cabinet at West High, and individual winners will bring honor and fame to themselves in the state wide competition at the state blueprint exhibition.

West High drafting students, who will participate in the 1949 State Fair program and the number of entries by each follow:

Hilltop Group Fetes Story's On Silver Anniversary

By Myron T. Seifert

A tradition among a set of Hilltoppers which began years ago, is carried on in observance of a silver wedding anniversary party, most recent of which Clarence and Kitty Story, 185 Binns-blvd, were the honored guests at the Fort Hayes Hotel.

The group, in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary, makes an evening of the occasion. Selecting a dining room for this evening in some hotel or restaurant the group enjoys the fellowship and congeniality which is characteristic of this circle of friends.

Following the banquet hour, the party repairs to the home of one of its members for entertainment. A silver service, in token of the anniversary, is presented the honored couple.

Silver cream and sugar service, presented to the Storys, added much to the party. Some of the original members have moved from the city or passed away. The ceremony still continues however to elicit much interest and enjoyment.

Not every year, however, is there a "quarter of a century" anniversary party. Two years ago was a "bye" year. Ellis and Helen Jones, residents of Wilson-rd, were first to have a party in their honor.

Other couples, members of this unique crowd, include Dr. Clarence and Marguerite Fry; Harry and Frances Emrick; Foreman and Mary Slager; Graham and Marie Prior; Chester and Marie Herbert; and Dr. Well and Hazel Baker.

The Emricks and Slagers are yet to have a celebration in their honor.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

For many months we have been delighted by the beautiful music that comes over the air from the Burgess Avenue EUB Church, and we want to express thanks and appreciation to Rev. Clayton F. Lutz and his congregation for giving us this pleasure. We also like the ringing of the church bell, inviting us to attend the service that is to follow. If we were not active in another church we surely would respond to the ringing of the bell.

CHAPTER FORTY

BELDE lived in a long block of identical small new homes known as Houses for Veterans. As Beatrice stopped her car she thought how obvious it was, even to someone like herself who knew nothing about building, how cheaply the houses were constructed. No wonder, she thought, the justifiable complaints of ex-servicemen about leaky roofs and warped flooring—the whole hideous story of injustice and speculation had reached the newspapers. This is what we have done for those about whom we smugly said, "Nothing is too good for our boys."

Children in muddy snowsuits were playing along the sidewalk, pulling little wagons, and riding bicycles that had been new at Christmas. War babies, Beatrice thought. These are the children whose fathers were in Italy and Iwo Jima when they were born. These are the children of a generation of gallant young mothers who waited and waited until their nerves were stretched tight. And my son or my second daughter would be their age if he or she had lived.

Hilde opened the door. She looked blank with surprise, and then she burst into laughter.

"Mrs. Farish! You are the last person I expected to see. Do come in."

"You're looking splendid," Beatrice said.

As, of course, she was. The lines of fatigue in her face had been erased by rest, and her abundance of color was the natural color of health. Her short dark curls that had never known the heat of a permanent waving machine made a charmingly casual frame for her face. Beatrice had never noticed before that Hilde's tilted nose seemed gaily to defy trouble and pain. She wore a bright green smock over a dark dress.

She led the way into a small, neat, cheaply furnished living room, and was about to put aside her sewing when Beatrice protested.

"No, go on with your sewing, Hilde, I was never taught to sew a fine seam. I've never seen your son, but I imagine he's among those children I saw playing outside."

Hilde picked up her sewing. "He plays all day and once in awhile he comes to the door to make sure I am still here. He is so happy that I am home with him." She lifted her eyes from the white cloth she was stitching and smiled. "We hope it is a girl this time, but it really doesn't matter. I had hoped to work longer, to say goodbye to my customers, but the doctor wouldn't let me. He said if I wanted this child, I must stop. And I do. I do. I want all of them." Her eyes narrowed as she looked at Beatrice. "You can't understand, can you, when I have no security to speak of? Poor Nina. She thinks I am such a fool."

Beatrice threw her coat off her shoulders. She felt a lull in the swirling currents of her thoughts, a curious sense of peace. She wished that talk were not necessary, that she could just sit here in this rocking chair that, by its creaky oldness, told her that scores of babies had been rocked to sleep in it and old people had dozed in it, and watched Hilde's steady fingers make those fine little stitches. For here there was tranquility and a happiness that went far beneath the gratification of material desires granted.

Beatrice said, "When Nina called this morning and told me that you were going to have another child and were not working, I had an overpowering desire to see you."

"Me?", Hilde asked smiling.

"Yes. You. I have known you for a long time, and I have wondered how you retained your bright outlook in the face of so many obstacles and the lack of security that most of us kill ourselves trying to achieve. I wondered how you could be so cheerful in holding out for your husband to do the kind of work he really wanted to do rather than taking a job, any job, that would bring in money and lessen your task as the breadwinner. I wondered why you wanted children when you can't do anything for them beyond a public school education, not to mention the fact that each child takes a little more away from the very little you have for yourself. And I have wondered how you could care enough about the shop to plant seeds in the flower boxes outside the windows."

"You saw all those things," Hilde said with soft delight in her voice.

"Every spring you planted those seeds, and probably didn't have any lunch so that you could have the time. And you weeded those boxes and watered the plants, and gave the flowers to your customers. I wondered why you never looked worried or harassed when you are intelligent enough to have figured all those things out for yourself that I am saying. And most of all I wondered why when Nina told you that you should divorce your husband you looked as if you had never heard of divorce."

"You still wonder?" Hilde asked with amusement.

Beatrice shook her head. "No," she said poignantly. "Not any more, Hilde."

"Will you tell me?"

"If I can. You know that security isn't money in the bank or stocks and bonds. It is the relationship of the man and the woman. And you know that there cannot be a good relationship unless the man loves the thing he does, and that he hates the bread of his work unless he loves the work that bought the bread. You are not more than two generations removed from immigrants and the stories of the old country have come down to you. You know what we of many generations removed from immigrants have forgotten—the privilege of public education, and that this is a land of opportunity for your children. You believe, and you shame the cynics, that work and bread and love will achieve anything here—one of the few free countries of the earth—and you will tell your children that when they are old enough to understand. By your own standard you are not poor, but immeasurably rich. What some people would call your sacrifice, Hilde, you call your privilege."

"Are such things secrets?" the girl asked.

"They are locked away in us, and only necessity brings them out—just as most of us forget our patriotism until war threatens. You know the seeds of existence. For you life is tasted and felt. You exult in life. And while society calls the severing of a marriage a divorce, you know that you will never be disunited from your husband in life or in death. For to you there is no such thing as divorce. It is as alien to your nature as cruelty."

"It is very strange that you know these things," Hilde said. "It is true I am not afraid of being what you would call poor, and I am not worried when Tom loses his job. I expect these things for simple people like ourselves. I allow for them for . . . for emergencies."

"You probably think I'm a little crazy."

"What nonsense! I thought that other people thought as I did, that, as you say, they had figured it out for themselves. To me there is no other way to think, no other way to do with the things I have, and to love them because they have served so well."

"Like this rocking chair?"

"Yes, like that old rocking chair."

Typical Austrian Desserts

By ALICE DENHOFF

OLD Austria is New England. Vienna is Vermont. It sounded interesting, well worth investigating.

So we investigated. Deep in the heart of Vermont's rolling Green Mountains, at Stowe, we discovered the Trapp Family Music Camp, dedicated by the famous singing family to music by the multitudes. Each summer, folk from all over the country converge on the camp to learn how to make music, to play the antique spinet, the ancient flute or recorder, to learn to sing in chorus the vocal classics, from Palestrina to Bach and Brahms.

An American Now

Baroness von Trapp, or, now that she is an American, Mrs. von Trapp, works with her daughters to make the camp a wonderful place, and since man does not live by music alone, there is exciting, yet essentially simple, fare. In the great dining hall, the guests join hands to invoke a blessing on their fare; in the great kitchen, all is bustle and brightness.

The mood of the menu is Austrian, with many of the specialties from the Trapps native Tyrol. The biggest hit is invariably scored by the typical Austrian desserts, in the preparation of which all the Trapp girls excel. These range from a fairly simple pudding made of raw oatmeal and fruit to the complicated, delicious Linzertorte.

A Music Camp Hit

Kindskoch mit Schmankerln began as a nursery pudding, but, with changes, it is a big music camp hit.

For 4 to 5 portions, mix ½ c. flour and c. of cold milk to a smooth paste. Add 3 c. boiling milk, stirring constantly. Keep stirring and boiling for 4 min. Sweeten and serve with the Schmankerln.

To prepare this Schmankerln, cream tsp. butter with the yolk of an egg and 2-3 tbsp. sugar until light and creamy. Add tbsp. milk, cookie sheet and dust with flour. Pour the batter over the sheet, distributing it evenly so that it will be paper-thin. Bake at 375 F. until light brown and brittle. Remove from oven, and immediately break up into small pieces, placing them on top of hot Kindskoch.

A Sunday Dessert

A substantial and nutritious dessert generally featured at the Trapp Family Music Camp for Sunday suppers, when the main course is lighter than usual, is Muesli.

Soak one c. of raw oatmeal (regular or quick-cooking) for at least an hour in one can sweetened condensed milk, diluted by the juice of whatever fruits are to be cut up in the Muesli, as, for instance, one orange, one apple, one pear, ½ c. of blueberries or raspberries, etc. (The variety of fresh fruits used depends on the individual taste and the season).

After the oatmeal has been soaked for the requisite period, add the fruits, cut into small pieces, together with ½ c. coarsely chopped nuts and ½ c. raisins. If the Muesli seems too dry, additional fruit juice, or a little fresh milk, may be added before serving.

From The Record Files

Five Years Ago

Magly Field came to life today as 95 aspirants reported for first football practice. Coach Dale Rose reported that eight lettermen reported in the group which was made up of 23 seniors, 40 juniors and 23 sophomores.

Tommy Ongaro is the Westgate Park waste paper collecting champ so far. He has turned in 2,585 pounds of paper in less than two weeks.

The Broadway Shoe Store announced that it will have a window display of war products being made by the U. S. Rubber Co. The display will include a navy life raft, a seaman's suit, army raincoat, flying boots and jungle boots.

Ten Years Ago

Announcement of three new faculty members to the West High teaching staff was made today. They are Robert Richards, who will teach history; E. V. McPherson, who will teach geography; and DeLane Schindler, who will teach English and salesmanship.

Floyd F. Green, Hilltop candidate for mayor of Columbus, officially opened his campaign last night. Among his campaign promises were a modern bookkeeping system in city finances, economy in all departments of government, adequate relief for the poor, low utility rates, and playgrounds and parks for all classes.

Joe Briggs has been named chairman of the first fall meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's Association. The meeting will be a basket lunch at Westgate Park. Members are asked to bring their own lunches, but coffee, ice cream and lemonade will be furnished by the association.

The commitee for the homecoming in October will be headed by Edgar Planck. Other members are Ray G. Hauntz, Tom Rean, John Bentz, M. W. Seiller, W. H. Jones, Otto Schatz, R. M. Day, C. J. Kohn, C. C. Hartley, Joe Briggs, Dr. M. W. Bates and Dr. J. H. Czatt.

The Low Down On High Ridgers

By One of Them

I'll lay my cigar aside and talk to you folks for a few minutes before "turning in."

First, I want to give you fellows a tip. Know what happened over the back fence: I saw a woman airing her husband's winter clothes on the line, and lo and behold! in cleaning his pockets she pulled out a letter she had told him to mail last spring! Whew! She was fit to be tied. So when your "spring chicken" does her fall cleaning, pull the wool over her eyes—mail 'em all now.

The Corwin Millers spent their vacation at home, yet went some place every day — Lake Hope, Lake White, scenic drives. Every night they returned to their hotel—home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watts returned Sunday from their vacation spent in Michigan.

These Wrexham neighbors love their hamburgers. They gather coupons for White Castles and all trail down to the place in one car. Lots of fun, but they should get a trailer and bring the cow to them. Ever hear the song about the "sausage grinder machine"? Well, I won't sing it now.

On Aug. 14 Mr. and Mrs. Herb Rumfield attended a reunion in Urbana. It was on "her" side, so of course Herb had to go. Glad they went, they said. It was 37 years since all the family had been together. Nope, they're not that old, but they were told 'twas that long.

"Fine," said Ed Merritt when someone asked him how he likes his Mercury. He shines it up like new.

Carl Cordray has a new black Hudson, and Charlie Crites a green Chevvy. Glad they can sport these new cars; it gives us more room on these yellow 5-cent transit jobs.

You know how our weather's been—hot, then cold? Well, on one of those blistering hot days, as I was sitting on the back step (because I wasn't presentable to sit on the front step), I was sky gazing. The farthest I could see on the horizon were trees and chimneys. And gosh-a-tootin', if there wasn't smoke comin' out of one of those chimneys. And I wasn't wearin' smoked glasses, either. Must have been someone moved up from the equator to be chilly on a day like that.

Frank Shea, on Belvidere, loves to cut grass. First he cuts it lengthwise, then crosswise each time. Gives it a "feather-edge professional hair-cut" look. Now if only someone could think of a "permanent" for the grass. I mean a permanent CUT, not a wave.

I'll wave 'bye now 'til next week.

Young German Minister to Speak Here On Sunday

H. Krochnow, young German minister, is scheduled to speak at the Church of Christ, corner of Broad and Demorest, Sunday afternoon at 2:45. Mr. Krochnow is one of several young men who were sent to this country to be educated for the ministry, and is attending David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn. He plans to return to Germany and do evangelistic work for the Church, es of Christ.

These young preachers are now spending their summer months touring the country and telling of the work being done by the Churches of Christ in Germany. The public is invited to hear this young man tell of conditions in his home country, and how efforts are being made to spread the gospel among the persons who have been made to suffer so much because of the war.

Fully Ripe Peaches Are Best for Flavor

By BETTY BARCLAY

James Whitcomb Riley said "The ripest peach is highest on the tree." Well, if this quotation is true, from the peaches we have seen on the markets the last few days, all the fruit baskets must have been filled from the top of the trees. However, just one look at a beautiful peach is enough to make all good homemakers want to save this fruit's luscious beauty for the winter days to come. And the best way to do this is to plan a well-stocked cupboard of jams and jellies.

This is where efficient, short-boil recipes really come in to their own. For peaches have a delicate flavor that is easily ruined by over-cooking. Bottled and powdered natural fruit pectins make it possible for you turn out every batch of jam and jelly perfectly. All you do is to follow simple, easy directions. You'll be proud of the sweets you'll produce with these thoroughly tested recipes.

Peach Jam

3½ cups prepared fruit
4½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 2½ pounds soft ripe peaches. Grind. Measure 3½ cups into a large saucepan.

To make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding fruit over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 8 six-ounce glasses.

Plum Jelly

4 cups juice
7½ cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To Prepare the Juice. Crush thoroughly about 4 pounds fully ripe fruit. Do not peel or pit. Add 1 cup water, bring to a boil, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag; squeeze out juice. (Sour cling-stone plums make best jelly. If sweet plums are used, substitute ¾ cup strained lemon juice for ¾ cup of the plum juice specified.)

To Make the Jelly. Measure sugar and juice in large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over high heat and at once add bottle fruit pectin, stirring constantly, then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 11 six-ounce glasses.

John Greenleaf Whittier's first poem was published when he was 19.

During the last 2,000 years, 132 species and subspecies of mammals have become extinct.

Population estimates for Africa are less accurate than those for any other continent.

About 10 per cent of the people known as Afghans are able to read and write.

Fragments of an oak-staved church 1,000 years old were found last year in Northern Ireland.

Children Under 12 Go To Fair Free

MANAGER H. S. FOUST

The fondest hope of Manager H. S. Foust would be realized if every man, woman and child in the Buckeye State could attend the 95th Ohio State Fair opening here Saturday, Aug. 27, and continuing through Friday, Sept. 2.

Mr. Foust extends the invitation to all to attend, and veterans of fair activities assert that never before has so much been done for the comfort and convenience of the visitors.

One innovation certain to mean a larger attendance is free admission for children under 12. Manager Foust hopes that this will mean that many more family groups can come to the fair to see first hand the year's achievements in agriculture, industry, crafts and many other lines.

Another boon to attendance, it is predicted, is the arrangement of free parking space for 10,000 automobiles, just outside fairgrounds entrances.

Scores of new drinking fountains, inspection of all buildings to eliminate hazards, spraying of buildings and grounds to prevent insects and disease, a public address system for simultaneous announcements all over the grounds—such as reports of lost children; new maps and directories—these are only a few of the innovations adding to the comfort of fairgoers and exhibitors.

Attendants will find every available foot of building and open space crammed with exhibits and concessions, fair officials reporting that they could have filled twice as much space had it been available.

Special events day and night in coliseum, grandstand, bandshell and Music Hall, a midway filled with new rides as well as the old favorites—all of these, along with the varied and educational exhibits, add up to a memorable experience for everyone attending the 1949 Fair, Manager Foust assures.

Songs Sung at Festivals

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture Studied: 165-167; 171-175.

The Lord sent Joseph into Egypt, and he was sold as a servant and was a prisoner in irons until the word of the Lord tried him.

Israel came also into Egypt; so that Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham; and the Lord increased His people greatly, and made them strong.

They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters, These see the works of the Lord and His wonders.

This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it, for He is good

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 106:1.

A Little Bit Of Everything

ROASTIN' EARS — For a person with a good many years out west under his belt, we'll never know why we haven't mentioned the way they would rather have corn in the cattle country. Just flavor softened butter with a little garlic and set sail—two cloves of garlic per quarter pound is par for the course.

If a comrade has to wait 13 years between curtain calls, it would be unreasonable not to expect a lapse of memory and a few rusty joints. Old timers among the animal performers have either long since gone out to pasture or are happy with the greener fields of circusdom.

As a matter of fact, two humans in gorilla suits were the outstanding "animals" at "the greatest show on earth". A pair of cinnamon bears and a troupe of dogs will keep those birds working at it, though. If we are not mistaken; all three acts were billed "The first time in America."

Lovers of vaudeville will have to bear up while a new generation of seal trotters can finish training.

In further reference to cowboy land, while we are at it, blue denim jeans are known only as "levis"—the plural form of the first name of the maker of the most popular brand.

When the writer rushed home with one of those little egg-laying, wing-flapping plastic chickens, we demanded to know "how old should a kid be to get a bang out of this?" We were neatly dispatched by "Well, he should be old enough to know that eggs come from chickens."

U. S. Seeks Indemnity for Yanks Killed by Bolivians | Air Experiments to Assure Nation of Speed Supremacy

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The State department is making no public issue of it, but is quietly pushing for the payment of indemnity for the lives of Albert Kretting of Seattle, Wash., and T. J. H. O'Connor of Pasadena, Cal., the two American mining engineers who were killed when rioting Bolivian tin miners held them as hostages.

There is no doubt that an early settlement will be made, probably with the mining companies footing the bill. Payments are likely to be made also to two engineers injured in the rioting.

Albert Kretting

While Americans may look askance at a situation requiring the Bolivian government to make payments for harm done Americans who were in that country of their own accord, well-established principle calls for payment by the host government.

For instance, Americans held hostage or injured by Chinese Communists have always received compensation from the Chinese government on the theory that the authorities are responsible for the maintenance of law and order within their borders.

In the Bolivian case, the present regime is friendly to the United States and—as is indicated by the recent disorders—is on shaky ground politically. Nothing will be done to embarass the regime publicly, thereby encouraging the already strong revolutionary movement.

● SUPER SUPERSONICS—The United States is building 16 experimental planes, each designed to go faster than its predecessors until the last reaches a speed of 1,900 miles an hour—two and one-half times the speed of sound.

The first six planes in this series have been identified. Several of the six are actually flying. The first in the series—the Bell X-1—was the first to break through the sonic barrier to reach a speed faster than sound. Others which have exceeded the speed of sound are the X-2 and two Douglas-built craft—the D558, Marks I and II.

According to the country's top aeronautical engineers, who are working on a program to assure this country speed supremacy and thereby insuperable air power, enough information has been obtained now to build a vast force of supersonic planes if an emergency arises.

These scientists, starting from scratch two years ago, have assembled the data on a hitherto-unknown field of human endeavor. They disclose that supersonic planes with speeds up to 1,500 miles an hour will have swept-back wings, while above that speed the wings will return to the "old-fashioned" straight edge.

• • • •

● JOHNSON'S "DOGHOUSE"—America's new Secretary of Defense, Louis Johnson, has succeeded in getting himself in the "doghouse" with many members of the Senate and House armed services committees.

His troubles are not only with Republicans, but also with the southern Democrats who hold the chairmanships. The charge against Johnson is that he is "too political."

On the bright side for Johnson, however, is the fact that the powerful Senator Millard Tydings (D), Maryland, chairman of the Senate committee, does not hold this view very strongly. Tydings, of all the southerners, is kindliest disposed toward the late James Forrestal's successor.

However, the other southerners on the committees are up in arms against Johnson's move to wipe out all segregation in the armed forces. They are expressing their displeasure publicly and privately, and Republicans are joining them in the opinion that Johnson is a "political man first, a defense man second."

Resentment against the secretary has been fanned by the fact that he was a big fund raiser last year for President Truman's political campaign.

However, there is no recourse for those who dislike Johnson. Defense, like foreign affairs, is a field in which personalities and politics cannot take over on Capitol Hill.

So, political observers agree, Johnson's "doghouse" will remain an ineffective one, unless his enemies can catch him in a major "boner." Then the fur will fly.

BUILD THEE MORE STATELY MANSIONS

THE boy pictured here is presumably indulging in the building of air castles. Most of us have moments of wishful thinking when we dream of stately mansions as our lot in life.

Many of life's greatest accomplishments have had to originate in the state of a dream or an imagination. Those who have translated such thoughts into action and great accomplishment are the successful men and women of our generation.

"Hitch your wagon to a star," advised one of our country's early thinkers. He was pointing out the necessity for ambition and for dreaming big dreams. Building air castles is a worthy occupation, if one acts to translate worthy plans thus formulated into concrete accomplishments.

Planning big things in life requires big faith. Men of little faith have not been the great ones of our time. Men with a deep and abiding faith have what it takes to do the things which a previous generation regarded as impossible.

Faith is acquired and nurtured through attendance at the church of one's choice. Surrendering oneself to the will of God, creates a degree of faith which enables one to build more stately mansions, both in imagination and ultimate realization.
